LEXINGTON, SATURDAY, JAN. 1, 1916.

SAGER IN THE STUD.

We print on the first page this week a good picture of Richard Allman's bay stallion Sager. He was a corking good racehorse, winning during his turf career seventeen races and over $15,000, besides being many times in the money. Among his wins, were the Canadian Derby, 1½ miles in 2:05 1-5 (new track record); Fourth of July Stakes, one mile and seventy yards in 1:42 3-5, won easily; Toronto Autumn Cup; Iroquois Hotel Handicap, etc.

Sager is a big, upstanding bay, with plenty of bone and substance, and coming as he does from a great racing and producing family, is admirably qualified for a stock horse. His sire Bannockburn was a winner at two, three, four and five over the best horses of his day, and besides Sager has sired any number of high-class horses, among them Dr. Gardner, Horace E., Joe Carey, etc. Sager's dam, Miss Marion, was a good winner, and has produced the following good horses, Joe Carey, Tom McGrath, Minnie G., Cull Holland, etc. Miss Marion is by Himyar, best horse of his day and sire of Domino, which in turn sired Commando, the most potent sire line in America today, and out of the imported mare, Astolat, a stake winner in England. Both of Sager's grandams are by English Derby winners, namely Bettie Blaise by St. Blaise and Astolat by Kisber.

Sager is announced in THE RECORD to make the season at Castle Lake Ranch, Coulee City, Wash., at $25 to insure mare in foal. His advent into the breeding ranks in Washington should make a marked improvement on the stock of that country, and no distance should be too far to ship a mare to breed to him.

ELLERSLIE STUD STALLIONS.

Mr. A. B. Hancock announces this week in THE RECORD the stallions Celt, Wrack, Glorifier and Sir Wilfred for public service in 1916.

Celt.

Celt was a first-class racehorse, winning the Junior Champion Stakes, Jockey Club Stakes and the Brooklyn Handicap easily from such horses as Uncle, King James, Fair Play, Jack Atkin and other good ones. His race for the Brooklyn Handicap was one of the best on record as the fractional time will show. ¼, :22 4-5; ½, :48 4-5; ⅝, :59 2-5; ¾, 1:12 2-5; ⅞, 1:25 2-5; 1, 1:38 2-5; 1¼, 2:04 1-5. In this race he gave Fair Play seven pounds and King James eight pounds and won easily.

Celt comes on the sire side from the famous Commando, sire of Colin, Peter Pan, Superman, and premier sire in 1907, with $270,345 to his credit, although he had died after a season and a half in the stud at seven years old. He, in turn, was a son of Domino and from the fashionable Himyar-Alarm branch of the Orlando line. On his dam's side, Celt is equally as well bred, as he is out of imp. Maid of Erin (half-sister to Voter, a very fast racehorse and sire of Ballot, $154,545; Electioneer, $56,380; The Manager, Hilarious, Runnymede in England, and others), by Amphion, a great racehorse and sire of Lally and Sundridge, the latter standing in France at $2,000, and sire of the Derby winner, Sunstar, and Jest, winner of the Epsom Oaks, etc. Mavourneen, the grandam of Celt, was by the unbeaten Barcaldine, also a great sire, among his get being Sir Visto, Marco, Morion, and the sire of Winkfield's Pride.

Celt is the sire of Celandria, the best two-year-old filly of 1915; Coquette, one of the best three-year-olds; Paddy Whack, winner of the Hudson and Youthful Stakes; Andrew M., beaten a neck by Regret for the rich Hopeful Stakes, and Embroidery, beaten a neck for the Latonia Cup, fastest 2½ miles ever run in America, except Ethelbert's, and nearly four seconds faster than the track record; also Gaelic and Carbide, stake winners; Celto, Bob Black, Tralee and six other winners from twenty-one starters.

Glorifier.

Glorifier was a high-class racehorse, winning as a two-year-old the Eclipse Stakes, 5½ furlongs, in 1:05½; the Hudson Stakes, ⅝ of a mile, in 1:00 3-5, ½ mile, in 0:47½, etc. He afterwards won ¾ in 1.12 1-5, 1 mile in 1:39 4-5, and the Carter and Metropolitan Handicaps, carrying 119 lbs. in each race; and defeating Superman, Roseben, De Mund, Nealon, Go Between, Dandelion, Sewell, W. H. Carey, Oxford, etc.

He is, next to Fair Play, (sire of Strombol; Norse King, Hanovia, Trial By Jury, and For Fair); the best son of Hastings, the best American representative of the famous Matchem line. His dam was the excellent race mare Glory, by imp. Ill Used, she out of a daughter of Lady Mentmore, sister to the famous Corisande, and tracing to Alice Hawthorn, one of England's greatest racemares and broodmares. Glorifier's get all have size and substance, excellent feet and legs and uniformly good tempers.

Glorifier to January, 1915, had sired nine winners from eleven starters. In 1915, he had four two-year-old winners from six starters, including Greetings and Glomer.

Wrack.

Wrack, the beautifully bred son of Robert le Diable and Sire by Isinglass, recently purchased by Mr. Hancock from Lord Rosebery, will make the season at Claiborne Farm, near Paris, Ky.

Robert le Diable, Wrack's sire, won the City and Suburban, by three lengths in a field of twenty-one, which included Dean Swift, Bachelor's Button and Hackler's Pride; also the Doncaster Cup, beating Bachelor's Button by five lengths at even weights; Duke of York Stakes by three lengths, giving from 17 to 44 pounds to each of the other fifteen starters; Castle Irwell Handicap, etc. Robert le Diable was the property of the Earl of Carnarvon and stood in England at $500, where he sired a number of winners, and was sold to the Austrian government for $80,000. Ayrshire, Robert le Diable's sire, won the Derby, Two Thousand Guineas, Eclipse, Royal, Prince of Wales and Champagne Stakes, and was a successful sire.

Wrack's dam is by Isinglass, which in all turf history stands accredited with winning the most money, $280,675. He won the Derby, Two Thousand Guineas, St. Leger, Newmarket Stakes, Prince of Wales' Stakes (beating Ladas; Ravensbury, Raeburn, etc.), Eclipse Stakes (with the same three horses behind him), Jockey Club Stakes, Gold Cup, etc., and suffered the only defeat of his career when Raeburn in receipt of ten pounds beat him by a length for the Lancaster Plate of $35,000 with La Fleche placed third. Needless to say Isinglass was one of England's most prominent sires, his stud fee being $1,000. He was the sire of Veles, Cherry Lass, Rising Glass, Louviers, Star Shoot; etc.

Wrack was a stake winner in England for five seasons, accounting for about $35,000, and retired sound. As a two-year-old he won Sandown Park Stud Produce Stakes, beating Jaeger, second in 1912 Derby; The Lancashire Nursery, Sportsman Nursery Handicap, Wallington Plate, and was a close second in three other stakes. He afterwards won Whitsuntide Plate, Houghton Handicap, Newmarket Biennial Stakes, 1½ miles; Newbury Spring Cup twice and was beaten, 119 lbs. up, a short head for the rich Kempton Jubilee Handicap, 1½ miles, 2:02 4-5, giving the winner Diadumenos 9 lbs.

Wrack is undoubtedly one of the greatest importations in a number of years, and from the class of mares that Mr. Hancock will breed to him will certainly be heard from as a successful sire from the start.

Sir Wilfred.

Sir Wilfred was one of the best two-year-olds in California, in 1906. At three years of age, he won all of his starts and was sold for $16,000. He possessed a wonderful turn of speed and was a good weight carrier.

Sir Wilfred's sire, Ossary, is by the great unbeaten Ormonde. (sire of Orme, Llanthony, Sorcerer, Goldfinch, Orville, Kilkenny, Orontes II.; Rosormonde, Orsini, Honiton, Orthia, Bean Ormonde, Gold Lace, Ormonde's Right, Ormondale, etc.) and from the renowned Queen Mary family.

Sir Wilfred is out of Plumeria (also dam of Sir Ormonde, May L. N., H. L. Frank, James A. Murray, Argonaut, Anna Patricia, Shellmount, Maud Sherwood, etc), by imp. Eagle Plume, etc.

Sir Wilfred, with very limited opportunities, is the sire of Trojan, winner of the Futurity in 1914; the stake winner Headmast, Muskmelon, etc.

BEAUMONT FARM STALLIONS.

Mr. Hal Price Headley, Beaumont Farm, announces in THE RECORD this week the stallions Uncle, Ivan the Terrible, Jack Atkin, Buckhorn and San Vega for the season of 1916.

Uncle.

Uncle is a chestnut horse, foaled in 1905. He was sired by imp. Star Shoot, dam The Niece (half-sister to Sir Dixon, etc.), by Alarm; 2d dam Jaconet (sister to Iroquois, winner of the English Derby, St. Leger, Prince of Wales Stakes, etc.), by imp. Leamington; 3d dam Maggie B. B., by imp. Australian, etc.

Uncle was a very superior racehorse and stake winner and comes from the famous Maggie B. B. family. He raced only as a two-year-old. Uncle started in twelve races, won seven times, was second twice, once third, once fourth and only once unplaced. John E. Madden sold Uncle as a two-year-old to S. C. Hildreth for $30,000.

Imp. Star Shoot, sire of Uncle, considered by many good judges the best two-year-old of his year in England, is by the Derby winner Isinglass (son of Isonomy) out of Astrology, by the Derby winner Hermit, she out of Stella, by a brother to Strafford, and she out of Gilbert's dam, by Toxophilite. Star Shoot has made a remarkable success in the stud.

Uncle's first crop were two-year-olds in 1913, and he had eight winners of $43,697, placing him sixth on the list of the leading sires in America in 1913. The five leading sires had 81, 38, 45, 63 and 37 performers respectively. Uncle has had only fifteen starters, of which twelve won fifty-seven races and $61,180. He is the sire of Old Rosebud (leading money-winner in 1913 and winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1914, 1¼ miles in 2:03 2-5, a new track record), Little Nephew, Edith W., etc., in his first crop. He was then sent to France and the oldest of his get are now yearlings. Two yearlings by Uncle recently imported from France sold at public auction for an average of $3,700. He had full subscriptions in 1914 and 1915.

Ivan the Terrible.

Ivan the Terrible is a commanding chestnut horse of 16½ hands, of remarkable character, power and strength. He was a horse of immense speed and won thirteen races, including the Cumberland Derby, 1½ miles, in 1:56, carrying 115 lbs. He is by imp. Pirate of Penance, dam Kate Pelletier (dam of Silk Maid, Monsieur Beaucaire, A. D. Gibson, Mr. Peabody, Gen. Mart Gary, etc.), by imp. Rapture (son of Diophantus and Margery, by Wild Dayrell); 2d dam Bertha B. (dam of Judge Murray, Tom Vaughn, Pat Kelly, Lizzie Baker, etc.), by imp. Buckden; 3d dam Brocade (dam of Burch, Long Cloth, War Dress, Dodo; Jennie B., etc.), by imp. Bonnie Scotland; 4th dam Ermengarde (dam of Baltic, Belotte, Bellevue, Libbie L., etc.), by Lightning; 5th dam Sister to Ruric (dam of Grinstead, Kelpie, Gillyflower, Viceroy, Hypatia, Tilford, etc.), by imp. Sovereign, and so on to the 25th dam, a Royal mare (No. 12 family).

Imp. Pirate of Penzance was a capital racehorse and one of our best sires. He is by imp. Prince Charlie, one of the speediest horses ever on the English turf. During his short stud career in America, Prince Charlie sired the peerless Salvator, Senorita, Prince Fonso, Ruperta, Autocrat, Protection, Miss Belle, Princess Bowling, Champagne Charlie, Brown Princess, etc. On the dam's side, Pirate of Penzance comes from a noted family of winners.

Ivan the Terrible is the sire of Hodge, Converse, Little Father, Dortch, Ivan Gardner, etc. He has had a very limited opportunity in the stud until 1915, when he had a full subscription.

Jack Atkin.

Jack Atkin is a grand individual, standing about sixteen hands one inch and weighing 1,300 pounds, foaled 1904, by imp. Sain, out of El Salado, by that good horse, Emperor of Norfolk, out of Atalanta II., by Grinstead, and she from Blossom, by Virgil, out of Blunder, by Lexington.

During his racing career Jack Atkin won fifty-six races, was thirty-one times second and nineteen times third, winning $85,130, and was probably the most popular horse of his time, and very deservedly so, as he was a horse possessed of wonderful speed, could carry any kind of weight and go over a distance of ground. Among the stakes won by Jack Atkin were the $10,000 Dominion Handicap, 1¼ mile in 2:04; the Metropolitan, 1 mile in 1:38 3-5, carrying 128 pounds; the Carter, the Omnium, Crotona, Parkway, Queens County, Mt. Vernon, Rex, Richmond, Fleetwing, and the Tampico Handicaps, also the Flight, Nursery, Iroquois Stakes, and many other races. He was a horse of tremendous speed and a great weight-carrier, having won carrying as high as 145 pounds. There have been few horses in the annals of the American turf that have shown the great ruggedness and endurance shown by Jack Atkin. He won on practically every track of importance in the United States and Canada, and was in training almost continuously for five years.

As you will note, Jack Atkin is by imp. Sain, premier sire of the Woodlands Stud for so many years. Sain sired among others, Nealon, Tony Faust, Deutschland, Corrigan, Schwalbe, Otis, Geheimniss, Otto Stifel, Pinkerton, Dewey, Col. Ashmeade, Guy Fisher, Center Shot, Miss Sain, Dargin, Tom McGrath, Emperor William, Seymour Beutler, Tony Bonero, Mockler, and a host of others.

His dam, El Salado, a winner, is by that good horse, Emperor of Norfolk, out of Atalanta II., by Grinstead, and she from Blossom, by Virgil, etc. This is one of the very stoutest of American families from which many good horses come, including among them Virgil, Don Alonzo, Hornpipe, Henry of Navarre, Long Taw, etc.

Jack Atkin's first crop were two-year-olds in 1915, and out of eight starters he had seven winners, headed by Jacoba (winner of the Spinaway Stakes and afterwards sold for $10,000.

Buckhorn.

Broomstick was the premier sire of 1913, 1914 and 1915, and one of his sturdy sons, which helped materially in establishing his sire's enviable pre-eminence, was R. J. Mackenzie's good handicap horse, Buckhorn. A good winner in each of his five years of service in racing, 1914 was his most successful year in the matter of money won and he was never better in respect to speed. He wound up his campaign of 1914 at Latonia, October 28, by winning at three-quarters of a mile in 1:12, with 128 pounds on his back. In 1915 he won two handicaps. Buckhorn won twenty-nine races and $30,799, among his wins being Brooklyn Handicap, Empire City Handicap, Clark Handicap, Falls City Handicap, Douglas Park Inaugural Handicap (twice), D. B. I. and Windsor Ferry Handicap, St. Claire Handicap, Juarez Handicap, etc.

There has been no more striking thing in American thoroughbred breeding developments of the last ten years than the eminent success of Broomstick in the stud, and Buckhorn's dam is Thirty-third (dam of Over the Sands, Triad, etc.), by Sir Dixon. Thirty-third's yearling colt sold last fall at auction for $3,000.

This being Buckhorn's first season in the stud he will be limited to twenty mares.

San Vega.

San Vega was a good winner and is the only stallion in service by imp. Knight Errant (sire of Roamer). Knight Errant is a son of Trenton, one of the most famous racehorses and probably the greatest sire ever produced in Australia. San Vega is out of Merdin (dam of the stake winners Diminutive, Memories, and a number of other winners), by Hindoo. But why comment further on his breeding when the announcement contains a tabulated pedigree where his bloodlines may be seen in full at a glance.

For full particulars see our advertising columns.

The accident to the yearling by Ajax—Media, which was destroyed because of an injury on shipboard, was the first casualty during the season's importation of thoroughbreds. The colt was sent out to P. A. Clark of New York.

LUKE McLUKE AND FROGLEGS.

J. O. Keene announces the services of Luke McLuke and Froglegs to the public for the coming season in this issue of The Record. The announcement that the Memphis turfman, J. W. Schorr, and J. O. Keene had come to an agreement, sometime back, whereby Luke McLuke was to stand for service at the Keeneland Farm was a source of gratification to all breeders in this section, and it goes without saying that Luke McLuke is assured of a full subscription list.

One of the outstanding features in the racing of 1914 was the three-year-old Luke McLuke. He was a veritable whale of a horse in size and likewise a whale of a race horse. He was too big and undeveloped to be raced as a two-year-old, so his measure of fame was achieved when a three-year-old, and it was no small measure. One trouble with the oversized race horse is that the impact of his big body is so great when running fast that he is more liable to leg trouble than is the smaller type of horse. Luke McLuke could run as flies the wind, but six races were sufficient to develop weakness in a tendon sheath and he had to be sent into enforced retirement so early as the month of June. Thus it came about that his career in racing was as brief as it was brilliant. Luke McLuke started six times as a three-year-old, winning four races, second once and third once, total amount won being $22,050. He won the Kentucky Handicap, $10,000 added, 1¼ miles, in 2:02 4-5, not only a new track record but also the fastest mile and a quarter ever run over a Western race track. Rudolfo, the winner the previous year, finished second and Solar Star third. He won the Belmont Stakes, 1½ miles, with 126 pounds up, in 2:20. Gainer was second and Charlestonian third. He won the Carlton Stakes, one mile, with 126 pounds up, in 1:38 4-5; Stromboli, 113 pounds up, being second and Charlestonian third.

For tabulated pedigree of Luke McLuke see the announcement on another page. The Domino line from which he comes is a deservedly popular one, as every one knows, and the special branch of the No. 2 family of which he is a member is one of the best to be had. Carbine was a member of this immediate branch, as was Voltigeur, Galopin's grandsire.

So formidable a reputation as a race horse did John W. Schorr's sturdy colt, Froglegs, acquire in 1912 that the next year found him in the unenviable, but justly earned, position of being required to figure a topweight, or thereabouts, in the important handicaps of the year. His racing has shown Froglegs to be an extremely handy campaigner of great speed and the most indomitable gameness, his resolute tenacity in closely fought finishes being his most outstanding characteristic. As to his hardihood the fact that he was a thoroughly good three-year-old after having taken part in thirty-four races when a two-year-old speaks for itself. According to the English view of racing, a two-year-old called upon to stand such an arduous campaign should have been wrecked by it. But Froglegs throve under hard work and was a much better race horse as a three year-old than he had been when a year younger. Froglegs won sixteen races and $16,122, winning five races as a two-year-old, ten as a three-year-old and one as a four-year-old. He won the Hamilton Derby, Hamilton Cup, Blue Point Selling Stakes, etc. He holds the American record for a mile and 20 yards (1:39).

A tabulated pedigree of Froglegs will be seen in the announcement in our advertising columns. This grandson of St. Simon is a worthy representative of the extensive family of that chief of modern sires.

IROQUOIS STOCK FARM STALLIONS.

Mr. G. D. Wilson announces for the season of 1916 the stallions Stalwart and Duke of Ormonde at Iroquois Stock Farm.

Stalwart.

As a racehorse, Stalwart clearly demonstrated himself to be the best colt of his year, his victories in the Annual Champion, the Century Stakes and the Hindoo Stakes were indeed performances of the very highest class; no route was too far for him and no impost too great.

Since imp. Meddler has been transferred to France, one naturally looks to Stalwart to keep this line of Stockwell to the fore in the United States. Meddler, twice during his stud career in this country, came out at the head of the list, and besides Meddler has many other famous racehorses to his credit. As a racehorse he was undefeated, and is by the Derby winner, St. Gatien, out of Busybody, by the Two Thousand and St. Leger winner Petrarch, from Spinaway, herself a winner of the Oaks, by the Derby horse Macaroni, and so to Queen Bertha, by Kingston.

On the dam's side, Stalwart is equally well bred. His dam, Melba, is a daughter of the mighty Frenchman, imp. Mortemer, whose performances over long courses, under almost welter weights, few can surpass, and whose daughters have proven their worth the world over, the least of which is by no means Melba, dam of the subject of this notice. Stalwart's second dam, Trill, a fine producer, was by Uncas, son of Lexington and Coral, by Vandal. Then comes Cadence, by imp. Macaroon, son of Macaroni, and so on to imp. Castagnette, by Marsyas; Cachuca, by Voltigeur; Ayacanora, by Birdcatcher, and the immortal Pocahontas, dam of Stockwell, his brother Rataplan and King Tom, by imp. Glencoe.

Stalwart is the sire of Bronzewing (winner of the Ashland Oaks, Kentucky Oaks, Blue Grass Stakes, etc.), Republican, Dartworth, Camellia, Holton, Promoter, Stalwart Helen, Stout Heart, Strong, The Widow Moon, Uncle Hart, Virile, Father Riley, Edna Kenna, Margaret N., and many others.

Duke of Ormonde.

Duke of Ormonde started only twice at two years old. At three he won at 5½ furlongs and also 6 furlongs. He ran second to Martinez at 6 furlongs and also was second to The Turk at 6 furlongs, and was second to Sweep for the Broadway Stakes, 1 3-8 miles, and was second also at 5½ furlongs. Having met with an accident, he did not race again.

Duke of Ormonde is by Orsini—imp. Santa Bella, by St. Serf (a son of St. Simon). Orsini is by Triple Crown winner imp. Ormonde, known as "the horse of the century," and one that probably never had a superior on the English turf, where he was unbeaten, scoring sixteen victories as a two, three and four-year-old. Ormonde got Orme, Llanthony, Ossary, Orsini, Honiton, Orthia, Beau Ormonde, Oremus, Gold Lace, Sorcerer, Goldfinch, Orville, Kilkenny, Orontes II., Rosormonde, Ormondale and Ormonde's Right.

Orme, in turn, is the sire of the great Flying Fox, Orby and a host of other good ones, while Goldfinch was one of the most successful sires in this country. Orsini is out of Jongleuse by Alarm, blood noted for extreme speed. Orsini is the sire of a number of good horses.

Imp. Santa Bella, Duke of Ormonde's dam, won in this country nine races, and is also the dam of Ormondale, Bellatrix, a winner, etc. She is a half-sister to imp. Maiden Poem, dam of Clark Griffith, a stake winner; Aimee C., a good winner, and the producer Cleodora.

Duke of Ormonde is the sire of Big Smoke, Favour, Maid of Dundee, Andromeda, etc.

THE FUTURITY OF 1918.

Nominations for the Futurity of 1918 will close at the office of the Westchester Racing Association, 18 East Forty-first street, New York City, on January 3. This stake, inaugurated by the Coney Island Jockey Club in 1888, when it was won by Proctor Knott, is the most coveted of juvenile prizes and it always has attracted an immense entry list. It was the big two-year-old fixture at the Sheepshead Bay course, but the last running over that famous course was in 1909, when it went to James R. Keene's Sweep.

In 1910 it wound up the racing at Saratoga; when it was won by Samuel C. Hildreth's Novelty. There was no racing in 1911 and 1912, but in 1913 it was again decided at Saratoga and won by Harry Payne Whitney's Pennant. In 1914 Trojan from the Quincy Stable, was winner at Saratoga, but this year the Westchester Association fell heir to the big prize, and, at Belmont Park, Harry Payne Whitney's Thunderer was the winner. It is probable that it will always remain at Belmont Park now. For the 1918 running there will be $5,000 added, and of that amount there will be $1,750 divided among the breeders of the placed horses.

With the adequate return of the sport, it is assured that the nominations for the 1918 running will be large, and already Secretary Eerlocker has received a number of entries from the breeders, though it is customary for them to wait until the eleventh hour before making their nominations.

Brilla Mac, by Peep O'Day—Miss Kingston, won several races in Africa in October.

BALLOT AT ELMENDORF FARM.

C. H. Berryman, manager of Elmendorf Farm, announces in THE RECORD this week the services of Ballot for the season of 1916 at $300.

Ballot was a very high-class race horse and stake winner at two, three and four years old of seventeen races of the value of $145,505, and in second and third monies, $7,750, while in England he won the Select Stakes of $1,347, making a grand total of eighteen races of the value of $154,602. He won the Double Event, Neptune, Matron, Iroquois, Invincible, Great Republic, Century (twice), First and Second Specials, Election Day Handicap, Edgemere, Standard, Advance (twice), Equality, and Suburban Handicap. Ballot was bred and raced by the late James R. Keene.

Ballot's blood lines are exclusively English, for both of his parents are imported animals. His sire, imp Voter, will be remembered as one of the most brilliant milers in American turf history, and those who hold that the chief attribute of a successful stallion is "speed" have obviously no need of looking further than imp. Voter for their ideal. Voter's sire, Friar's Balsam, was himself a racehorse of which it might well be said that no one really knew how good he was. Then, too, imp. Voter's dam, imp. Mavourneen, was a daughter of the unbeaten Irish-bred Barcaldine, for which no course was too long and no weight too high.

Ballot's dam also foaled Fair Count (a full brother) and the winners Ballet Girl, St. Kevin, Chop Suey, Coppelia (a producer also), Virginia Earle (which ran in both the United States and England and a producer) and the producers, Nautch Girl, Merry Dance and Stolen Moments.

Merry Dance, his second dam, was a winner and producer as was his next dam, Highland Fling, a stake winner of the Alexandra Plate, etc.

At five different sales, held in New York, Saratoga and Lexington, during the past season there were sold twenty-one yearlings by Ballot for $33,675, an average of $1,603 each, and everyone remembers how well the Ballot weanlings sold at the late dispersal sale at Elmendorf. Certainly a splendid showing for this popular young sire.

Ballot is the sire of the winners Capra, Militant and Trust Me, and a number of his 1915 yearlings have shown that he will be well represented with two-year-old winners this year.

As Ballot is limited to thirty mares in 1916 his book should not be long in filling at $300 the season.

THE 1916 RACING SEASON.

The racing season of 1916 should be notable in many respects, the entries for the stakes of the Westchester Racing Association and the Saratoga Association, which closed recently, reaching a total that was most encouraging, while a large number of new names—men that should be a tower of strength in the future development of the sport—appear among the nominators, says August Belmont, Chairman of the Jockey Club.

This is the best argument that the sport made friends in 1915, and that racing is still held in high esteem by a large proportion of the people. Another feature which will make the season of 1916 noteworthy is that we shall have a chance to see in action the 200 or more English and French-bred horses which have been purchased by various owners in the United States since the outbreak of the war. Racing will have an added zest because of the appearance of these strangers. There will then be an opportunity of determining how our horses compare with those of other countries when they have to race on foreign soil. Hitherto England has sent us few horses that were intended for the track, most of our importations having been for breeding purposes. A few English horses have appeared from time to time, but they were not of as high class as those we sent to try conclusions with the best in England and France.

The contests next year should serve a definite purpose, therefore, besides adding to the glorious uncertainty which has always been a characteristic of racing. It will be interesting to note the effect our climate will have on the foreign-bred horses, and there will also be a splendid opportunity of comparing the individuality of the English and French with the American types.

We should like to have seen more fillies imported, but it is only natural for the breeders to cling to their young mares to the last, as they will be needed when the war is over to replenish the breeding ranks. England has been the great nursery of thoroughbreds and she has benefited every country, her horses having left their impress on the equine product of all nations, none more so than our own.

Unlike other European powers, England has never established breeding studs under Government supervision; but it is significant that this policy is to be changed, and, with Colonel William Hall Walker's gift of his splendid stud as a nucleus, she should soon be in a fair way to rival the breeding establishments operated by France, Germany, Russia, Austria-Hungary, and other Continental countries. The war has demonstrated with fresh emphasis the importance of the thoroughbred, for without it the cavalry of the belligerents would have played a small part in the titanic struggle.

What is true of England and other European countries can be said of the United States, and racing should be encouraged and fostered in every possible way, if only as an element of preparedness. While Congress is planning to spend millions on an increased army and navy, nothing has been said about the horse, without which no army would be complete.

THE THOROUGHBRED COMING INTO HIS OWN.

FORT LEAVENWORTH, KAN., Dec., 28, 1915.

Editor Thoroughbred Record:

In your excellent article on The Kentucky Breeding Bureau, of December 25th, 1915, it is pleasant to read how the thoroughbred is coming to his own as a general purpose horse. The remarks on army horses show that the adverse spirit in the army against the thoroughbred is gradually being won over by his overwhelming good qualities as a sire and carrier. However, in Captain Gordon Johnston's remarks there are grounds for a few remarks in opposition. He advocates the giving of breeding remounts into the hands of a few interested horsemen. Why? An interested horseman in England has just presented his government with a large acreage and a lot of Thoroughbreds for remount work. I doubt if we will find that kind of horseman in our country, but why not let the government manage its own remount system. They have the acreage and the interested horsemen. England at last is committed to it and sooner or later we will have to take it up, why waste the years? Every intelligent horseman should advocate a Government Remount Breeding System. Capt. Johnston advises the selection of good amiably dispositioned mares of 15 to 16 hands high and not less than 1,000 pounds. An excellent idea. He starts off firstly with thoroughbred mares that have "never been raced." Why not raced? Surely that obsolete theory is exploded by now. Secondly he takes "descendants" of pure original range mares. A great idea, no doubt, but one would like to see one of 15 to 16 hands and weighing a 1,000 pounds. "They are not." Thirdly, "Standard bred mares," with, let us hope some mental reservations in regard to pacers. Fourthly, "any native stock not crossed with draft blood," or mixed gaited horses." It really is a pity to make statements of this sort when all authorities in breeding are agreed that an infusion of draft stock is necessary in our chargers and hunters to give them the substance and disposition required for army and hunting purposes. For army purposes one has to consider the rider as well as the horse. It will not do to let the average man in ranks ride thoroughbreds, he must have an infusion of draft blood in his mount. For officers and some of the Non Coms., it is different. They should have the brains and moral qualities that go with their position, to enable them to ride the thoroughbred. It is a mistake to decry the usefulness of the draft horse in the making of the good powerful, phlegmatic hunters and chargers that we have read about for years, and it may check the inclinations of many a farmer who might breed a good type of draft or semi draft mare to a thoroughbred stallion in his neighborhood. In a preceding number you print a paragraph about the crossing of Hackney's and thoroughbreds for saddle purposes. This cross should be taken up quite seriously, it is bound to make a most excellent cavalry type when refined by ennobling blood. One of the most significant signs of the coming of the thoroughbred to his own is the fact that a paper like your's which has been solely devoted to racing has so promptly and intelligently taken up the other phrases of the thoroughbred business, such broadmindedness speaks well for the future usefulness of this truly noble breed in the service of our country and its horse lovers.

The sale of horses brought from England and France by Clarence Mackay demonstrated the return of the thoroughbred to supremacy in the American market.

After the last horse was sold, Foxhall P. Keene said: "It was a most wonderful sale and shows the vast amount of money waiting to be invested in thoroughbred blood that will improve the American breed. The true spirit of patriotism was infused in every bid. It seemed as if everyone wanted the credit of doing something to help the cause. The result of the sale speaks volumes for the future and should be an incentive for those invested with legislative power to encourage the improvement in the breed of the American thoroughbred when so many rich and patriotic citizens are willing to spend their money to further a sport and an industry which means so much to this country."

Mr. Keene's sentiments expressed the feeling of all who were at the sale, among whom were many notables in the sporting and financial world.

THE SALE OF THE MACKAY HORSES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—One of the most successful sales of thoroughbred yearlings held in this country since the sale of the Castleton-bred yearlings at Lexington in September 1912, was conducted at Durland's last night, when thirteen consigned from Clarence H. Mackay's French breeding farm in Normandy brought a total of $42,000. Two others, a two-year-old and a four-year-old, brought the grand total for the lot up to $50,000, an average of $3 333 a head. The highest price of the Castleton-bred yearlings was $14,000 and the sixteen head averaged $3,603.

It was a sale that spoke volumes of the confidence that breeders and sportsmen have for the future of the thoroughbred horse in this country, and seldom has there been a more representative gathering at a sales ring. The bidding throughout was spirited and had twice the number been offered they would have found a very ready market.

What made the sale more remarkable was the high figures that were maintained for many of the offerings. The top price paid was $6,600, and there were seven of those offered that brought $4,000 or more, and the smallest price paid for any one was $900

It was a sale that attracted horsemen and breeders from all parts of the country, and those not able to be present themselves had representatives on the ground bidding for them.

The highest price was paid for Sunlight, a handsome chestnut son of Sandridge and Spectrum, when he was knocked down on John H. Morris' bid of $6,600. The purchase was made for Kenneth Alexander, of the Woodburn Farm, near Versailles, Ky.

It was almost 9 o'clock before Auctioneer George Bain made his preliminary announcement that the horses were to be sold absolutely without reserve and called for the first offering.

This one was Gunrock, a shapely chestnut son of Rock Sand and Gunfire, the mare that raced so brilliantly under the silks of the late Hon. William C. Whitney. As he was led into the ring A. J. Joyner started the bidding with an offer of $1,000 Grant Hugh Browne promptly raised that bid and with raises of $1,000 at a time he was quickly carried to $3,000. By that time the contest had narrowed down to Mr. Browne and John Sanford, and finally Gunrock went to Mr. Sanford for $4,800.

Mr. Morris made his first purchase for Kenneth Alexander when he paid $1,050 for La Recolte, a bay daughter of Meddler and Wheat ear. Then came the sale of Sunlight that also saw Mr. Morris the victor after he had gone to $6,600. Grant Hugh Browne, W. R. Coe and John Sanford all took part in the bidding for this fellow before he was finally sold.

John Sanford paid the top price for a filly when he went to $5,500 for Gloriana, a chestnut daughter of Meddler and Ballantrae, and, accordingly, a sister to the good race mare Meliant. There was a lively contest for her. The only other purchase by the master of the Hurricana Farm was another important one, when he bought Pierre A-Feu for $4,000.

A. J. Joyner, bidding for W. R. Coe, paid the second best price for a filly when he went to $4,600 for Merry Thought, a chestnut daughter of Uncle and Marise. Grant Hugh Browne took Crepuscule, a bay daughter of Meddler and Strike-a-Light, for $4,000 for his Brownleigh Park Farm.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer paid $6,000 for the four-year-old colt Allumeur, a particularly well furnished son of Meddler and Strike-a-Light. This fellow was a good winner in France and he has all the marks of a wonderfully good stock horse.

Not for years has there been such a representative gathering of horsemen at a New York winter sale as those gathered about the ringside and in the galleries of the academy where the Powers-Hunter Company conducted the selling. The ring was constructed at one end of the big tanbark enclosure, and the seats that had been provided were utterly inadequate to take care of the crowd, while the galleries were well filled.

Among those seen were John Sanford, James Butler, W. R. Coe, Phil T. Chinn, John H. Morris, H. C. Hallenbeck, David Gideon, Robert A. Smith, S. C. Hildreth, Matthew Corbett, James Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis, F. Ambrose Clark, Mrs. Payne Whitney, John Whalen, Samuel Kelly, James Blute, Matthew Allen, H. A. Buck, Jerry Carroll, Harry Stoddard, E. C. Smith, Dave Leary, Edward Peters, J. J. Dillon, John Hastings, John Kermath, J. Howard Lewis, William L. Oliver. Matt Feakes, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, Clarence H. Mackay, William L. Powers, Frank Stevens, Patrick Deegan, W. H. Rowe, James McLaughlin, Joseph Harrison L. A. Cassidy, Frank Regan, Al Stokes, Harry McKenna, William Dugan, Michael Miles, Max Hirsch, F. Farman, Roxy Angarola, Joseph Vendig, Richard Baker, James Park, Matthew Dooley, Dr. R. W. McCully, Nathan Frank, Thomas J. Healey, A. J. Joyner, Fred Burlew, Emil Herz, M. A. Silvers, James Fitzsimmons, James F. Johnson, Patsy McDermott, Thomas McCreery, Henry Ziegler, who first raced Hermis; Grant Hugh Browne, Foxhall Keene, George Langdon, Sheridan Clark, Joe Yeager, Frank M. Taylor, George Odom, Tim Donohue. Frank Clarke, Preston Burch, James Donohue, W. T. Anderson, Richard Miller, Ike Garron, Samuel Lewis, Charles Bowman, Philip J. Dwyer, W. E. Edwards, C. R. THOROUGHBREDS IN THE AMERICAN COLONIES.

Dove.

Frequent mention in early American pedigrees of the imported horse Dove surrounds him with a compelling interest and awakens a desire for more intimate knowledge of an individual that impressed himself upon the horse-kind of the American Colonies.

As we will show, the prominence of Dove as a stallion is an instance of how important it is for an owner to give his horse every chance to "make good" by stamping the name of the horse on the public mind by judicious advertising. Dove was enabled to build a lasting name for himself because nothing was left to chance by his owner, Dr. Hamilton of Annapolis, who led Dove to the door of opportunity and virtually pushed him through. The fact that Dove fortunately passed much of his time in Maryland, that "middle ground" of early breeding endeavors, had much to do with his success.

Without commenting upon the note in the Stud Book relative to Dove, we are now enabled to fix the year in which he was foaled, as 1756.

At the outset of the American career of Dove there appeared this advertisement.

"Dove—Imported by Doctor Hamilton in November 1761. Stands this season (1762) at Dr. Hamiltons @ six pistoles. He was bred by Thomas Jackson, Sen., and was by Young Cade; his dam by Teaser, grandam by Se(c)awings Arabian out of the Gardner mare."

In 1763, at Annapolis, in a four-mile race, the course being the Baltimore road two miles out and return, the American-bred horse Selim beat among others the imported horse Dove.

On April 10th, 1764, at Upper Marlboro, Md., in a match race of a single four miles, Mr. Tyler's Driver beat Dove.

In the year 1765, Dove was afforded a change of stand, and an advertisement supplies us with a few new threads of his history.

"Dove—The noted stallion imported by Dr. Hamilton and bred by Mr. Jackson a gentleman very remarkable in the North of England for the breed of full-sized, high-bred running horses. As there are many disinterested good judges in this and the neighboring Provinces, I refer the owners of mares to such gentlemen for a description of him rather than enter into any encomiums of him myself. He is to cover this season near Chester Church on the Eastern Shore about 27 miles below Frederick in Cecil Co. (Md), and about twelve miles above Kent Island; at three guineas as usual or an equivalent. As it is too true that many that have good estates are scarce of cash these times I will take crop tobacco at market price, or I will accept orders on good men.

"It is very certain that Dove was much crowded with mares before he left the Western Shore last season, and such mares from these parts as did not prove with foal shall have Dove this season gratis.

(Signed) "WILLIAM DAMES."

Conceding that Dove was an established service horse in Maryland, we are concerned no further with his efforts in that State, but we are interested to find some years later that Dove's fame caused a demand for his services in one of the Northern Counties of New Jersey. The wording of the advertisement justifies reprinting it just as it appeared in the year 1771.

"Dove will cover the season at the house of John VanMater near the Court House, Monmouth Co., N. J., at two guineas a mare. Money to be paid before the mares are taken away.

"Dove is a fine gray, fifteen hands one inch high. Bred by Thomas Jackson, Sen., in the North of England. Got by Young Cade; his dam by Teaser; his grandam by Seawings Arabian and out of the Gardner Mare that won six Royal Plates of 100 guineas each. Dove ran at Newcastle-on-Tyne, at four years old on Oct. 1st, 1760, and distanced Duke of Cleveland's roan filly Roxana, beat the bay colt Swift, belonging to Wm. Swinburn; Chas. Wilson's b c, Windless; Wm. Comforth's b c, Montreal and Selsinton's b f, Nameless. This horse has covered in Maryland with great reputation, his stock being remarkable not only for size, strength and speed, but for great gaiety, spirit and ease under the saddle."

Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, Oct. 21, 1760. Fifty pounds for four-year-olds, nine stone, two-mile heats.

Mr. Dalton's br f., by Cade	1	1
Comforth's b c, Montreal	5	3
Jackson's gr h, Dove	2	4
Wilson's b c, Windless	3	5
Duke of Cleveland's br f, Roxana	dist.
Satlington's brown filly	dist.

In the year 1772, we find that Dove spent the season at Marcus Hook, N. J., at the stable of one Archibald Dick, and that the service fee was two guineas and five shillings to the groom.

That Dove gained favor with the Northern Jerseyites is evidenced by his recall in 1773 to his former stand at the stable of John VanMater in Monmouth County, where his services were again to be had at two guineas a mare.

At some future time we may be lucky enough to unearth additional information regarding the migration of Dove, but at present we are unable to give anything more than has been related in the foregoing. It may be mentioned, however, that the Stud Book states that Dove stood in Virginia in the year 1787. Without verification I will continue to doubt that statement, because Dove in 1787 would be thirty-one years old, a period longer than the average age of horses and quite beyond their period of usefulness.

Judge Duval of Maryland, to whom we are deeply indebted for information about horses of the "Olden Time," said of Dove: "His colts in general had speed, and some of them both speed and bottom. Dove was sire of Mr. MacGill, Nonpareil, Primrose, Thistle, Bean's Regulas, the grandam of Halls Union, etc. Nonpareil was a capital racer, when young, but being of slender frame he could do nothing when carrying full weight. He was the best four-mile horse of Dove's get and was never beaten until he met Lath in Philadelphia.

Like most persons that depend on memory or hearsay, the statements of the Judge were not always correct, so we refute the claim that Nonpariel was unbeaten until he met Lath. That Nonpariel was defeated at least once previous to the Lath race (1769) is shown by the report of a race in which he was a starter:

Philadelphia, Friday Oct. 1767. The Ladies Purse of fifty pounds for three-year-olds; to carry eight stone.

Lady Legs, by Briton..... 1
Chatham, by Selim..... 2
Nonpareil, by Dove..... 3

Won hollow by Lady Legs. Odds at starting five to three Chatham against the field.

The mare Primrose by Dove was an excellent race mare, and a fact in regards to her racing qualities that is particularly noteworthy is that she raced yearly until she was ten years old. Thistle by Dove was a winner as also was the gray horse known as Bean's Regulas. The latter was overshadowed by that superior racer FitzHugh's Regulas, which raced at the same time of Bean's horse. All-in-all, imported Dove proved himself of great benefit to the improvement of the breed of horses in America a century and a half ago.

JOHN L. O'CONNOR.

NATIONAL HORSE-BREEDING.

[The Special Commissioner in London Sportsman].

Naturally the acceptance of Col. Hall Walker's stud by the Government has created much interest and discussion, but few people seem to have any idea how immeasurably behind the times England is in the matter of horse-breeding. We have been so rich and so sport-loving that it has been safe hitherto, perhaps, to leave horse-breeding to individual effort, but this has never been so on the Continent, and it certainly will not be so here after the war. In Germany and in Austria-Hungary it was long years ago found necessary to assist private breeders by various methods to which the State or the Totalisator contributed, and in Russia as far back as 1722 Peter the Great established numerous Government studs for the higher breeds of horses and issued a proclamation recommending the institution of horse-races with a view to improving the breed by working on the results obtained from that test. No country in the world has better understood the value of the British thoroughbred than has Russia, and this was especially demonstrated in the early half of the nineteenth century, when Miasnoff was the leading authority. Later on Count Woronzoff-Dashkoff, Director of the Russian Imperial Horse-breeding Board, did wonders in the way of importing bloodstock, and from records of more than fifteen years ago I can say that there were then in Russia six Government studs, containing at that time 2784 animals, and thirty-three stallion depots, where Government stallions were sent for the purpose of improving the local stock. In these depots the Government had about 4,000 stallions which covered yearly about 90,000 mares. There were then 1,500 thoroughbred mares registered in the Russian Stud Book, which is edited by the Horse-breeding Board, and there were no fewer than thirty-two racecourses with 220 days' racing in the year.

No wonder that Russia is the greatest horse breeding country in the world; and, indeed, is believed to possess more horses than all the rest of the world put together.

In Germany during the enlightened period of Count Lehndorff, whom no one who knew him could possibly regard as of the same race as the Huns, the Imperial Stud, Graditz, rose to supreme importance. It was the only one—as Tully may be—where only thoroughbred stock are reared, but there were others for the production of half-bred stock, and numerous stallion depots, all stallions and mares to be without hereditary defect and the stallions having to pass a Government Commission, or to be castrated. Count Lehndorff used to buy thoroughbred stallions and mares for the Graditz Stud with Government money, and some that were used for getting half-breds were thus obtained of far higher class than private enterprize could provide. Thus, I myself was instrumental in selling to him the Two Thousand Guineas winner, Kirkconnel, for 5,000 guineas, and this horse was at once made available to German breeders at a fee of £5. On the other hand, private owners were not discouraged from introducing first-class stallions, for in such cases there was a subvention from the Import Society to make good the lack of adequate stud fees. So, too, the Import Society, whose income was derived from the Totalisator percentage, used to buy mares in England and resell them in Germany at half or three-parts their cost to German breeders.

In Bohemia, Moravia, and Galicia, the Crown lands are suitable for horse-breeding and there are 37 Government studs and a great many sire depots. The Austrian Government, however, was accustomed to pocket the lion's share of the Totalisator takings. In Hungary the Government has almost by second nature given all possible support to horse-breeding, and this support has been directed (a) to Governmental prizes for racing purposes; (b) to the Governmental studs and sire depots for breeding purposes; (c) to the Royal Commission of Nine for the import of thoroughbreds; (d) to horse shows and premiums; and (e) railway arrangements. I have not space to enlarge on this, but need only mention the Royal Stud, Kisber, as the great home of the thoroughbred in Hungary. The yearlings of the Royal Stud were sold under "Kisber conditions," viz., that only citizens of the Monarchy can buy; foreigners are excluded. The buyer is obliged to never start the horses in selling races and to never sell to foreigners—not even the produce of such colts or fillies when sent to the stud. Thus we see how the Hungarians have saved their best blood; and they have also allowed even their best horses to sire half-breds, for Buccaneer in his long career at Kisber covered 260 thoroughbred mares of the Royal Stud, 500 private mares, and about 200 half-bred mares. He was there 22 years.

In Austria-Hungary, as in Germany, there have been similar expedients, by which thoroughbred mares are bought in the English market and sold when they get home for what breeders there can afford to pay. In all countries the maintenance of the best class of thoroughbred stock has been regarded as a sine qua non.

Count Lehndorff wrote long ago:

"The principal requisite in a good racehorse is soundness, again soundness, and nothing but soundness; and the object of the thoughbred is to imbue the limbs, the constitution. and nerves of the half-bred horse with that essential quality, and thereby enhance its capabilities.

"The thoroughbred can, however, only fulfill its mission provided the produce be continually subjected to severe trials in public. The only appropriate test, proved by the experience of two centuries, is the racecourse. The last struggle for victory, in which culminates the exertion of the race, results from the cooperation of the intellectual, the physical, and the mechanical qualities of the horse, the development of which combined power is higher and more reliable than any that can be obtained in the same animal by other means. The combination of these three qualities forms the value of the horse destined for fast work. The mechanical in respect to the outward shape and construction; the physical as regards the soundness and normal development of the digestive organs and motive power; the intellectual or the will and energy to put the other two in motion and persevere to the utmost. The attained speed is not the aim but only the gauge of the performance.

"The grand ideal principle which places this test so incomparably higher than any other, based on the opinion of one or more judges, is the absolute and blind justice, personified in the inflexible winning post, which alone decides on the racecourse; and the irrefutable certainty that neither fashion nor fancy, neither favour nor hatred, neither personal prejudice nor time-serving —frequently observable in the awards at horse shows— have biassed the decision of hotly contested struggles, as recorded in the "Racing Calendar" for the space of 170 years. This is what gives the English thoroughbred horse a value for breeding purposes and looked for in vain in any other species of the animal creation.

"In the production of our half-breds it has become an absolute necessity to use thoroughbred stallions, not only with performances of a high order, so that our cavalry horses may answer certain conditions to prevent their deterioration.

Good old Count Lehndorff! It seems strange to say so but I am heartily glad that he died before this war, for it would have been impossible to regard him as an enemy. What he wrote, as quoted above, might well be studied by Mr. Hogge and all others of his kind, but it also serves to indicate the great national necessity of maintaining the British thoroughbred, and racing as an essential corollary.

HORSE BREEDING IN FRANCE.

Twice or three times a year an appointment is made by "la Direction des Haras," a special branch of the Ministry of Agriculture. Owners are invited to bring their best horses, good racing performances being essential. Three or four "Inspecteurs des Haras," with all particulars and performances in hand, make selections for size, soundness, and good looks among the horses shown. Offers are then made to owners of the selected horses, who can accept or refuse them. The prices given range from £200 to £6000. Such horses, when bought, are sent to one or other of the principal Government studs (Depots d'Etalons), very often to the Haras du Pin, in Normandy. But within a fortnight a horse can be returned to his owner, without any explanation, if found unsound for stud purpose. Owners are not entitled to any compensation when a horse is thus returned.

Horses retained are distributed in due course among the Goverment studs, of which there are about a dozen. They are advertised at low fees, mostly 25 to 50 francs. The highest fee is never more than 100 francs (£4). Mares are put in different classes, according as they have won more or less money on the Turf, and the best stallions receive only the first-class mares, viz., those that have won at least £1600 in stakes. Subscriptions are reserved for a certain number of half-bred mares, and there are premiums given in certain cases both to stallions and half-bred mares. Thus we see once more how a Government supports horse-breeding and bases the whole system upon keeping its bloodstock at a high degree of excellence, as demonstrated by the racecourse test. Bloodstock breeders are offered the great advantage of £6000 horses for their best mares at a £4 fee. These and many other details will no doubt be fully considered when it comes to settling the national scheme for this country.

AMERICAN PURCHASES.

Not all the stock bought for American owners at the Newmarket Sales will leave England. Thus, Cattish (late Melton Regina, winner of the Hardwicke Stakes at Stockton and other races), by Melton out of Spiteful, by Jeddah, and tracing to Busybody, in foal to Lemberg; Gallows Hill, by Galashiels out of Indulgence (dam of three winners), by Trenton out of Lenity (grandam of Florist), by Bend Or out of Clemence, in foal to Duke Michael; Moneta, by Spearmint out of Jubilee, by Diamond Jubilee out of Jeunesse Doree, by Isinglass, in foal to Lemberg; and Royal Coinage, by Minting out of Royal Marriage, by Pietermaritzburg, tracing to Carine, and in foal to Marajax—these four mares were bought for Mr. Belmont, and will visit his horse, Tracery, next season at the Southcourt Stud.

The numerous purchases of Mr. Selby—twenty-seven in all—were safely shipped on Monday this week by the International Horse Agency and Exchange on the Manhattan. This is a bit of a record, having regard to the multiplicity of permits, certificates, forms, and declarations which have to be obtained for each particular animal before shipment is possible. Among Mr. Selby's shipment is the very fine yearling colt by Colin out of Acalot, by Pioneer, bought by Mr. Welsh at the sales for 500 guineas, but afterward transferred by him to Mr. Selby at a substantial profit. Mr. Price McKinney, the owner of Colin, will be glad to see this colt, I am sure.—[The Special Commissioner in London Sportsman.

ENGLAND WILL HAVE RACING THIS MONTH.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Steeplechase racing will not be discontinued in this country, despite all reports to the contrary. The season will begin on January 1 at Gatwick, and the stewards of the National Hunt Association have sanctioned further meetings during the month at Lingfield on January 7 and 8, Windsor, 14 and 15, and Gatwick again on January 21 and 22.

The Racing Calendar has just been issued and its announcement of dates places the seal of officialdom upon the meetings. The followers of horseracing in this country are jubilant over the prospects of the sport, and it is predicted the coming meeting will be the most enthusiastically attended since the war first began. The results of these races will guide the authorities in deciding about future dates.

While it is uncertain if the Grand National will be run off at the famous Aintree course, as usual this year, there is no doubt but that a substitute race will be framed to represent it by proxy, just as the historic Derby was arranged for at Newmarket last year instead of at Epsom, in order to avoid a break in its long record. The Grand National occupies about the same relative importance in the classics of the steeplechase sport that the Derby does to flat racing.

Please mention THE RECORD when writing to advertisers.

ASSAGAI AT EDENWOLD STUD.

The attention of breeders is called to the announcement on another page of the recently imported stallion Assagai, which will make the season of 1916 at Walter O. Parmer's Edenwold Stud.

Assagai was bred by Mr. Arthur James. He is a magnificent looking horse, almost the exact picture of his sire, Spearmint. He is made on true lines, with great bone and substance, and stands 16.1 hands.

Owing to an injury to a ligament Assagai only started a few times in high-class, long-distance races in England. He was second in the Scarborough Stakes at Newmarket, 1½ miles. Second in the Kesteven Plate at Lingfield, 1 mile, 3 furlongs. Won the Hampton Plate at Hurst Park, 1 mile, 5 furlongs, and was second in the North Derby, at Newcastle, 1½ miles, all his races being in high-class company over long distances—staying qualities being the special feature of his breeding.

Spearmint, sire of Assagai, won the Derby, Grand Prix de Paris and $61,465 and is now standing in England at a stud fee of 400 guineas ($2,100).

Assagai's dam, Charm, by St. Simon, is one of the greatest brood mares living today. She is an own sister to Amiable (winner of the One Thousand Guineas, the Oaks, and over $52,500). Charm herself won the Yorkshire Oaks at York, the Batthyany Plate at Lincoln and $5,650. She is the dam of Fascination (winner of the Coronation Stakes and over $21,000; finished second in the One Thousand Guineas); Dum Dum (winner of the Acorn Stakes and $6,620); Magic Mirror (winner of the Ascot Triennial Stakes, etc.); Red Robe (winner of the Goodwood Cup, etc.) also March, Flirtation, Attraction, Captivation, and a bay filly by Sainfoin (winner of the Hopeful Stakes).

Tact, the second dam of Assagai, is by Wisdom, and is the dam of Amiable (winner of the One Thousand Guineas, the Oaks, and over $52,500); Manners (a good winner in England, and one of the leading sires in Germany); Edlie, Kossa, Savoir-Vivre. Tact is also an own sister to Gravity (dam of William the Third, winner of the Ascot Gold Cup, Alexandra Plate, Doncaster Cup, and over $65,000). Tact is grandam of the winners of over $200,000.

Enigma, Assagai's third dam, by The Rake, is a winner, and dam of Florence (winner of the Cambridgeshire, Manchester Cup, Jubilee Prize, Baden Baden, and over $43,500), Oedipus, Wolf Dog, etc.

The Sphynx, the next dam, is by Newminister. She is the winner of six races and the dam of Fripon, Nathalie, Ragman, Philosopher, and Desert Queen (dam of Barbary, winner of the Hardwicke Stakes, and over $25,000).

Madame Stodare, his fifth dam, by Sleight-of-Hand, is the dam of Colonel Crocket (widner of eleven races), Chelmsford, (winner of seven races), Burlington, (winner of seven races), Hubert de Burgh and Wildrake.

The London papers say the breeding of Assagai is unsurpassed by any living stallion and particularly what is required in America. He is the only Spearmint or Carbine horse in this country.

At $100 the season, Assagai is certainly a very cheap horse, and, as he will be limited to ten outside mares, he will unquestionably soon be booked full.

THE MANAGER.

Whatever else may befall other native bred American families, or families which trace to an obscure origin, the fact remains that the Maria West line is going stronger today than ever before. In the past two seasons the rich Futurity has been won by a member of this self same Maria West line, and Thunderer still retains his unbeaten certificate and Regret upset all precedent when she won the Kentucky Derby. Only a couple of seasons back Cock o' the Walk was cock o' the walk indeed, a Triton amongst winners, and in 1912, the subject of this notice, Mr. T. C. McDowell's. The Manager, was the acknowledged champion race horse of that season and The Manager's services as a stallion are now offered to the bloodstock breeders of the United States at the exceedingly modest fee of $100.

Above we mentioned only a few of the many equine celebrities which are descended from Marion's famous daughter and another which comes readily to mind is that sterling little race horse Ben Brush, which during his racing days, carried off a Kentucky Derby and afterwards became such a pronounced success, as a stallion, when standing for service at the Castleton Stud.

Now that Ben Brush has set the ball rolling it will not be long, ere others, of this famous breed, will be found holding high places in the winning stallion list and in The Manager Mr. McDowell owns a stallion certain to take high rank as a sire.

As was noted above the Maria West line is flourishing amazingly, which of itself, should be a source of gratification to all American breeders of bloodstock as it is one of the strongest lines going today.

A glance at the performances of The Manager is enough to convince anyone that he was quite first class as a race horse, and commenced his turf career, auspiciously enough, by winning a purse here at Lexington and followed this up by taking the rich Breeders' Futurity, running the four furlongs in :48 flat, with a field of thirteen high-class youngsters behind him. The Manager as a three-year-old managed in spite of an interrupted preparation, to finish second to Free Lance for the Latonia Derby beating the Kentucky Derby winner Worth and from this time on the chestnut son of Voter progressed quite in the right way and scored a meritorious victory, beating Froglegs and Buckhorn, in the Canadian Derby, running the distance despite the soft going, in 2:04 1-5. However, it was not until the Laurel meeting came round that The Manager was really seen at his best. It was over the Laurel course that Mr. McDowell's colt scored three successive victories over the best horses then in training, under heavy imposts, conceding much poundage to his opponents, winning his races in commanding style and did not meet defeat until his final effort in the American Grand National Handicap in which the three-year-old, picking up the steadier of 127 pounds, was asked to give the four-year-old Lahore no less than 19 pounds and a year besides. The Manager suffered defeat by a head and neck only and this defeat may in part be attributed to an injudicious ride on the part of his jockey, and more than his share of bad luck during the running of the race, which was run off in the quick time of 1:50 1-5 for the 1½ miles.

The Racing Form of that date is authority for the statement that The Manager ran a grand race under the weight.

The first of The Manager's winning sequence was gained in the race around the ring, Maryland State Fair Inaugural Handicap when he beat Froglegs and ran the distance in 1:39 4-5. In the Baltimore Handicap, The Manager, carrying 118 pounds decisively beat Lanore 108 pounds and Froglegs running the 1 1-16 miles in 1:44 3-5, a new record for the Laurel course. The Washington Handicap was also won by The Manager which this time had up 124 pounds and easily accounted for such as Superstition, Froglegs and Worth, the weight allotted to the Kentucky Derby winner being only 115 pounds. Surely such performances as these stamp The Manager, as quite the best colt of his year and he was so regarded, by that eminent authority on turf matters, the late Capt. T. B. Merry (Hidalgo) who said of him, "If there is a better colt in all America I do not know where to look for him."

The Manager is a beautiful golden chestnut, of perfect manners, and a splendid type of a fully developed weight carrying thoroughbred, whose pedigree is made up of an intermingling of the best blood to be found both in this continent and in Europe.

Voter, The Manager's sire, a veritable flyer in his day, was an unqualified success as a stallion when standing for service at the late Jas. R. Keene's Castleton Stud, and is by Friar's Balsam, the two-year-old champion of his year, which, but for an attack of illness, would have been returned the winner of one or more of England's classics and Friar's Balsam is by the Derby winner Hermit out of Flower of Dorset by Bredalbane and is descended from Martha Lynn, from which came, such, equine celebrities, as Voltigeur, The Slave, (Lord Clifden's dam) Imperieuse, Carbine, Carnage, etc. etc.

Imp. Voter's dam is Mavourneen, grandam of Celt, by Barcaldine, sire of The Task, Sain's dam—and the dams of that spirited Frenchman Perth, and of Barley dam of the Australian champion race horse and and premier sire Malster. Voter is a member of the famous Sunflower branch of the No. 1 family and Sunflower is ancestress of many of the best stayers which have raced in England in recent years.

The racing performances of Bracegirdle, dam of The Manager, are fresh in the minds of all. Suffice it to say, that she was the best two-year-old filly of her year and besides The Manager, foaled The Rival, the Latonia Derby winner Woodlake, Lady Anne, and the producer Belle of Ashland, dam of last year's two-year-old winner Feminist.

Peg Woffington was a great race mare and a capital stayer, and produced to the cover of Hanover, the international winner David Garrick and also Pegasus, Madrilene, and Kitty Clive.

Ballet, the Queen Mary of the United States, threw nothing but winners, including Modesty, the only filly which ever won the American Derby.

The old truisms, like begets like and breed from the best and to the best, are sure to hold good in this case and in The Manager, Mr. McDowell possesses a most worthy son of most worthy parents, springing from the best sources of either continent and a bright future in the stud is confidently predicted for the handsome son of imported Voter and the stake winner Bracegirdle.

DICK WELLES AND MARATHON.

J. B. Respess, Highland Stock Farm, announces the services, of his two stallions, Dick Welles and Marathon, for the season of 1916 in this issue of THE RECORD.

Dick Welles.

The memory of the performances of Dick Welles on the turf is still fresh in the minds of all horsemen. The racing record of Dick Welles being so well known, it will not serve any beneficial purposes to further enumerate his brilliant victories. Let us rather turn to an analysis of his pedigree and note how strongly this pedigree is built upon Herod lines and how freely interspersed throughout are the names of the turf's most celebrated performers. Dick Welles is a tail-male descendant of King Tom, and this is indeed fortunate, for the male line of King Tom has all too few representatives in this or any other country. King Eric, his sire, whose untimely death, coming right on top of his having demonstrated his ability to sire good racehorses, was a splendidly-bred horse by King Ernest, from the No. 3. family, and his dam, imp. Cyclone, was by Parmesan, a Sweetmeat horse and sire of two Derby winners, Favonius and Cremorne, and this Sweetmeat blood is now generally recognized throughout the world as a most potent factor in the pedigree of a stallion. The second dam, Typhoon, is by Wild Dayrell, a Derby winner, by Iron, a Herod horse, from Ellen Middleton, the ancestress of Florizel and Persimmon, by the Derby horse, Bay Middleton, son of Sultan, another Herod, and sire of imp. Glencoe.

King Ernest, sire of King Eric, is from Ernestine, by Touchstone, from the No. 3 family. So we see that through King Eric, King Ernest and King Tom, Dick Welles, on the sire's side, is intensely inbred to family No. 3. On the dam's side, Dick Welles traces to imp. Maria Black, by Filho-da-Puta, a winner of St. Leger. This is the family that produced the famous Bramble, whose second dam was the fifth dam of Dick Welles. The dam of Dick Welles, Tea's Over, is by Hanover, a direct tail-male descendant of Glencoe, and it is wonderful how well the progeny of Hanover have done on both sides of the house. Then comes Tea Rose, by King Alfonso, son of Phaeton, by King Tom, thus giving Dick Welles a dual strain of this valuable blood. The third dam, Tuberose, is by Virgil, son of Virgil, another Herod, and then comes Buttercup, by Glen Athol, son of Blair Athol and Greta, by Voltigeur. So we see that Dick Welles has a wonderful supply of Herod crosses interspersed throughout his pedigree, making him exceedingly valuable as an outcross for these intensely bred Eclipse mares, and this Herod blood always makes for soundness and constitution—a very necessary adjunct to the qualifications of a genuine racehorse.

With a very limited opportunity Dick Welles has been among the leading stallions for the past three years. For a list of Dick Welles' winners see the announcement elsewhere in this issue.

Imp. Marathon.

Imp. Marathon is a beautifully bred horse, being by Martagon (sire of Maragan and any number of stake winners in England). Martegon won the Ascot Vase, Goodwood Cup, Triennial Produce Stakes, etc. Martagon's sire is Bend Or (Derby winner), and his dam, Tiger Lily, was a good winner and producer and is a full sister to Lily Agnes (dam of Ormonde, also by Bend Or.).

Imp. Ondulee, the dam of Marathon, was a good winner and is by St. Simon, unbeaten on the turf, and the leading sire of the world for many years.

The second dam of Marathon is Ornis, a good producer by Bend Or, and she out of Shotover (winner of Two Thousand Guineas, Derby, etc.) by the Derby winner Hermit.

Breeders should not fail to take a look at Marathon's tabulated pedigree, which appears in the announcement.

Marathon has had only a few registered foals (one of which was shipped to Europe as a yearling and sold at public auction for $2,200), but nearly all his foals have proven winners. His first crop were two-year-olds in 1912. See announcement for a list of his winners.

Highland Farm is located near Erlanger, Ky., on the Queen & Crescent railroad, sixty-five miles from Lexington, thus only a short distance to shipmares from here Mr. Respess will give the best of attention to mares sent to his farm.

NEW ORLEANS OPENS IN GRAND FASHION.

New Orleans, Jan. 1.—With an attendance far in excess of that of the opening day last year, the second annual winter race meeting of the Business Men's Racing Association began today. Although the track was heavy, conditions overhead were perfect and the day was like a June day in the North. The meeting opened without a hitch, and if the opening day can be taken as a criterion the winter session of racing here will be a banner one.

The scene about the spacious grounds at the Fair Grounds reminded one of Saratoga, there were so many prominent people of the turf world on hand, and this was especially true of the Palm Garden. The arrangement in the Palm Garden proved a trifle confusing to the first-timers for the first few races, but this did not last long.

General Manager Joseph A. Murphy was more than pleased with the opening, and especially with the number of prominent visitors it drew here, and he was the recipient of congratulations from all sides for his efforts to make the sport what it is here today. The racing card itself was much better than the card usually offered at winter race tracks, and it included five races at a mile or more and a three-furlong scramble for the two-year-olds.

The feature was the New Year Handicap, and this fell to Goldcrest Boy, from the J. W. Schorr barn. The son of Plaudit—Polly Prim just galloped away from his opposition at the end, while the closest to him was Father Riley, with J. J. Lillis third. Of the eleven carded to start in this race Marion Goosby, Celeste, Indolence and Ambrose were withdrawn. Father Riley, as usual, went to the front, but he was no match for Goldcrest Boy when the latter made his move.

In the two-year-old race Norumbega, which was one end of the Gifford A. Cochran entry, won from a field of eight other juveniles. Wistful was the other end of this entry. Norumbega finished fast, and at the end was going away from George C. Love, which finished second. Eden Park, owned by Jake Marklein, landed third. The time in this race, :38 1-5, was not bad, considering the track conditions. George C. Love, a full brother to Ed Crump, ran like a fair colt.

The Kentucky horses carried off the lion's share of the purses, they winning four of the six races. The horses from the Blue Grass State to score were Chilton King, York Lad, Goldcrest Boy and Irish Gentleman. The victory of Chilton King was a popular one as it marked the return to the saddle again of Jockey Ted Koerner, the Louisville rider, and he demonstrated that he had lost none of his skill.

That the local racing officials are not going to stand for any rough riding was demonstrated today when Jockeys Mack Garner, E. Burns and G. Alexander were each suspended for six days for rough riding. Garner's dare-devil tactics almost caused a bad spill when he cut off several horses with Dude in the fifth race. The finish in this race was the best of the day as Dartworth, the winner, and Dude fought it out neck and neck for the last quarter of a mile with the former getting the verdict.

Irish Gentleman accounted for the last race. In this event Lucky R., owned by Tom Hodge, fell after turning into the stretch and just when she was in a contending position. Jockey L. McAtee was thrown heavily, but he was not seriously injured.

Marathon showed an excellent performance in this race and would have won had the race been a trifle longer. Barring further rain, the going will be excellent Monday and large fields will be the rule.

LOCAL NOTES.

Mr. T. C. McDowell reports the death of Ecstasy chestnut mare, 1907, by Ben Strome out of Bracegirdle, and therefore half-sister to the stake winners, The Manager, The Rival, Lady Anne, etc. Ecstasy was the dam of Votary, two-year-old winner in 1915, and was in foal to Sain.

On account of the demands of business, Senator Camden has curtailed his racing stable, and has only a few fillies in training, which he intends eventually for the stud. He will not need the exclusive services of a private trainer. Two of the fillies are by Peter Quince, one a beautiful brown out of My Beauty, dam of Wheelwright, Kootenay, Superintendent Bellita, etc., and the other a chestnut, of racelike lines, out of Nun's Cloth, dam of Casuarina, Marie Henry, Vireo, Nun's Veiling, etc., by Melton. Two are by Ben Brush, both bays, one of them out of Bewitcher, therefore a half-sister to One Step, Charmeuse, etc., the other a half-sister to Hanson out of Jane Eyre by Ayrshire. Mr. Milam will train these by the day for Senator Camden.

The winners of the first races this year for two-year-olds, were bred and foaled on farms near Lexington. Norumbega, daughter of Star Shoot—Noreen and the winner at New Orleans is a product of John E. Madden's Hamburg Place. May W. by Ben Trovato—Belle of Mayfield, the winner at Juarez, was bred by O. H. Chenault at Spendthrift Stud.

The first two-year-old race of the year over the Oriental Park course of the Cuba-American Jockey Club resulted Tuesday afternoon in an easy victory for T. B. Ripey's filly Dental. Incidentally, she hung out a new quarter-mile record for the course when she stepped the distance in .22 1-5, to win by six lengths. Dental is a daughter of Stalwart and Dentifrice, and while a quarter is not much of a test she has a wonderful turn of speed, and may go on to much better things.

The board of directors of the Kentucky Association, all present except R. L. Baker, who is at the New Orleans race meeting, met Thursday and decided on the stakes to be given at the spring meeting here. Including the Kentucky Futurity, which has already closed, there will be five stakes, as follows:

The Camden Handicap, $1,500, for three-year-olds and upward, one mile and a quarter.

THE THOROUGHBRED.

Origin of the Breed—When Established and How Defined.

GALENA, KANSAS, Jan. 3, 1916.

Editor Thoroughbred Record:

Issue of your valuable paper, December 18th, 1915, contains an anomalous article, written by a conceited critic, hailing from New York, and known by the name of John L. O'Connor.

"His article is a fine example on the whole,
Of rhetoric which the learned call "rigmarole."

It is also, a verification of the adage: "The severest critic is the one who knows the least about that which he criticises."

He says: "Mr. S. L. Cheney of Columbus, Kansas, contributed a definition of a thoroughbred (April 3rd) which deserves more than passing notice. The mere fact that Mr. Cheney's deductions are for the most part incorrect, need not deter him from future acrobatic word efforts as a critic, purist, and lexicographer. Of course, it is only a coincident that in the 'name of progress and purity' the definition of a thoroughbred is given by a Kansan."

What I did say was this: "I here submit in behalf of the progress and purity of our language, a definition." By leaving out the qualifying clause I used in connection with the word purity, O'Connor gives to it a different meaning than the one conveyed by me.

The moral status of a mind that, will quote a part of the language of another without quoting qualifying words, used by the author, thereby giving to words a different meaning, belongs to that realm of infamy from which has come the greatest liars of our race. Hence, the adage: "False in one thing, false in all." After thus, by wilful misrepresentation, constructing a false, premise, he fills many lines with vituperative vulgarities in abuse of the people of Kansas.

Not satisfied with his self-coined, false and shameless vulgarisms, he borrows a supply of like material from his linguistic teacher, one, Michael Monahan of noted reputation in the beastly orders of society, and spits these forth at citizens of the great Western State, Kansas.

Truly, "From the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh." Imagine this New York would-be linguistic and historical critic, with a mind loaded with vulgarisms, like unto those exhibited in his published article, introduced as a critic of history and competent lexicographer, to a society of linguists, engaged in the commendable labor of aiding students to affix right words to ideas. The query as to competency would there immediately arise and be negatively answered by his vulgarities, disclosing beyond question his graduation in the slums of a great city. His glaring ignorance is made conspicuous by finding fault with a definition—apparent reason given is, he does not like the people of the state where the definer makes his home. Perchance aware of his own incompetency he attempts no definition but says Mr. Cheney's deductions are for the most part incorrect, yet fails to show wherein the incorrectness exists.

This critic's total want of logistic reasoning is exhibited by his failure to see that, his dislike and abuse of Kansas people has nothing whatever to do with settling questions in philology, history or paleontology. The truths of science and history remain unaffected by the loves and hatreds, idiosyncrasies of individuals or nations.

The sincere scholar is but little disturbed by the discordant elements that often cross his path. His mind preoccupied with an achievement of bringing something valuable from out of the darkness around us into the sunshine of today.

For some years past, linguists have been seeking for a definition of the word Thoroughbred when used by breeders to include a certain class of the equine race. Many historical chapters have been written on this subject, but a long disertation is not wanted, what is asked for is, a brief definition, that will encompass with precision and clearness the idea conveyed by one breeder to another, when using as a vehicle for such conveyance the word Thoroughbred, it thus becoming a generic term. A brief definition answering the purpose here stated will be thankfully received by linguists from anyone, not excepting the opinionated critic, Mr. John L. O'Connor, of New York, who, perchance, by freeing his mind from a load of vulgarities, and, after years of assiduous application, ascertains that his expression: "acrobatic word efforts" is naught but linguist Nonsense, may possibly become able to correctly define a few words in the English language.

Confucius said: "One student may gain the point by one effort, another by ten, another by fifty, but when the point is gained it is the same," hence, a remote chance for Mr. O'Connor.

He states, that "Mr. Cheney says: In the origin of the Thoroughbred, it plainly appears that, there was no fixed basis until the publication of the English Stud Book." Yes, Cheney so said, and now repeats it here. In this connection, "I further stated: The English Stud Book constituted the first fixed basis whence started the Thoroughbred, beginning with the date of its publication, whenever question arose as to a horse being a Thoroughbred—such claim was verified by appeal to the Stud Book. From the date of its publication to the present, all horses therein recorded in the first and subsequent volumes, and those eligible of record, are designated, Thoroughbreds."

Had Mr. John L. O'Connor devoted the same time to the study of the origin of English words and the date of their introduction into our language, with special meaning, that he gave to treasuring up vulgar epithets, uttered by Michael Monahan, he would surely not have written the article to which this is a reply.

As to the origin of the English Stud Book, we differ very little. The pedigrees of the race horses, chiefly kept by the nobility of England, and all reliable information from racing calendars, concerning the "race or running horse" found entrance into the first and subsequent volumes of that noble work.

No one contends that the publication of the pedigree in a book or otherwise changes the breeding of an animal. The pedigrees of many of the English race horses are much older than the use of the word Thoroughbred now used as a nown to designate the equine class to which such horses belong.

According to Whyte, in his history of the British turf, the earliest mention of race horses, "called running horses in those days," was when Hugh, founder of the royal house of Capet, in France, sent horses as a present to King Athelstane. See Thoroughbred Horse, page 1. Athelstane's reign began 925, and antedates the beginning of Henry VIII.'s reign 581 years.

"In the reign of William the Conqueror, which began 1066, the Earl of Shrewsbury imported some stallions from Spain." See Thoroughbred Horse, page 1.

Edward III., 1326, purchased running horses and in the 9th year of his reign received two running horses from the King of Navarre. See Thoroughbred Horse, page 1.

Queen Anne reigned from 1702 to 1714, during her reign, were imported twenty-four Oriental horses. Total importations up to year 1714 were 174 horses. See the American Thoroughbred, page 20.

I deem it unscholarly and savoring of the arrogance of ignorance to assume that, the Thoroughbred was established by anyone of the aforementioned importations. Such illogical assumption is left by a Kansas breeder to John L. O'Connor who ascends with apparent ease to the apex of linguistic absurdity.

In 1791, the English race or running horses, representatives in breeding lines of many importations, were widely scattered among the people of England and Ireland. It was, during that year, when the leaves of the first volume of the Stud Book, designated, "The General Stud Book," were spread forth. If the physical forms of the running horses of England and Ireland were not assembled, the leaves of the Stud Book were, and printed thereon, appeared, "with few exceptions, the pedigrees of every horse and mare of note that has appeared on the turf for the last fifty years, with many an earlier date, together with some account of the foreign horses and mares from which is derived the present breed of racers in Great Britain and Ireland." Quoted from Stud Book.

It is really pitiful and much to be regretted by everyone interested in the progress of our language, that, when the English Stud Book was published John L. O'Connor, linguistic student of Michael Monahan, was not present to teach the Editor of that Book, to designate the horses included therein, Thoroughbreds instead of calling them, "the present breed of racers."

Up to this date, as appears from quotation from the Stud Book, the word thoroughbred was not used to distinguished a class of horses and did not thus come into use until after the publication of the Stud Book in 1791. It was the printing of this book which constituted a fixed platform or basis for the English race horse, thereby enabling the linguist to properly use a word to encompass all horses appearing in such book, or eligible to admission there. The word Thoroughbred was selected to answer this purpose, and by long custom it has acquired a special meaning.

A noted English writer, years ago, in answer to a query said: Thoroughbreds are such horses whose breeding appears in the English Stud Book or are admissible of record there."

This book is a fixed basis where linguists have stopped, when using the word Thoroughbred. It is in consequence of this special use and limitation to the meaning of the word that, I have stated and here repeat the statement: there was no fixed basis for the Thoroughbred until the publication of the English Stud Book in 1791.

Mr. O'Connor closes by saying: "I reiterate the claim that the Thoroughbred was a Thoroughbred from that early day in England when the first foal arrived that represented the culmination of a fixed purpose to produce a distinctively superior horse." Now, when a King of England imported large Flemish mares, and the first foal that arrived from such mares represented the culmination of a fixed purpose to produce a distinctively superior horse, known as the Shire horse, was not, according to your language, Mr. O'Connor, the produce of these Flemish mares, Thoroughbreds? Is this what you call "acrobatic word efforts?" Do you fail to see that you are a tyro in defining words? Is it not time for you to solicit the aid of Michael Monahan?

Reasons and Facts Supporting Definition.

Of the many horses imported into England whose blood lines mingled in the upbuilding of the English race or running horse, "the male lines of but three Oriental horses are now extant, to-wit: The Darley Arabian, the Byerly Turk and Godolphin Arabian. Their more modern exponents, Eclipse, Herod and Matchem, all other lines from these sires being now extinct."

Cade 1734	Jigg	Bartlett's Childers
Matchem 1748	Partner 1718	Squirt 1732
	Tartar 1743	Marske 1750
	Herod 1758	Eclipse 1764

See The American Thoroughbred, page 25.

Mr. O'Connor says "it is all very well to point to the fact (as Mr. Cheney does) that most of our present day racing stock trace back possibly to three fountain heads: Herod, Matchem, Eclipse."

If Mr. T. B. Merry is correct in his statements made in his valuable book, above quoted, and all of my labor of investigation tends to prove his accuracy, then, the male lines of the Thoroughbred have perished excepting those he designates The Three Cardinal Lines, represented by Godolphin Arabian, Byerly Turk and Darley Arabian, and later by their descendants, Matchem, Herod and Eclipse.

Should one when in England, Kentucky or Australia ask a breeder of Thoroughbreds: Please Sir, what is this brown horse? Answer, He is a Matchem. What is this bay? Answer, he is a Herod. What is this chestnut? Answer, he is an Eclipse, and so to the end.

However, should my definition be presented to Mr. John L. O'Connor, a pretender of knowledge in the equine fields, a student in the Freshman class, he may, perchance, assume the solemnity of wisdom, by not denying its accuracy, but suggesting a reservation of opinion until he can ascertain whether it includes or not all of the horses imported by King Henry VIII.

Mr. O'Connor says: "Certain it is that Herod, Matchem and Eclipse were not Heaven sent." Now, I desire here to state, once for all, that no Kansas breeder, be he philosopher or crank, ever asserted that any horses were sent from Heaven, and if so, they surely did not land in Kansas. Such a story may have gained credence among the folk of the "Gem of the Ocean," where wizards and ghosts are thought to perform most wonderful feats in the regions of air. A Kentuckian, at my elbow, solemnly declares they did not land in Kentucky, and my English jock says he can prove they came not from the skies to England. So, yielding to the force of so much testimony, Mr. O'Connor, let us agree that, Matchem, Herod and Eclipse were not sent from Heaven to earth. But, hold! This Kansas breeder believes that, the great central source of light, life, intelligence and power, named by finite beings, Deus or God, ordered the seeds of life, ordained the laws by which their growth was governed, also, the events and circumstances which you call evolution, and thus had much to do with the origin of those wonderful horses, Matchem, Herod and Eclipse; for you must know, "The Father doeth all things well."

Definitions are accurate when clearly consistent with the facts by which they are supported, and fail not to convey from one mind to another, with precision and clearness of comprehension the subject defined.

Assuming, the authorities I have cited are true; and that, the only male lines now extant of the Thoroughbred, as before quoted from Mr. T. B. Merry, are represented by Matchem, Herod, Eclipse, then consistently follows my definition:

Horse—the Thoroughbred—Superior breed of— originated in England—its breeding traceable to one, two or all of three sires; named, Matchem, Herod, Eclipse.

Like Masonic brothers, who trace the origin of their organization to the building of Solomon's temple, a fixed basis, so, the Thoroughbreds of the world today, we trace their organization, their first fixed basis, the Stud Book of England; true, no King of Tyre sent skilled workmen there to aid in its construction, yet, we know, it was wrought by a master's hand.

So, in 1791, standing on a platform, formed, as it were, from leaves of the Stud Book, then named, The General Stud Book, a fixed basis, the race horses of the British Isles were, after that date, first called Thoroughbreds in England.

Trusting that, I have made my position, in regard to the subject matter of this article so plain that, even the New York critic, Mr. John L. O'Connor, though afflicted with that distressing disease, natural dullness, which he terms, by his latinized word "Lebetudinous," may see with the clearness of truth, its force and correctness, I remain, Fraternally Yours,

CALIFORNIAN RECRUIT TO RACING.

Edward Cebrian, a wealthy young San Franciscan, has embarked in breeding and racing on a large scale. He has purchased of Al Joseph the former James R. Keene stallion Von Tromp and some twenty-five well-bred mares. Al Farrell, who formerly trained Bubbling Water, Cloudlight and the other famous campaigners for Molera & Joseph, has been engaged to train Cebrian's string, and expects to bring out some select performers next spring.

At present the horses are located at the San Jose track, but it is said that Cebrian is planning to purchase a stock farm and engage in the breeding industry on a large scale. The horses he has purchased are:

MORE THOROUGHBREDS REACH AMERICA.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Because Pier 58 of the Atlantic Transport Company was already occupied by one of the ships of that line, it became necessary to dock the Manhattan with her cargo of sixty-six thoroughbreds, and a large consignment of fox-hounds, several coops of chickens, and not much other cargo worth mentioning, at Pier 59, belonging to the White Star Line.

Although the Manhattan had docked at 4:30 P. M. Sunday, the afternoon was well advanced before one of her sixty-six equine passengers was taken ashore. The scene on the pier and on board the ship all the forenoon, and away into the afternoon was one of hopeless confusion. There was no runway available upon which to unship the horses at Pier 59, and it took better than two hours to transfer one from the next pier.

Then it appeared that nobody had gone through the necessary customs formalities except the chairman of The Jockey Club, and by that time both laborers and officials were ready to knock off for luncheon.

An hour and a half later it was discovered that there were on board the Manhattan no means of making a path upon which the horses could walk with safety to the gangway. This, of course, was the cause of more delay, but finally a brown two-year-old colt by Rock Sand out of Lady Hamburg II., which had been sent over from France for Harry Payne Whitney, was taken off and at once transferred to Dr. McCully's stable in Lexington Avenue.

Following this breaking of the official ice, so to speak, four thoroughbreds originally included in Mr. Mackay's sale lot, but which had been left over for the Manhattan, came down to the dock and were promptly loaded into vans provided by M. J. Dooley and sent up to Durland's sale stable and riding academy.

What was much the best-looking individual in this lot was a three-year-old brown colt, having a blaze and four white legs. He is by Ravello, out of Gunfire (by Hastings out of Royal Gun), a splendid race mare which won the Metropolitan Handicap and other important races under the colors of the late William C. Whitney. This is an uncommonly good-looking colt, although after a long and rough sea voyage, he was far from being in anything like show condition.

August Belmont had in all nineteen thoroughbreds on the Manhattan, but of these eighteen were yearlings, the other being the valuable chestnut four-year-old colt, Danger Rock, which has shown himself a high-class horse as well as a royally bred one, he being by Rock Sand out of Delusion by Meddler. He has a bowed tendon, but he was sent down to Belmont Park, and should he become sound again, as is hoped he will, he will probably be seen under colors this season, otherwise he will be retired to the stud.

The Belmont two-year-olds, eighteen in number, were transferred to Durland's stable, where they will remain for the present at all events. They appeared to have suffered more on the long voyage, which lasted nearly a whole month, than any other animals on the ship. None of them is large, and some are distinctly undersized, but this is not surprising in view of the fact that they were in a condition closely bordering on starvation when they arrived, while their coats were both rough and soiled. They bore the appearance of having been shamefully neglected during their long ocean voyage.

In spite of their emaciated and rough appearance, however, these youngsters appeared to be in excellent health and even rugged. Their eyes were bright, and they seem to take a lively interest in everything that was going on about them, and when someone pulled a few handfuls of hay out of a partially wrecked bale, and threw it into their boxes, they devoured it greedily, hardly waiting to chew it.

These youngsters are mainly the get of Flint Rock and Ethelbert, one being by Negofol, and one by Rock Sand. Although not large, they are a well formed lot of youngsters, and they are liberally supplied with bone below the knee. In their present condition they could not impress the casual observer, but at the same time, no horseman could take them for anything but thoroughbreds, and they are unquestionably racy looking and blooklike. With a month of generous feeding, proper care and sanitary surroundings they might become an even taking looking lot.

They were bred on Mr. Belmont's stock farm in France, and represent the produce of many good mares which have raced successfully under Mr. Belmont's colors, that good race mare Field Mouse being among the number.

Mr. Sanford's half-dozen two-year-olds, which came over on the Manhattan, shipped wonderfully well and came ashore looking surprisingly fit in view of the ordeal through which they have just passed. All of them are two-year-olds.

Sandstone is a bark bay or brown colt by Black Sand—La Paraguay. This is possibly a more light-waisted colt than Spartacus, but he has quite as much reach, and is grandly muscled all over. Upon the whole, he has more of individuality and better racing angles. He is a colt which cannot fail to win the liking of any man who has had much to do with real racehorses. He shows more in front of the saddle than his stablemate, and, while it is possible that his quarters have less weight, they have more range and leverage.

Scarpia is a brown colt by Isidor out of La Tosca II., so that it will be seen while he was foaled in France, he has an American pedigree. He did not ship quite as well as the two colts just described, but he conveys the impression that a few days of rest and grooming would put him on a level with the others as far as condition is concerned at all events.

Affection is a bright chestnut filly with a rather irregular blaze which is not very pronounced. This filly is another representative of American blood lines, as she is by Isidor out of One-I-Love. She is a taking youngster in every respect.

Tyrant is a stout and very able-looking bay colt, which shows his royal breeding in size, substance and finish. He is well rounded out at the end of his long and tempestuous voyage, showing exceptional substance and muscular development everywhere. He is by Radium out of Oppression.

Manager Preston Burch, of Hurricane, who came down from Amsterdam to receive and take charge of these importations, appeared highly pleased with them and glad of their safe arrival in such surprisingly good condition, all things considered. They were shipped to Amsterdam last night.

The Brownleigh Park Stable, as Grant Hugh Browne's racing establishment is known, received the largest consignment in the Manhattan's cargo of thoroughbreds. It included twenty-seven in all, and was made up of practically everything from broodmares to the newmade yearlings of 1916. These were purchased at the sales by H. H. Selby. Yearlings and two-year-olds outnumbered the others, but there was a fair sprinkling of matured racing material, which will be seen under the stable's colors during the coming season. Seven real racers were sent down to Gravesend, where they will be in charge of D. R McDaniel, while the other twenty were shipped to the stock farm at Goshen.

Samuel Ross of Washington received two yearlings by the Manhatton, a grey colt by Grey Legs—Memoria II. and a chestnut colt by Grey Legs—Gallonia, by Gallinule.

H. T. Oxnard received the following broodmares: Aeroplane, b m, 5, by Arizona—Silk Floss; Galanta, b f, 4, by William the Third—Carita, by Gallinule; Hortense, br f, 3, by Troutbeck—Hanardina; Carpathia, b m, 10, by Sainfoin—Sereta, by St. Serf.

ASSAGAI was recently imported from England by Mr. Walter O. Parmer and will stand at the Edenwold Stud, Edenwold, Tenn.

ASSAGAI was bred by Mr. Arthur James. He is a magnificent looking horse, almost the exact picture of his sire, Spearmint. He is made on true lines, with great bone and substance, and stands 16.1 hands.

Owing to an injury to a ligament Assagai only started a few times in high-class, long-distance races in England. He was second in the Scarborough Stakes at Newmarket, 1½ miles. Second in the Kesteven Plate at Lingfield, 1 mile, 3 furlongs. Won the Hampton Plate at Hurst Park, 1 mile, 5 furlongs, and was second in the North Derby at Newcastle, 1½ miles, all his races being in high-class company over long distances—staying qualities being the SPECIAL FEATURE OF HIS BREEDING.

A limited number of approved mares will be accepted at

$100

With return privilege if the horse is alive and in our possession.

GLEN-HELEN STUD STALLIONS.

Mr. John S. Barbee announces the horses that will make the season at his Glen-Helen Stud in 1916 in this week's RECORD.

Sweep.

Sweep (winner of the Futurity, National Stallion Race, Belmont, Carlton, Lawrence Realization, etc., and $63,948) is by Ben Brush (son of Bramble and Roseville by Reform. A high-class stake winner and sire of Broomstick, Lady Amelia, Trance, Vandergrift and numerous other stake winners), out of Pink Domino (a winner and dam of the stake winners Philander, Selectman, Sweepaway, Cabaret and Curiosity, dam of Novelty), by Domino; 2nd dam imp. Belle Rose (dam of imp. Royal Rose, Militant, etc.), by Beaudesert, etc.

Sweep was a horse that gallantly met every requirement, did all that was asked of him, and of him the late Major Daingerfield said: "I believe Ben Brush to be one of the most valuable sires in America and Sweep his best son. Sweep has the quality of the very best of Ben Brush's get, and while more beautiful, has even greater bone and brawn than his sire. He is forceful and masculine, and sure to prove great at the stud. I know no son of Ben Brush, tried or untried, I would prefer to him as a stock horse, and no horse of the No. 8 family by any other sire."

Imp. Glencairn.

Glencairn is a chestnut horse, foaled in 1910, by Orby (winner of the English Derby, and also the Irish Derby; sire of Diadumenos, etc.; also half-brother to Rhodora, winner of the One Thousand Guineas, Dewhurst Plate, etc.). Glencairn was bred by Mr. R. Croker, who sold him privately for a big price to Mr. D. McCalmont (owner of The Tetrarch).

Glencairn is the first produce of Yankee, a daughter of Americus, the sire of Golden Rod (twice winner of the Stewards' Cup) and numerous other good winners in England. His second dam, Little Blanche, was a winner and dam of Balbriggan and Aid, the winners of twenty flat races. His third dam, Triesta, was a winner and dam of Diabolo and Bentests, the dam of Shellmartin. His next dam, Trieste, was a good stayer and won eight races. She is the dam of The Saxon (18 races), Venice (11 races), and five other winners, and is also the grandam of Kirkconnel, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas. Glencairn's fifth dam, Trireme, is half-sister to Teffrail, the grandam of Gladiateur, winner of the Derby, Two Thousand Guineas and St. Leger.

Glencairn was considered by good judges to be the best sprinter in England, among his winning races being Theale Maiden Plate, 128 lbs. up; Country Two-Year-Old Plate, 138 lbs. up; Spring Hall Plate, 128 lbs. up; Surbiton Handicap, etc.

Great Britain.

Great Britain is just the sort of horse to succeed as a stallion, as he could run both fast and far, winning over the Latonia course a mile in 1:37 3-5 and scoring in the Montreal Cup, 1¼ miles, 120 lbs. up; the Toronto Cup, 2¼ miles, 126 lbs. up; the Louisville Cup, two miles, 126 lbs. up, etc., having won sixteen races. Great Britain was foaled in 1910, by The Commoner (son of Hanover), out of Touch Not (dam of Notasulga, etc.), by the black whirlwind Tremont. The Commoner was quite high-class as a racehorse and a good sire. He is a full brother to Rhoda B. (dam of Orby, English Derby winner, and Rhodora, One Thousand Guineas winner), etc.

Great Britain is a fine set up, sturdy sort, big bodied on short legs, and must make up into a handsome stallion. See tabulated pedigree in announcement.

Granite.

Granite is by Rockton (son of that good imported sire Meddler, and the stake winner Brown Princess), out of Adriutha (dam of Shawnee, Brumley, Sevillian, etc.), by Clifford. Rockton was a stake winner three seasons, including the Saratoga Handicap, and is the sire of Mohawk II., Granite, Rockville, Van Dan, La Tosca II., Dutch Rock, Oghwaga, Montcalm, Horicon, Duncraggan, Song of Rocks, Cold Spring, Rock Rest, Rockstone, Quartz, Capt. Burns, Perth Rock, etc. The announcement has a full summary of his races.

Imp Brummel.

Imp. Brummel is a very handsome, truly made horse, with perfect action, being built on the lines of his sire, Desmond (son of St. Simon and L'Abbesse de Jouarre, an Oaks winner), and was a good winner in England.

Desmond, which died on July 4, 1913, was the premier sire of England in 1913, his get winning $154,865. Desmond was the sire of Aboyeur, Craganour, Stornoway, Hapsburg, The White Knight, Lomond, Land League, Sir Archibald, Knockfierna, etc. His yearlings, which were sold at public auction, in 1912 averaged $12,420 and his nine yearlings sold in 1913 averaged $19,970.

Imp. Brummel is out of Beauty's Daughter, (half-sister to Rock-Dove (Cesarewitch) Portmarnock (Great Jubilee, Rous Memorial Stakes, Manchester, Breeders' Stakes, Irish Derby, etc.), and dam of Beau, Cutter, Granis, Catherine, Lady Daisy, Fair Saint and other winners), by Gallinule, whose daughters brought the highest price at the record Newmarket sales in 1913; 2d dam The Sleeping Beauty (a winner and dam of Carrigavalla (winner of the Wellington Plate, Irish Derby, etc.), Ardmore (Newbury Cup), etc.), by Ben Battle; 3d dam The Beauty (dam of many winners, including Whist The Flirt, Whisper Low, The Jilt, Wideawake, Painted Lady, Kildare, King Herod, Marie Antoinette, Frolic, Cill Dara, Bow Window, Queen of Brilliants, Eileen Alana, etc.) by Macaroni, etc.

Brummel made a season in England at a stud fee of 28 guineas ($140) and had a very good subscription of mares for his first season. He covered forty-five mares at Glen-Helen Stud last year and will be allowed to serve mares this year at the low fee of $50.

Textile.

That good stake winner and beautifully bred young horse, Textile, will make the season of 1916 at Glen-Helen Stud free to approved mares if an option is allowed on the foal. Textile is a chestnut horse, foaled 1908, by Inflexible (son of Hamburg and imp. Berriedale, by Donovan), out of Gold Lace, by Ormonde, she from Libbertiflibbet, by Bullion; next dam Flibbertigibbet, by Kingfisher. Textile won at two the Hurricane Stakes, the Albany Handicap and other races. He was again winner in 1912.

Eyebrow.

Eyebrow, foaled in 1909, was sired by Star Shoot, dam Eyelet, by St. Andrew; 2d dam Gladeyes, by Onondaga; 3d dam Glaciola, by Glengarry, etc.

Star Shoot, his sire, as the leading thoroughbred sire of the United States for the successive years of 1911 and 1912, has gained an eminence well deserved and earned through the speed and endurance of his progeny in racing.

Eyelet (the dam of several winners besides Eyebrow) was sired by St. Andrew, dam Gladeyes. St. Andrew, which has done remarkably well in the stud, was got by St. Simon, which was unbeaten on the turf and a wonder at the stud. Gladeyes, which produced a number of good winners, was by Onondaga, and so on back to the 22d dam, Piping Peg.

Eyebrow was a superior mud runner, and W. T. Anderson, his trainer, said he was the best horse he ever had anything to do with.

Ten Point.

Ten Point was a winner at two, three, four and five of Walden Stakes, Belair, Philadelphia, running the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5, easily; Susquehanna, mile and seventy yards in 1:43, the mile in 1:38 3-5; Saranac, Baltimore, Fleetwing, Fox Hill and Harford Handicaps. He is by Jack Point (winner of the Brighton Handicap, etc.), by that great sire Sir Dixon, out of Merry Maiden, by Virgil, son of Vandal, one of the greatest sire families in the country. Ten Point's dam is Gold Ten, by imp. Goldcrest. See tabulated pedigree in announcement.

IDLE HOUR STOCK FARM STALLIONS.

Mr. E. R. Bradley, Idle Hour Stock Farm, announces in this issue of THE RECORD the stallions Cunard, Helmet and Beach Comber for the season of 1916.

Cunard.

Cunard was a first-class racehorse and won among other races the Nursery, Colts' First Stakes, National Stallion Stakes, Kenner Stakes, etc. He met and defeated the best of his day and was always made to carry his weight. Cunard is by imp. Goldfinch, out of Lucania, by imp. Sir Modred.

Goldfinch was a superior racehorse. He started three times at two years, won twice, and was beaten only a head for the July Stakes at Newmarket. He won the Kempton Park Biennial, twelve starters, and the New Stakes, at Ascot, defeating Bona Vista and eight others. He is a half-brother of the successful sire Common (Two Thousand Guineas, Derby, St. Leger, etc.).

Cunard's dam, Lucania, was a superior performer, which as a two-year-old won at six furlongs in 1:12¼. At three she won a number of races, including the Parkville and Withers Stakes, and was a winner at four. Lucania is by that splendid broodmare sire, imp. His winning races include the Hopeful Stakes, Matron Stakes, Champagne Stakes and other races. He was considered good enough to send to England in the fall of his two-year-old year and started several times without success in the following year. He did not seem to do well and was returned to this country where he has since won.

Helmet has had only a few starters, among them being Brig's Sister, Bars and Stars, Blood Test (a two-year-old stake winner last year), Browneyed Kate (a two-year-old winner of three races last year), etc.

Cinderella (dam of Peter Pan, Von Tromp, Musical Slipper, Early and Often, etc.), by Hermit.

Rock Sand (son of Sainfoin and Roquebrune, by St. Simon) won the Two Thousand Guineas, Derby, St. Leger, etc., and $250,848. After standing for two seasons in England he was purchased by Mr. August Belmont for $125,000. Mr. Belmont sold him for a profit to a French syndicate in 1912, in which country he stood until his death for $2,500 the season. Rock Sand sired Tracery, Rock Flint, Trap Rock, Rock View, Sandvale, Flint Rock, Footprint, Sandhill, Overman, Qu'elle est Belle II., Coastwise, Rock Lane, Toggery, Rochester, Sand-

Mr. Bradley purchased Beach Comber as a yearling at public auction for $14,000, with the intention of reserving him for the stud.

Breeders wanting seasons to these horses had better communicate with Mr. Barry Shannon, the manager of Idle Hour Farm, Lexington, Ky., at once, as their books will undoubtedly fill rapidly. Mr. Shannon will be glad to give anyone full particulars regarding terms, etc.

WALDECK STOCK FARM STALLIONS.

Mr. Thomas M. Murphy, Waldeck Stock Farm, announces in THE RECORD this week the services of Golden Maxim and Boots and Saddle for the season of 1916.

Golden Maxim.

Golden Maxim was a high-class stake winner, winning the Zephyr Stakes and the Great Eastern Handicap (six furlongs in 1.14 2-5). He ran 1⅛ miles in 1:53 2-5 with 116 pounds up.

Golden Maxim's sire, imp. Golden Garter, sired Charles Edward, Jim Gaffney, Jacobite; Dainty, Gravina, Girdle, Artois, Lou Woods, Elastic, Golden Age, Golden Mineral, and other high-class stake winners. Golden Garter was by Bend Or (winner of the Derby and nine other races and sire of Ormonde, unbeaten Derby winner of thirteen races and $142,325), out of Sanda (dam of Sainfoin, sire of Rock Sand), by Wenlock, winner of the St. Leger and sire of Deadlock, dam of Isinglass, winner of the Derby, Two Thousand Guineas, St. Leger, and eight other races and $280,675, the greatest amount of money ever won by a horse in the history of racing in all the world.

Golden Maxim is out of Miss Maxim (winner of seven races and dam of Jim Gaffney, Custom, etc.), by imp. Maxim (son of Musket, sire of Carbine, winner of thirty-three races and $142,758, Australia's greatest horse); 2d dam Venture (dam of eight winners), by Virgil (sire of Hindoo, the sire of Hanover); 3d dam Ulrica, by Lexington (winner of $56,500, including four miles in 7:19¾ and 7:23½, and sire of the dams of Salvator, Parole, Hindoo, Foxhall, Luke Blackburn, Ten Broeck, etc. Lexington was a son of Boston, winner of forty races, thirty of them at four mile heats); 4th dam imp. Emilia, dam of imp. Australian, etc.

Boots and Saddle.

Boots and Saddle was bred by James R. Keene and was a winner of four races in eight starts as a two-year-old in 1913 and a winner as a four-year-old in 1915 at six furlongs in 1:12, etc. He is by imp. Voter (winner of the Metropolitan and White Plains Handicaps and twenty-one other races and the sire of Ballot, Electioneer, The Manager, Hilarious, Polls, High Noon, etc.), out of Osp and Bells (winner of the English Oaks), by Domino (winner of nineteen races and $203,300 and sire of Commando, Disguise, etc).

There are many Derby winners in the pedigree of Boots and Saddle. His sire's dam was by the unbeaten horse, Barcaldine, the sire of Sir Visto, the Derby winner of 1895. His grandam, imp. Ben-My-Chree, is a daughter of the Derby winner, Galopin, the sire of Donovan, winner of the Derby in 1889, and St. Simon that sired the Derby winners, Persimmon and Diamond Jubilee. Uncas, the sire of the third dam of Boots and Saddle, is a son Stockwell, that sired the Derby winners, Blair Athol, Lord Lyon and Doncaster. The latter sired the Derby winner, Bend Or, and Blair Athol got Silvio, winner of the Derby in 1877. The next dam was by Buccaneer, the sire of Kisber, that won the Derby in Petrarch's year. The next dam was by a full brother of the Derby winner, Voltigeur, and Melbourne, the sire of the next dam, got two Derby winners in Blink Bonny and West Australian, while Touchstone, the sire of the next dam, got three winners of the Derby in Cotherstone, Orlando and Sarpedon. Clear on through Boots and Saddle's pedigree Derby winners predominate. He looks like a certainty to prove a sire of great excellency in the stud.

Mr. Murphy has begun building Waldeck Stud up in the hopes that in a few years he will own a Kentucky Derby winner of his own breeding and he recently said that he expected to capture the classic of the Kentucky turf with a colt by his young sire, Boots and Saddle, out of a mare by his older horse, Golden Maxim.

See the announcement of Waldeck Farm on another page for full particulars.

JIM GAFFNEY.

Mr. O. A. Bianchi has moved his stock to John S. Wiggins' farm in Bourbon County, near Hutchison Station, and his stallion Jim Gaffney, will be allowed to serve outside mares at $100 the season to approved mares.

Jim Gaffney carried 122 lbs. in the Prospect Stakes, beating Nimbus, Uncle, Fancy, Restigouche, Meelick, etc. He won three races as a four-year-old, seven as a five-year-old, and two races as a six-year-old.

Jim Gaffney is a bay horse, foaled 1905, by imp. Golden Garter out of Miss Maxim, by imp. Maxim; 2d dam Ventura, by Virgil; 3d dam Ulrica, by Lexington; 4th dam imp. Emilia, by Young Emilius, etc.

Golden Garter was one of the best handicap horses in England and ranks among the best sires of America. He is a half-brother to the Derby winner Sainfoin (sire of Rock Sand), being by Bend Or, out of Sanda, by Wenlock. Bend Or (Derby, etc., by Doncaster, Derby, etc.) is the sire of Ormonde, Kendal, Martagon, Orvieto, Bona Vista, Order, Ben Strome, etc. Golden Garter traces three times to the renowned Pocahontas, and also to those great mares Alice Hawthorn, Beeswing, Delhi and Mineral.

Miss Maxim (dam of Golden Maxim, Legal Maxim, etc.) is by imp. Maxim, a son of the great Musket. Miss Maxim was sent to France in 1908 with the Mill Stream Stud consignment and sold to Baron M. de Rothschild. Ventura and Ulrica are the dams of a number of good horses, and Emilia, Jim Gaffney's fourth dam, is the dam of imp. Australian, etc.

Jim Gaffney has already sired such horses as Emerson Cochran (winner of the Calhoun Stakes, Cincinnati Trophy, etc., in 1914, and a winner in 1915), Jim Savage (winner of three straight races at two); Dodge (winner of Edenwold Stakes, Iroquois Hotel, Prince George and Maryland Handicaps, being in the first flight of two-year-olds in 1915, and one of the few horses which won over $10,000), Franklin, etc.

See our advertising columns for full particulars.

MAGNETO.

Mr. Martin Doyle, Sister Mary Stock Farm, announces the services of Magneto to the public at $50 to insure a living foal, in THE RECORD this week.

Magneto was sick as a two-year-old and did not start. As a three-year-old he split his foot, but started a few times with bars on. He was left at the post in his first start. In his second start he was second to Flex, beaten a length in 1:39 4 5 in front of eight others at Fort Erie, and was third to Reciprocity at a mile and then was retired, as his foot would gap open and bleed every time he raced. He was very fast in his trials, having worked a mile in 1:39, the first six furlongs in 1:12.

Magneto is full sixteen hands high and a grand individual, being by the high-class sire Star Shoot out of Marie Frances, by Sir Dixon (a superior racehorse and great sire), 2d dam La Colonie, by Hindoo (sire of the great Hanover); 3d dam The Niece (dam of Uncle), by Alarm; 4th dam Jaconet (full sister to Iroquois, winner of the Epsom Derby, Doncaster St. Leger, Prince of Wales Stakes, Newmarket Stakes, Burwell Stakes, St. James Palace Stakes, Newmarket Derby, etc., and sire of Tammany, Rancocas, G. W. Johnson, etc.), by Leamington. Jaconet is out of Maggie B. B., by Australian. To Maggie B. B. trace Blue Girl, Salvidere, Blues, Iroquois, Par Excellence, Fayette, Bohemia, Lord Quex, Col. Bill, Sallie McClelland, Audience, Whisk Broom II., Pepper, W. H. Carey, Intense and other stake winners. It is a great stallion family also. Thus it will be seen that Magneto is by the same sire as Uncle and his third dam is the dam of Uncle, and Uncle is making full seasons at $500.

The oldest of the get of Magneto are now two-year-olds, one of them being the filly out of Rose Tree II. (dam of Roamer) which sold for $2,100 at public auction last year.

As Mr. Doyle will only allow Magneto to serve ten outside mares, it should not be long before his book is full. See ad. for tabulated pedigree and full particulars.

LOCAL NOTES.

No man is perhaps better qualified to talk on the subject of the thoroughbred horse and conditions pertinent to his welfare than John E. Madden, and anything he has to say in this connection is naturally of interest to the public.

When asked the direct question will the ruling of the Jockey Club in your opinion materially benefit the breed of the thoroughbred, Mr. Madden had the following to say:

"I do not think that the change from January 1st to April 1st will in any way benefit the breed. Had the date been made July 1st instead of April 1st the experiment might meet with some degree of success and be worth while, but to prepare a two-year-old for his April engagements on the often frozen tracks of Long Island against the watch, would prove more disastrous to the youngsters than would January racing in the South three-eighths of a mile—without whip or spur."

Will the ruling abolish two-year-old racing in the South?

"Decidedly not. As far as Southern racing is concerned, the new ruling is fortunate, for the class of two-year-olds at those early meetings will be more even. The owners of such promising youngsters as Old Rosebud and Hawthorn will not take any chances of their coming under the ban. The Southern associations should welcome the new rule. There will be more material for Southern racing next year than ever before. Yearlings which show high class in their trials will be reserved for the big Northern meetings that commence after April 1st. Southern racing associations will offer purses and stakes for 2 year-olds just so long as they believe they can fill them. It must be remembered that Texas and Missouri are largely represented in the list of thoroughbred breeders, and these breeders want to see their two-year-olds race without going hundreds of miles from home. Barring from the Eastern tracks the two-year-olds that race in the South before April will have no bad effect on them, and there are tracks elsewhere that do not follow the ruling, where these two-year-olds can earn their brackets until Southern racing is renewed the next year. The large number of importations will also help to increase the fields from which the South will draw for two-year-olds."

Mr. Madden suggests that the meetings in Juarez, Havana, and New Orleans be called "Southern Racing" instead of "Winter Racing" as now, for they could no more hold races there in June and July than they could at Belmont Park in February and March.

To a further question as to his views on the Government taking up the breeding of army horses on a large scale, Mr. Madden said:

"I do not approve of the Government going into the breeding of horses for army uses on a large scale. Farmers throughout the country will be able to supply any demand in time of war, especially since the New York Jockey Club and the Kentucky Racing Commission have placed thoroughbred stallions at the disposal of the farmers in many localities."

When asked how he would proceed to produce the type required and if the farmers have the right kind of mares he replied:

"There is no such thing as an established type in the half-bred. The crossing of the thoroughbred horse on mares of totally different breeding results in a great variety of type, so many are the sources to which the foal may revert. It is not to be expected that the farmers will dispose of the mares they now possess and replace them with ones bred on the lines proposed by some theoretical writers.

"The thoroughbred stallion will cross better on the general type now owned by the farmers than stallions of any other breed. The draft mares bred to the thoroughbred stallions will produce splendid artillery horses and an occasional fine hunter. The artillery horse, when properly selected, is a better horse than he is accredited. He should be 15.3 or 16 hands, with form, substance and weight and be competent to gallop freely with a gun. The regular Draft and Broncho Horse does not answer these requirements.

"The hackney, the trotter, the saddle and the Morgan mares, (especially the hackney) will furnish excellent cavalry horses at a price remunerative to the farmer."

J. I. Smith, manager for H. H. Hewitt, booked the following mares to Ballot this week:

Coy Maid, (dam of Coy Lad and half-sister to Disguise) brown, 1902, by Kingston—Bonnie Gal by Galopin. In foal to Peep O'Day.

Aviston (dam of Creme de Menthe and sister to Aeronaut), chestnut, 1903, by Ayrshire—Miss Ellie by Donovan. In foal to Coy Lad.

Inspiration (dam of Impression and Cantara) chestnut, 1902, by Ayrshire—Sister Mary by Woodlands. In foal to Coy Lad.

The first foal of the year to be reported in Kentucky is a bay filly, property of Brownell Combs, foaled January 11, by Helmet out of Miss Bessie (sister to Eonic, dam of Bell Horse) by Eon. Mare will be bred to Cunard or Helmet.

Bessanta, ch f, 2, by Marta Santa—Bessie Simpson, won the first race at Juarez last Saturday from a field of eight starters.

The purchase of Ellen M. from O. H. Chenault gives Rody Patterson five horses in the string he is training at the Kentucky Assoociation track. His best unquestionably is the two-year-old bay colt by Ballot, out of Subdue, dam of G. M. Miller, which is the property of Hart Brown, of Lexington.

* * *

The two-year-old bay filly by Transvaal, out of Lady Levity, owned jointly by Patterson and Charlton Alexander, of Paris, has a wonderfully good disposition and has been named Pollyanna, the title of the delightful glad book. The fifth member of the string is Louisiana, a three-year-old bay fill by Ferole, dam Onione, the property of R. N. Smith, of Eminence.

* * *

J. C. Milam has booked Aleen B., the three-year-old daughter of Transvaal and Fair Alien, to Arthur B. Hancock's recently imported English stallion Wrack. Milam went to Paris to have a look at Wrack, and returned to Lexington enthusiastic about him. "He is one of the best looking stallions I ever saw," said he.

NOMINATIONS TO THE FUTURITY.

New York, Jan. 10.—Secretary Earlocker of the Westchester Racing Association has completed a list of the nominations that have been received for the 1918 Futurity. It shows 82 nominators and 649 nominations. Of course it is possible that the California mail will bring this figure still higher, but at this figure it shows a very becoming increase over any of the figures since the legislation against the sport.

Probably as many as 100 of the total are foreign-breds, and it is a list that carries the names of nominators that never before made Futurity entries. Some of these are: Paul J. Aberli, Kenneth D. Alexander, Thomas Collins, Grosvenor Stable of William Lincoln Crosby of Boston, Archibald Barklie, R. K. Cassatt, L. M. Cayce, H. O. F. Chatterley, Bernard Flynn, Mrs. Sidney Josephthal, Harris Hancock, W. S. Kilmer, George Wingfield's Nevada Stock Farm, G. R. Tompkins and many others.

Late nominations of mares include 103 from John E. Madden and forty-eight from Harry Payne Whitney. The foreign stallions represented in Mr. Whitney's nominations are All Gold, St. Victrix, Cylgad, John O'Gaunt, Spearmint, Bayardo, Tracery, Greenback, Polymelus, Willonyx, Macdonald II., Querido, Rabelais, Negofol and St. Amant. The American sires are Burgomaster, Broomstick, Hamburg, Peter Pan and Whisk Broom II.

Thomas C. McDowell has made seven nominations. Four of them show his own stallion, The Manager, as the prospective sire, while there are two Ballots and one by Sain.

George D. Widener has named seven, including four of English pedigree, the stallions being Cicero, Willonyx, St. Amant and Cocksure II. The other three represent the American sire, Garry Herrmann.

L. S. Thompson has named a full-blood relative to the good three-year-old Bromo, when he nominated Broomstick and Leayonara.

The Greentree Stable made an addition to a former nomination by sending in Macdonald II., mated with Alster Cress.

Others to nominate were R. H. McCarter Porter with two, the get of Knight of the Thistle; J. Claude Rodgers with a Sweep; Frank Walters with a Captain John—Nan Ferguson; E. C. Cowdin with a Whisk Broom II.—Spindrift; G. D. Wilson with a Celt; H. P. Headley with two, an Uncle and an Ivan the Terrible; M. C. Chatterly with a King James; Jefferson Livingston with a Peep O'Day and I. E. Clark with two by Orb.

THE AMERICAN THOROUGHBRED OF YESTERDAY AND TODAY.

Thirty or forty years ago the American Thoroughbred was the equal of any on earth. This was conclusively proven by the feats of Parole, Foxhall and Iroquois, which invaded foreign countries and beat them on their own grounds. At that time racing in this country had an element of sport in it, and was conducted for the improvement of the breed of horses. Horses were required to take up weight and race over a distance of ground, and one that could go no further than a mile and a quarter was considered a cheap sprinter.

Then came the decline, the day of the bookmaker, the sprinter, the merry-go-round. Racing was commercialized. Racing Associations conducted their meetings for dividends, and not for the good of the sport. The greater the number of races, the shorter the distances, the larger the fields, the more uncertain the result, the better it suited their ends. Horses and horsemen were mere pawns in their game of money getting. There were charges for stalls, for licenses, for bookmaking privileges, for everything where a fee could be collected. One-half the run-up money in selling races was retained. They guaranteed the value of some stakes, and frequently the entrance fees, forfeits and starting fees amounted to more than the guaranteed value of the race, thus making the owners run for their own money, paying the association a bonus for the privilege of so doing. Add to this three dollars per capita for everyone who attended the races and you have the case.

All this under the auspices of the American Jockey Club, a great many of whose members were large stock holders in the racing associations.

The natural result was the gradual deterioration of the American Thoroughbred until today one that can race a mile and a quarter is considered a good stayer.

This is not the fault of the horse, nor of the American breeder, although the majority of them seem to be breeding for quantity rather than quality, but the responsibility rests on those who conducted the race meetings and made the conditions of the races. Let them cut out a lot of the two-year-old and sp int races, and in their place substitute races similar in value and distance to the Derby, the Oaks, the Grand Prix, the St. Leger, the Ascot Gold Cup, the Eclipse, Princess of Wales and Jockey Club Stakes for three-year-olds, three-year-olds and upward, and in a few years the American Thoroughbred will no longer be a joke and will be eligible to registration in foreign Stud Books. There is not a stallion in this country, with the possible exception of the Ben Brush—Broomstick line, to which an owner could breed a mare with a reasonable hope of getting a horse that could stay a mile and a half. During the past six or eight years we have exported to foreign countries at least a thousand American-bred yearlings, none of which have held their own over any distance of ground except Whisk Broom, and he was regarded as a sprinter abroad. When he returned to his native land he gave chunks of weight and several beatings to our best horses. These are cold facts, and it behooves us to look at them as they are and not as we would have them be.

Let the racing associations frame some races, as to money value, distance, age, etc., along the lines of the European classics, and by so doing they will give our breeders an incentive to breed real race horses. By trying to breed horses to race a mile and a half and upwards, we will then produce enough sprinters to take care of the short races, and the ones that show their ability to take up weight and go on will have some value when retired to the stud.

So long as the major portion of the money is added to races of six furlongs, just so long will the American Thoroughbred be what he is today, and the claim of any association to give a meeting with such condition "for the improvement of the breed of horses" becomes as sounding brass.

NECROLOGY OF THE TURF IN THE YEAR 1915.

Death gathered his customary toll in 1915 from the ranks of those who make the turf a successful institution. Among those who veiled their faces and went away were Thomas H. IMPORTANT OKLAHOMA COURT DECISION.

At Oklahoma City last Tuesday the Supreme court of the State of Oklahoma decided that the stringent anti-gambling and anti-race track betting laws enacted by the 1913 legislature were inoperative on the ground that no sample ballots or pamphlets containing arguments for and against the adoption of the laws were printed and distributed among the voters, as prescribed by law.

THOROUGHBREDS WHICH DIED IN 1915.

Quite the most eminent American horse claimed by death in the year 1915 was the celebrated racer and stallion, Hamburg. Just as Hanover was Hindoo's best son, he was Hanover's best son. Some of his feats in racing are subjects of discussion and inquiry to this day, as, for instance, when he carried 135 pounds and won the Great Eastern Handicap of three-quarters of a mile straight at Sheepshead Bay and beat thirteen good opponents easily in 1:10 1-5. He was a successful sire. One of his best daughters, the great race mare, Hamburg Belle, was also among those called away. She was the Futurity winner of 1903. Horses of importance recently in active racing which also passed on were High Private, Rudolfo, Princess Callaway, Meeting House, Little Father and the three Joes, Joe Deibold, Joe Morris and Joe Stein. Of these High Private was best as a race horse and in his highest estate was quite competent to cope successfully with the best of his time. In Abe Frank, another good son of Hanover died. Better placed in respect to access to high-class broodmares, he would probably have attained a great name as a sire. The successful sire Mazagan was a premature loss. In fact to all appearances he, Abe Frank and Hamburg all had years of usefulness due them when suddenly made victims of the unerring aim of the unsparing archer. The horses departing for good in the course of the year were:

Coy Lad has been bred to a few mares, having two good sized colts and one filly, now yearlings.

"If I were given my choice of two stallions, one which had distinguished himself over long distances and had the reputation of being a stayer rather than a speedy sort, and another which has shown equally smart form over a mile, I think I should prefer the latter."—Country Gentleman, London.

He afterwards won Whitesuntide Plate, Houghton Handicap, Newmarket Biennial Stakes 1½ miles, Newbury Spring Cup twice and was beaten, 119 lbs. up a short head for the rich Kempton Jubilee Handicap, 1½ miles 2:02 4-5, giving the winner Diadumenos 9 lbs.

Wrack's second dam, Chelandry, won the One Thousand Guineas in 1897, and is not only dam of the Two Thousand Guiness winner, Neil Gow, and of Traquair; she is also half-sister to Gas, by Ayrshire whose son Cicero won the Derby, and to Ladas, winner of the Derby. This is, of course, the famous Paraffin family, which includes Glare (a grand-daughter of Paraffin) by Ayrshire dam of Flair (sold for 12,000 guineas and winner of the Middle Park Plate and One Thousand Guineas), Lady Lightfoot (dam of Prince Palatine winner of the St. Leger, and sold for £40,000) Lesbia (winner of the Middle Park Plate and sold for 9,000 guineas), Vivid (is good winner and sold for 7,600 guineas), Menda (sold as a two-year-old for 5,600 guineas, and dam of Rossendale) winner in 1915 of £4,371.

THE AMERICAN THOROUGHBRED OF TODAY.

What Mr. R. J. Hancock, Jr., says (in your issue of January 15) about the performances of American horses in England is misleading. He writes as though we had sent no stayers to England since the days of Parole, Iroquois and Foxhall. Now, as I sold the horses which I am going to mention, I feel that I am justified in calling attention to the fact that Kilmarnock, which was not the best of his year in this country, won for the late Mr. W. C. Whitney, who purchased him from me, the longest flat-race in England, namely the Alexandra Plate at Ascot, three miles, and this performance was all the more remarkable from the standpoint of stamina because the son of Sir Dixon had only the day before run that great horse Santoi to a length for the Ascot Gold Cup, the greatest weight-for-age race in England, two miles and a half. In addition to this, Kilmarnock went to France the same autumn and won the $20,000 Prix du Conseil Municipal, one mile and a half, beating the best horses in France, including La Camargo, while Merry Gal and several other English horses were unplaced.

David Garrick, sold by me to the late Mr. Pierre Lorillard, won the Chester Cup, two miles and a quarter, and the son of Hanover thus confirmed the staying form which he had previously shown in this country when he won the Annual Champion, also two miles and a quarter. Neither Kilmarnock nor David Garrick was from the male line which Mr. Hancock cites as the only one qualified to get stayers, and the lines which produced Kilmarnock and David Garrick are still available.

Another performance which should be remembered was the victory of Cap and Bells in the English Oaks. Her sire, Domino, has strains in his pedigree which bar him and his progeny from the English Stud Book, but his daughter won the Oaks (one mile and a half) in a canter from the best English fillies. If an English filly had come to America and beaten us in that way, we would never hear the last of it.

American blood has proven no bar to classic success abroad. Mr. Duryea won the Derby of 1914 with a horse whose family is distinctively American and cannot be traced to the English Stud Book. Mr. Croker won two English classics (Orby's Derby and Rhodora's One Thousand Guineas) with the produce of a mare whose pedigree has strains which are now barred from the English Stud Book.

No one values English thoroughbred blood more than do the American breeders, but it must be remembered that the change of climate and change of mares have contributed to the success of many an imported stallion which might have failed in his own country. It must also be remembered that we have the same blood in this country that is in England, with the important advantage of larger and better fields to raise our stock.

Our American thoroughbreds today possess more speed and more stamina than in the days of the horses mentioned by Mr. Hancock. The pace tells the story. I expect to see the American thoroughbred hold his own the coming season, and when the racing of 1916 is over the American thoroughbred will be more appreciated than he is today.

Mr. Hancock appears to think that performances will make American blood-lines eligible to the English Stud Book. This is "a joke." Some American thoroughbred strains are now no more eligible to the English Stud Book than the Hancock and Madden family trees are to Burke's Peerage.

JOHN E. MADDEN.

TRANSVAAL.

Mr. A. J. Gorey announces the services of Transvaal for 1916 at Mr. S. K. Nichols' farm, near Hutchison Station, Bourbon County, Ky., about twelve miles north of Lexington and five miles south of Paris, at the very reasonable fee of $100.

Transvaal (winner of the Manhattan and Maiden Stakes, etc.) is a bay horse, foaled 1905, by Commando (sire of Colin, Peter Pan, Celt, Superman, Peter Quince, etc.), dam Royal Rose (dam of Pennant, winner of the Coney Island Futurity; Iron Mask, stake winner in America and England and holder of the American record for five and a half furlongs of 1:03 2 5, also the six furlong record of 1:09 3-5; Cherokee Rose, stake winner in England; Lancastrian, stake winner, also the winners Charivari, Regal and Tudor King), by Royal Hampton. Four successive winners of the Coney Island Futurity come from the female line of Transvaal, and, as they were by four different sires, the credit should be given this remarkable branch of the No. 8 family, which has produced such turf stars as St. Serf, Ayrshire, Melton, (sire of Sysonby), Newminster, the immortal Beeswing and all her priceless descendants, Humphrey Clinker, Orville, Parlowitz and those landmarks of the English Stud Book, Pewet and Evelina. The No. 8 line is one of the most valuable sire families in the English Stud Book.

Commando, Transvaal's sire, was the winner of a great many stakes, and considered one of the fastest horses seen on the turf in many years, winning $58,196, and in 1907 he was the premier sire, his get winning $270,345. Commando is by Domino, one of the fastest horses ever seen on the American turf, and the largest winner, having won $193,550.

Transvaal is the sire of the stake winners Blackie Daw (winner of Cincinnati Trophy), Resign, Little Bit, Balko and the winners Transit, Transportation, Kewpie, Brown Velvet, Transact, Uncle Will, Mrs. Slade Carr, Captain Heck, Old Jordan, Little Bigger, Transport, San Jon, Lady Bountiful, Mabel Dulweber, Burwood, Veldt, Miss Kruter, Anna Kruter, Lenavaal, Alesa B, King Gorin, Shepherdess, Dixie Jackson, etc

Transvaal had only ten two-year-olds to start last year, seven of them won twenty races and $16,000, his son, Blackie Daw, being the largest two-year-old money winner on the Kentucky circuit, winning during the year nine races and $9,744.

For the past three seasons Transvaal's book has filled. He has twenty two-year-olds, twenty-four yearlings and covered forty-seven choice mares last season. Judging from the number of horses he will have racing next year it is predicted that, if he is not found the premier sire at the end of the season, he will be very near it. This prediction is based on the fact that up to date he has had only thirty-six of his get to face the barrier and twenty-seven of them have won 107 races and upwards of $60,000, with a chance of four of the remaining nine making good. If his numerous offspring keep up this per cent., he is bound to be well-up on the leading stallion list in 1917.

The following notice appears in the "English Racing Calendar":—"It is requested that any jockey of military age who intends to apply for a license to ride under the Rules of Racing will forward, with his application, a certificate to show that he has already joined His Majesty's Forces, has attested under the Group System, or has been rejected as unfit or ineligible."

CHILTON.

Mr. T. E. Plummer announces the services of Chilton to the public at $25 to insure mare in foal in THE RECORD this week.

Chilton is a bay horse, foaled 1899, by imp. Meddler, out of Castalia, by imp. Mortemer. Meddler, twice during his stud career in this country, came out at the head of the list, and besides Meddler has many other famous racehorses to his credit. As a racehorse he was undefeated, and is by the Derby winner, St. Gatien, out of Busybody, by the Two Thousand and St. Leger winner Petrarch, from Spinaway, herself a winner of the Oaks, by the Derby horse Macaroni, and so to Queen Bertha, by Kingston.

Castalia, Chilton's dam, won the Hollywood Handicap, Home Bred Produce Stakes, Ladies' Stakes, ran a dead-heat with Correction for a handicap sweepstakes, etc., and is the dam of Casette, John McC., Mohegan, Casdale, Castalian, Mimosa, Brookdale Nymph, Perseverance, Stony Brook, The Prophet, Wyandanch (sent to Argentine Republic), etc. She is a daughter of the mighty Frenchman, imp. Mortemer, whose performances over long courses, under almost welter weights, few can surpass, and whose daughters have proven their worth the world over.

Chilton's second dam is imp. Castagnette (dam of Casino, Maroon, Druidess, Cadence, Roby, Eonette, Castalea, Morice, etc.), by Marsyas; 3d dam Cachuca (a winner and dam of Donato, Cracovienne and Duvernay) by Voltigeur; 4th dam Ayaconora (dam of Cestus, Chattanooga, Misfortune and Sir Amyas), by Birdcatcher; 5th dam Pocahontas (dam of Stockwell, Rataplan, King Tom, etc.), by imp. Glencoe; 6th dam Marpessa (dam of Idas, Evenus, etc.) and so on to the 17th dam (dam of the two True Blues), by Byerby Turk. Pocahontas was one of the pillars of the English turf, her descendants being famous all over the globe. Host of winners all over the world have descended from the daughters of Pocahontas and Marpessa.

Chilton comes from Bruce Lowe family No. 3, perhaps the most valuable family in the Stud Book, because it possesses the dual qualities of both a running and sire line. Stockwell, Rataplan, King Tom, Knight of Kars, Knight of St. Patrick, Wellingtonia, Caractacus, imp. Rayon d'Or, Commant, Limestone Quicksilver, Sir Peter Teazle, Buzzard, Tramp Master Henry, Velocipede, The Saddler, Lanercost, Flatcatcher, Pyrrhus I., Von Tromp, The Flying Dutchman, Sir Hercules, Favonius, Galopin, American-bred Eclipse, etc., belong to his family.

For one reason or another the racing of 1915 in America has not been productive of the usual number of new time records. Only one new record has been made during the year, and that was when H. S. Newman's wonderful five year-old mare Pan Zareta ran five-eighths of a mile in 57 1 5 seconds in winning a race at Juarez, Mexico, February 10. The record which Pan Zareta's performance displaced was :58 and had been made by Tern's Trick as a three-year-old at Oakland, Cal., December 29, 1910, with an impost of 97 pounds. Pan Zareta carried the steadying impost of 120 pounds when she made the new mark. It is eminently fitting that some such distinction should have fallen to the lot of this remarkable daughter of Abe Frank, whose wonderfully consistent performances have been one of the outstanding features of recent American racing.

Two of the American records were equalled during the year, but both were at infrequently run distances. Leo Ray, a three-year-old, ran a mile and seventy yards in 1:42 at Latoris, Ky., June 9, carrying 100 pounds, which duplicated the best previous time for the distance standing jointly to the credit of Princess Callaway and Lovelie. The former's mark was made over the Latoria track, October 27, 1911, as a three-year-old, with 99½ pounds, and was equalled by Lovelie as a five-year-old at Fort Erie, Ontario, July 4, 1912, carrying 115 pounds. The other record that was equalled was that for one mile and forty yards, which has stood at 1:42 since Preen made it as a four-year-old at Kenilworth Park, Buffalo, N. Y., June 16, 1906, with 104 pounds. At the same track on June 29, 1907, carrying 114 pounds, Mr. Seagram's Main Chance, a four-year-old, duplicated Preen's time. Harry Shaw, Salvin's best recent representative on the turf, is entitled to share the honors at this distance with the two already named as a result of a meritorious performance at the Pimlico track in Maryland, November 9 last, with an impost of 104 pounds. Harry Shaw raced in the colors of O. W. Parry and is a four-year-old.

Sunlight, the two-year-old chestnut colt, son of Sundridge and Spectrum, bred in France by Clarence H. Mackay and purchased at his sale in New York on the night of December 23rd, by John H. Morris representing Kenneth Alexander of Woodford County, for $6,600, the highest price of a record-breaking sale, dropped dead at the Kentucky Association course Monday morning.

The colt was apparently in the best of health and condition when he left the barn and his improved appearance was commented upon most favorably by several horsemen at the track immediately before his death. In fact, W. J. Young, who was training the colt for Mr. Alexander, said he had never handled a horse that had shown more marked improvement than this youngster had since he came into his hands right after being shipped from New York. The colt had been jogged about a mile and a half when almost without warning death came. Dr. E. W. Hagyard was immediately sent for to hold a post-mortem examination and issued the following death statement: "Autopsy on remains of the chestnut colt imp. Sunlight by Sundridge—Spectrum, revealed that death was due to hypertrophy and dilation of the heart."

Fortunately for Mr. Alexander, Sunlight was insured shortly before leaving New York for $7,500 with Lloyds, London, and while he has sustained no monetary loss, the death of such a beautifully bred and promising horse is always a great loss not only to the owner but to the racing interests at large. "The Sundridges all run" has long since become an axiom on the English turf, and Sunstar (Two Thousand, Newmarket Stakes, Derby, etc.), Jest (One Thousand, Oaks, etc.), Sunder, Sunbright, White Star, Absurd, Sunflower II., Lady Josephine, Silver Tag (Cambridgeshire of 1915 with 115 pounds up, a great feat for a three-year-old filly), Argos (last year's Middle Park Plate) and Figare (July Stakes and probably the best English two-year-old colt of 1915) are but a few of the many Sundridges which have contributed to their sire's great fame. Sunlight's dam, Spectrum, was herself a distinguished performer, and the student will not require assurance that Sunlight was "bred to race," if ever a horse was.

* * *

The bloodstock interests in general and Senator Johnson N. Camden in particular suffered a severe loss when the faultlessly bred imported mare, Baronne, purchased by him during the recent December sales in England at a cost of 760 guineas or about $3,800, was found dead in her stall Wednesday morning at Hartland Stud. The mare was apparently in perfect health the night before and her death is attributed to heart failure.

Baronne, bay mare, foaled 1906, a winner and already the dam of a winner in Sunbar, was by Melton (winner of the Derby, St. Leger, etc., and sire of many high-class horses, among them the late James R. Keene's great racehorse, Sysonby) out of Baroness La Fleche (winner of the Acorn Stakes and dam of Forest Lassie) by Ladas (winner of the Derby, Two Thousand Guineas, etc.). Next dam the peerless La Fleche (winner of the One Thousand Guineas, Oaks, St. Leger, Ascot Gold Cup, Cambridgeshire and second in the Derby) by St. Simon out of Quiver (also dam of Memoir—winner of the Oaks, St. Leger, Newmarket Stakes and six other races—and Maid Marian—the dam of Polymelus) by Toxophilite.

Baronne was in foal to Valens and Senator Camden most naturally considered her one of the greatest mares in the world.

The brilliant performances of Regret and Thunderer have started a hunt for other members of this remarkable racing family all over the world. Meddling Daisy, a twelve-year-old daughter of Meddler and Daisy F., has just been discovered in Germany and purchased there by H. Ahrens for Phillip Chinn, to be delivered after the war. Daisy F. is the dam of Jersey Lightning (dam of Regret and Thunderer), and is out of Modesty, the only filly that ever won the American Derby. Regret is the only filly that has won the Kentucky Derby. Meddling Daisy was exported in 1912.

RACING BABY THOROUGHBREDS.

[New York Rider & Driver, Jan. 15].

No recent act of the Jockey Club and the Racing Associations has been more commendable than their decision to extend the dates for the beginning of two-year-old races. Apropos of the subject we append a chapter from "The American Thoroughbred," an admirable book for horsemen to read, published in 1905 by Thomas B. Merry, who was then 70 years of age and spoke from the wisdom of matured experience:

Two-Year-Old Racing.

"This I can honestly call the curse of the American turf. If there be no legislation to stop it, the character and quality of the American thoroughbred is bound to deteriorate before long. Men say:

"'Oh, you're a pessimist. Our horses make better time than ever they did. You have seen Lexington's time equalled by a third-class horse and beaten four seconds by horses that were never first class for an hour of their liver. The mile record, on a circular track, is now 6½ seconds faster than it was in 1857 and the two-mile record 7 seconds faster. And yet you talk of deterioration.'

"My answer to this is, first, that the time test was never an infallible one. It is a merely good as a side issue, like the Bruce Lowe system in breeding. Second, the tracks are now much faster * * * than they were forty years ago. Third, training is progressive and the ablest trainers we have, with one or two exceptions, are men less than forty years old. The least success achieved since 1800 has been by men of the longest experience. All these things have contributed to bring about the lowering of records.

"Now go back to 1840 and thereabouts. We had scarcely any two-year-old racing at that period; and Clara Fisher, by Kosciusko, was the only horse up to that time to start in eight racer, six of which she won. Boston was not trained till the fall of his three-year-old form and what did he do? He won forty races in forty-five starts of which thirty were at four-mile heats. Not only that but his thirty races at four miles will bear a still stronger analysis. In four of his races he had to run four heats, sixteen miles in all, making sixty-four miles in all; and in five others he had to run three heats, making a total of sixty miles, so that he had to go one hundred and twenty-four miles, to win nine races. Nor was Boston alone in this great quality of endurance. Long before the great Boston was foaled, Black Maria had won a four-mile heat race in which she and Lady Relief ran twenty miles (five heats) before the race could be decided. And after Boston's retirement, Charmer (by Glencoe) galloped over a fifth heat, nothing starting against her. So if anyone tells you that there has been but one twenty-mile race run, bet them all you can lift. For while Charmer won the fourth heat, making sixteen miles, that did not decide the race and she was obliged to strip for another heat. The mere fact that no other horse started against her in the fifty heat, would not invalidate the bet.

"There are no Bostons nor Charmers nowadays. We have, in their stead, a growth of big and heavy horses bred solely for speed and not expected to go a distance. If men would only start their undersized two-year-olds and keep the big fellows over till the next year, the racing of these youngsters would be less reprehensible. I don't care how many six-furlong races they run * * * with old and worn-out geldings that ought to be hauling laundry wagons and bread carts * * * But I do utter my feeble protest against taking up big two-year-olds and racing them in January or February. I can now see no real good in it and I hope I never shall.

"Go over to Australia and you find that Grand Flaneur was never beaten but you are also informed that he was not trained at two years old. Then take Chester, by the same sire. He started forty-one times, won nineteen and was only four times outside the money. He started three times at two years old, winning twice. Then take Melos, which won the Sydney Derby and the Champion race of 1900. He was not trained at two. In a race of one mile, either Carbine, or Abercorn could beat him six lengths but at three miles he could bring either of them to the whip. Melos was not trained at two, Carbine started four times and Abercorn five times at that age. The day that Bravo (by Grand Flaneur) won the Melbourne Cup I was coming down the stairs after the race and two old gentlemen were talking about it behind me. One of them said: 'Bravo's a good 'orse, especially when you consider 'ow 'ard he was raced at two years.'

"'Pardon the interruption,' I asked, 'but how often did they start him?

"'Eight times, sir.'

"'They wouldn't think much of that in America,' I said. 'Why I know of lots of horses that have started twenty times and I know of one named Woodcutter that raced forty-two times last year.'

"'Well, I don't like to be rude to Americans,' said the elderly gentleman, 'but I must say you don't deserve to have a good horse in the whole of your blasted country.'

"So far from getting angry at him I shook his hand warmly and told him he was a man after my heart. They had but one big two-year-old event in all the broad expanse of that country—the Maribyrnong Plate. It has been run since 1868 and Newminster (by The Marquis) is the only winner of it that ever achieved any subsequent greatness.

"What I want to see is an act of the legislature to prevent any and all racing of two-year-olds in any one year, before the first day of June. After that make it with distances as follows:

"June, 4½ furlongs, July, 5 furlongs, August, 6 furlongs, September, 6½ furlongs, October, 7 furlongs, November, 7½ and December, 1 mile, provided that each track must give at least one race in each week at the distance above named and but one at the June or July distance in each month. In this way the crowding of big colts during the early spring may be easily avoided.

"In this matter I am disputed by Mr. James W. Brooks, manager of the Ascot Park track, who says:

"'You talk about two-year-olds being injured by early racing on public tracks for money. I tell you it is the lesser of two evils. Have them barred from racing during the forepart of the season and their owners will be racing them at home on bad tracks with riders who cannot ride a little bit and with from ten to fifteen pounds more weight than they could carry on a regular race track. Every man that breeds horses likes to see them run; and if he cannot race them at the public tracks for money, he will race them at home and for fun.'

"There is a great deal of truth in what Mr. Brooks says and I admit that it is a question to which there are plainly two sides. At the same time I could wish that some man had ingenuity enough to devise some way in which this cruel using up of good colts and fillies could be averted. Australia has the right way of handling this vexatious proposition. She gives rich handicaps for horses of mature age and almost nothing for two-year-olds; in consequence many of their best youngsters are barely broken to ride at that age and frequently not trained until the fall they are three. Panic was imported from England as a yearling and never was trained until he was six, when he went out and won the Champion race, three miles, with 134 lbs. on him."

HORSE RACING EL DORADO IN SOUTHERN HEMISPHERE.

With horse racing in England confined to Newmarket and a few minor courses and with the leading American tracks handicapped by hostile legislation, the headquarters of the turf world in 1915 were shifted to the Southern Hemisphere, if we are to gauge the importance of events by the amount of money involved, according to the custom of the day. No horse in England or America won as much money last year as was earned by Patrobas in Australia, and no sire in this country or Europe could be compared with those of South America in the amount earned by their offspring in races. To many horsemen who are accustomed to keeping in touch with racing in this country and England but who hear little about it in the progressive commonwealths south of the equator the news will come with surprise akin to a shock that the earnings credited to the get of one sire in the Argentine Republic last year were about as much as to that of the leading English sire and the leading American sire combined. Several South American sires, in fact, outranked any in the United States or England and doubtless any in Australia. Following is a list of the three leading sires in each country, with the total amount won by the offspring of each in the campaign in 1915:—

Argentine Republic.

Diamond Jubilee, by St. Simon	$167,711
Old Man	129,000
Cyllene, by Bona Vista	105,823

United States.

Broomstick, by Ben Brush	93,937
Star Shoot, by Isinglass	87 083
Ogden, by Kilwarlin	84,866

England.

Polymelus, by Cyllene	88 690
Dark Ronald, by Bay Ronald	61,215
Sundridge, by Amphion	52,455

In this little table there is something more than the mere weight of money for British and American turfmen to think about. It is significant, in the first place, that the leading sire of the year and of the last two years in England is a son of the horse that ranks third among winning sires in the Argentine Republic. When the South Americans paid something like $150,000 for Cyllene they drew a capital prize in the lottery of horse breeding. He led the list of winning sires in England two years in succession, with $190,000 credited to his offspring in 1909. This is said to be the largest sum ever won by the get of one horse in one season. Cyllene is likewise the only horse in a century that got four winners of the Epsom Derby in eight years. Cyllene himself did not start in either the Derby or the St. Leger, but he won the Ascot Gold Cup, two miles and a half, in commanding style, and was classed with Flying Fox as a racehorse. His sire, Bona Vista, was a son of Bend Or, sire of Ormonde, the grandsire of Flying Fox.

Diamond Jubilee, the Argentine stallion that stands at the head of all sires in the world for the year just ended, is another great horse lost to England through his sale to the South Americans for $150,000. He is the only son of the great St. Simon that ever won the Derby, St. Leger and Two Thousand Guineas. It is worthy of note that five of the ten were sold for export, as were the last four horses that won both the Derby and the St. Leger. Also noteworthy as showing the constant drain of England's best blood stock is the fact that Sundridge, third on the list of her winning sires last year, is now in France.

That Argentine turfmen should have paid an average of $150,000 each for four English thoroughbreds is evidence of the scale on which racing is conducted in the South American republic. It is said to be the favorite sport of all classes in the city of Buenos Ayres, where the turf interests of the country are centered. The racetrack there is a monopoly of the Jockey Club, which probably has the largest income of any organization of its kind in the world. Its several hundred members pay initiation fees of about $2,000 each, with annual dues of $700, and then the club takes the gate receipts from an attendance of nearly one million persons annually. But that is not all. Of the $25,000,000 or more wagered in the mutuel pools each year ten per cent. is first deducted for charity, then ten per cent. for the Jockey Club, the remaining eighty per cent. being divided among the winning bettors. This remarkable statement is vouched for by Nevin O. Winter in "Argentina and Her People of To-Day." Writing in 1911, he said the Jockey Club then had so much money that after giving away more than $200,000 a year it had voted on a proposition to spend $7,000,000 of its surplus in constructing a beautiful boulevard as a present to the city. All these figures are reduced to the basis of United States money, the Argentine dollar being worth only about forty-three cents in gold.

Lest some of our downtrodden American turfmen be tempted to pack up their bank-rolls and start for this El Dorado of the racing world it should be stated that carpet baggers cannot become members of the Jockey Club. That privilege, like the privilege of holding office, is reserved for the native sons of the South American republic. Hyphenated Argentinians are thus hobbled.

VOTING ON WHETHER TO RACE OR NOT.

Hot Springs, Ark., January 15.—Many elections have been held in this city, but there is one being conducted this week that has attracted more attention among the business interests of the Arkansas Spa than any other contest of its kind. The election is being held by the Business Men's League. The result will be either good or bad news to local business interests. Likewise, too, it will be of decided interest to the sporting fraternity all over the country, for it will determine whether or not Hot Springs will have a thirty days' race meeting here, which, it is hoped, will start on either March 10 or St. Patrick's Day.

About two weeks ago President Gus Strauss, of the League, went to St. Louis, where he held a conference with Louis Cella, owner of the Oaklawn track. He explained to Mr. Cella the desires of the business element of the city and asked if the League would hold a meeting under its auspices, guaranteeing the purses, whether the League could have the use of the Oaklawn track. These grounds surpass anything of the kind in the South. The grandstand has a seating capacity for 5,000 persons. That structure can be steam-heated throughout. Mr. Cella replied that he had always cooperated in every way with the Business Men's League and could see no reason why he should not do so in this instance; that if the League gave that race meeting under its auspices, he would be glad to allow them to use the track and assist the organization in other ways.

Immediately upon his return to the city, President Strauss took the matter up with the Board of Governors of the League, with the result that they decided to get an expression from every member of the organization on this question. Post cards, with a return vote for or against racing, were sent. A vote in the affirmative signified that the one casting the ballot for racing not alone favored a return of "the sport of kings" to this resort, but would also give a movement of this nature his "unqualified support." In other words, it put every man in the League on record. No announcement as to the result of this ballot will be made until early next week, yet there are already intimations that a great victory has been won in favor of racing, and the ensuing week is expected to bring forth an announcement to the effect that the Business Men's League will go ahead with their arrangements for a thirty days' meeting on the Oaklawn track.

The preliminary announcement to this effect has attracted a great deal of attention in other cities. This is especially true of New Orleans. It is understood that owners of horses now running on the New Orleans track have signified their intention of bringing their stables to this city, provided the League guarantees the purses. Much of the patronage that is now there is also expected to come to Hot Springs. From other cities in the country assurance has also come that other horses will be here in the event that this project is carried out. The promoters do not anticipate "cleaning up," but they desire to demonstrate to the satisfaction of all that racing in Hot Springs will materially increase the commercial patronage and bring prosperity.

Rosey, ch f, 2, by Frontenac—Rosefinch, won the Premier Stakes, six furlongs, at the Trinidad Turf Club December Meeting, by half a length from Mallet, b f, 2, by Hurst Park—Prophetess. Chic, ch f, 2, by Hastings—Ruby Ray, was third.

In the Premier Handicap, five furlongs, Chic finished first, Mallet second and Rosey third. Chic also finished second in the Club Handicap, six furlongs. Rosey finished second in the New Year Handicap.

Ringling terminated her racing career this week. She was bought by J. Marrone from E. Wayland and will be shipped shortly to serve as a broodmare.

POWERS-HUNTER CO.'S SALE.

New York, January 20.—Seventeen two-year-olds from the Haras de Villers in France, were sold by auction at Durland's Riding Academy tonight for $9,925, an average of $583. The youngsters were fashionably bred colts and fillies by Rock Sand, Flint Rock, Ethelbert and Negofol, but they were in poor condition and under size, showing plainly the effects of scanty fare in the war zone, where they were raised.

R. J. Walden, a well-known public trainer, bought eight of them at prices running from $200 to $1 200. The highest price, $1,250, was paid by W. L. Oliver, for a filly called Vantage, by Rock Sand out of Golden View, by Hastings. She was thus a sister to Rock View, winner of the Withers, Belmont, Travers, Lawrence Realization, Brooklyn Derby and other important stakes.

August Belmont paid $800 for Bright Eyes, a brown filly not much larger than a well grown weanling, by Ethelbert—Qu'elle est Belle, winner of the French Oaks and a daughter of Rock Sand.

Among those sold were:

Sorcerer, ch c, by Ethelbert—Half Sovereign, by Hastings; R. J. Walden	$1,100
Thorn Bloom, b or br c, by Flint Rock—White Thorn, by Nasturtium; R. J. Walden	1,200
Sandale, ch f, by Ethelbert—Sandwich by Rock Sand; F. W. Seuing	475

Following the example of the Jockey Club in extending the time for the beginning of two-year-old races, the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association most commendably decided last week that three-year-olds shall not start in jumping races before the 1st of August each year instead of beginning on the 1st of May as formerly. This amendment of the rules was proposed by Mr. J. E. Davis, formerly M. F. H. Meadow Brook Hunt and was unanimously approved. At the same meeting the following were elected officers of the Association:

President, August Belmont; vice-president, H. S. Page; secretary and treasurer, Henry W. Bull; Secretary Hunts Committee, Frank J. Byran; stewards, to serve until 1919, Henry J. Morris, Henry Bull and Joseph E. Widener. Howard H. Henry was elected to membership.

The race for the King Emperor's Cup was won by Bachelor's Wedding in the record time of 1:39 4-5 at Calcutta on Dec. 24. Evett was second and St. Andrew's third.

Bachelor's Wedding is Irish-bred, and was formerly owned by Sir William Nelson. He was highly esteemed at one time, and was fancied for the classic events of 1913, in which, however, he ran moderately, but he managed to win the Irish Derby. Subsequently he was sent to India, and last year carried off the Viceroy's Cup. He is a chestnut horse, foaled in 1910, by Tredennis—Lady Bawn (a twin), by Le Noir.

The leading two-year-old in New Zealand last season was Desert Gold. This year she has again asserted her superiority over those of her own age, as she won the Derby at the New Zealand Cup meeting and followed that success by defeating Warstep over a mile and a quarter at weight-for-age in the Stead Memorial Cup. She must be a really good filly to defeat Warstep at weight-for-age, and some of the New Zealanders who were over in Australia for the Melbourne Cup meeting, seem to think she is the best three-year-old in Australasia. Desert Gold is by the imported horse All Black, son of Gallinule, from a mare by Malster.

The produce of Wallace, Carbine's best son in Australia, has been extremely successful in the Victoria Derby, having now won it six times. They are F. J. A. (1903), Lady Wallace (1905), Mountain King (1907), Wilari (1911), Wolawa (1912), and Patrobas (1915).

The Jay, b c, 1911, by Goldfinch—Clara J., won the November Handicap, £200, 1¼ miles, at Durban, South Africa, on November 27, 1915. The Jay was bred by the late James B. Haggin.

FRANK J. GOULD'S RACING STABLE.

[From the European Edition of the New York Herald]

"If you would like to see something stylish in horse-flesh," said Mr. Percy Lynham, Mr. Frank J. Gould's private trainer, to a Herald reporter a few days ago, "then jump into the 10:30 train for Maisons-Laffitte. I'll meet you with the trap at the station, you shall see the first produce of Combourg and Peter Pan. I'll give you a real English breakfast and then put you in the train again."

So tempting an invitation was not to be refused, and thus it was that the proposed programme was carried out to the letter.

Maisons-Laffitte in ordinary times, even in winter, is, thanks to the racing establishments, one of the most lively resorts around the capital. Now, owing to the war it is the "abomination of desolations." Scarcely a soul in the streets, many shops closed, and were it not for the military element—for there is a regiment quartered in the town—one might think one's self at the "other end of nowhere."

Mr. Frank Jay Gould's property, purchased a few years ago, is situated at the extreme end of the famous park, about two kilometres from the station and within almost a stone's throw from the race course gates.

Standing in the center of the spacious grounds and surrounded by conservatories, an orchid house, piscine, electric power house, tennis court and pavilion is the American sportsman's summer residence, which, however, has been uninhabited since the beginning of the war. Indeed, when the Germans were approaching Paris, the whole place, by order of the military authorities, had to be evacuated, and had fighting commenced all the buildings, including the trainer's house and racing stables, which are in close proximity, probably would have been razed to the ground, as it appears that they are in a direct line with the Paris forts. Fortunately, they have been spared.

Everything is "up to date," and the racing stable, with the lads' sleeping quarters about it, is perfection.

It was in the spacious courtyard that the writer was landed and no time was lost in inspecting the youngsters.

Vinbourg is the name of the first of Combourg's progeny to come into training and is out of Vincenette, one of the few mares that Mr. Gould's erstwhile grand racer covered in his first season. He is much like his sire both in color and conformation, and is a really first-class colt. Vincenette, his dam, is a full sister to M. E. Veil-Picard's young stallion Val Suzon, the sire of Nuageux—recently purchased at Cheri's sale by Mr. T. P. Thorne. It seems a pity that breeders are not taking more advantage of such a promising young stallion as Combourg, which was himself a first-class horse and is one of the few remaining sons of Bay Ronald in France, or, in fact one might say living.

Vinbourg is, as already said, a beautiful yearling, and Mr. Lynham would be only too pleased to show him to those whom he might interest.

Mr. Lynham should have kept "the best wine until the last," for the Peter Pan yearlings, though extremely nice animals, have not the racing stamp of the Combourg youngster.

Peter Pan, it will be remembered, was the late James R. Keene's old favorite, and Defiance is one of his first progeny. She is out of the famous sprinter Jarretiere, and is her first foal. She shows much of her sire and dam's points, is perhaps a little small, but full of quality.

"It is unfortunate," remarked Mr. Lynham, "that Mr. Keene died when he did, as otherwise he possibly would have taken a closer interest in French racing and would have sent over some of his best mares. But as it is Peter Pan had to leave France soon after his first season here, and this was a great loss to breeders. Defiance is the produce of one of the few mares that he covered in France.

Another nice filly by Peter Pan is Pour Peter, her dam being Pour Sur. This cross should prove a success, as by her dam she has Perth blood in her veins, this being almost a guarantee of speed and staying qualities.

Among the other racers which were shown the writer was the three year-old filly Aragoness, by Ultimus and Biturica, the latter being the dam of the unbeaten Masketeer, now owned by Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt, and bought, as was Biturica, in foal to Ultimus, from the late James R. Keene. It will be interesting to see how she will succeed in being so inbred to Domino. At present she has, like her half-sister, the making and action of a first class filly.

The inspection over, an excellent and thoroughly English breakfast "en famille" followed, at which Mrs. Lynham proved a charming and entertaining hostess, and then—an route for the train.

Just as we were driving out of the grounds the writer caught sight of a real German police dog, "What, a 'boche' on the premises!" he exclaimed.

"Oh, he's all right," replied Mr. Lynham. "As soon as the war was declared he howled 'Kamerad!' and he's been 'doing his his bit' for the Allies ever since."

TWENTY LEADING SIRES IN AMERICA IN 1915.

The sons and daughters of Broomstick lacked $4,656 of placing as much money won to his credit as they did in 1914, but of more importance is the fact that they won sufficient to give him the premiership for the third year in succession says the Daily Racing Form.

This is a distinction gained by no other sire in this country since Hanover headed the sire list for the four years of 1895, 1896, 1897 and 1898. Star Shoot was Broomstick's closest competitor, just as he was in 1914, but the combined earnings of his progeny also fell off, to such an extent that Broomstick's excess of money was greater than it was in 1914. Ogden had some good representatives in the racing of 1915, the good colt, The Finn, doing his special credit as the leading money-winning three-year-old of the year. In consequence he finished third in the sire list and not far behind Star Shoot in the aggregate of money won by his progeny. In 1914 he had been fourth to Peep O'Day's third, but in 1915 the positions were reversed, Peep O'Day now finishing fourth, less than $2,000 in advance of McGee, with Hastings next. The customary changes in the list of twenty leading stallions involved the admission of Fair Play, Plaudit, Rock Sand, Hamburg, Transvaal, Waterboy, Bryn Mawr and Celt as newcomers, and the corresponding exclusion of Ben Brush, Cesarion, Knight Errant, Peter Quince, Aeronaut, Ultimus, Voter and Woolsthorpe. Some of these will come back. The changes made the native-bred division of the twenty leaders fourteen in number to six foreign-bred. Hamburg's return in the year of his death was due to the high-class racing of his son Borrow, and Rock Sand's because the great war abroad enforced the retention of his American-bred youngsters in the land of their birth.

The twenty leading sires of 1915, the number of their representatives in racing and the winnings of the latter are here given in interesting detail:

STALLIONS AT SILVER BROOK FARM.

Mr. W. F. Presgrave announces the stallions at Silver Brook Farm in The Record this week.

Garry Herrmann.

Garry Herrmann was intended by nature for a very high-class racehorse, and after a very brilliant career as a two-year-old, when he won eighteen races, went amiss early in his three-year-old career. He won the Hammond Stakes, Juvenile Stakes, Youngster Stakes, Champagne Stakes, etc.

Imp. Esher, his sire, was a capital winner, and is the sire of many high-class winners, among them Sunny Slope, Lady Schorr, His Excellency, Sharon, Bonadea, Theory, Van Antwerp, Reina (Brooklyn Handicap, etc.), Alcedo (Suburban, etc.), Judith Campbell, Judge Hines, Esherin, Mobarib, Benson Caldwell, etc. He was by Claremont (son of Blair Athol and Coimbra) and was a fine, big upstanding horse, with all the Blair Athol power and a degree of quality which he plainly inherited from the beautiful Wild Dayrell.

Silk Gown, his dam, also foaled the stake winner Cyrus, the good winner Little Grand and the producers Pert (dam of Pettigrew and Mountebank, a winner seven seasons), and Ting Yuen, dam of Peggy Mine and Japanese Maid.

Garry Herrmann is a grand, big individual, and his get are big. He has been wonderfully successful for his limited opportunity in the stud, having demonstrated that he can sire horses of class, as Governor Gray, Alfred Noble, Penaris, Monopolist, J. C. Core, Sunbeam, Garry C., County Tax, Spes Nostra, Shelby, Manager Mack, Garry, Guaranola, and others will attest.

Bryn Mawr.

Bryn Mawr is a bay horse, foaled 1901, by imported Atheling, out of Maggie Weir, by The Bard; 2d dam Sapphire, by Stratford; 3d dam Gem, by Macaroon, etc. He was a good racehorse, winning the Larchmont Stakes, Preakness Stakes, Broodway Stakes and Brooklyn Derby, and is the sire of Dalhousie, Cintrella, Aylmer, Belle Mawr, Brynary, Acton, Bwana Tumbo, Dr. Samuel, Shippegan, Fakir, Uncle Bryn, Amans, Gretchen R. (a two-year-old winner this year), etc.

Atheling (sire of any number of high-class horses) was by Sterling, dam by King Tom. Sterling won the Liverpool Cup and several other good races, but destiny reserved for him the honor of becoming a great sire. He sired a winner of the Grand Prix de Paris, three winners of the Two Thousand Guineas, one each of the Doncaster Cup and Cambridgeshire, and three of the Ascot Gold Cup, being the only horse since Camel, foaled in 1822, to achieve that distinction.

Bryn Mawr's dam was by The Bard, by Longfellow (the best horse of his day), out of Brademante, by War Dance, son of Lexington. It is a family celebrated for its deeds on the turf and in the stud.

Dalhousie.

Dalhousie, bay horse, foaled 1907, was a winner as a two and three-year-old. As a three-year-old he only started four times, winning three times and second once. He won the Windsor Hotel Cup, 1¼ miles, etc.

Dalhousie is by Bryn Mawr, out of Octavia (dam of Maru, Interlude, Chicarra, Tradpa, Brittanby, etc.), by imp. The Ill-Used; 2d dam imp. Fair Barbarian (sister to imp. Flirt and dam of Savage, Zenobia, Amazon, Mixer, Ten Spot, etc.), by Hermit; 3d dam Romping Girl (a winner and dam of imp. Flirt, Friar Tuck, Rampage, Lancaster, Redleuse, etc.), by Wild Dayrell, etc.

The oldest of Dalhousie's get were two-year-olds in 1915. He is the sire of Jane Straith, etc.

Lord Rock Sand.

Lord Rock Sand, bay horse, foaled 1912, met with an accident when a yearling and was never trained. He is by The Triple Crown winner Rock Sand (winner of $250,848 on the turf). Rock Sand was imported from England by Mr. August Belmont at a cost of $125,000, and he sold him in 1912 to a French syndicate for $140,000. His book was filled in France for three seasons in advance at $2,500. Tracery (winner of the St. Leger and $104,085 in England), a son of Rock Sand, stands in England at $2,000. American breeders can breed to Lord Rock Sand for $50.

ROCK VIEW.

There is no family in the Stud Book which has been more productive, in recent years, of great race horses, prolific broodmares and famous stallions, than has the Maid of Masham branch of the Old Vintner mare line, and the services of a most worthy son of this most worthy line, in Rock View, are now offered to the blood-stock breeders of the United States.

Rock View which has recently been acquired by the firm of Gallaher Bros., Carr & Piatt, is a product of Mr. August Belmont's Nursery Stud and is a brown six-year-old son of the Derby winner Rock Sand and Hastings' daughter Golden View, full sister to that good race horse and sire Fair Play.

Rock View carried off many of the best sweepstakes, during his racing career, and can be reckoned as quite the best three-year-old of his year and also as the best son of Rock Sand which has carried silk in this country.

In his juvenile days, Rock View won the Iroquois Hotel Stakes and Pimlico Nursery Stakes, but this was only a prelude of better things to follow. As a three-year-old, Rock View took part in seven races, won five of them, and but for bad luck should never have been beaten. To lead off with Rock View scored a fine victory in a handicap at Pimlico and followed this up by beating all comers for the Withers. He next won the Brooklyn Derby, 1½ miles, in most convincing style, and on July 4, after a lot of bad luck, at the outset of the race, won the Lawrence Realization, and on being shipped to Saratoga won the historic Travers Stakes cantering, conceding much poundage to the other competitors. As a four-year-old Rock View won the Metropolitan Handicap and must be classed as a first rate turf performer.

Rock View's sire Rock Sand, as honest a horse as ever earned distinction on the English turf, won the Two Thousand Guineas, Derby and St. Leger and later along the Jockey Club Stakes and was purchased by Mr. Belmont to stand at the head of his Nursery Stud, and there became the sire of that splendid race horse Tracery, which won the St. Leger and is one of the most popular young sires abroad.

It goes without saying that Rock Sand is a wonderfully well bred horse, of the Stockwell line, his sire Sainfoin having a blue riband to his credit and Rock Sand's dam Roquebrune, a flyer in her day, is a daughter of the only St. Simon out of St. Marguerite by Hermit, heroine of the One Thousand Guineas and full sister to the Oaks winner Thebais. This is indeed a wonderfully productive family and one built up on the solid foundation of Stockwell, Touchstone and Voltaire.

Sainfoin's sire, Springfield, was a mighty runner in his day and besides Sainfoin got imp. Pastorella, which foaled that unbeaten equine celebrity Colin. There is no speedier blood in the world and descendants of Rock Sand in the male line are certain to live up to their aristocratic lineage.

Golden View, Rock View's dam, is a daughter of Hastings and a more suitable mate for Rock Sand could not well have been selected for Mr. Belmont's winner of the Derby, whose pedigree perhaps discloses a superabundance of Eclipse blood. Hastings, however, is of Matchem descent by way of Spendthrift and Australian, and the fact of this Matchem blood being introduced so close to the surface practically assures for Rock View a successful stud career. Golden View is, moreover, a full sister to that beautiful golden chestnut horse Fair Play, himself a champion race horse, and now a successful sire, and well he may be for his dam, Fairy Gold, is the dam of seven winners including Golden Measure, a real good sort in England, and last season's two-year-old stake winner Friar Rock. Fairy Gold is an imported daughter of the Derby winner Bend Or, whose daughters have been uniformly successful in the stud, and the next dam is Dame Masham, also a great producer, by Galliard, son of Galopin and Mavis by Macaroni. Just to show what extreme merit this Galliard blood is on the dam's side of the house, it is well enough to remember that Elf, dam of the thrice crowned champion sire Broomstick, is a daughter of Lord Falmouth's Two Thousand Guineas winner of 1880. Moreover, this combination of Bend Or, Galopin and Macaroni blood has in the past been responsible for the production of such famous animals as Sceptre, Zinfandel and last season's triple crown winner Pommern.

Hermit blood is again introduced by way of Pauline and as a sire of great broodmares Mr. Chaplin's Derby winner has few equals and no superiors. In fact, a modern pedigree can hardly be considered complete without the appearance of Hermit's name. At the back of this comes Rapid Rhone, sire of Bonnie Doon, granddam of Watercress and Disguise, and Rapid Rhone was a son of Young Melbourne which set the ball rolling for the Maid of Masham house.

Nothing much better could be asked for in the way of a pedigree, and Rock View is so bred as to success on everything he may come in contact with.

Here are the names of a few of the famous horses which have come from this Maid of Masham line in the past few years: The Derby horse Cyllene is one of them, as are Peter, Timothy, Faraway, Land's End, Van Dieman's Land, Dismay, the ten thousand pounder Darley Dale, sire of John E. Madden's Pataud; Mrs. Delaney, Right Royal's dam; Queen Adelaide, Ada (One Thousand Guineas); La Sagesse, also a heroine of the Newmarket filly classic; Winkfield's Pride, a grand race horse and sire of the Grand Prix winner Finasseur; St. Damien, his brother St. Hilaire, sire of Pommern's dam, Son o' Mine; Soliman, Econen, winner of over $80,000 in France; the incomparable Sysonby, and the Hamburg Place premier imp. Star Shoot.

History repeats itself, and the success as sires which has attended the efforts of other members of this famous line is certain to be duplicated by the subject of this notice, and on account of his sterling race horse qualities, great individual merit and irreproachable pedigree Rock View well merits most liberal patronage on the part of the bloodstock breeders of the United States.

ARCITE.

W. J. Dowling, Owosso, Mich., announces the services of the stallion Arcite, by private contract, in this issue of The Record.

Arcite is a high-class stake winner of seventeen races and over $14,000, winning or being placed in nine stakes and finishing in the money thirty-four times. Fifteen of his wins were at distances of a mile or more and usually with good weight up. He possessed a very high turn of speed, going to the half handily in 47 seconds when winning at a mile or over.

Arcite was winter favorite for the Kentucky Derby of 1907 and his work for that race was sensational, turf journals conceding him the race. However, the bad condition of the track on Derby Day debarred him from starting, Mr. Long, his owner, not wishing to risk injury over a bad track on account of the colt's valuable stake engagements in the East.

Arcite's first win was at Coney Island where he defeated a field of fourteen classy two-year-olds, among them Montgomery, McCarter, Royal Breeze, Eddie Ware, J. C. Core, Marathon.

In the Flash Stakes, at Saratoga, 5½ furlongs, Arcite (117) ran third to Peter Pan (125) and Electioneer (117) Arcite being beaten a half-length and a head. Marathon, Golf Ball. Binonda, Rosemount, Alethenо, Flint Hill, and Hickory were unplaced. Time, 1:06 3 5.

In the United States Hotel Stakes, at Saratoga, six furlongs, Arcite (117) ran second to De Mund (122), with Vox Populi (112) third, and Paumonok, Don Enrique, Alethenо, Marathon, Prince Hampton, Lord Lovat, and Yankee Gun unplaced Time, 1:14, Arcite won the Autumn Stakes, at Coney Island, six furlongs (Futurity course), Arcite (112) first, Don Enrique (112) second, Horace E. (112) third, etc. Time 1:12.

In the Great Eastern Handicap, at Coney Island, six furlongs (Futurity Course), Arcite (122) ran third to Sewell (108) and Ballot (122). Arcite finishing fast from a slow beginning, was only beaten a half-length by Ballot for the place. Behind him came De Mund, McCarter, Dinna Ken, The Wrestler, Senator Clay, Fountainblue, Red River, and others. Time, 1:10 3-5.

In the Pocantico, at Belmont Park, one and one-sixteenth, Arcite took up 126 pounds and ran second to Zambesi (119), Dinna Ken third, etc. Time, 1:45.

In the Broakway Stakes, at Brooklyn, one and one-sixteenth miles, ran second to Montgomery, with Frank Gill third, and Hickory, Miniota, and Temaceo unplaced. Time, 1:46 4-5. Arcite ran out on the turn into the stretch when he appeared to have the race won.

In the Flight Stakes, at Coney Island, seven furlongs, Arcite (110), ran third to Baby Wolf (107), and Half Sovereign (105), with Brookdale Nymph and Roseben unplaced. Time, 1:26.

Arcite (116) won the Equality Stakes, at Sheepshead Bay, one mile, Prince Gal (110) second, Malthie (119) third, etc. Time, 1:39 1-5. Won by five lengths cantering.

In The Clark Handicap, Louisville, mile and a sixteenth, Arcite (112) ran second to Miami (103), with Huck (105) third. Behind them came Moquette, Zienap, Old Honesty, Royal Tourist, Dr. Barkley, Green Seal and Wool Sandals. Time, 1:45 1-5. Arcite set a terrific pace that resulted in a new track record for the distance.

At Lexington, Ky., Arcite took up 116 pounds and won at a mile and 20 yards in 1:40 4-5. The Thoroughbred Record said: "Arcite was under mild restraint all the way and ran within 1-5 of a second of the track record for a mile and 20 yards."

At Fort Erie, Ont., Arcite took up 114 pounds and won from a field of eight at 1⅛ miles in 1:52, at the same distance at Montreal in 1:52 4-5, and in 1:52 1-5 at Lexington.

Arcite is by imported Alvescot, winner of many English stakes and in this country is the sire of the Latonia Derby winner Free Lance, Ben Trovato, etc.

Alvescot is by Raeburn, a son of the unbeaten St. Simon, greatest sire of all time. Raeburn was sent to Australia at the close of his turf career and in that country became premier sire, getting among others of note, the celebrated Rascal, winner of $131,400.

Arcite's dam was the winner La Gascogne, third for Kentucky Oaks. La Gascogne is the dam of four winners and is by Gascon, a good stake winning son of the mighty racehorse and sire Falsetto, out of Molly Wood (28 wins), half-sister to Virgil, by Lexington. Second dam, Messmate, by Alarm, (sire of Himyar). Messmate is the dam of six winners including three stake winners. She is also the dam of a number of good producers. Third dam, Full Cry, by Vandal. Full Cry is the dam of three winners including that great stake animal Checkmate, (Saratoga Cup, etc. 49 wins and beat Hindoo). Fourth dam, Springbrook, by Lexington. This mare threw six good winners, in the lot a stake winner, and the dam of Brookwood, Chicago Derby and 19 wins.

Each of Arcite's first four dams have produced from one to three stake animals, in all twenty-three winners and many producers of winners. That the family is wonderfully consistent in the production of horses of class is proven. To the family trace that good horse Checkmate, (Saratoga Cup, etc., 49 wins), Ben Elder 25 wins (grand campaigner), Selika, (won Kentucky Oaks, etc.), First Mate (stake winner and good sire), etc.

Mr. Geo. J. Long, the successful breeder and turfman who bred and raced Arcite, recently wrote, "Arcite is a high-class horse and should do well in the stud if given an opportunity."

SALE OF FRENCH AND ENGLISH-BRED HORSES.

New York, January 21.—Seventeen two-year-olds from August Belmont's Haras de Villers farm in France went under the hammer at the Durland Riding Academy last night for a total of $9 925, an average of $583.

The prices obtained were away below those that were paid for the yearlings of Clarence H. Mackay that were sold in the same ring last month, but the colts and fillies still showed the effects of the long trip they had made across the Atlantic and of scanty fare in the war zone where they were raised.

The highest price, $1,250, was paid by John Sanford for a bay filly called Vantage, by Rock Sand, out of Golden View, by Hastings. She was thus a sister to Rock View, winner of the Withers, Belmont, Travers, Realization and other important stakes. August Belmont paid $800 for Bright Eyes, a brown filly not much larger than a well-grown weanling, by Ethelbert—Qu'elle est Belle, winner of the French Oaks and a daughter of Rock Sand.

R. W. Walden, a well-known public trainer, bought eight of them at prices ranging from $200 to $1 200.

For the most part they were a royally bred lot, and it is possible that they went at bargain prices, but they did not show to advantage and the sale was far below what was naturally expected after the wonderful success of the Mackay sale.

Following the sale of the Belmont bred two-year-olds there were six English-bred horses from the Langdon Hill Stud and consigned by Edward Johnson sold. Five of these were three-year-olds and the other a two-year-old, all being fillies. They went for small prices, only $850 being realized for the six.

As was the case at the Mackay sale there was a big attendance of representative horsemen at the ringside, and the interest that was taken in the sale spoke well for the interest that is had in the race season of 1916.

FUTURITY AN INTERNATIONAL RACE.

The Futurity of 1918 finally closed with a total of 651 nominations of mares, of which, for one reason and another, five were void, leaving the total at 646. This gratifying increase assures that the value of the big race will then be considerably greater than it has been of recent years.

Inspection of the nominations is fraught with interest. A striking feature is the nominations of mares mated with noted stallions now in stud service on the other side of the big water. They constitute a considerable proportion of the whole, being eighty-five mares which have been mated with forty-six of the most fashionable sires of the day in England and France. It is a fair presumption that the usual proportion of these mares will in due time bear foals, some of which may be depended upon to add to the normal interest always attaching to the decision of the race. The forty-six stallions and the number of mares in the Futurity with which they are mated, are the following:

Sire.	No. Mares.	Sire.	No. Mares.
Adam Bede	1	Meddler or Fitz Herbert	2
Aleppo	1	Myram	2
Bayardo	1	Negofol	1
Bonarosa	1	Primer	1
Bridge of Allan	1	Prince Palatine	1
Buckwheat	1	Polymelus	1
Cicero	3	Querido	1
Cocksure II	1	Rabelais	4
Coriander	1	Radium	1
Cylgad	1	Santry	1
Duke Michael	1	Spearmint	1
Feather Bed	1	St. Amant	4
Fits Herbert	15	Stedfast	2
Greenback	1	Sundridge	1
His Majesty	4	St. Victrix	1
Javelin	3	Swynford	1
John O'Gaunt	1	Tracery	3
Junior	1	Tullibardine	1
Land League	1	Valens	2
Light Brigade	1	Willonyx	4
Lonawand	1	Winstanley	1
Macdonald II.	4	Zria	1
Matchmaker	1
Meddler	1

This is really a remarkable list and gives the Futurity an international character for the first time in its history. The Epsom Derby winners involved are Cicero, St. Amant and Spearmint and the St. Leger winners are Bayardo, Prince Palatine, Swynford and Tracery. Negofol won the French Derby, Querido won the Prix du President De La Republique and Macdonald II. took the Prix du Conseil Municipal. In fact, there is not a horse in the list uncredited with great feats in his racing days. Our own Fitz Herbert has the greatest list of mares, but Fitz Herbert is now a Frenchman and legitimately included. Of the stallions Bonarosa, Cicero, His Majesty, John O'Gaunt, Macdonald II, Matchmaker, Meddler, Polymelus, Rabelais, Radium, Santry, Spearmint, St. Amant, Sundridge and St. Victrix are sires of established reputation. Nearly all of the others are young horses new to stud life, but representing the perfection of high-class breeding. Of the mares with which they were mated, twenty-two are American-bred.

Possessor of the most extensive breeding stud in North America and wisely enterprising in making nominations to stakes, it was to be expected that John E. Madden would lead in the number of entries. Of his 103 mares named thirty-two were mated with Star Shoot, twenty-eight with Ogden, twenty-two with Ormondale, twenty with Sir John Johnson and one with Ballot, representing a staunch adherence to his own Hamburg Place stallions. H. P. Whitney's representation of forty-eight mares goes to the other extreme in diversity of stallions, those represented being St. Victrix, Burgomaster, Cylgad, All Gold, Broomstick, Hamburg, Peter Pan, John O'Gaunt, Whisk Broom II., Spearmint, St. Amant, Bayardo, Tracery, Greenback, Polymelus, Willonyx, Macdonald II., Querido, Rabelais and Negofol, a total of twenty. Of these Broomstick leads with ten mares and All Gold is second with eight. Mr. Belmont's list of thirty-six mares does not embrace any mated with his great horse Tracery, which is represented in the Futurity by G. A. Cochran's expectant produce of his mating with Glass Jug. John Sanford's possibility from Philistia and H. P. Whitney's from Morningside. Of the Wickliffe Stable's entry of fifty-three mares, Colin was mated with twelve and Delhi with seven. Other sires represented from this big stud of the future are Ballot, Disguise, Hippodrome, Ultimus, Hurst Park, Sweep and the English horses Light Brigade, Santry, Javelin, Tullibardine and Assagai.

We give below a complete list, together with breeding, of the horses that will be trained by Gallaher Brothers this year, and the class already exhibited by those that have raced and the breeding and individuality of the two-year-olds, certainly presage a most successful season for this popular firm:

E. L. Davis, Rookwood Stud, Midway, Ky., sold this week to H. Price Headley, Beaumont Farm, the bay mare, Ferrol, by Himyar out of Madame Julie by Caesar. Ferrol was a good winner and is the dam of Fountainblue, Twilight Queen, Shooting Spray and Fellowman. Ferrol is with foal by Uncle and this doubtless induced Mr. Headley to purchase her, as Uncle's most brilliant success has been achieved with the Himyar mare, Ivory Bells, dam of the Derby winner Old Rosebud.

J. W. Parrish sent Bulse and the two-year-olds Midway, ch c, by Ballot out of Thirty-third, and Rosewood, ch f, by Magneto out of Rose Tree II., up from his farm near Midway this week to the Kentucky Association course. W. J. Young, who handled Bulse so successfully last year, will train these horses for Mr. Parrish.

Dr. C. Cann, of Louisville, one of the best known veterinarians in the State, has rented the veterinary hospital 127 East Short St., formerly occupied by Drs. Bryan & Coover, and has entered upon the practice of his profession here. For the past eleven years Dr. Cann has been located in Louisville, where in addition to attending to his practice he served the past five years as a race track official, being paddock judge at Butte, Mont., Juarez, Mex., and some of the Kentucky tracks.

Dr. Cann is well-known in this section, being a native of Elizabethtown. He practiced his profession for fifteen years at Georgetown before moving to Louisville.

Dr. Cann decided to locate here permanently upon the solicitation of some of Fayette County's most prominent horsemen.

J. C. Rodgers has sent his good Disguise colt Dr. Moore, half-brother to the Canadian Derby winner, Dr. Samuel, to the local track from his farm near Midway, and this horse will also be trained by W. J. Young. Dr. Moore has wintered wonderfully well and so good a judge as John H. Morris says he is as good an individual as a man need care to see.

EARLOCKER A DIRECTOR.

ALBANY, Jan. 24.—The Saratoga Racing Association has elected Secretary A. McL. Earlocker a director in recognition of his services to the organization in behalf of the thoroughbred sport during the last few years. The honor is a signal one, seldom attained by racing secretaries.

ENGLISH MARES FOR T. F. RYAN.

LONDON, ENGLAND, Jan. 24.—Five valuable thoroughbred mares have just left this port for New York, consigned to Thomas F. Ryan, for whom they were lately purchased here.

Among those now on the way to his Oak Ridge estate is the chestnut mare Amphoraria, by Amphion, sire of the great Sundridge. She is out of Spinningjenny, by Kendal, son of Bend Or, and sire of Galtee More. Amphoraria's first foal was a winner here. She is now in foal to Shogun.

Auspicious is another royally bred mare. She is a daughter of Gallinule, the sire of Pretty Polly, and two winners of the classic St. Leger. Astrology, the dam of Auspicious, was also the dam of the noted sire Star Shoot, now in America, and was by Hermit, a Derby winner and sire of two Derby winners. Auspicious has been bred to Coriander.

Red Ruff, another of the mares purchased by Mr. Ryan, is a six-year-old daughter of Collar, and is out of Red Virgin, by Gallinule. She is in foal to Duke Michael.

Court Holiday is a six-year-old bay, by Queen's Birthday, winner of the Doncaster Cup and sire of Santoi, the winner of the Ascot Gold Cup. This young mare is out of Risby, by Juggler, and is in foal to Bonarosa.

HERMAN B. DURYEA DIES IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, January 25.—Herman B. Duryea, who won the Epsom Derby of 1914 in England with Durbar II., died this morning at Saranac Lake, N. Y. Mr. Duryea had a violent attack of grippe in London in the early autumn of 1914, which left him in a thoroughly weak and run down condition. He returned to this country in November 1915, and never thoroughly recovered. Mr. Duryea was a member of the Jockey Club and frequently acted as deputy steward for that organization. He was also a member of the Union Club, the Meadow Brook Club, the Turf and Field Club, the Brook, Racquet, Tennis and other clubs, and various racing associations. He was one of the foremost all around sportsmen of America, his successes in yachting, shooting and other sports being pronounced.

Mr. Duryea became identified with the turf shortly before the death of the late William C. Whitney, when his first horses of reputation were Acefull, Whorler and Irish Lad. On the death of Mr. Whitney all his horses were leased to Mr. Duryea and raced in his name and colors during the year 1904 (Artful's Futurity year). After this Mr. Duryea raced his own horses on the American turf with marked success. He owned and raced such horses as Irish Lad, Ben Ban, McKittridge, Dreamer, Mediant and many others.

After the passage of legislation adverse to the interests of racing in America, Mr. Duryea shipped his stable to France and located a breeding and racing establishment there. He was one of the most successful American sportsmen who ever raced in foreign countries. He raced horses largely of his own breeding, including Sweeper II., winner of the Two Thousand Guineas and favorite for that year's Derby. Later on he won the Derby of 1914 with Durbar II., another of his own breeding. Besides these the famous horses raced in England and France included Mediant, winner of the Stewards' Cup at Goodwood; Banshee, winner of the French Thousand Guineas; Blarney, Frizzle, Hickory, Boyne, Shannon and many others.

Mr. Duryear's death will be keenly regretted in France and England, as well as in this country.

NEARLY UNANIMOUS FOR RACING.

HOT SPRINGS ARK., January 24.—Out of nearly 400 ballots cast by members of the Business Men's League to ascertain whether or not the membership of that organization desired a race meeting here beginning March 10, only thirteen votes were recorded against the project. The result was far more overwhelming in favor of racing than had been anticipated.

President Gus Strauss of the league, who had previously made arrangements with Louis A. Cella, owner of the Oaklawn track, for the use of that course in the event the league would undertake thirty days of racing, guaranteeing the purses, said that the expression received from the league members was almost unanimous and that there was nothing left for the officials of that organization to do but to complete arrangements already begun.

"The sentiment in favor of racing in Hot Springs is most pronounced," declared President Strauss. "This was manifested in the election of the league conducted last week, for we did not care to undertake this project unless we had the members of the league on record. By their vote in the affirmative they indicate they will give the project their unqualified support and that is what we desired. We shall continue with our arrangements for the meeting and hope to inaugurate thirty days of racing in Hot Springs on March 10. We feel that this entertainment will materially increase the patronage here and lengthen the season by a month or more."

Can Tracery be submitted as proof that all his excellence comes from Rock Sand. Was not his dam Toplary by Orme out of Plaisanterie, and was not the latter by Wellingtonia, which derived most of his merit from Araucaria (daughter of Pocahontas) and the dam of Camelia, winner of One Thousand Guineas (dead-heated in Oaks), while in view of the mark Glencoe has left in the history of the American thoroughbred it is permissible to argue that his daughter Pocahontas derived some of the merit from the sire that she passed on to her three famous sons Stockwell, Rataplan and King Tom.

Indeed, Pocahontas is a good proof of colts taking after the dam, in view of what Harkaway (sire of King Tom) appeared to be from the physical viewpoint, a powerful, coarse cart-horse as Chismon describes the Goodwood Cup winner, "with astounding action!" No doubt arguments for and against could be supplied with exceptions, but on the whole authorities are fairly agreed that there is a lot in the theory.—[Qrius in Daily Mail, Johannesburg, Africa.

THE TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR WINNERS IN 1915.

Of things out of the ordinary in the racing of 1915, perhaps the most important was the way in which the splendid and unbeaten filly Regret defied and smashed all traditions when she won the Kentucky Derby. Forty times before it had been run and fallen to colts and geldings, so that it had grown to be an article of faith and belief that none of her sex could win a Kentucky Derby. But this bonny filly from out of the East made short work of all such theories and of the band of good colts contesting for its honors. Whether Regret is to be raced in 1916 or retired to the seclusion of the paddock is known only to her owner. But in either event, it remains that to her belongs a distinction never before attained by one of her sex, says Daily Racing Form. She is unquestionably a first-class young mare and, for all anyone knows to the contrary, may have been entirely capable of holding her own with the champion Roamer. She was the one really high-class three-year-old of 1915, all of the others, even The Finn and Waterblossom, ranking far below her.

Of the elder division of horses, Borrow greatly distinguished himself and was in the first flight of the handicap horses of the year, a horse of speed, power and a superior weight carrier. But, both fit and well, it is safe to say that Roamer was capable of giving him all of seven pounds and a beating. It is true that Borrow beat him pointless in the Kentucky Handicap, but Roamer was not himself that day and Borrow was in superior condition. Later on, at Saratoga, in the Merchants' and Citizens' Handicap, something in the way of a direct line to their respective capabilities was furnished. Roamer carried 129 pounds to 123 on Borrow and beat him by a half length over the course of a mile and three-sixteenths in 1:59, the race being truly run. This race illuminated another point. Mr. Belmont's champion Stromboli carried 121 pounds and finished a good third, but beaten three lengths by Borrow. A truer exposition of the relative form of three grand racers could not have been arranged. They were the three best handicap horses of the year as incontestibly as Regret was the best three-year-old.

In the racing of 1915 the number of horses starting was 3,700. This was a slight gain over 1914, when 3,632 started. Of those starting, 2,609 won more or less money, by virtue of finishing first, second or third in races. This left 1,091 horses which raced without winning a dollar. There is nothing singular in this. In all countries where racing is conducted, it is the stern test of competition on the race track which determines the selection of the fittest and relegates the ineffectives to the obscurity properly awaiting all equine weaklings and derelicts. Of the more successful horses, 192 won $3 000 or more. This was a falling off from 1914, when the corresponding winners numbered 202. In 1913 it was 208. The horses which won $10,000 or more numbered fourteen, as compared with fifteen in 1914, thirteen in 1913 and six in 1912. Exactly fifty other horses won more than $5,000 and less than $10,000. Of the winners of $10,000 or more, the leader was the seven-year-old gelding, Borrow, Star Jasmine was six years old. Prince Hermis five years old, Hodge, Stromboli and Roamer were four-year-olds, The Finn, Regret, Royal II. and Waterblossom three-year-olds and the two-year-olds were Dominant, Thunderer, Dodge and George Smith.

There is reason for holding that some of the two-year-olds of 1915 were of extra high class. Certainly this is true of Dominant and probably of Thunderer. There is a shade of doubt in the case of this brother to Regret because of the close call that Bromo gave him in the Futurity. Possibly that doubt may be dissolved by assuming that Bromo also belongs to the star class. On some of his racing, George Smith can be made out to be a great colt. His purchase by Mr. John Sanford for a big price was one of the marked transactions of the year. Dodge was another colt of high rank and a remarkable mud runner. Others of possibly a slightly lower class, but of great worth, as demonstrated in their racing, were Bulse, King Neptune, Blackie Daw, Ormesdale, Big Smoke, Friar Rock and Checks. Of the fillies Puss in Boots, Pleione and Jacoba were probably best. There is reason for hoping that some of these best two-year-olds will turn out to be high-class three-year-olds, that reason being that they will be called upon in 1916 to meet such English-bred colts of proved excellence as Clapperbill and Star Hawk, among others. If still in England both of these would certainly be given grave consideration in connection with the Derby of 1916. American racing has never before presented such an interesting problem as that arising out of the wholesale importation of choicely-bred young English horses bought at the sales in 1915 in England. Their injunction into our racing of 1916 is vested with pleasant anticipation of contests of the most exciting character.

The horses which won $10,000 or more in the racing of 1915 were:

HAMBURG PLACE STALLIONS.

Mr. John E. Madden announces the services of Ormondale, Hessian and imp. Pataud for the coming season at Hamburg Place.

Ormondale.

Ormondale (winner of the Futurity, Broadway Stakes, etc.), is by imp. Ormonde, known as "the horse of the century," and one that probably never had a superior on the English turf, where he was unbeaten, scoring sixteen victories as a two, three and four-year-old. Ormonde got Orme, Llanthony, Ossary, Orsini, Honiton, Orthia, Beau Ormonde, Oremus, Gold Lace, Sorcerer, Goldfinch, Orville, Kilkenny, Orontes II., Rosormonde and Ormonde's Right. Orme, in turn, is sire of Flying Fox, Orby and a host of other good ones, while Goldfinch was one of the most successful sires in this country.

Imp. Santa Bella, Ormondale's dam, won in this country and is also the dam of Bellatrix, Duke of Ormonde, etc. She is a half-sister to imp. Maiden Poem, dam of Clark Griffith, Aimee C., Cleodora, etc.

Ormondale's yearlings for several years were shipped and sold in England. Among the few to race in this country are Futurity, Menlo Park, Anna Patricia, Ormesdale and Yermak, winners.

Among his get to win in England are: The Forest (a high-class winner in England, winner of the Tattersall Sales Stakes, the Royal Borough Handicap, the Royal Hand cap, the St. Albans Handicap, the Sale Stakes, Rageley Plate, etc.), Palo Alto (winner in England and France), Vachary, Maydale, Cric-Crac, Blue Mantle, Cooked Nuts, Bull Luck, Uncle Dale, Luxor, etc.

Hessian.

Hessian is by imp. Watercress, out of imp. Colonial, by Trenton. Watercress was the sire of many good winners and his sire, Springfield, also sired a number of great horses, including Sainfoin, sire of Rock Sand. On the female side, Watercress was exquisitely bred, his dam (Wharfdale) being by Hermit out of Bonnie Doon, a daughter of the immortal Queen Mary.

Imp. Colonial also produced La Venganza (dam of Manager Waite), Victoria M. (dam of Vigorous), etc. She is by Trenton, one of the most famous race horses and probably the greatest sire ever produced in Australia. See announcement for tabulated pedigree.

Imp. Pataud.

Imp. Pataud, Mr. Madden's recent purchase, is by Darley Dale (son of St. Simon), which traces on his dam's side to that famous stud matron Maid of Masham. Pataud's dam, La Poetica, is a daughter of that good Yorkshire race horse Tyrant, son of Beauclere and one of Mr. McIntyres' celebrated "Queen" mares, which trace to that remarkable winner and producer Alice Hawthorn.

When Mr. Madden purchased Pataud THE RECORD published his tabulated pedigree. Lieut. W. H. Neill seeing the pedigree commented upon it as follows in a communication to THE RECORD:—

"Reading the pedigree of imp. Pataud, published in THE RECORD recently, it is rather interesting to note (though perhaps of little practical value) his breeding relative to the Bruce Lowe theory, and to mark the amount of "running" and "sire" blood among the thirty-two ancestors of the fifth remove.

"In all there are twenty-seven direct strains to the "running" and "sire" families, out of the thirty-two ancestors, eight being to the "3" figure, given by Lowe as the most important family in the "Stud Book", possessing as it does both "running" and "sire" blood.

"The only outside families being the 7, 9, 10, 19, and 25.

"In the "9", Darley Dale's own tap root, we get it through that inbred (to the 2 family) mare Adelaide.

"To the "10", through Bonny Bell, by Voltigeur (which had four crosses to the 2 family) from Blink Bonny's dam.

"To the "19" family, through Mrs. Ridgway by Birdcatcher (11), by Sir Hercules (2); her first dam being by Inheritor (4) from a Blacklock (2, 2, 1,) mare.

"Isoline, the other 19 strain, was by Faugh-a-Ballagh (11) by Sir Hercules (2) from Bassilaw by a son of Cadland (12).

"To the "25" family, through Young Melbourne (1) from Clarissa from a daughter of Glencoe (1), which was by Sultan (8) by Selim (2)."

PLAUDIT.

John H. Morris, Bosque Bonita Farm, announces the services of Plaudit for the season of 1916 in THE RECORD this week.

Plaudit is a brown horse, by Himyar, sire of Domino, winner of $203,000 and sire of Commando (sire of Colin, Celt, Peter Pan, Peter Quince, Transvaal, etc.), Disguise II., Cap and Bells (winner of the English Oaks), etc. He is out of imp. Cinderella (dam of Hastings, etc.), by Blue Ruin or Tomahawk, Plaudit was a winner at two of the Champagne, Nursery, Emerald Stakes, etc., and at three of Buckeye Stakes, Oakley Derby, Clark Stakes, Kentucky Derby, etc.

Sire of King James (winner of 24 races and $103,405), Bill Curtis (Los Angeles Derby, 1¼ miles in 2:37), Plate Glass and any number of stake winners in this country, and the good performer Cheerful, second to Cantilever in the Cambridgeshire.

Plaudit had out the following high-class two-year-olds in 1913: Bringhurst (Hopeful Stakes, and 5½ furlongs in 1:04 3-5, etc.), Southern Maid (winner of four stakes and second to Pennant in Futurity), Casuarina (Spinaway Stakes, etc.); besides the other good winners Ruffles, Christophine and Rosa Mundi.

Plaudit has certainly demonstrated on the turf and in the stud that he is one of the best sons of the great Himyar.

BEN TROVATO.

Ben Trovato will make the season of 1916 at O. H. Chenault's Spendthrift Stud.

Ben Trovato is a seal brown horse, 16½ hands high, and his record shows him to have been as fast as horses run in this country, having run miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39½ 1⅛ miles often in 1:52, 1¼ miles in 2:04 2-5, and ⅝ in 0:58½ as a two-year-old. He was raced four years.

He was sired by imp. Alvescot, a son of Raeburn (son of St. Simon), his dam Golden Rose, by Goldfinch (son of Ormonde); 2d dam La Trappe, by Hermit; 3d dam Ambuscade, by Camerino (son of Stockwell), and 4th dam Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world, viz: St. Simon, Ormonde, Hermit, Stockwell and Vedette. He comes from the great No. 5 family—Galtee More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

Ben Trovato is the sire of two two-year-old winners this year, May W. (winner of three races) and Ida Trovato.

Ben Trovato will be allowed to serve twenty-five mares in 1916 at $50 to insure living foal.

Mr. Chenault says in his announcement: "If you can find a greater looking horse, a better bred horse or a faster horse, don't breed to this one."

SIR JOHN JOHNSON.

Mr. Frank J. Nolan's bay horse Sir John Johnson will stand for public service this season at Mr. J. O. Keene's Keeneland Stud. That Mr. Nolan's horse was possessed of more than ordinary racing ability, a glance at his performances will convince the most skeptical. His pedigree, too, is replete with the best strains to be found in the English Stud Book.

Sir John Johnson has been a most consistent winner in 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913 and 1914. He won twice at two, once at three, when he won the Huron Stakes, 1 3-16 miles, in 1:58 3-5. He won in 1909 nine races, including the Sheepshead Bay Stakes, a mile, in 1:39 1-5; the Merchants' and Citizens' Handicap, 1 3-16 miles, in 1:58, and 7 furlongs in 1:24 4-5. In 1910, he won six races, including the Delaware Handicap, a mile, in 1:40, and miles in 1:38 and 1:39. In 1911, he won seven races, including 6 furlongs in 1:13, 1:13 2-5 and 1:13 4-5, and the Earl Grey Cup, at Toronto, 1¼ miles, in 2:06 3-5. In 1912, he won twice at 6 furlongs and at a mile. In 1913, he won four races, including the Monticello Hotel Handicap, and in 1914 he continued his victorious career, as he was again returned a winner.

Sir John Johnson's speed is undeniable, and he has shown his ability to stay by his two victories in the Saratoga Merchants' and Citizens' Handicap and the Earl Grey Cup at Montreal. Speed and the ability to stay are the essentials in the make-up of the modern race horse, and both of these requisites are possessed by this famous horse to a marked degree.

So much for a brief summary of the performances of Sir John Johnson. Let us now turn to the blood lines of this tried and true campaigner, which is by the imported horse Isidor, from La Tosca II., by another importation, Laureate. Isidor was a stake and frequent winner and is the sire of Corinth, Roy, Jr., Hofman, Montagnie, Sir John Johnson, Adriance, Brumley, May Dore, Song of Valley, etc., etc. He is a son of Amphion, a mighty runner in his day and a great sire. Amphion traces through Rosebery and Speculum to Vedette, the sire of Galopin, and is out of Suicide, a daughter of that equine celebrity Hermit. Isis the dam of Isidor, is by the Derby winner Bend Or, from Shotover, one of the five mares successful in the greatest of England's classic races. This is the best branch of the No. 13 family, from which descended Orlando, Beadsman, Shotover, Mendicant, Ellis, Galliard, Highflyer, Salvator (by Dollar), etc., etc.

On the dam's side, Sir John Johnson is equally well bred. His dam, La Tosca II., is by the Rosicrucian horse Laureate, a half-brother to Petrarch, a great broodmare sire and winner of the Two Thousand Guineas, St. Leger and Ascot Gold Cup. Laureate himself was first home in the Craven Stakes at Newmarket, the Singleton Stakes at Goodwood and a Biennial at Stockbridge.

The second dam of Sir John Johnson is that celebrated racemare La Tosca, which as a three-year-old won sixteen races out of twenty-one starts and was then retired to the stud to produce such sterling campaigners as Chuctanunda, Caughnawaga, Mohawk II., etc. La Tosca was a daughter of Mr. Belmont's Derby winner, St. Blaise, from imp. Toucques, by The Baron. This is the famous Industry branch of the No. 2 family, from which so many of our famous horses of the past and present descend.

The following mares were bred to Sir John Johnson in 1914 and the result of these matings were: Antiope, a chestnut colt (died), Aunt Mamie, barren; Canastota, sold in 1914, thought to be barren; Deviltree, a bay colt; Fair Catherine, a bay filly; Irish Girl II., a chestnut filly; Melee, a bay colt; Onaga, a bay colt; Plaster, a bay colt; and Quack, a bay colt. Amstel was bred to Sir John Johnson and Froglegs in 1914 and her produce of 1915 was a bay colt.

Mina by Planudes—Lacrimae by Rossington.
Lyndall by Leonatus—Little Lou by Monarchist.
Cremorne by Carlsbad—L'Orient by Logic.
Coat by Ogden—Raglan by Plaudit.
Motley by Montana—Ella Gregg by Salvator.
Quack by Ogden—Allopath by Montana.
Melee by Yankee—Tangle by Meddler.
Ballyshe by Frank Gill—Wayward Lass by Sir Dixon.
Frankness by Miller—Franconia by Billet.
Janowood by Wadsworth—Josephine by King Alfonso.
Dorothy Ledgett by Sain—Amelia May by Jim Gore.
Lady Dunraven by Desmond—Moanerla by Kirkham.
Dum Dum by Yankee—Royal Gun by Royal Hampton.
Blue Stocking by Yankee—Miss Angie by Planudes.
Loween by Intrusive—Arthesia by Siddartha.
Astarita by Bathampton—Lola A., by Enquirer.
Linda Lee by Hamburg—Myrtle Harkness by Strathmore.
Mariti by Hindoo—Mary McGowan by Longfellow.
Myrtle Harkness by Strathmore—Pappoose by Leamington.
Nahma by Longfellow—Queen Beluga by Kingfisher.
Witfull by Mirthful—Response by Longfellow.
Countess Wanda by Loyalist—Wanda by Mortemer.
Okitan by Planudes—Ondurdis by Kingston.

There is every reason to predict Sir John Johnson's immediate success as a stallion. The breeding, the individuality, and, more than all, the genuine racehorse ability are there to see him through, and in all confidence a highly successful stud career can be predicted for the son of Isidor and La Tosca II.

NURSERY STUD STALLIONS.

Mr. August Belmont announces the horses Trap Rock, Fair Play, Vulcain, Watervale and Hastings in this issue of The Record for public service in 1916.

Trap Rock.

Trap Rock, foaled 1908, is a magnificent horse, standing 16 hands, with splendid bone and legs. He won the Manhasset Stakes and the Hudson Stakes as a two-year-old and at three tied the American record of 1:43 3-5 for one mile and a sixteenth. Again he ran the same distance in 1:44 4-5, with 119 pounds, giving weight to all his opponents.

He is by the "Triple Crown" winner Rock Sand, out of Topiary (dam of Tracery, winner of the St. Leger, Eclipse Stakes, Champion Stakes, St. James' Palace Stakes, etc.), by Orme (sire of Flying Fox), out of the wonderful race mare Plaisanterie (dam of Childwick, Hawkswick, etc.), by Wellingtonia, she from Poetess, by Trocadero.

Trap Rock is a cheap horse at $200 the season. His full brother, Tracery, is standing in England at $2,000, and his sire's book was filled in France for three seasons in advance at $2,500. His oldest get were two-year-olds last year, and he had out five winners, Daddy's Choice (5 wins), Blue Rock, Ellen M., Moonstone and Trappoid.

Breeders wishing to send mares to Trap Rock had better make arrangements with Mr. Kane at once, as last year he had about ten more applications than could be accommodated.

Fair Play.

Fair Play, a chestnut horse by Hastings, out of imp Fairy Gold, selected to take his place as one of the sires of the Nursery Stud, was foaled in 1905.

He showed such quality as a racehorse, possessing speed, gameness and endurance, that he was considered a worthy successor of his sire. Up to June 30, of his three-year-old form, Colin was always able to beat him, and in their last meeting, the running of the Belmont Stakes, the finish between the two was very close. Later, Colin broke down and left Fair Play, which was still improving, to end the season clearly the best three-year-old of the year.

At the close of his three-year-old career he was sent to England, where, however, he did not race up to the form he had shown here, owing to the climate not agreeing with him, and he developed rheumatism. In 1909, he was brought back and retired to the Nursery Stud.

Hastings, his sire, was a sterling racehorse himself, the sire of numerous other racehorses whose names rank with the best and in 1902 headed the list of winning sires in America and has kept up with the leaders since then, being premier sire again in 1908. His blood lines impart speed, stamina and ability to perform well in any kind of going to his progeny.

Fairy Gold, his dam, is a choicely-bred mare imported from England, and the extreme speed lines contained in her pedigree, combined with those of Hastings, are confidently expected to enable Fair Play, through his produce, to earn a reputation equal to that of the other sires of the Nursery Stud.

The first of Fair Play's get raced in 1912, when he had five two-year-olds, four of them being returned winners of $6,740, as follows: Stromboli (four wins), Flitaway, Robinetta and Misplay (two wins each). In 1914, Fair Play had out four two-year-old winners of $15,785, namely, Trial by Jury ($7,505), Ormulu ($5,390), Change ($2,395), and Norse King ($405). Trial by Jury won the Flash Stakes and the Grab Bag Handicap and Ormulu won the Nursery Plate Stakes and Hochelaga Handicap. Last season among his two-year-olds were Sands of Pleasure (2 wins), Fairweather (2 wins), and Eulogy.

Vulcain.

Vulcain, another son of Rock Sand, foaled in France, will make the season of 1916 at the Nursery Stud. He is out of Lady of the Vale, a daughter of imp. Rayon d'Or and Lady Violet, which Mr. Belmont several years ago sent from the Nursery Stud to his French breeding establishment, Haras de Villers.

So well did Vulcain play his part in spring racing in France in 1913, that of all of the nominations from France to the Epsom Derby, only he and Nimbus were deemed worthy of taking part in the great race. A minor accident intervened to prevent his being sent over, but Nimbus was started in that unlucky Derby and but for being cut off and knocked about would, in the opinion of many observers, probably have won. In the fall he proved himself the best three-year-old in France. In the spring there was considerable controversy as to the comparative merits of himself and Vulcain, but it was not settled practically. The only time they met was in the Prix du Jockey Club (the French Derby), and in this they both ran unplaced to Dagor, Baldaquin and Bruleur. However, this does not detract materially from the fact that Vulcain was in the front rank of the three-year-olds in France in 1913. He was not raced as a two-year-old and ran but four times in 1913, winning three of his races. His first start was at Maisons-Laffitte, April 25, in the Prix Miss Gladiator, at a mile and three-eighths. This he won, with Pendragon second, Astophe third, and five unplaced. This race was of the net value of $7,880. At Paris, May 4, he won the Prix Noailles at a mile and a half, easily defeating Verwood, Roi de l'Or, and four other good three-year-olds, and further enriched his owner to the extent of $13,310. May 29, at Paris, he won the Prix Reiset of the net value of $5,250, at a mile and seven-eighths, with Careless second, Scammonee third, and three more unplaced. Then he ran unplaced, as mentioned. In the first of these races he carried 123 pounds and had up 128 in the other three.

At $150 the season, Vulcain's book should fill rapidly, being bred as he is, and also a worthy exponent of France's highest class in speed and staying.

Watervale.

Watervale is a bay horse, foaled 1908, by Watercress (by Sprinfield), dam Lady Violet, by The Ill-Used, etc. He was a good racehorse, winning at two, three and four years of age. He holds the American record for one mile and sixty yards, made at Pimlico, of 1:42 2-5, and the Canadian record for one mile and an eighth, made at Fort Erie, 1:50 2-5.

Watervale's sire, Watercress, was a good racehorse and a pronounced success at the stud. His sire, Springfield, was the best racehorse of his day. Watercress' dam, Wharfdale, was a sister to imp. Bella Donna, which foaled among her produce the high-class mare Belliame, the best three-year-old filly of 1904, winner of twelve races, and winner of the Suburban Handicap, etc., in 1905. The next dam, Bonnie Doon, also produced imp. Bonnie Gal, dam of Princess Flavia, Disguise II., winner in England of the Jockey Club Stakes of 10,000 sovereigns, and other races, and a high-class sire. Bonnie Doon was a half-sister to Blink Bonny, winner of the Derby, Oaks, etc., and dam of Blair Athol, Breadalbane and Borealis. It is the great Queen Mary family.

Lady Violet, a good producer, was by The Ill-Used, one of the best bred horses ever imported to America. The Ill-Used won a number of good races; he could stay all day. The daughters of The Ill-Used have produced many good stayers, such as Henry of Navarre, Kilmarnock, etc. The Ill-Used is an important factor in some of the very best American pedigrees.

Hastings

Hastings is a brown horse foaled in 1893. His sire Spendthrift was a grand racehorse, winner like Hastings of the Belmont Stakes. In the stud he produced the great Kingston, Lamplighter, Lazzarone, Bankrupt, Pickpocket, Stockton and a host of other good ones.

His dam imp. Cinderella also foaled Glenheim, Foreigner, Handsome, etc.

In the female line the pedigree of Hastings is a fine one, the representatives of the family in England including the great Sweetmeat and in America such good ones as Auricoma, Belinda, Barbara, Madam Dudley, Glen Dudley, Judith, Santa Rita, Virgie D., Brigand, Brown Prince, Ruby Royal, etc.

The turf record of Hastings was a brilliant one, and and he has proved himself a great sire, his get showing remarkable constitutions and possessing gameness and ability to race in any sort of going. Since he has been in the stud he has always been among the leading sires in the country, being premier in 1902 and 1908, and the winnings of his get show a wonderful record:

GREAT STRAINS FOR AMERICA.

[The Latest, Durban, Africa, Dec. 24].

The Lexington "Thoroughbred Record" gives the prices realized at the dispersal sale of the Haggin and Clay studs. Four of the mares sold are connected with racing in this country, being the dams of Gondolier, Flitwick, The Jay, and that flashing good mare Hitchy Koo. The stallion Toddington, the sire of Flitwick, was also sold.

Flitwick is now at stud in East Griqualand, standing at Zeekoegat, Mr. DeLange's well-known and successful breeding establishment. I feel certain that the Flitwicks will be winning in the best of company during the next few year. He is getting mares well suited to nick his very best factors, his line of Musket through Maxim—sire of his dam—will nick the Musket tail male line of Dundonald mares, and I fully expect him to breed good winners from Dundonald mares. The imported Melting Kiss visited him this season, the object being to try to nick the best points of Melton, as she is strong in Melton blood, with other connecting lines, which will make for speed and stoutness. The pedigree is interesting, as the figures nick as well as the double Melton. It remains to be seen if the result will be a success on the racecourse.

Clara J., dam of The Jay, seems a beautifully bred mare, her breeding being Clara J., by Watercress—Zealandia by Sir Modred. She is ten years of age, and was sold for £245.

Flitwick's dam, La Fleur, brought £65, her age being 20 years. La Venganza, dam of Gondolier, sold for £420. Her breeding is quite first class, and her age 13 years. La Venganza is by Abercorn—Colonial by Trenton.

Hessian, son of Colonial, by Watercress, brought £700. He has bred high-class winners, and his stud successes point to Gondolier, his brother in blood, being a very valuable sire for South Africa. Lychee Nut, dam of Hitchy Koo, brought £100.

An own sister to The Jay brought £115 as a two-year-old. Toddington, 17 years old, by Melton out of a Galopin mare, was given away for £50—not ½ per cent. of his price when sold in England after winning good races as a two-year-old. He bred first-class winners, and it is strange that his selling price was so small. Flitwick, his son, will certainly carry on the Melton line in this country.

THE THOROUGHBRED.

When Established in England.

In clearing up facts concerning the early history of the English Thoroughbred, there seems never to have been made any determined effort to show that the doubtful origin of the breed is of less importance than the exact knowledge of the time of the establishment of the breed in the country which is the accredited home of the Thoroughbred.

The nearest approach to a basis of fact seems to rest, for the present, upon gleanings made by J. P. Hore and set down in his History of Newmarket.

With the purpose in mind to discover exactly when it was that the breed was established in England, I resorted to the usual means of perusing authoritative works, with the result that an opinion was reached which I expressed in the columns of THE THOROUGHBRED RECORD, and which is here repeated:—"When Henry VIII. received from Italy and Spain, horses and mares bred and used as Coursers he organized them into a separate stud for the sole purpose of rearing racehorses superior to the then existent mongrel breed used as racehorses. It was then and there that the Thoroughbred was 'established' in England". I now supplement my statement by saying, that to Henry himself must be given the credit as the founder of the Thoroughbred as a distinct breed, because it was through his initiative that the imported Courser was first segregated into a separate stud.

Holinshed, in speaking of this stud organization of Henry, says in part:—"Of such outlandish horsses as are dailie brought ouer vnto us, I speak not, as the Courser of Naples * * * because that further speech of them commeth not within the compasse of this treatise, and for whose breed and maintenance (especiallie of the greatest sort) King Henry the eight erected a noble studderie and for a time had very good success with them, till the officers, waxing wearie, procured a mixed blood of bastard races, whereby his good purpose came to little effect".

The researches by the author of the History of Newmarket caused him to say "notwithstanding Holinshed's aspersions, it is very likely the encouragement given by Henry VIII was conducive to, and actually produced very salutary results in, the cultivation of the English horse. The Royal Stud may have deteriorated as Holinshed asserts, but there can be no doubt that many of the most approved strains continued to be bred from by noblemen and gentlemen throughout the country".

Therefore, it must be conceded that until such times when other facts may be brought to light that might disprove the facts here briefly presented, there is unassailable weight to the decision that the Thoroughbred was established in England under the auspices of Henry VIII. (1509 1547).

By way of a postscript, the readers of THE RECORD may find interest in the coincidence that a present day breeder of the Thoroughbred in the U. S. bears the name of a breeder and patron of the turf during the time of Henry VIII. We refer to Sir Thomas Cheyney, Governor of Rochester Castle, and afterwards Knight of the Garter; Warden of the Cinque Ports and Treasurer of the household of Edward VI. Cheyney was an expert horseman and stood in high favor of King Henry who visited his Stud in Kent, when on the road to Calais in 1532. Sir Thomas died in 1559.

JOHN L. O'CONNOR.

BREEDING SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23.—There is no more ardent supporter of the doctrine of preparedness in Washington, particularly as it is applied to an adequate supply of the proper type of horses for cavalry and artillery purposes, than Major-General J. B. Aleshire, Quartermaster General of the United States Army, who has given much thought to the question of horsebreeding and who is familiar with conditions governing that industry, not only in the United States, but in foreign countries as well.

In discussing the problem, as it applies to the United States, which with an increased army would need many additional horses, and the part the Government might be called upon to play in their production, General Aleshire said a few days ago:

"I am not prepared at present to say how this work should be prosecuted, but the Department of Agriculture, whose efforts in that direction have been noteworthy, though hampered by the size of the appropriation at their disposal, should be competent to formulate a plan, especially as there are very many civilian authorities anxious to give the Government the benefit of their experience and observation, and who could be called upon to serve in an advisory capacity. The results of experiments in foreign countries have demonstrated the super-eminent qualifications of the thoroughbred sire for this purpose. One difficulty in connection with the problem is the selection of districts in which mares of a proper type to throw cavalry remounts with some degree of certainty could be found, and another is the securing of ranges where the work could go on at a minimum of expense.

"The Indian reservations would seem to be ideal for breeding operations, as there is a variety of range at the disposal of the Government free of charge. Some years ago there was a plan to utilize the Standing Rock agency for the purpose, but it fell through, and what work the Government has done in breeding horses has been confined to sections in Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, Colorado, Vermont and a very small area in one or two other States in the Union.

"There is no doubt that while the United States has within its borders many millions of horses at the present time," continued the Quartermaster General, "there is a shortage of the type the service demands—a horse that is quick and sure of foot and which has enough pure blood in his veins to make him a stranger to fatigue, capable of enduring long and forced marches on short rations, and possessing that quality of courage which is a heritage from a long line of ancestors whose worth has been proven in hard fought contests. Foreign nations have been busy with our breeding stock, and the time has come when we should safeguard our future cavalry remount supply by the retention of good mares which have, for almost two years, been sold at the same figure as our geldings. Statistics show that upward of one million horses and mules have been bought in the United States by agents of Great Britain, France and Italy since the war began. There should be some way to put a stop to the further shipment of the sort of mares which are needed at home. It will be difficult to cope with the situation, but the benefit accruing to such an important industry should make it worth while determining what steps are to be taken in a matter of such importance to the general welfare of the country. Some authorities are in favor of placing an embargo on further shipments of mares, and this would assuredly be effective.

"It has been stated that the general purpose horses of twenty years ago were superior to those of today," resumed General Aleshire, "and I can heartily indorse this opinion. I can remember when Kentucky and Missouri produced ideal cavalry remount types. There were Forrests, Denmarks, Black Squirrels and other families with warm blood close up in their pedigrees that were invaluable for our service. Surely there must still be some of that blood in those States and in other portions of the Middle West. Colorado has great possibilities as a breeding nursery, and Montana has supplied many good horses for Army purposes. I have seen at our various stations horses from that region that were unsurpassed. The character of the range seemed to give them great lung power and unusual nerve force. Thoroughbred and standardbred sires of excellence have been used extensively in Montana, some of the former being of English blood, and they have left their impress in many ways on their descendants, notably in the intelligence displayed in breaking.

"I think the work which is being done in New York by the Jockey Club, through its Breeding Bureau, and by the Kentucky State Racing Commission in Kentucky," said General Aleshire, in conclusion, "should be productive of much good, and I look for more and better horses from those States as soon as the farmers and horse breeders realize what the industry means to the Government. An officer has been sent to Kentucky to tell the people of that State something about the type of horse we require. This interest is an evidence of the spirit which is manifesting itself in many quarters, and is along the same line as was pursued by the Jockey Club in offering a special award for the best Army remount at the recent National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden. That competition helped to establish a type for our farmers and horse-breeders to follow. It is characteristic of the American sportsman to find him in the forefront when his country calls.

When asked if he did not think that the Government's appropriation for horse-breeding should be very greatly increased, in view of expansion of other branches of the service, General Aleshire declared that the situation was sufficiently eloquent to speak for itself, and that no doubt the matter would have the careful attention of Congress, along with the other elements of preparedness, but instead of the Government interesting itself in the actual breeding of horses, he thought this should be done by the farmers along the lines of the plan of the Department of Agriculture.

AMATEUR RACING THRIVING GREATLY.

NEW YORK, January 31.—In the rehabilitation of the turf since 1910, when the race tracks of the Empire State were closed, amateur racing has played an important part. Since 1910 the amateur race meetings have sprung up like mushrooms throughout the United States, until today the racing matinees and hunt meetings of the amateurs are important parts in the turf fabric. Frank J. Bryan has acted as steward, judge, starter, clerk of the course and secretary of the amateur meetings. Mr. Bryan gives his views of the amateur situation as follows:

"The importance of the hunt meetings in the apparent upbuilding of racing, is now appreciated even by those that were inclined the doubt the seriousness of the amateurs, with their one and two day sessions at different points. What may have been an experiment is now a substantial reality. From modest beginning to a recognized part of the turf affairs has been accomplished within a few years, until now some of the richest prizes of the year, both on the flat and over the jumps, are regular features of the so-called amateur meetings.

"When the big tracks of the state were closed down the Hunt Club delgation continued to have matinees without interruption. Those at the head of affairs were convinced that they could not be molested, racing as they did without thought of profit.

"The results in this state brought confidence at other points and a marked extension of plans and scope of meetings in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia and other sections. In Pennsylvania the improvement was especially marked. In October a series of five days arranged in the vicinity of Philadelphia brought sport of a much better calibre than ever before witnessed in that locality. J. E. Widener opened the series with an invitation meeting at his home, Lynnewood Farm.

"At Rose Tree the entire course was either remodeled or rebuilt and two days were given over to the race committee, who, with the co-operation of such well-known sportsmen as Victor Mather, Edward Morrell, Joseph E Widener, Edward T. Stotesbury, Samuel Hay, Robert Glendenning, Alexander Sellers, John Smylie Hedges, Samuel D. Riddle, Benjamin Chew Charles E. Mather, Alexander Roy Jackson and a score of others, aroused interest that was something new in the annals of the place. The Rose Tree is one of the oldest hunting clubs in America, having been organized in 1859.

"In Virginia the Warrenton Hunt also came out on pretentious lines. In Maryland, under the supervision of G. Bernard Fenwick, the state's representative on the Hunts Committee, steps have been taken to form an association from the members of the several hunt clubs that will each year provide a couple of days' racing over a natural course in the Green Spring Valley.

"At Piping Rock next spring and fall all the old features of last year will be renewed, including the Harbor Hill, the Whitney Memorial, the Oak Ridge, the Copperstown, the Heyday Plate, the Piping Rock Subscription Steeplechase and the other events that have proved so satisfactory to local turfites in the past. With this array will be a new race, the Invitation Handicap for two-year-olds, which will be run at the spring meeting.

"Judging from the interest shown, the prize for the winner will be about $10,000. The race is a private sweepstakes, with all to the winner. The subscriptions are limited to members of the Piping Rock Club, the Piping Rock Racing Association or those invited by the race committee.

"At Brookline, Mass., in June, the Country Club will provide its thirty-fifth annual meeting, which it is claimed is the longest unbroken series of jumping races in the annals of the American turf."

FRANCE GETS DURYEA RACER.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Le Journal Officiel prints a decree announcing that the State accepts the late H. B. Duryea's gift of the thoroughbred stallion Blarney, which will be placed in the national stud.

Blarney is a black stallion, foaled 1910, by Irish Lad (a son of Cardlemas and Arrowgrass by Enquirer or Bramble), out of Armenia, by Meddler; 2d dam Urania, by Hanover, etc.

EASTERN GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A sign of the rapidly approaching racing season was the recent shipment of the James Butler thoroughbreds from the Eastview Farm to the Empire City racetrack. Thirty head made the journey and will receive their preparation for the Eastern racing season over the Yonkers course.

Jack McCormack, who successfully handled the Herz horses during the past year, arrived from New Orleans yesterday and will take charge of the Butler thoroughbreds at once. The stable riding will be in the hands of Russell McDermott, an apprentice, who displayed considerable skill over the Canadian and Maryland tracks last fall.

Of the thirty horses now quartered at the Empire track ten are two-year-olds. Included in this number is Counsel, a full brother to the redoubtable George Smith. The others are nicely-bred youngsters and were purchased last spring from John E. Madden.

The older performers best known to the racing public are High Noon and Pebbles. The first named stamped himself a first-rate sprinter over the Eastern courses last summer, if not the best in the country. Out of the eleven starts he earned brackets on five occasions, was second twice, third twice and unplaced a pair of times. He earned $4,995 in purses and was the stable's best money winner.

Pebbles, after opening the season with a bang-up second to Regret in the Kentucky Derby, failed to develop this rush and did not display his true form after that race. He went slightly amiss previous to the meeting at Saratoga Springs and was retired for the season.

Of the three-year-olds, Paddy Whack and Spur displayed by far the best form as juveniles. The first named, a son of Celt and Network, was one of the good youngsters shown at the spring meetings over the metropolitan tracks. Unfortunately he went wrong in July, cutting his 1915 racing career short. During his period of activity he earned $3,400 in purses.

Spur proved the best racing tool of the juveniles, as he campaigned through the entire racing season and wound up the fall meeting at Pimlico in tip-top condition. This colt earned $2,375 in 1915, and should prove a very useful three-year-old.

It is very doubtful if the Butler establishment will open the 1916 campaign in Kentucky. This stable invaded the Blue Grass State last spring with a wealth of first-class racing material, but the purses won were few and far between. As there is no Derby material in the Butler barn this year it is natural to assume that the New York turfman will open the season on his native heath.

Thirty-five thoroughbreds are at present quartered at the Eastview Farm, including a number of mares and the Persimmon stallion, Out of Reach.

On or about February 10, James Butler will forget that he is a business man and begin an extended Southern trip. His first stop will be Palm Beach. Following this he will visit Havana, New Orleans and Juarez, where he will observe winter racing in its natural state.

With the influx of foreign racers to these shores the labors of racing secretaries have increased correspondingly. The latest little time killer for this busy gentry is the searching of foreign records to establish the races and purse money won by these aliens.

Star Hawk, the Macomber three-year-old, which is regarded as a most formidable Kentucky Derby candidate, was a first-rate performer in England last year. He faced the starter on four occasions, captured two of these trials, was second once, and unplaced in his initial start through poor racing luck.

His present owner, A. K. Macomber, is said to have paid $20,000 for this fine individual. Good judges say he is worth at least this amount.

It is expected that Harry Payne Whitney's unbeaten Regret will make her sixth public appearance this spring in the rich Kentucky Handicap. This daughter of Broomstick and Jersey Lightning faced the barrier but three times in her two-year-old form, winning $17,390 in stakes. Last year she won the Kentucky Derby and the Saranac Handicap, adding $12,500 to the Whitney coffers. In the Derby she upset forty years of precedent, being the first filly to win that event.

Andrew Miller will send Roamer to the Western State to have another try at the handicap, and a meeting between this great little gelding and Regret should be worth traveling miles to witness. Both stand far above the rank and file of American racers, but the question of superiority between the pair is a most debatable one.

R. J. Mackenzie arrived in the city yesterday after a short stay at French Lick Springs, Ind. Mr. Mackenzie is an ardent turfman and campaigns a small stable of first-class performers each year. His most notable horse was Buckhorn, winner of the Brooklyn and Empire City Handicaps of 1914.

This son of Broomstick and Thirty-third after a most useful career on the turf was retired to the stud last fall.

Managing Director Earlocker of the Saratoga Racing Association wishes to call the attention of horsemen to the fact that a number of the features of the up State meeting will close the early part of next month.

At present Trainer Frank Taylor has just four of Mr. Kilmer's two-year-olds in his stable at Gravesend, but he expects several more of the Kilmer string about the middle of February. The youngsters now in his charge make a very attractive quartette, and they seem to be doing wonderfully well.

These two-year-olds have been named as follows:

Glodiva is a wonderfully handsome, compact and smoothly finished filly by Glorifier, a bright bay of nearly or quite solid color, with shoulders, loin and quarters which might without exaggeration be pronounced ideal.

St. Glory, a dark bay colt of rather more than average size and substance, and showing the racy high finish of his sire everywhere.

Pink Model might be termed something of a catachresis for the name of a slashing coal-black filly marked only with a small star and one white hind foot by Pink Coat. As far as the second part of the name of this filly is concerned, it is certainly peculiarly appropriate, for she is a beautiful filly as far as conformation is concerned; but she is more than ordinarily black. Indeed, she is a "blue black," and so the first portion of her sire's name appears startling, to say the least of it, when applied to her. At all events, she is a really splendid looking filly.

David Gideon's beautiful two-year-old filly by Ogden out of Her Majesty, she by His Highness out of Butterflies, was on the sick list at one time, but she has fully recovered and is now doing nicely. It is reported that Mr. Gideon is carrying a ten-thousand dollar insurance policy on this filly, and the opinion among the Gravesend trainers is that this sum would not have been even a fair valuation of her.

Frank Nolan of Saratoga, whose horses are in charge of Trainer George Zeigler at Gravesend, has been one of the fortunate owners as far as the epidemic of influenza was concerned. He has not had a single case of illness among his horses since they were stabled at Gravesend. Lena Misha has grown and thickened into a grand looking three-year-old of much greater size and substance than had been expected, and Trainer Zeigler is extremely proud of him. He is a grand big chestnut colt of the massive type, but although he is very high in flesh, he appears to have lost none of that fine racy quality for which he was distinguished as a two-year-old.

Old Koenig and the others of the Nolan string are all looking particularly well, the first mentioned colt being a youngster of extraordinary range and weight.

James McLaughlin has a very taking pair in Celandria, the three-year-old chestnut filly by Celt out of Adriana, and the big rangy and powerful looking three-year-old, Watercress II., by Watercress. Both have grown and thickened greatly since they were last seen under silks, and their trainer is justly proud of their present fine condition. He thinks extremely well of the big chestnut filly, which he says he believes will make a better showing as a three-year-old than she did in her two-year-old form.

Watercress II. is now a gelding, and although Trainer McLaughlin has no especial liking for geldings in a general way, he believes the change has been of great benefit to this slashing son of Watercress. He is much more cheerful and spirited about his work now than he has been at any time since he has been in training.

One of the favorites in Frank Nolan's stable is the two-year-old colt, Dreadnought, by The Commoner out of Touch Not. This is a large brown colt marked with a blaze and white off hind foot. He is a colt of high finish, and as he is an own brother to such good ones as Notasulga and Great Britain, good things are naturally expected of him. He is wintering splendidly.

Trainer O. C. Rasch has his training stable at Gravesend inclosed with light outer walls abundantly supplied with glass windows so that the broad walk around it affords an excellent training track for giving his horses slow exercise even in the most inclement weather without exposing them to it. The horses which he has at Gravesend are doing nicely and appear to be coming on in a manner which promises well for the stable's prospects during the season of 1916.

Trainer Richard Watkins has two geldings wintering at Gravesend, the chestnut gelding Ninety Simplex and the five-year-old bay gelding Barnegat, by Broomstick out of Jersey Lightning, he being an own brother to Thunderer and Regret. This gelding is looking strong and hearty, and Trainer Watkins hopes to bring him back to the races this spring in winning form.

Trainer James McLaughlin, Jr., has the steeplechase gelding Syosset at Gravesend. This good jumper has taken on considerable flesh since the close of the racing season, and his trainer is looking for good things from him during the coming season.

Frank Regan has the eight horses composing the matured division of the Cleveland Stable in his care at Gravesend, and they are all doing finely. In fact, he says that he thinks the Cleveland Stable should make a much better showing in 1916 than it has at any time during its existence. He likes the way in which his horses are wintering, and unless bad luck should intervene he predicts a prosperous season for them.

Whimsy, the star of the stable, the fast three-year-old brown gelding by Burgomaster out of Whimsical, has put on fully 150 pounds in weight since the close of the racing season, and now he seems to be in ideal condition for the time of year. He now gives promise of going to the races a much stronger and heavier horse than his appearance in his two-year-old form would seem to have indicated. Trainer Regan, who has a particular liking for geldings, is looking for a really high-class stake winner in this racy and stylish young gelding.

Trainer Fitzsimmons, who has some thirty animals in his training stable at Gravesend, has had some sickness among his horses within the past few weeks, and only a few days ago he had the bad luck to lose one of his two-year-olds, but at present his stable is nearly free from sick horses and two, which still are on the ailing list, are reported to be improving nicely. All the other horses in his stable are in perfect health and looking well.

Trainer S. Lawler, who has a nice lot of the Quincy Stable's horses in his large, well-equipped and neatly-kept stable at Gravesend, is able to report a clean bill of health and everything in his charge appears to be doing nicely.

Trainer Lawler's stable is equipped with a special provision against fire. At short intervals all around the building are large tanks containing about a dozen buckets of water each, and a bucket is in each of these tanks. Then the water in these tanks is charged with some sort of a chemical preparation which not only prevents the water from freezing, but renders it especially effective for extinguishing fires.

Frank Regan says he is not at all in favor of The Jockey Club's new rule abolishing the three pounds allowance for geldings. He is disposed to take a conservative view of the question, and holds that it was somewhat rash of The Jockey Club to abolish a rule which had been in existence for many generations, not only in this country, but in every country in which racing is a recognized sport.

M. M. Maxwell, who bought the French-bred two-year-old Thorn Bloom by Flint Rock out of White Thorn, at the sale of the Belmont two-year-olds, for $1,200, has placed the youngster in the stable of Trainer Fitzsimmons at Gravesend.

Edward Johnson, the old-time American trainer, who brought over a consignment of six English-bred fillies from the Langdon Hill Stud has returned to England.

Two of these fillies, Mary Littleton, 3, by Littleton—Merry Wing and Landstock, 3 by Land League—Australian Daisy, which were purchased by F. A. Clark, have been shipped to Aiken, S. C., along with six other thoroughbreds belonging to F. Von Stade, the amateur steeplechase jockey. M. H. Dooley shipped the animals South.

The six French-bred two-year-old colts by Yankee, which were sent over for Thomas Hitchcock, and six French-bred two-year-olds sent over to Ambrose Clark, have also been sent to Aiken.

George Watson, of Quaker Ridge, has established training quarters on his 280 acre farm upstate within easy reach of the city, where he has a well-appointed establishment for the education and development of yearling and two-year-olds, as well as for training of race horses more matured, during the winter and early spring. He is equipped for taking care of 200 thoroughbreds, and expects to have about as many as he can handle before spring. This is intended to be a sort of Maidstone Farm for matured race horses, where they can rest and recuperate after one season's strain and store up health and physical and nervous vigor for the next.

The Jockey Club, of which August Belmont was re-elected chairman at the recent annual meeting, is a greatly misunderstood body. The man on the street seems to have the idea that it manages race courses, superintends the financial arrangements and a number of other departments that make it a very wealthy as well as an influential body. As a matter of fact its activities are solely along the paternal lines of framing suitable rules under which racing shall be conducted and then seeing that these are duly observed at all meetings held under its jurisdiction. Its genesis is interesting. It was formed in the spring of 1894 when high-class racing was in dire straits, owing to unwise legislation which permitted many abuses. A mass meeting of trainers, owners and others was called and a demand made for the formation of a governing body which should cleanse the Augean stable. The first chairman was John Hunter, but the man who did the real work and to whom the success of the project was undoubtedly due, was Mr. Belmont, in whose favor Mr Hunter voluntarily retired in the January of 1895 and who has been chairman ever since.—[New York Spur.

INSURANCE COVERS LOSS OF SUNLIGHT.

Kenneth D. Alexander, upon purchasing Sunlight, the much talked about imported Sundridge colt, at the Mackay sale last December, took out a mortality policy on the animal for $7,500, through the live stock department of Willcox, Peck & Hughes. Mr. Alexander will therefore collect that amount of money in payment of his loss, following the colt's death at the Lexington track.

Jefferson Livingston, the James R. Keene estate, G. L. Blackford, Frank J. Pons, and G W. J. Bissell are among the more prominent owners who have collected their losses on policies placed by the above firm, which is probably the largest in New York.

Many others as well have collected their losses through this firm, which asserts that every loss under policies placed by them has been paid within thirty days, and, furthermore, paid in full without any deductions. All of which would tend to show that the insuring of thoroughbreds, whether by large owners or small, is good business policy.—[New York Telegraph.

At the Windsor, England, meeting, January 14, the American bred horse Castleton, by Peter Pan—Mintcake, carried 166 pounds and won the Suffolk Maiden Steeplechase at two miles and 100 yards, easily defeating six opponents. Simon Mac was the favorite at 2 to 1 and Castleton second choice at 3 to 1, backed down from 6 to 1.

JUST AN OVERSIGHT.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 3.—Harry Payne Whitney, multimillionaire sportsman of New York, whose great filly, Regret, won the Kentucky Derby, May 8, 1915, has just requested a duplicate check for $11,450, the value of the purse. Mr. Whitney, who was present Derby day, was given a check after the race. Officials of the South Louisville Bank, on which the draft was drawn, waited in vain for Mr. Whitney to cash the check. The President a few days ago wrote to Mr. Whitney advising him the money was awaiting his wishes and asked why the check had not come through. Mr. Whitney replied, saying he supposed the check had been lost, and asked that a stop-order be registered against the original draft and a duplicate forwarded to him. This has been done.

BOOKMAKERS DOOMED ON MARYLAND TRACKS.

New York, February 2.—Bookmakers have chalked the odds probably for the last time in Maryland. The Maryland Legislature, now in session, is expected to pass a bill limiting all wagering to the pari-mutuels, together with a measure that will provide for state tax on the gross revenue on each track.

The promoters of the Laurel, Pimlico, Havre de Grace and Bowie tracks have buried the hatchet and are prepared to fight shoulder to shoulder for the preservation of the sport. Bookmaking flourished in Maryland for many years, until the Laurel track, managed by Matt J. Winn, introduced the machines.

DEATH OF JAMES H. McGAVOCK.

Writing in The Evening Journal Richmond, Va., W. J. Carter says:

"In the passing of James H. McGavock we have seen the last of a Virginia gentleman of the old school and a representative breeder of thoroughbred horses and fine cattle at his magnificent estate, known as Fort Chiswell, near Max Meadows, in Wythe county, Va. Mr. McGavock was seventy-four years old and a veteran of the Civil War. During a busy and useful career he had filled various positions of trust with honor and devotion. In former years the Fort Chiswell stud was headed by imported The Jacobite, son of Prince Charlie and Little Lady, by Orlando. Flatlands, by Woodlands, out of famous Maggie B. B., dam of Iroquois, succeeded The Jacobite, and from his loins came frequent winners, among them Land of Clover, the champion of his year and one of the best cross-country performers America has produced. The dead Virginian is survived by a widow and four sons, among them Dr. Edward P. McGavock, a prominent physician of Richmond, who has qualified as executor of the estate and as guardian of John Fulton McGavock, a younger brother, who is under age."

Havana Stewards Banish Turfman.

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 1.—At a meeting of the stewards today, W. J. Carlin was ruled off for his connection with the Jockey Turner case. Carlin is said to have been the party who placed the money. He left for New Orleans shortly after the ruling against Turner and is reported as being located in that city at present.

The purchase of the high-priced Crepuscule, by Meddler, and other horses at the Clarence H. Mackay sale is an indication of the return to racing of Grant Hugh Browne, who was quite prominent some years ago and will probably be best remembered by his bringing over from England that truly phenomenal steeplechaser, John M. P. This horse was not only one of the most impressive and symmetrical animals ever seen in the United States, but, up to two miles across country, he was without a peer and made a sorry spectacle of most of his competitors in 1906—when Mr. Browne's colors were very much in evidence.—[New York Spur.

Of the forty-eight foreign horses arriving on the Minnehaha, twenty-eight are consigned to A. B. Hancock, who has the stallion Celt established at Charlottesville, Va. This breeder and sportsman has been a liberal buyer of thoroughbreds, and the news of his latest purchase occasions little surprise.—[New York Telegraph.

TWO-YEAR-OLD RACING.

[London Sporting Life].

According to latest exchanges from America, two-year-olds are to be prohibited after next year from racing before April 1, and this decision appears to have aroused a good deal of interest in United States turf circles. The question of two-year-old racing in this country has for generations occupied the attention of legislators and would-be reformers, and numerous have been the experiments tried and the devices suggested with a view to remedying certain well-understood disadvantages. Researches into the pages of old "Calendars" disclose the fact that yearling used to be regularly raced, but the immature thoroughbred long since ceased to be so injudiciously employed.

As the age of a racehorse dates officially from Jan. 1, it is, of course, beyond question, that during the early months of the season, youngsters still actually under two years old do take part in so-called two-year-old events. The owner or trainer, however, who really has the interest of the thoroughbred at heart, is seldom or never guilty of any such attempt at forcing young animals in this way. A few years ago a rule was passed restricting the value of races for juveniles up to the end of May, and this has certainly exercised a salutary effect, though such early events as the Brocklesby Stakes have undoubtedly become less important in consequence. An attempt was also made to revive half-mile mile races for two-year-olds during the earlier months of the season, but this, for several reasons, was short-lived, and the five-furlong minimum is now more firmly established than ever.

Whether it is detrimental, or otherwise, to train and run horses at so tender an age, it is not our purpose to now argue, but many successful trainers of the past have certainly been opposed to the principle. In France, too, the early racing of two-year-olds is discouraged as far as possible, and now we have the new move in America already alluded to. In the United States, however, racing goes on practically all the year round, and thus it has been permissible for a young colt or filly to begin on New Year's Day. The adoption of the new rule will, therefore, do away with any such absurdity, and can hardly fail to have a beneficial effect on the subsequent breeding stock of the country. It is interesting to note, by the way, that the extensive importations of English thoroughbreds to America during the present year, is causing some "flattering in the dovecotes" of our Transatlantic cousins, but that is a matter upon which we, at any rate, can afford to look with equanimity. During the period in which racing in America suffered from the unwelcome, if successful activities of the faddiste, hundreds, if not thousands of yearlings were shipped over here for sale, and quite a good proportion of them turned out successful. It is now the turn of the English thoroughbred to repay the compliment, at least no harm can be done.

LIKE BEGETS LIKE.

As a general rule experience has shown that the old idea about a staying sire begetting stock after his own pattern, was well founded. Here and there exceptions are to be found, and a notable case was that of Sundridge. After his good son, Sunstar, had won the Derby of 1911, practically on three legs, there was a good deal of copy written and pulished in favor of using stallions which, on the turf, like Sundridge, had been distinguished only for speed. It was then suggested that but for becoming thick-winded, Sundridge himself would have gained success over a distance of ground. That method of accounting for the fact that his best son was able to stay the Epsom mile and a half, found much favor, but, anyhow, stallions whose chief commendation was speed, experienced quite a little boom in consequence. Sundridge, however, although in appearance a typical sprinter, sired one or two other fairly good stayers in addition to Sunstar. His daughter, Jest, for example, won the Oaks, after first securing the One Thousand. According to statistical tables in the "Bloodstock Breeders' Review," the average distance of his stock for the last six years is a shade under seven furlongs and a quarter. Spearmint, although himself a great stayer, appears in the list for last season among the "sires of intermediates." the average distance of the six races won by his stock being only a mile and half a furlong.

The first foal reported from the Brookdale farm of Messrs. Dyment at Barrie is a colt by Heresy—Depends, a fighting little fellow, with all the fire of his daddy.

THE JOHANNESBURG SUMMER HANDICAP.

From "The Latest" we learn that the Johannesburg Summer Handicap (1,200 sovs. one mile and a quarter), which was run on Saturday, December 18, was won by Hon. H. Wyndham's four-year-old colt Winnipeg. Winnipeg started a good second favorite, at 7 to 2 against, to Highbury, which held pride of place at 3 to 1. So much, however, was the chance of Winnipeg esteemed, that as little as 5 to 1 was taken about him before the appearance of the weights, and his victory was very popular. The Jay and Winnipeg, when close home, were racing together, when the latter bumped The Jay badly, and it was only after a desperate finish that Winnipeg beat Azra. Had The Jay finished second to Winnipeg, an objection and an upset in the result would probably have followed. There were fourteen runners, inclusive of such well known importations from England as Draughtsman (9 st. 3 lb.) and Tip Top (7 st. 13 lb.) The winner, which was ridden by L. Allen, was bred in South Africa by his owner, and is by King's Favorite out of Thornaby, by Laveno.

It is interesting to note that King's Favorite, the sire of Winnipeg, is a ten-year-old horse by Morganatic out of the American bred mare, Favora, by Himyar, out of Favoress, by Macaroon. He was bred in England by Mr. P. FitzGerald, and was bought as a yearling in 1907 by Mr. Hugh Wyndham for 620 guineas and sent out to South Africa.

On Dec. 4, in South Africa, Hattie Weldon, by Sain—Charm, won the Auckland Park Plate. She was bred by J. B. Respess.

-BEN TROVATO-

BEN TROVATO is a seal brown horse, 16½ hands high. Sired by imp. Alvescot, a son of Raeburn and he a son of St. Simon. Ben Trovato is out of Golden Rose, by Goldfinch, a son of Ormonde, she out of imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, she out of Ambuscade, by Camerino, a son of Stockwell, and she out of Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world. Ben Trovato was raced four years and was as fast as horses ever show. He won miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39 1-5, 1½ miles 1:52, 1:52, 1:52 1-5, 1¾ miles in 2:04 2-5, and as a two-year-old ran ⅝ in 0:58½ seconds. The great No. 5 family—Gaitee More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

    - Illuminata (Dam of Ladas) — Rosicrucian, Paraffin

WRACK was a stake winner in England for five seasons accounting for about $35,000 and retired sound.

As a two-year-old he won Sandown Park Stud Produce Stakes, beating Jaeger, second in 1912 Derby, The Lancashire Nursery, Sportsman Nursery Handicap, Wallington Plate and was a close second in three other stakes. He afterwards won Whitesuntide Plate, Houghton Handicap, Newmarket Biennial Stakes 1½ miles, Newbury Spring Cup twice and was beaten, 119 lbs. up a short head for the rich Kempton Jubilee Handicap, 1¼ miles 2:02 4-5, giving the winner Diadumenos 9 lbs.

Wrack's second dam, Chelandry, won the One Thousand Guineas in 1897, and is not only dam of the Two Thousand Guineas winner, Neil Gow, and of Traquair; she is also half-sister to Gas, by Ayrshire whose son Cicero won the Derby, and to Ladas, winner of the Derby. This is, of course, the famous Paraffin family, which includes Glare (a grand-daughter of Paraffin) by Ayrshire dam of Flair (sold for 12,000 guineas and winner of the Middle Park Plate and One Thousand Guineas), Lady Lightfoot (dam of Prince Palatine winner of the St. Leger, and sold for £40,000) Lesbia (winner of the Middle Park Plate and sold for 9,000 guineas), Vivid (is good winner and sold for 7,600 guineas), Menda (sold as a two-year-old for 5,600 guineas, and dam of Rossendale) winner in 1915 of £4,371.

LEXINGTON, SATURDAY, FEB. 12, 1916.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Feb. 1.

Editor Thoroughbred Record:

In your issue of Jan. 22, Mr. John E. Madden in his reply to my article "The American Thoroughbred of Yesterday and Today" seems to have missed the main point in the case, the gist of the argument. The article was not intended to belittle the American Thoroughbred, but was an arraignment of our system of racing which has caused him to be what he is today, a sprinter pure and simple. On all questions pertaining to excessive two-year-old and sprint racing Mr. Madden was as silent as the grave. If there is any excuse or justification for this system I would like to be enlightened, as I am of the opinion that it is the chief source of our troubles. I expressly exonerated the American horse, which is a victim of conditions over which he has no control, and placed the responsibility where it rightly belongs in the following words, "This is not the fault of the horse, nor of the American breeder, although the majority of them seem to be breeding for quantity rather than quality, but the responsibility rests on those who conducted the race meetings and made the conditions of the races."

Mr. Madden says what I wrote about the performances of American horses in England is misleading, that I wrote as though we had sent no stayers to England since the days of Parole, Iroquois and Foxhall. In this he begs the question, for there is nothing in the article to justify such a construction. I said "thirty or forty years ago the American thoroughbred was the equal of any on earth. This was conclusively proven by the feats of Parole, Foxhall and Iroquois, which invaded foreign countries and beat them on their own grounds. I also said "during the past six or eight years we have exported to foreign countries at least a thousand American bred yearlings, none of which have held their own over any distance of ground except Whisk Broom, and he was regarded as a sprinter abroad. When he returned to his native land he gave chunks of weight and several beatings to our best horses." If Mr. Madden was misled by these statements, and construed them to mean that we had sent no stayers to England since the days of Parole, Iroquois and Foxhall, it strikes me he had to go back a good many years, more than half the thirty year journey, to find a horse on which to base an argument. Kilmarnock and David Garrick were foaled in the year 1897, just nineteen years ago.

Mr. Madden seems to be proud of the fact that a few winners of the English classics had American blood in their veins. If he will look over the list of the best horses that have raced in this country for the past fifteen or twenty years he will be surprised to find what a large per cent. of them were by imported stallions or out of imported mares, to-wit: Imp, by imported Wagner; Ethelbert, by imported Eothen; Ornament, by imported Order; Kinley Mack, by imp. Islington; Herbert and Bonnibert, by imp. Albert; Watercolor and Waterboy, by imp. Watercress; Hermis, by imp. Hermence; Advance Guard, by imp. Great Tom; Africander, by imp. Star Ruby; Irish Lad, by imp. Candlemas; Stalwart, Colonial Girl and Tanya, by imp. Meddler; Ballot, by imp. Voter; Good and Plenty, by imp. Rossington; etc., etc., etc., while Beldame, Broomstick, Peter Pan, Gunfire, etc. were out of imported mares. If I were to undertake to publish the performances of these horses and others bred along the same lines it would take the entire space of a daily newspaper. It is interesting to note that as the most of our big handicaps are at the mile and a quarter distance that the four horses which have made the best time for that distance are Ballot, by an imported horse out of an imported mare; Roamer, by an imported horse out of an imported mare; Broomstick, by an American horse out of an imported mare, and his son Whisk Broom. Our mile and three-eighths record was held by Irish Lad, by an imported horse; our mile and five-eighths record by Africander, by an imported horse out of a mare by an imported horse; our two miles and a quarter record held by Ethelbert, by an imported horse out of an imported mare. I want to be distinctly understood as not taking time as the test, but think it is significant that so many of our records over a distance of ground are held by horses with such a large per cent. of imported blood in them. Two other horses, Roamer and Sysonby, in whose veins there was not a drop of American blood, to which I desire to call Mr. Madden's special attention. The performances of Roamer are of too recent a date to require any comment from me. Suffice it to say this little gelding was the champion race horse in America in the year 1914, and in the year 1915. In the handicaps he was assigned the place of honor, and he usually took up top weight and came home in front, not once but many times. In the year 1905, Sysonby began his three-year-old career by racing Race King, an older and thoroughly seasoned horse, a dead-heat for the Metropolitan Handicap, and in all his subsequent races it was Sysonby first, the others nowhere. He made the American horses whose owners had the temerity to start them against him look like common hacks. If we could send one horse to England that would do unto their horses as Sysonby and Roamer have done unto ours, then we could do some hollowing, and I would hollow just as long and just as loud as Mr. Madden, but until then being a modest man I must keep quiet.

Mr. Madden says, "Our American thoroughbreds today possess more speed and more stamina than in the days of the horses mentioned by Mr. Hancock. The pace tells the story." The horses that ran against Sysonby and Roamer answer this assertion. The expression "The pace tells the story" is rather vague, but I infer he means that speed is the test and the watch is the best judge. If this is his meaning he is in error again. Speed, stamina and weight carrying ability all go to make a racehorse, and one that is deficient in any of these qualities is not the real thing, and the man that breeds to a sprinter (whether native or imported) hoping to get stayers has a small chance, as the stream does not rise higher than its source and water always runs down hill. If time is the test then the horses that are running at Juarez this winter are better than the ones that ran at Saratoga last summer. The Bard when he won the Brooklyn Handicap from Hanover in 1888 made the slowest time in which that race was ever run, yet no one would say that The Bard was the worst horse that ever won the Brooklyn. Track conditions and other things have a great deal to do with the time made. In conclusion I wish to think Mr. Madden for having published an itemized account of the performances of Iroquois after he had returned to the United States from England, which shows there were at least five horses, George Kinney, Eole, Miss Woodford, Monitor and Drake Carter, in this country, which could beat him after he had gone to England and won the Derby, their most coveted race, thus verifying the fact that our horses of those times were as good if not better than any on earth.

Let the racing associations do the right thing, and the American thoroughbred of tomorrow may be as good as the one of yesterday. Performances may not make our horses eligible to registration in the English Stud Book, but when we raise horses that show their ability to take up weight and beat all others over a distance of ground we can expect to have some visitors coming to our shores in quest of blood stock as they have been going to England these many years, and this is no joke.

R. J. HANCOCK, JR.

OUR HORSES IMPROVING EVERY YEAR.

HAMBURG PLACE, Feb. 9, 1916.

Editor Thoroughbred Record:

Mr. R. J. Hancock, Jr., in an article published in your issue of January 14th, referred to our thoroughbred horses as a joke. In a second article, which has come to my attention, he appears to have changed his mind, inasmuch as he names some twenty horses of the present or very recent day—most of them raced since 1901, the year in which David Garrick and Kilmarnock won the long distance races of England and France—and refers to their performances as of the highest class.

Turfmen knew this before reading Mr. Hancock's article entitled "The American Thoroughbred of Yesterday and Today." Had Mr. Hancock expressed himself in that first article as he does in his second article, no issue would have been raised. At no time have our breeding farms had upon them horses of higher class than now.

Mr. Hancock's reminder that certain winning horses were of English blood was not necessary. As the readers of THE RECORD are well aware, the majority of our horses are of that blood. Take from American breeders this English blood, and the American Stud Book would be reduced to a pamphlet.

That we have always been dependent upon English blood is shown by our importations. Diomed, winner of the first Derby in England in 1780, was brought over and after him came to our shores a dozen other winners of that classic, namely: Saltram, John Bull, Spread Eagle, Sir Harry, Archduke, Lap Dog, Priam, St. Giles, St. Blaise, St. Gatien, Ormonde and Rock Sand, not forgetting that Iroquois was returned to this country after his triumphant race for that great event at Epsom.

Other sturdy horses of English breeding whose names are quite familiar to students of pedigrees in our country, and which were brought over to diffuse their blood until it is represented in hundreds of the horses now roaming the fields in our land or racing upon our tracks, were Lexington, Glencoe, Glenelg, Australian, Rayon d'Or, Billet, Wagner, Buckden, Glen Athol, Bonnie Scotland, The Ill-Used, Mr. Pickwick, Scythian, Yorkshire, Sovereign, Order, and dozens of others of more recent date, including Meddler and Adam.

In boasting of the victories of half a dozen good horses having English parentage on one side or the other, Mr. Hancock leaves the impression possibly that these horses were defeating horses representing no English blood. In this connection let it be noted that Mr. Hancock omitted from his discussion of good horses the names of Celt, winner of the Brooklyn Handicap; King James and Salvidere, both winners of the Annual Champion; Gold Heels, winner of the Suburban, and Fitz Herbert, winner of the Bowie Stakes.

Further support for my contention that we are annually improving our breed and that we have better horses than of yesterday is to be found in the following list of leading money winning horses in America since 1902, as given in the American Racing Manual, and in which there are only two of strictly English Breeding:

1904	Delhi	75,225
1906	Accountant	83,570
1907	Colin	131,007
1908	Sir Martin	78,590
1909	Joe Madden	44,905
1910	Novelty	72,630
1911	Worth	16,645
1912	Star Charter	14,655
1913	Old Rosebud	19,057

To offset any impression that our thoroughbreds have deteriorated during the past forty years until they are without stamina, let it be put down here that, while English stallions have been making success in this country, our mares have been adding to our fame abroad—in South America, in Australia and even in England. Does not Mr. Hancock recall that in Australia Lempriere, winner of the Australian Cup at three miles, was out of Colline, a daughter of Hanover from Jura, by Himyar, and does he not remember that Orby, one of the two sons of the great Orme to win the Derby in England, was out of Rhoda B., a daughter of Hanover?

In conclusion let me say that while the identity of some of our thoroughbreds was lost during the war it is evident that they retained their purity of blood, and that our thoroughbreds of today are the equal of any in the world. JOHN E. MADDEN.

Both Mr. Hancock and Mr. Madden appear to have overlooked the performance of Lady Errant, winner of the Latonia Cup at 2¼ miles, since her name was not mentioned in their articles. She is by Roamer's sire out of an American mare. Star Jasmine, winner of this same race last fall, is a daughter of imp. Ogden out of a mare by imp. Star Shoot, both English, yet the dam of this good mare traces to an American family. The Finn, bred on the same lines (Ogden—Star Shoot) won the Canadian Derby, the Belmont, and the Withers.—[ED.

The remarkable promptness with which Willcox, Peck & Hughes settled the loss occasioned by the death of K. D. Alexander's Sunlight, chestnut colt, 2, by Sundridge—Spectrum, on which they had insurance amounting to $7,500, speaks volumes for the efficient business methods of this firm. This colt was insured with them on December 28th, 1915, died January 17th, 1916, and their check dated February 8, 1916, has been mailed to Mr. Alexander.

In the two-year-old race at New Orleans, Wednesday, Bedtime Stories, by Marta Santa—Dancing Wave, demonstrated that she is really a good filly when she lowered the track record for three and a half furlongs, running it in 0:41 1-5, which was one-fifth of a second better than the old mark. She was eased up after running the quarter in 0:22 4-5 and the three-eighths in 0:35, winning by four lengths. G. A. Cochran's stable furnished three of the nine starters in this race.

Bessanta and Solveig, two-year-olds by Marta Santa, have each won their last three starts, so Marta Santa is represented already this year by three good two-year-old winners.

EASTERN GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The French bred two-year-old filly Bright Eyes, by Ethelbert out of Qu'est Belle, died in Mr. Belmont's stable at Belmont Park. This was a bay or brown filly, which though small and very low in flesh when she landed in this country, was a youngster of good conformation and rich breeding. At the sale Mr. Belmont paid $800 for her, but she shipped badly, and was extremely poor and weak when she landed, and she appeared unable to rally. After the sale she was transferred to Belmont Park, but she continued to fall away, and died at 10 p. m. Sunday.

Danger Rock, the big four-year-old chestnut colt by Rock Sand out of Delusion, by Meddler, has improved wonderfully during his short stay at Belmont Park. He is now in good condition. He stands 16 hands 1½ inches high, and is a horse of rather exceptional range and substance for his inches. He has the look of a real racehorse all over. He has a long neck, which is full of quality, rangy oblique shoulders and beautiful quarters.

Mr. Belmont has sold two of his Kentucky bred two-year-olds. To E. J. Albright he sold the flashy looking bay colt Flare by Fair Play—Donna Mia, and to H. W. Warner, the former owner of Lily Orme, he sold the chestnut filly Felucca, by Trap Rock—Fizgig.

Trainer Hildreth is justly proud of the splendid training stable of which he has charge. In fact it is a part of the finely equipped training headquarters of the Belmont horses. It is on the same side of Hempstead avenue with the United Hunts Association racing plant and opposite to the Belmont Park race track proper. The stable is large and roomy and is fitted up with the latest and most improved appliances. It is equipped with electric lights in every stall and in every room of any kind under the stable roof.

Mr. Hildreth has the colts of the Belmont two-year-old division in his stable. They are as follows: Deckmate, brown colt by Hastings—Dragnet; Woodtrap, a large and beautiful chestnut colt by Trap Rock—Woodvine; Hourless, a dark brown (imported) by Negofol—Hourglass: Deer Trap, a splendid bay colt by Trap Rock—Delusion; Rockport, a good looking chestnut by Trap Rock—Retained, a colt which has developed remarkably since he came up from the Nursery; Almandite, a very large and handsome chestnut colt by Hastings—Annot Lyle, and Sandusky, a large and particularly sturdy looking bay colt by Hastings—Sans Gene. This last mentioned colt is a youngster of especially taking individuality. He is an upheaded, upstanding colt, above the average size of thrifty colts of his age, and while not especially long of body, has exceptional substance everywhere. He is a colt of great girth, great depth through the heart region and through the flank, has a high and heavily muscled loin, rangy and oblique shoulders, broad full chest, and quarters which are simply immense. He has big clean hocks and knees, which are close to the ground, and short cannon bones, strong, clean and flat. He showed a fine turn of speed last autumn before being turned out for the winter, and, altogether, he may be regarded as an unusually promising colt.

On the racetrack side of Hempstead avenue and within the racetrack premises proper, Mr. Belmont has another fine training stable which is in charge of William Brennan. Here are quartered the two-year-old fillies which came up from the Nursery last autumn, and they, too, are looking finely. Among these are Cocklesbell, a pretty and smart-looking chestnut filly by Trap Rock out of Crossways; the blond chestnut filly Mill Maid, by Fair Play out of Madcap; the brown filly Lucky Catch, by Trap Rock out of Lucky Lass; Nancy Fair, a bay filly by Fair Play out of Nineveh (this filly is an own sister to Norse King), and Serenest, a brown filly by Trap Rock out of Souveraine.

The four three-year-old thoroughbreds which Clarence H. Mackay recently imported from his Haras de Fresnay in Normandy, France, are now being exercised daily under saddle in the big ring at Durland's, 5 West Sixty-sixth street, from 12:30 to 2 o'clock, under the supervision of Charles F. Hill, who has been commissioned by Mr. Mackay to dispose of the animals at private sale. The daily appearance of these high-class thoroughbreds naturally invests the mid-day hour at Durland's with extraordinary interest, and as this quartette of colts was specially retained by their owner from the entire 1913 crop of the Haras de Fresnay it is not surprising that they invariably make a favorable impression.

Harry Fleming will sail to-day to arrange for the shipment of thirty-five of the Duryea thoroughbreds to be sold here at public auction.

Fleming will have charge of Foxhall Keene's good filly Puss in Boots, which will go over on the same ship to run for the Oaks.

On the same steamer which will bring over the 35 Duryea thoroughbreds, it is expected that an important consignment of thoroughbreds will be shipped to John Sanford.

Thomas Fortune Ryan and Mrs. Ryan spent an hour and a half on board the Minnehaha Sunday afternoon looking over Mr. Ryan's imported broodmares.

Now that W. R. Coe has fairly launched his Wyoming ranch enterprise, as evidenced by his latest purchase of broodmares in England, it is anticipated that he will be in the market for a high-class English sire during the coming summer. He has a lot of royally-bred two-year-old colts, but they would be too young for service next spring, even if one of them should not be needed in his racing stable. He is a turfman who does nothing by halves, and no doubt he will import a sire which should be of great benefit to the breeding interests of this country, although the remoteness of his ranch from the great racing and breeding centers of this country might render the services of any valuable horse which he might import, practically unavailable to the general public for the present at least.

ENGLISH HORSES ON MINNEHAHA.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The Atlantic Transport liner Minnehaha docked at Pier 58, North River, about 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, having left London January 26. She brought over forty-one horses, but of these only twenty-seven were thoroughbreds. Seven were hunters, six were shire horses, and there was one small prize-winnig hackney of the cob type, making forty-one in all.

As far as the condition of the horses is concerned, the Minnehaha has made a reputation for herself this trip, for no shipment of horses from the other side of the Atlantic has been landed in New York this season looking as well as this lot. True, the voyage was not a long one, but it is remarkable that so many horses could make a winter passage across the Atlantic and look as well as even the roughest of the Minnehaha's equine passengers did yesterday. Not one of them is thin in flesh, and there does not appear to have been a trace of sickness among them during the voyage.

An important feature of this shipment is six two-year-olds for F. Ambrose Clark. Of these four are fillies and two colts, but in the absence of documents for identification little can be said of them individually, but collectively they are a particularly fine looking lot.

Both the colts are by Dark Ronald, one a brown and the other a bay. While both are large and of the massive sort, the brown appears to be the most taking of the two. He is a big, high-crested fellow, showing a lot of quality about head, neck and quarters, and is of a peculiarly masculine type all over. The bay is perhaps fully as large as his stablemate, but he appears to be less masculine in general outline. It is understood that the dam of the brown is Arletta. The bay is marked with a blaze and three white feet.

Possibly the most noticeable in the quartette of fillies is a sturdy and handsome brown with a blaze and near hind foot and off fore foot white. She is high-crested and rather masculine in type for a filly, and, in addition to this, she appears to have rather bad temper, with no particular fondness for strangers, although she seems to have taken a liking to a hunter which stands in the next box, and he is on the best of terms with her. This filly has heavy and smoothly-rounded quarters, a large and well shaped barrel, with well sprung back ribs, good shoulders and short, strong cannon bones, which are clean and flat.

In the next box stands a bright bay filly, somewhat larger than the brown just mentioned, and both rangy and massive for a two-year-old. She is a youngster of good bone and great substance, although some might find fault with the rather unusual breadth of her chest.

A very taking individual, as far as could be judged in the insufficient light between decks, is a racy-looking brown filly of good size, range and substance, said to be by Roquelaure out of Dianne.

The smallest of the four fillies is a bright bay, but anything said concerning the pedigress of these youngsters must be regarded as subject to even the most radical revision.

The shipment of broodmares sent to W. R. Coe, included ten, but one of the mares, Recoil, by Carbine out of Broad Corrie, and in foal to Stedfast, died in England before being shipped, thus cutting the lot down to nine.

The other mares all landed in fine condition, and they are a fine-looking lot. Following is a complete and revised list of these mares together with the sires to which they are in foal.

Berenice, b m, foaled 1907 in the United States, by St. Simonian II.—Isis by Bend Or, out of Shotover by Hermit. This mare was exported from this country to England and now has been brought back to the United States, where she was foaled. She is in foal to Valens.

Fair Maid, b m, 1911, by Ovisto—Tirara. In foal to Myram.

Home Bird, b m, 1909, by Thrush—Honey Holme. This mare was exported from England to Belgium as a two-year-old, and imported back to England, whence she was sent to this country. She is in foal to Willonyx.

Bibury Belle, b m, 1909, by Sollman—Roslin by Blairfinde. In foal to Cicero.

Mavis, b m, 1908, by Missel Thrush—Melete by Bona Vista. In foal to Land League.

Isette, b m, 1910, by Isinglass—Brielle. In foal to Bridge of Allan.

Garner, b m, 1912, by Radium—Baronda. In foal to Winstanley.

These broodmares belonging to Mr. Coe were shipped down to Red Bank last evening, where they will remain for the present, but later they will be sent to Mr. Coe's Shoshone Valley Ranch in Wyoming, where they will join two more mares which are already on the ranch. These two American mares are Equality, in foal to Whisk Broom II., and Hassock, in foal to Peter Pan.

Thomas Fortune Ryan's broodmares, were shipped by M. H. Dooley to John E. Madden's Hamburg Place, Lexington, Kentucky.

The six yearlings which were sent over to Jefferson Livingston are all a fine lot, being larger than many two-year-olds which have been shipped across the Atlantic this winter. There is not a small or scrubby one in the half dozen, and nearly or quite without exception they show rather exceptional quality. They are as follows:

Black filly by Cherry King—Desmora.

Black filly by Thrush—Jovial Jane.

Bay colt by Day Comet—Beautiful Sight.

Bay colt by Fugleman—Delicia.

A four-year-old chestnut colt has been sent over for J. P. Kirlin, and he will be shipped to that gentleman's country home in Locust Valley.

Seven large and handsome hunters came over on the Minnehaha. Six of these are for Harry Payne Whitney and two for Mr. Craven.

HOT SPRINGS ANNOUNCES RACE MEETING.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., Feb. 7.—The famous Oaklawn Race Course, the finest winter track and equipment in the South, will be opened to stage a race meeting, beginning March 11, and continuing for 21 days.

This definite and positive announcement was made today by President Strauss, of the Business Men's League, following conferences that have been held on the subject for several days between representatives of the Oaklawn property and this business organization, under whose auspices the races will be held.

An agent of the business men here will be delegated today with authority to make up the schedule of races for the twenty-one days and an absolute guarantee the purses has been provided for.

It is anticipated that the rule of purses now scheduled at the winter meeting under the auspices of the Business Men's Racing Association of New Orleans will be taken as the standard.

While the meeting is scheduled but for twenty-one days, yet it is anticipated that it will go thirty days, and arrangements have been made for the premises for that period.

A popular subscription from the business interests of Hot Springs has guaranteed the financial backing of the meeting, which even without the presence of open booking, will, it is believed, be the most successful held here. The resort is now well filled with visitors and the racing announcement will be responded to by hundreds for hotel reservations who have in communications already stated they were coming if the race meet was carried out as had been indicated in former press dispatch

DURYEA WAS LEADING SPIRIT AMONG SPORTSMEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Herman B. Duryea, who died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., on January 25, had long been famous in the international world of sport. It may, indeed, be said of Mr. Duryea that his personal popularity and uniform successes in various fields had made him a unique and leading figure among sporsmen durg the past three decades, and his untimely decease is universally deplored.

Mr. Duryea was truly a versatile sportsman. He loved dogs, and owned and bred only the best, his successes in all field trials being remarkable. Mr. Duryea was also an expert shot, being second to none in the field or at the traps. For many years he had made a specialty of breeding gamecocks, and the representatives of his breeding were known and feared all over the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Mr. Duryea was an extensive breader of livestock. He owned a vast estate at Hickory Valley, Hardeman County, Tenn., where he did more to educate and instruct the Southern farmer than had ever been done by any man or Agricultural College in America. He taught them the advantages of diversified crops, and he instructed them, by illustration, in the care of cattle, sheep and hogs, by placing vats for "dipping" the animals to remove the ticks and other vermin.

Five years ago Mr. Duryea established the first short horn cattle farm in Tennessee, and it was then the only thoroughbred short horn cattle farm in the State. Today there are 126 such farms in Tennessee, for Mr. Duryea's farm demonstrated and proved that as large and just as good cattle can be raised in the South as anywhere in this land, and that they can be raised more cheaply.

Mr. Duryea's Tennessee work, his efforts and his successes have been appreciated and endorsed by every newspaper in the South, and it may well be said that Hickory Valley will be a monument to his memory. In the Memphis Commercial Appeal of Sunday, April 25, 1915, appeared an illustrated article on Mr. Duryea and his work at Hickory Valley, this article beginning with the statement that "Mr. H. B. Duryea, on his farm at Hickory Valley in Hardeman County, is doing more practical work for the South than all the Governors, Senators, Congressmen and Legislators in three States."

Mr. Duryea's fame as an international sportsman was first in connection with yachting. In 1895, when Mr. Duryea was in England, he sent to America to the Herreshoffs for a "two and a half-rater," which he called Vaquero II. This boat Mr. Duryea entered in thirty-two races in England against sixteen boats in the class of "two and a half-raters." "The Yankees," as the Vaquero II. and her party were called, won twenty-six flags, although in competition with all the formidable English boats of her class.

Mr. Duryea has been for a number of yerrs one of the foremost American patrons of the sport of breeding and racing the thoroughbred horse. His first thoroughbred venture in this long and successful campaign was in association with Mr. Harry Payne Whitney. Early in the racing season of 1902 these gentlemen purchased the two-year-old winner Irish Lad, and at Sheepshead Bay Irish Lad continued his successes by carrying the "green, white bars on sleeves, white cap" to victory in two sweepstakes and the $20,000 Great Trial Stakes. At Saratoga Irish Lad maintained his winning form by capturing the famous Saratoga Special. During this meeting the firm of Whitney & Duryea purchased the two-year-old Acefull, and the remainder of the racing season witnessed a continuation of their successes in important events, Irish Lad winning the Flatbush Stakes at Sheepshead Bay, and Acefull the Junior Champion at Gravesend.

Acefull was sent to England to run in the Derby of 1903, having become Mr. Duryea's sole property, but the colt performed indifferently. Irish Lad, however, continued to keep the "green and white banner" prominent in this country by winning his inaugural three-year-old effort, the Brooklyn Handicap, and among his other successes of the season the most notable was probably the Saratoga Champion, in which he defeated the mighty Hermis at weight-for-age. This year the firm raced him under the nom de course of the "Westbury Stable," and also won the Brooklyn Derby with Whorler, which, like Irish Lad and Acefull, had been purchased from John E. Madden. In 1904 Mr. Duryea took the field with a large and powerful stable, having upon the death of Hon. William C. Whitney, leased the splendid stable with which Mr. Whitney would have raced that season had he lived.

Mr. Duryea was now the sole owner of Irish Lad, having purchased his former partner's interest, and Irish Lad added to his previous laurels by winning the Sheepshead Bay Advance Stakes, despite an infirmity which was becoming more and more troublesome, and which eventually caused his narrow defeat and virtual breakdown in the Brighton Handicap. As might have been expected, the Whitney-bred two-year-olds achieved splendid successes for Mr. Duryea, Artful winning the Futurity and Great Filly; Tanya the National Stallion, Spinaway and Hopeful; Princess Rupert the filly section of the Brighton Produce; Sandria the filly section of the Morris Park Matron, and Bedouin the colt section of the Matron. Mr. Duryea led the American list of winning owners that season with a total of thirty-seven races won of the value of $196,858 46.

During the next few seasons, Mr. Duryea raced a large string with considerable success, his winners including Chieftain, Dreamer, Iota, Pioneer, Rose of Dawn, Ben Ban, Mediant and Running Water. The adverse turf legislation of 1908 in New York State was deeply resented by Mr. Duryea, leading to his decision to transfer his entire thoroughbred interest to France, where he acquired a farm in Normandy and established a breeding stud with his first great winner, Irish Lad, as premier stallion, the matrons comprising a number of American-bred mares and a few select French purchases. The successes achieved by Mr. Duryea in France were most remarkable. He not only bred important winners, but also purchased them. Race after race of supreme importance was captured by his representatives during the period of 1909 and 1914, until the war necessitated the cessation of French racing, and the English turf records also testify to Mr. Duryea's successes there. Mediant went from America to England in 1909 to win the Stewards Cup at Goodwood and the Hurst Park Champion Sprint Handicap. In 1909 an unintentional violation of a technicality in the French rules of registration necessitated Mr. Duryea racing his French-bred colt Sweeper in England, where the son of Broomstick won Ascot's Fifty-ninth Triennial and Goodwood's Molecomb as a two-year-old and the Two Thousand Guineas (one of the five English classics) as a three year-old.

As far as England is concerned, however, the culmination of Mr. Duryea's triumphs came with the Derby victory of Durbar II. in 1914, and Mr. Duryea always felt that his personal triumph of winning the "blue riband" with a colt of his own breeding was paralleled by his satisfaction that the animal should be a representative of a distinctive American female line which has been of late years refused admission to the England Stud Book. It is not surprising that Mr. Duryea should always have championed the cause of the American thoroughbred, for his first great racer, Irish Lad, which subsequently furnished Mr. Duryea's stable with many important winners, was also from a distinctively American family outside of the pale of the English Stud Book.

As already intimated, Mr. Duryea's breeding and turf successes in France were most remarkable. In 1913 and 1914 he was second on the list of breeders in France, and Irish Lad was second on the list of French sires in 1914. Perhaps, however, Mr. Duryea's French successes can best be illustrated by a recapitulation of some of his turf victories, it being important to emphasize the fact that the list by no means comprises all of the races won but simply some of the most important.

AN OPINION FROM CANADA.

CLARESHOLM, ALBERTA, CAN., Feb. 5.

Editor Thoroughbred Record:

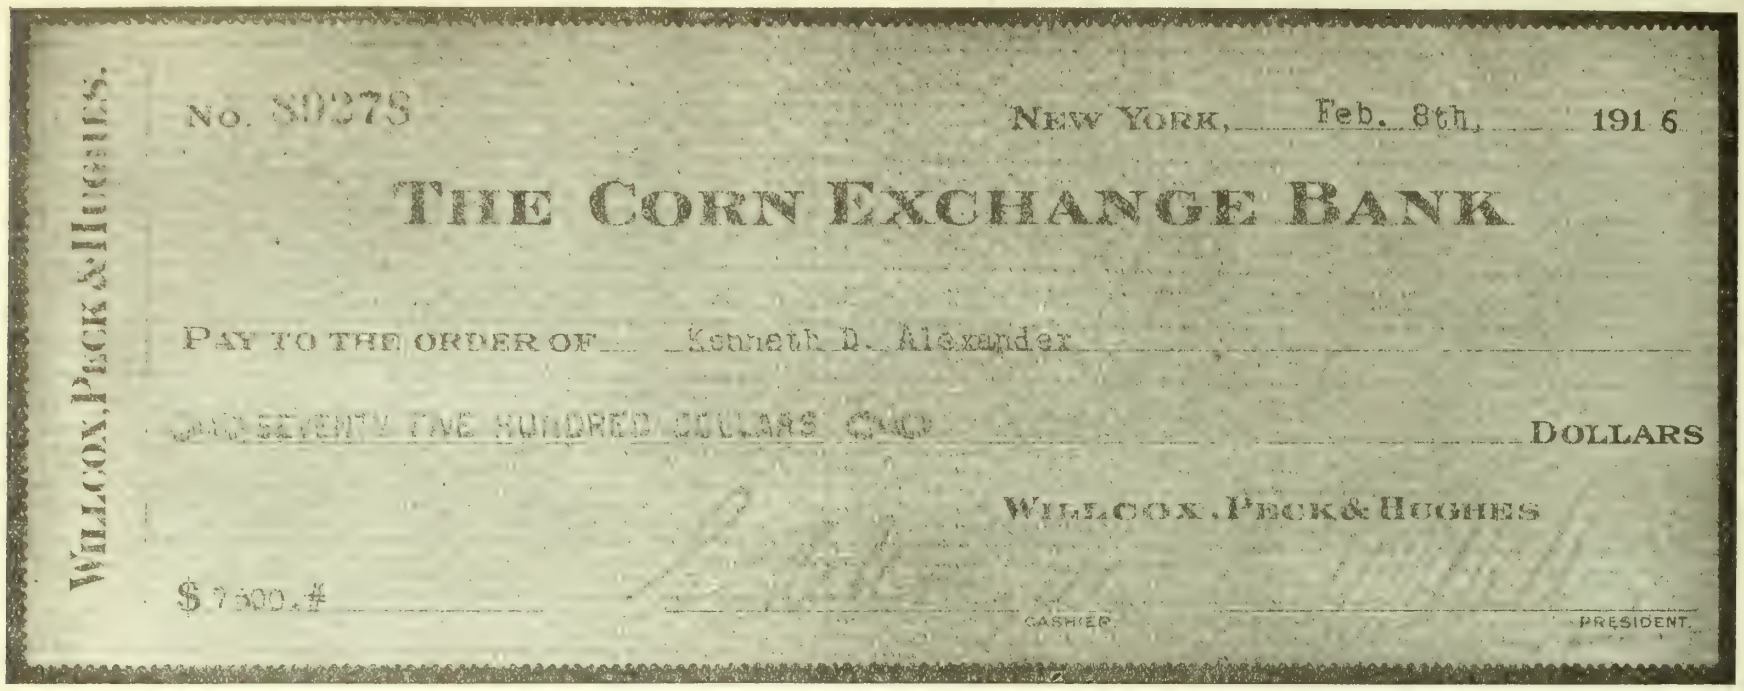
Without wishing to join in a discussion as to the merits of the American thoroughbred with Americans, my domicile being north of the 49th parallel, might I suggest that the chief work of American Sportsmen is not so much the rivalling with British-bred horses as to popularize the American thoroughbred in his own land, and particularly throughout that vast expanse of territory outside the States of Kentucky, Maryland and New York, where a thoroughbred is seldon seen and if seen not appreciated. What is being done to discredit the constant attacks and sneering references to the thoroughbred which appear in almost every issue of the trotting horse journals by which the thoroughbred is made to appear to the harness horse lovers as a mere sprinter incapable of staying and without endurance. A few long distance races and a swarm of sprints will not impress the public.

Why would the following rules, moderate and reasonable, and amended to meet altered conditions of racing not suit the American associations. They were adopted in 1898 by the English Jockey Club at a time when far too many of the events for the platers were run over five and six furlongs and their effect on the British turf has been marked.

"At every meeting advertised in the 'Racing Calendar' one-half at least of the total amount guaranteed for prizes shall be apportioned to races of a mile or over for three year-old or upwards, and of this half not less than a moiety shall be for races of a mile and a quarter or upwards; but where more than one meeting is held at the same place during the current racing season the apportionment may be calculated over each meeting or over all the meetings.

The programme for each day shall be subject to the following regulations:—

"There shall be at least two races of a mile or upwards of the minimum aggregate distance of two miles and a half. These races must differ at least one furlong in distance and they shall close with five entries. Neither of these races shall be open to two-year-olds and one of them shall be neither a handicap nor a race with selling conditions.



"There shall not be more than two races to which three-year-olds or upward are admitted of less than seven furlongs, and of these two races only one may be less than six furlongs."

Jack Mount, b. c, by Amadis—Catana.

Tarquin, b. c, by Lemberg—Roman Matron.
Wonderful, ch. c, by Aquascutum—Adalia.

"Facsimile of check paying loss of Sunlight, insured December 28, 1915, died January 17, 1916, check dated February 8, 1916."

JOCKEY CLUB OFFICIALS.

NEW YORK, February 9.—At a meeting of the stewards of the Jockey Club, held today at the office of the chairman, August Belmont, the following racing officials were appointed for the year 1916:

Judges—C. H. Pettingill and E. C. Smith.
Starter—Mars Cassidy.
Handicapper—W. S. Vosburgh.
Clerk of the Scales—H. U. Homan.
Assistant to the Clerk of the Scales—Albert Burlen.
Paddock and Patrol Judge—J. L. Hall.
Timer—W. H. Barretto.

All associations were recommended to appoint J. L. Hall, James McLaughlin and Frank T. Clark as patrol judges. The last named was formerly superintendent of the Coney Island Jockey Club's track at Sheepshead Bay and has been connected with racing for nearly forty years. Mr. Clark takes the place of Edward Hanna, who has served as patrol judge on local tracks for several years.

The question of dates was discussed, but owing to a possible re-arrangement of the proposed schedule the allotment is not ready for publication. From what could be learned there will be little change from the order of last year, except that the opening of the season may occur at Jamaica instead of Belmont Park. A tentative schedule was proposed, which gave each local association about sixteen days, which would carry the racing to July 29. This would leave horsemen Sunday and Monday in which to move to Saratoga, where racing will begin August 1. This schedule would necessitate beginning on May 18, or the day following the two-day meeting of the United Hunts at Belmont Park Terminal.

Regarding any new members being proposed there is no indication, as propositions have to be made in writing and up to the present time the secretary of the Jockey Club has received no notice of any new member to be proposed.

JOCKEY CLUB AMENDS RULE.

NEW YORK, February 10.—Owners of racehorses who have used condition selling races as a means of settling personal grievances or increasing their bank accounts by bidding up the winner to a sum considerably in excess of the entered price of the horse, have been deprived of the privilege of employing such methods in the future by an amendment to the rules of racing passed at a meeting of the Jockey Club today.

Under the old rule the surplus was divided between the owner of the second horse and the race fund. The new rule calls for an equal division of the surplus among all the starters. The amendment was proposed by Schuyler L. Parsons. Members of the Jockey Club, which attended the meeting and voted on the amendment were: F. K. Sturgis, H. K. Knapp, Schuyler L. Parsons, H. T. Oxnard, Captain E. B. Cassatt, Philip J. Dwyer, Robert L. Gerry, John Sanford and Foxhall Keene.

THE THOROUGHBRED,

A contributor to THE THOROUGHBRED RECORD, who inadvertently signs himself "A Breeder of Thoroughbreds" instead of using the more exact form "A Breeder of The Thoroughbred," recently submitted a "definition" in the following manner:

"Horse—The Thoroughbred—Superior Breed Of—Originated in England—Its Breeding traceable to One, Two or all of Three Sires named Matchem, Herod and Eclipse."

Not content with submitting the "definition" for approval, the lexicographer modestly admits, nay, insists, that his "definition" is "brief, true and accurate."

If the purpose of the "definition" is to promote interest in "the progress and purity of our language" why does not the "definition" define, instead of giving an historical synopsis.

If it be the intent of the definer merely to be brief, why say more than that The Thoroughbred is a "superior breed?" Of course such briefness affords no enlightment, but demands a supplementary explanation of the manner in which the breed is, or may be, superior to other breeds.

If the intent of the definer is to be "true and accurate," why did he say, "Originated in England," when, as a matter of fact, the "origin" of The Thoroughbred is still in dispute.

The "definition" also says "its breeding traceable TO * * * Matchem, Herod and Eclipse". Now, the inaccuracy of this statement may be unintentional, and presumably is, coming as it does from one who is a "stickler" for purity. To be accurate the definer might have aimed closer to the point had he substituted THROUGH for TO.

In an attempt to give an understandable answer to the question—"what is The Thoroughbred"—how can the answer be worded in a manner more precise than by saying that "The Thoroughbred is the galloping—(running) gaited race-horse"?

For promoting the prominence of The Thoroughbred, I personally feel grateful to Mr. S. L. Cheney who devotes time to the somewhat thankless labor of building and fostering a genuine tradition in this country. I particularize in favor of Mr. Cheney, notwithstanding that his warped and thin veneer of learning with a "linguistic" leaning fails to veil bigotry toward the race of the "O's and the Mc's".

As noted in the foregoing, by my refusal to accept the "definition", my intentions may be erroneously interpreted. So I add then, that unlike some others I have no desire to adorn the pinnacle of finality. "Be that as it may" if horses that can run would run, so it is that if those that can write would write, many matters that are hazy to many of us might be cleared in an understandable manner. And every matter pertaining to The Thoroughbred, which at first thought might be deemed negligible, should be set forth in type to the end that new or distorted ideas be exposed to the friendliness of acceptance or antagonism by refutation.

JOHN L. O'CONNOR.

ORIGIN OF ST. SIMON'S LINE.

[Vigilant in London Sportsman].

A horse that sprang from comparative obscurity, in the earlier days of last century, into the fame which attaches to the founder of perhaps the greatest line of thoroughbreds of the present day was Whitelock. Owned by the then Sir Mark Sykes, father of the first Sir Tatton Sykes and great-grandfather of the present Sir Mark Sykes, the owner of the famous Sledmere Stud, Whitelock, by Hambletonian, is now celebrated the wide world over as the sire of Blacklock, from which every horse which comes in tail male from Galopin or St. Simon is a direct descendant. Whitelock, which derived his name from a white lock in his tail, only ran twice, running second in a heat race for a Gold Cup at Knutsford and winning a Plate of eighty sovs. (four mile heats) on the following day. He had sired a good winner before his son, Blacklock, came on the scene in 1814. Blacklock was the best horse ever owned by 'Squire" Richard Watt, and it was recorded by "The Druid" in "Post and Paddock" that in the middle of last century Blacklock's box at Bishop Burton Hill "was still pointed out with especial reverence; and as the housekeeper guided us, candle in hand, through the half-ruined hall, we came on the skeleton room, where the coarse frame of the terrible browns is encased side by side with Muta." The "terrible brown" was, of course, Blacklock—officially described as a bay—which as a four-year-old won three races in the course of two days at York. Two of these races were over four miles and the last a two-mile affair. What would be thought, I wonder, in these days of "coddled up" racehorses were an owner to pull a horse out for a four-mile sweepstakes, and at an hour's interval for a two-mile sweepstakes, on the top of a Fifty Pounds added race over four miles less than twenty-four hours earlier? Yet only three days later at Doncaster, Blacklock was called upon to run for yet another four-mile race, the Doncaster Stakes, which he won. On the latter afternoon he also walked over for a sweepstakes run over the St. Leger course, and on the following day he won two more races, a sweepstakes of twenty-five gs. each (four miles),and the Doncaster Club Stakes (two miles), for each of which he defeated a single opponent. Blacklock was a bark bay with black points, of great size and, barring his fiddle head, possessing splendid symmetry and grand action. Those who say that breeding is a lottery might well point to Blacklock, for, as shown, his sire, Whitelock, by Hambletonian out of Rosalind, by Phenomenon, was not a performer of much note. As for his dam, a mare by Coriander out of Wild Goose, by Highflyer, is it not recorded that at eleven years of age she was bought by Mr. Moss at York Fair for the inadequate sum of "three sovereigns"?

Blacklock's sire, Whitelock, was himself rather a soft-legged horse, which accounted for his running only twice, but he inherited and passed along to his best son all the sterling qualities of his own sire, Hambletonian. The latter,according to Stanton's "Famous Horses," was never beaten, but that is incorrect, for he lost one race out of a total of seventeen. Among his sixteen successes was included the famous match with Diamond for 3000gs. over the Beacon course, in which he conceded 3lb, and with Frank Buckle up won by a head. Odds of 11 to 8 were laid on Hambletonian, which belonged to Sir Harry Vane-Tempest, and ran in colors still registered by a member of the family, "lilac and yellow stripes." The breeding of Hambletonian was a typical example of the value of mating Eclipse horses with mares combining the blood of Herod and Matchem, for he was by King Fergus (son of Eclipse) out of the Herod line mare, Grey Highflyer, by Highflyer out of a daughter of Matchem. In the same way Hambletonian sired Whitelock out of a mare that combined the blood of Herod and Matchem. With Blacklock further Herod blood was brought in by his dam, and Blacklock in turn sired Voltaire from a mare which was strongly in-bred to Herod, and so it went on, Voltigeur and his grandson, Galopin, both being out of mares strong in Herod blood, as also was St. Simon, while the requisite Matchem touch, as well as more Herod, was furnished when Perdita II. was sent to St. Simon, and produced to him in turn Florizel II., Persimmon, and Diamond Jubilee.

DEATH OF COY LAD.

Mr. H. H. Hewitt had the misfortune to lose his young stallion Coy Lad last Tuesday from tetanus. What caused this trouble is a mystery, as the veterinarian could not find a scratch on him anywhere.

Coy Lad, foaled 1909, was a winner at two, three, four and five years old. He was a nicely bred horse, being by imp. Peep O'Day out of Coy Maid [a stake winner and half-sister to Disguise (winner of the Jockey Club Stakes, $35,000, in England, etc., and sire of Iron Mask, Maskette, Harmonicon, Helmet, Bulse, etc., etc.) and Belgravia, dam of Black Toney]; 2d dam imp. Bonnie Gal, by Galopin; 3d dam Bonnie Doon (grandam of Watercress); 4th dam Queen Mary (dam of Bonnie Scotland, Blink Bonny, etc.).

J. J. Smith, Mr. Hewitt's manager, says they have three nice yearlings by Coy Lad out of Run of Luck, Angerona and Aviston, and five mares in foal to him, as follows: Lucky Wave, by Cunard; Run of Luck, by Wagner; Angerona, by Sir Dixon; Inspiration, by Ayrshire, and Aviston, by Ayrshire. This is some consolation at least.

THE BROODMARE SIRE LIST.

[Daily Racing Form.]

Hamburg is the champion broodmare sire for 1915, and the position held by Hamburg is but additional evidence of the extreme value of horses of Herod descent as the sires of great producing stud matrons. Only first money won is taken into consideration in the appended list, which is made up of five Herods, one Matchem and thirteen of Eclipse descent. In all the daughters of nineteen stallions have produced the winners of $18,000 or upwards and of these nineteen stallions seven are imported, two of purely European parentage and ten of which introduce one or more crosses of native blood. Every one of the native breds but Sir Dixon boasts one or more crosses of the Herod horse Lexington. Hamburg's pride of place is, of course attributable to the energies of Thunderer and Regret, and his daughter Adriana is responsible for two good ones in Coquette and Celandria and the beautifully-bred Golden Drop through Gillies, whose single victory netted him close to $6,000.

Sir Dixon's fifty-three winners won 132 races, ten less than the number credited to Hanover. There are recorded for Hanover, however, in Volume XI. of the Stud Book, eighty-five mares, while Sir Dixon has half a score less.

Imported Meddler winds up the season a good fourth, and Meddler is full of Herod blood. Next in order comes Star Shoot, the only living stallion, whose name appears, both in the winning sire and winning broodmare sire lists. Moreover, Star Shoot has only twenty-five mares recorded, nine of which—including Star Cat, dam of Star Jasmine and Puss in Boots and Livonia, dam of The Finn—have produced twelve winners of forty-three races.

Kingston keeps the ball rolling for the house of Matchem and the high place of the Herod, Exile II., is remarkable for Exile has only seven mares to his name, two of which, Forget and Winter, have produced three winners apiece, and, what is more, Forget is the dam of Borrow, the largest money earner of the season.

Hindoo, which was foaled as far back as 1878, has done well and Domino's sure producing daughters give him a prominent place, and we are not at all sure that Dominant, out of Dominoes, was not the best colt shown last year.

The position held by Knight of the Thistle is eminently satisfactory.

Rayon d'Or's prominence, as a broodmare sire, is nothing short of remarkable, for the youngest of the daughters of this famous Frenchman must now be twenty years of age.

Sire.	Producing Mares.	Winners.	Races.	Won

THE MORGAN HORSE NOT A "MYTH."

The following article appears in The New York Rider and Driver of Feb. 5, written by Mr. C. A. Benton:—

In your issue of December 25 last, the writer read with interest an article entitled "Thoroughbreds for the Cavalry." This article is credited to Mr. W. H. N. in "Thoroughbred Record." It is to be regretted that the author of so useful an article does not give us the benefit of his name. The article contains a statement that appears to deserve more than passing notice, for instance, "The Morgan Breed. A Myth?"

Evidently W. H. N. has either not read The Rider and Driver and other horse papers, or has in some way failed to become aware of the existence of the Morgan Horse Club, which from the president down, is composed of gentlemen favorably known throughout the United States.

At the Vermont State Fair of last year, the writer saw the exhibition and awarding of ribbons in 32 classes, entry to which was limited entirely to animals eligible for registry in the Morgan register. These classes were all remarkable, not only for many entries, but because of the character and quality of them. In class 13, there were 27 entries, all but three of them being exhibited. This class was known as "Brood Mare with Foal."

Has there been any such exhibition anywhere of any "Breed"? I think not.

Another class, No. 24, was a most impressive exhibition of weanlings, about 30 colts being shown at halter, Donola and Ruth, winners of the blue and red ribbons being absolute types; Donola by Donald, her dam, Lady Roberts, Ruth by Reynard, dam Laura Jay. I extend their pedigrees a bit so that their breeding may be recognized.

Donald had for his sire, Bob Morgan; his dam, Fanny, by Ethan Allen III. As for Ruth, her grandsire was Billy Roberts; her dam's sire, Billy Boudette. (See extended pedigrees in Morgan register).

In view of these facts, it hardly seems fair to have a statement that the "Morgan Breed" is a "myth" pass unchallenged.

If W. H. N. will attend the next Vermont State Fair, which will be held at White River Junction about the usual time, he will have an opportunity to see such sires as Donald, Welcome, Alexander the Great, Hawkeye, Reynard, Croydon Prince, Sir Ethan Allen, Bobby B., Success and Ethan Woodbury; with them, he will find others of equal merit whose names the writer for the moment does not recall. To see them at the halter, in harness, or under saddle, will, I think, be a revelation to him as it was to me.

Perhaps the reader will say:

"Yes, in Vermont you may find the Morgan, but what about Illinois, and Iowa?"

They are there also, and some good ones; in fact, the Western Morgan breeders will not admit that their stock is not fully the equal of that in New England.

The Morgan is here; he is not a "myth" or why the beautifully illustrated catalogues issued by Mr. Elmer A. Darling, of East Burke; Mr. H. R. C. Watson, of Brandon; Mr. H. S. Wardner, and Mr. A. F. Phillips, of Windsor, Vt., Mr. C. A. Stone, of Plymouth, Mass., Messrs. J. R. Steers and C. C. Stillman of Portchester and Cornwall, New York?

Do they represent "Mythical Morgans"?

The writer is not a Morgan breeder, not even a member of the Morgan Club, but he owned and drove Ethan Allen III. for many years. The excellent qualities of that horse made a lasting impression, which seems to be the uniform sequel to association with horses of his type. The roster of the Morgan Horse Club includes a number of distinguished Honorary and Associate members while in the list of active members there appear to be at least the names of over one hundred prominent citizens from various localities, whose interest in the reproduction of the Morgan horse is beyond question.

PAN ZARETA WINS FROM FAST FIELD.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 5.—Pan Zareta, H. S. Newman's six-year-old Abe Frank-Caddie Griffith mare, thoroughly demonstrated her right to the title of "Queen of the Turf" at the Fair Grounds today, when she shouldered an impost of 140 pounds and beat a field of crack handicap sprinters over the five and a half furlong route. The game little mare had a rough trip in the early part, but in the stretch she came through her field and managed to win by half a length. She negotiated the distance in 1:06 1-5, which is within two-fifths of a second of the track record. This made her third win out of four starts at the meeting, and the fifty-ninth victory of her racing career, out of 110 starts.

Today's racing card was high-class in every respect, with two handicaps as the features. The track was fast and the attendance the largest of any Saturday thus far. The other handicap was the Edward W. Maginn Memorial, named in honor of the late well known racing official, and this was at a mile and twenty yards, with a monetary value of $600. It fell to Grumpy in a driving finish with Rifle Shooter. A good field contested for this race, so good, in fact, that Grumpy had to equal the track record for a mile and twenty yards—1:40 2-5—in order to win by a narrow margin.

The Business Men's Racing Association presented Owner C. J. Brockmiller with a handsome silver loving cup. A huge bouquet donated by Judge Joseph A. Murphy, Associate Judges Jack Campbell, Joe McLennan and Starter A. B. Dade, all former associates of Mr. Maginn in his official connection with racing, went with the trophy.

Owner Newman also received a cup for Pan Zareta's victory, donated by a local business house for which the handicap was named, and Jockey Kederis received a pair of gold cuff buttons for riding her.

Jockey Paul Lowder left for Louisville, Ky., tonight to join the division of the Harry Payne Whitney stable, which Trainer Albert Simons has quartered at Churchill Downs. He will ride for the Whitney stable next season.

D. E. Mulholland, former owner of Dick Williams, left for his home in Kentucky tonight.

At an auction sale conducted in the paddock today by Pat Civill, a number of the H. O. Comstock California-bred two-year-old were disposed of.

Those sold were: Retanora, b f, by Salvation—Zorita, O. E. Pons, $160; Mr. Glenco, b c, by Rey Hindoo—Glenco Maid, S. Most, $120; So Ezo, b f, by Salvation—Illusion, Sam Louis, $150; Starter, ch c, by Salvation—Alondra, W. Bernhart, $225; Step Fast, b f, by Tim Payne—Cheridah, E. C. -BEN TROVATO-

BEN TROVATO is a seal brown horse, 16¼ hands high. Sired by imp. Alvescot, a son of Raeburn and he a son of St. Simon. Ben Trovato is out of Golden Rose, by Goldfinch, a son of Ormonde, she out of imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, she out of Ambuscade, by Camerino, a son of Stockwell, and she out of Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world. Ben Trovato was raced four years and was as fast as horses ever show. He won miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39 1-5, 1½ miles 1:52, 1:52, 1:52 1-5, 1¼ miles in 2:04 2-5, and as a two-year-old ran ⅝ in 0:58⅕ seconds. The great No. 5 family—Galtee More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

If you can find a greater looking horse, a better bred horse or a faster horse, don't breed to this one. Will accept 25 mares for 1916 at $50 to insure living foal.

Mares kept at 50 cents per day.

LATONIA STAKES ANNOUNCED.

General Manager John Hachmeister announces in THE RECORD this week the stakes to be run off at the coming spring meeting of the Latonia Jockey Club. The Latonia Derby this year will again have an added valuation of $10,000. In all nine stakes will be run off at the coming meeting, and the total added money reaches the sum of $27 500.

The Latonia Derby last year was worth $10,125 net to the winner; the Cincinnati Trophy, $5,740; Independence Handicap, $3,430, etc., and there is no reason to believe these stakes will fall off any in entries this year. The distribution in stakes and purses last year at Latonia was $234,262.

Entries to these stakes close on Wednesday, March 8, and full conditions may be seen in the announcement. Entry blanks may be had at THE RECORD office.

DOUGLAS PARK STAKES FOR SPRING MEETING.

The stake events are the same as those offered last spring. The feature event is the Kentucky Handicap for three-year-olds and up at a mile and a quarter, to which $10,000 has been added. The Kentucky Handicap was worth $11,700 net to the winner last year, and it should be worth as much or more this year. The Spring Trial Stakes was worth net to the winner last year $3,470. Full conditions of all the stakes appear in the announcement. In the twenty-one days racing at Douglas Park last year $127,823 was distributed in stakes and purses.

CHURCHILL DOWNS STAKES FOR 1916.

The excellent array of stakes that marked the meeting of the New Louisville Jockey Club last spring again adorn the programme. Featured by the forty-second running of the Kentucky Derby a card of seven fixtures has been announced.

As was the case last year, the Derby has $10,000 added, which, with the entries in prospect and a large field practically assured, causes the event to loom up as close to a $15,000 race.

Although the Kentucky Racing Commission has not allotted dates, it is believed that there will be little change. The Derby doubtless will be decided May 6 or May 13

During his recent visit in the East Manager M. J. Winn had the promise from many turfmen to make entries in the stakes at Churchill Downs, and he expects a record-breaking list in the Derby this season. The always popular and now well-endowed Kentucky Derby will have an additional measure of interest this year, in the fact that it will certainly be contested by a number of the English and French horses which have been brought to this country recently, and their clashing with our home-breds will vest the contest with extraordinary attractiveness.

The champion unbeaten filly Regret won the Derby last year from a field of fifteen other starters. The event upon that occasion was worth $11,450 net to the winner. The record for the race since it has been a mile and a quarter is 2:03 2-5, scored by Old Rosebud, the winner of the classic in 1914.

No track in America has held as many brilliant race meetings as have been run off at Churchill Downs, and this season bids fair to eclipse all others at the course. Aside from the seven stakes, the purses and overnight handicaps will be rich in added money and each afternoon seven events will be run off.

This early 200 horses are quartered at the Downs and other big stables from the East are booked to arrive at this course early next month.

SALE AT NEW ORLEANS.

The attention of breeders is called to the opportunity presented to them of buying ten well bred two-year-old fillies which J. S. Wallace is selling for Mr. Gifford A. Cochran at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans on Saturday, February 26. All are by Star Shoot and come from such mares as Chapala, Tenotomy, Autumn Leaves, Frances McClelland, Linda Lee, Lacrimae, Miss Angie, Noreen, and Witfull. Some of them are already winners and will likely win again.

The catalogue invites attention to their performances before the day of sale and sets forth many individual points of excellence.

To the same sale Mr. J. W. Schorr has consigned the two-year-old filly Gretchen R., a winner, by Bryn Mawr—Tchoupetoulas, together with the stake winners Goldcrest Boy and Mars Cassidy, the useful selling platers Syrian, Pleasureville, Eddie Delling, Lindenthal and the freqnently placed three-year-old maiden, Politician.

CHARIVARI.

Mr. W. G. Hirsig announces the services of his stallion Charivari in THE RECORD this week at $50 cash.

Charivari (a winner in this country and South America) is a full brother to Iron Mask, being by Disguise, out of imp. Royal Rose, by Royal Hampton. Disguise was a good winner in England, among his winning races being the Jockey Club Stakes, 1¼ miles, value $35,000, and he is the sire of Iron Mask, Maskette, Melisande, Harmonicon, Helmet, Pope Joan, Comely, Bulse, etc. Disguise is by Domino (sire of Commando, Cap and Bells, etc.) out of imp. Bonnie Gal, by Galopin.

Charivari's dam, Royal Rose, is also the dam of Pennant, winner of the Coney Island Futurity; Iron Mask, stake winner in America and England and holder of the American record for five and a half furlongs of 1:03 2-5, also the six furlong record of 1:09 3-5; Transvaal, stake winner and sire; Kin Rose, winner and producer of winners; Cherokee Rose, stake winner in England; Lancastrian, stake winner, also the winners Regal, Tudor King, etc.

Bonnie Doon, the grandam of both Disguise and imp. Watercress, was dam of imp. Bonnie Gal and also of imp. Bella-Donna (dam of Beldame, Don de Oro, Bel Demonio, Donna Henrietta, Queen Lute, and Donna Mia, the dam of Mizzen).

The immortal Queen Mary was the dam of Haricot (17 wins), Braxey (15 wins), imp. Bonnie Scotland (Doncaster Stakes and a great sire), imp. Balrownie (Doncaster Stakes), Broomielaw (Ascot Gold Vase), Blinkhoolie (Ascot Gold Vase), Blink Bonny (Derby, Oaks, etc), and others. Queen Mary appears in pedigree of Charivari as dam of Bonnie Doon, also as dam of Haricot, and also as grandam of Derby winner Blair Athol.

LOCAL NOTES.

Mr. Arthur B. Hancock's most recent purchase of imported stock, consists of a trio of mares, whose bloodlines are such that even the most diligent critic could scarcely find fault with them. They are:

Patricia IV.. brown, 1909, by Ard Patrick (Derby) out of Princess Patti by Royal Hampton; next dam Podagra (dam of the winners Plethora, winner of ten races, and the unbeaten Patience, winner of the Austrian Derby, German Derby and over $100,000 in stakes) by Galopin. This mare foaled a bay filly on Feb. 6th and has been sent to Junior in Lord Rosebery's stud.

Princess Caprice, bay, 1911, by Marco (sire of Neil Gow, Marcovil, Beppo, etc.) out of Royal Marriage by Pietermaritzburg, leading sire of the world in 1911; next dam Royal Maze by Royal Hampton. This mare is in foal to Greenback (stake winner of over $50,000) whose stud fee is 98 sovereigns and which was beaten a half length by Lemberg for the Derby. It will be noted that Marco got Neil Gow from Chelandry, grandam of Wrack, so the cross should be a good one. Princess Caprice is half-sister to Royal Coinage, purchased in the December Sales, by Mr. August Belmont, for six hundred guineas. Royal Coinage is by Minting and covered by Marajax. This mare will be left in England until after she is bred.

Lady Carnot, bay, 1913, by Radium (son of Bend Or and Tsia by Donovan) out of Gravitation (full sister to William III., one of the leading sires in England) by St. Simon; next dam Gravity by Wisdom. Gravitation, the dam of Lady Carnot, is also a full sister to Tact, dam of Amiable, winner of One Thousand Guineas, the Oaks, etc.

Lady Carnot will be sent to the Ellerslie Stud in Virginia about March 1st, to be bred to Celt.

We, the members of the Board of Directors of the Kentucky Association, feel regretfully compelled to accept the resignation of Mr. Woodford as President of that body, in accordance with the reiterated request of his second letter of February 7, 1916.

We deplore our inability to alter his determination to resign, as conveyed to him by the unanimous resolution passed by this body to that effect on February 5, 1916.

Furthermore, we wish to express a sense of our deep appreciation of his valuable and efficient services on behalf of the Kentucky Association, covering a number of years; and that it is with a feeling of personal loss, that we, individually and collectively, regard his withdrawal from us.

It is moved and seconded, and unanimously carried, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of Kentucky Association, and that the Secretary be requested to mail a copy to Mr. Woodford.

WILL RACING BE REFORMED?

[New York Rider & Driver, Feb. 12].

While the small concession to Capt. Cassatt's demand for an extension of time from before the beginning of two-year-old racing was, as The Rider and Driver has said, a move in the right direction, it did not go far enough to bring about desired results in preventing the ruination of young horses. The place for the early racing of two-year-olds, like the one for short distance races, and many "one-night events" is a matter of economy for the "poor man on the turf."

This last mentioned term, by the way, seems to be an anomaly in a pastime known universally as the 'Sport of Kings." The trouble is that sportsmen who come up to the mark as such are too few to provide sufficient entries for the racing programs and the associations are compelled to fall back upon the men who make the breeding, selling and racing of thoroughbreds their means of livelihood. It is not necessary nor would it be sportsmanly to discourage these men in their equine enterprises, but their requirements and conveniences should not be permitted to outweigh other and more important considerations for the progressive and enduring benefit of the sport itself. The wealthy men interested should broaden their views so as to take under their benevolent patronage, as it were, all the minor contributory elements which, with the major factors, make up the fabric of the whole.

"Selling races," like the early racing of two-year-olds, are also in need of amendment, if not obliteration. As at present observed they are not meretricious but in fact atrocious humbugs.

At one of the races near New York last fall a well-known sportsman raced for the first time on an Eastern track, a youngster that he had been training under cover in the West for "a killing." The race was a selling event, full of a lot of cripples and runts that weren't worth feeding. As expected by the sportsman and a few of his friends, as well as those who at the last moment "got wise" by "tips," and the splendid appearance of the horse in the paddock, the "crack", which he proved to be, romped home under a pull. The winner having been entered to be sold at $1,000, there was some trepidation on the part of the owner, lest he might lose his wonderful colt, or be heavily penalized, as before the race he said he would not take $20,000 for him; but the auctioneer mumbled through the formality of the sale and there was no one present to create a difficulty.

Suppose, however, that somebody had bid, as one or two threatened to do and as some do when there is ill feeling existent?

Well, the bidder would be "no sportsman," etc., etc.

The rule is that every horse running in a selling race shall, if the winner, be liable to be claimed for the selling price by the owner of any other horse running in the race, but if it is a condition of the race that the winner shall be sold by auction, the sale shall take place immediately after the race, and the surplus over the selling price shall go one-half to the second horse and the other half to the race fund, or to the race fund if no second or third horse be placed.

If sold or bought in, the horse shall not leave the place of sale without permission of the Clerk of the Course, and if the horse be not paid for within fifteen minutes, or the price secured to his satisfaction, he may direct the horse to be put up a second time, and the purchaser at the first sale shall be responsible for any deficiency arising from the second, and shall be treated as a defaulter until it is paid

All other horses starting may be claimed for the selling price, plus the value of the stakes or purse, to the winner, including his own stake or entrance, by the owners of horses running in the race or their authorized agents.

In a previous issue we quoted from a book entitled "The American Thoroughbred," published in 1905, by Thomas B. Merry, our quotation being the chapter on two-year-old racing. Mr. Merry seems to have been so sound in his theories that we take the liberty of publishing another of his articles, on "Selling Races" which, having been published in 1905, shows how long the demand for a cessation of such races has been unheeded.

Following is the extract on "Selling Races":

"It is generally conceded that selling races have become the bane of the American turf, and that the time has come for a partial, if not total, abrogation of the evil. Of course, such a thing is impossible at the midwinter tracks, as selling races form four-fifths of their daily programs. But at New York there is a talk of reformation in this quarter; and President Belmont has called in Messrs. E. R. Thomas and Walter Scheftel for a consultation as to the modification of the crying evil.

"Some ten years ago the Australian racing authorities had a good deal of trouble with this matter. A diminutive creature, who began life as a fish pedlar from house to house, had become an owner of a few cheap selling platers; and, with his gains from his earnings, had begun to buy horses of better class which he persisted in running in selling events. Of course, when such horses won, they were liable to be run up and whenever this occurred the services of a notorious bruiser were called into requisition and the purchaser got a hard beating for spoiling his owner's little game. This procedure took place so often that the racing authorities felt in duty bound to take cognizance of the evil, and the consequence was that the four leading clubs, controlling the tracks at Randwick, Rose Hill, Flemington and Caulfield, held a convention at which it was resolved to abolish selling races altogether, leaving such events to be run at the smaller and less important tracks, of which there are about thirty. That was nine years ago, since which time there has not been a selling race at any one of the four courses above named.

"In the writer's belief, the time has arrived for similar action on the part of the Jockey Club which controls all the races run over the great metropolitan race courses situated in the vicinity of New York. If two cities like Sydney and Melbourne, neither of which has over 450,000 population, can afford to inaugurate a movement of this sort, surely New York, with nearly five millions, can afford to follow suit and get rid of a class of races that are quite as objectionable as the men who participate in them. The metropolitan tracks already are giving two stake races each day and can easily fill in their programs with races at weights above and below the scale, as well as with races to be run with penalties and allowances, thus eliminating the selling races from their programs altogether.

"But where will the poor owners go to race? The answer is that there are several tracks in Canada, as well as at Baltimore, Washington, Buffalo, Detroit, Cincinnati, and other places where selling races are necessary to fill up the bills of the day; and where but few, if any, valuable sweepstake races are run during the entire year. At those tracks the selling platers would have things pretty much their own way and nobody would be the worse for it.

"There is no lack of high-class horses about the New York tracks, for there you find the very pick of the country. If any man doubts this, let him look over Goodwin's Guide and see how often a western horse wins races at the metropolitan courses. The receipts from the gates are so large at Coney Island, Morris Park, Gravesend and Saratoga that those tracks are in no sense dependent upon the support of the bookmakers, who are the chief advocates of selling races. Let us see if the Jockey Club, of which Mr. August Belmont is chairman, will have the moral courage to abolish selling races altogether, leaving them to be run at the cheaper and more remote tracks. The time is ripe for a sweeping reform in this matter."

Some effort is making to add to the pressure upon the owner of the winning horse and also to exculpate, in a way, the racing authorities from maintaining any share of the responsibility for bidding up the winner, a Pontius Pilate "washing of the hands" so to speak, as may be noted by the following proposed amendment submitted at the January 13 meeting by Mr. Shuyler L. Parsons and to be acted upon at the next meeting:

In Rule 127 strike out "shall go one-half to the second horse and the other half to the Race Fund or to the Race Fund if no second or third horses be placed." Add:

So that Rule 127 shall read:

"Rule 127. Every horse running in a selling race shall, if the winner, be liable to be claimed for the selling price by the owner of any other horse running in the race, but if it is a condition of the race that the winner shall be sold at auction, the sale shall take place immediately after the race, and the surplus over the selling price shall be equally divided between all starters in the race."

It is possible, but we fear not likely, that this rule may be further amended, owing to the following resolution offered by Capt. E. B. Cassatt:

"That, to revise the rules of racing, a committee of three be appointed by the chair, with authority to suggest such changes in the present rules as may be necessary, without altering their intent, to make the form more convenient and to remove contraditions, obscurities and double meaning; and that the committee be further charged with the duty of framing and proposing such changes and additions to the present rules as they may deem desirable or necessary."

The chair appointed the following committee: Mr. F. R. Hitchcock, Mr. H. K. Knapp and Capt. E. B. Cassatt.

ALSO PREPAREDNESS.

Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., Feb. 14, 1916.

Editor Thoroughbred Record:

"We want twenty horses of this class for———and ——— ten horses for each town and the parties would like them bought, if possible, in the vicinity of each city, as they are frightened of shipping fever if the horses are sent any distance."

"I do not think that we can buy them around those towns as the farmers ask too much for their horses up there, we can get them here all right.

This was the substance of a conversation heard the other day and two parts of it strike one quite forcibly, first that there ought to be Federal supervision and prevention of shipping fever, secondly that there are two many middle-men between Federal or State buyers and the farmers who breed the horses.

The farmer will never know the type of army horse wanted unless he is actually told and his young horses actually bought by a Federal or Army Officer. I had good proof of this in Montana and Wyoming when on a horse buying tour I had occasion to meet many ranchers and horse-breeders who in the course of conversations showed me that they had a good idea of the type of army horses needed through the extensive and personal information given them by Col. Henry T. Allen, U. S. A., who had travelled these states about two years before and had bought a good many horses in them. And these two states are today considered excellent for breeding a good army type, especially for field artillery, as can be seen by anyone who has been carried around Yellowstone Park, by the well horsed coaches of the Transportation Companies of that Park.

Eliminate the middle-man, give the farmer that extra money and get into personal touch with him. Eventually it will be the small farmer who will raise the bulk of our horses, for all the good land will be broken up and put into crops thus driving the horse back to poorer land and feed, to his consequent detriment as to bone and substance; then he will have to be fed on better food off better land and therefore will cost more to buy. This will eventually force our Government to possess its own breeding farms and depots which will prove very expensive on account of increased land values and so many wasted years, never to be caught up in breeding cycles.

The army horse must be taken out of politics and like everything else connected with the army, be handled as much as possible by the army. Also the army could do it so much cheaper and better from a purely business point of view. From another business point the army will have to breed its own remounts for when this present war is over the European countries will be looking for horses and they will pay a better price than we do consequently they will get the animals unless we prohibit exportations, a foolish economy when one thinks of the great loss of revenue to the breeders of the country.

Austria raises enough horses for her army needs and exports between 50,000 and 60,000 each year to other countries for military purposes. Are we any less intelligent than the Austrians? Moreover if the Government does not own large breeding establishments and breeding stallions then we may have to prohibit exportation for we will also lose by sale to foreigners most of our best stallions and mares to a certain deterioration of our lighter breeds of horses. We shall be in the present position that England is placed, in having to buy most of her mounts from other countries owing to a scarcity of army horses, from the fact that she has allowed foreigners for many years to buy her best stallions and mares in enormous quantities.

During the Boer War England bought about 100,000 horses for army purposes and for years after that our own army was badly horsed owing to a scarcity of proper mounts. In your paper of February 5th, 1915, the Quartermaster General is quoted that "upward of one million horses and mules have been bought in the United States by agents of Great Britain, France and Italy since the war began."

If the loss of 100,000 horses about sixteen years ago could appreciably check our own army supply up to 1914, what will this million head bought in the last two years do to it when we also learn that there were many mares sold as well. So when we boast that we have over twenty million head of horses we must recollect that three-quarters of them are unfit for war purposes and of the residue probably one-quarter that could be really useful have been sold leaving us with a diminished and impoverished type to buy or breed.

To offset our scarcity of remounts the Government about three years ago, bought and was presented with a few stallions and started breeding operations, with the exception of Colorado, principally along the Atlantic seaboard states; also the Thoroughbred Breeders Association of Kentucky have done the same with ten stallions; in all, six states out of forty-eight are publicly aided on the remount question. A pitiful number. And five of these states are so vulnerable to a sudden attack that it would be a question as to which army would get the benefit of the animals in them for their purposes.

We need several Government Breeding farms of ample size, located on the best of soil so as to breed a superabundance of bone and substance in our animals. The Government Farms to be so centrally located as to be practically free from invasion. In this European war it is authentically reported that the Russians, in their first invasion of Prussia captured and sent back to Russia 20,000 head of thoroughbred mares belonging to the large Government farms. This is a fearful loss to any country.

Also these farms can breed high types of blood horses that can be used as remount stallions to be placed in different parts of our States where no privately owned sires are operating. This will to a certain extent insure the army type we want, particularly if we charge a nominal price to mares of approved type.

But what we really should put into effect is the giving of large enough National Remount Premiums so that owners of good stallions and mares would not want to sell them to foreigners, especially if we make a law that the animals are not to leave the country for a certain number of years after winning a premium. These National Premiums should be financed by the Federal Government and managed by a National Committee composed of noted horsemen (like members of the Jockey Club), noted breeders and army officers (retired or in the service). The judging of these premium competitors in each State to be done by one person chosen by the committee; the head of the State agricultural school and the State veterinarian.

In order to start this, there would have to be census taken of all the thoroughbred stallions in the country and a registration made of those that were sound enough for service as premium competitors.

That the (castration or altering) of young thoroughbreds be checked as much as possible (it would be if premiums were started).

That laws be passed in every state that only pure bred stallions of each type be permitted to serve mares for a fee.

That full information in regard to the breed, sex, age and value of all horses imported and exported be made by owners to the Government.

That every year each State awards to National premiums of the value of $1,500.00 each for the stallions; six National premiums of the value of $100 00 each for mares and six National premiums of the value of $100.00 each for foals.

Mares not to be awarded premium unless they have a living foal by a premium sire or drop a living foal to one the next year; mares to be between three and fourteen years old. Foals not to be awarded premiums unless a guarantee be given by the owner to sell the animals when they are three years old to the Government for $150 00; no foal to receive more than one premium.

Premium stallions to be stinted, to not less than seventy mares a year at a fee of $5.00 per mare to be paid by the owner of the mare. That the premiums be competed for at each State Fair and at any other horse show in the the State chosen by the committee.

This system will greatly interest the farmer and breeder in our remounts and encourage him to keep the right type of animal. The committee should have the power to buy any high-class stallion that was in danger of being sold to another country and turn him into the National Remount System. It should award special prizes to the breeders of premium winners. It should give prizes at the shows in each State for the best remount horse for cavalry or artillery.

It may be said that some States cannot raise a good enough class of animal for army work owing to climatic conditions, etc., but this is largely imagination, it is a question of good parentage, good food and plenty of exercise. A good Northern horse will do no better than a good Southern horse, when it comes to speed and stamina. The more bracing climate of the Northwestern States adds to the vigor of its horses, but a Southern horse taken up there will become just as vigorous under the same conditions. In fact the climate that permits of grazing the year round is the most ideal one for the breeding of horses if the grasses are rich in the proper constituents that promote bone and substance, a horse properly raised in a temperate region can be taken to the severest of climates either hot or cold with complete assurance that he will do satisfactory work. The thoroughbred has proved this beyond doubt.

This Federal aided National system will be most beneficial to both the breeder and racing man the one gets better prices for those he breeds, the other can sell his retired racers for a larger figure. It is a quesion of preparedness, even the non-preparedness advocate cannot object to improving the horses of his country.

As a national question I earnestly hope, that our great horse-owners, breeders and racers will not look at this horse business from the narrow view of home or local state politics, that enough of them will get together as soon as possible and draft a far better scheme than the one I have ventured to outline, that they will then give it to some horse loving, patriotic Senator or Congressman to pass into a law that will be of incalculable benefit to us and our descendants and their descendants.

For the small sum of about $275 000 dollars a year we can start the national improvement breeding system that I have roughly sketched, surely Congress will not begrudge the people that paltry amount when it has the examples of other nations who are giving millions towards the betterment of the light-horse breeds of their countries.

Ladies and gentlemen, let us do something for the National Horse.

BLOODSTOCK IN U. S. A.

[The Special Commissioner in London Sportsman].

The advertisements of American stallions which are appearing in the "Thoroughbred Record" are of considerable interest, and I see that the highest fee asked for the services of any of them is $300 (60 gs) for Ballot, which we have seen in this country—and a grand horse he is. Ballot stands at the late Mr. Haggin's Elmendorf Stud, and he is of pure English pedigree, being by Voter (imp.) out of Cerito (imp.), by Lowland Chief out of Merry Dance, by Doncaster, her dam Highland Fling (dam of Saraband), by Scottish Chief.

Another horse very highly thought of in the States is Luke McLuke, by Ultimus (son of Commando and Running Stream) out of Midge, by Trenton, her dam Sandfly, by Isonomy out of Sandiway. A good judge who knows all about Luke McLuke assures me that he is one of the best that has ever been seen in America. His sire, Ultimus, comes of the same family as Ballot, and is at Mr. Price McKinney's stud near Lexington, that gentleman having secured all the best stallions and brood mares with which the late Mr. J. R. Keene scored such extraordinary success. Luke McLuke's fee is $200 (40 gs), and he stands at the Keeneland Stud, Lexington. At the Claiborne Farm, Paris, Ky., Wrack (imp.) has commenced his stud career, and this beautiful horse should do wonders with American mares, for Ladas long ago proved the aptitude of Paraffin blood to refine coarser elements when he got Costly Lady out of a Foxhall mare, and Costly Lady was the very best of all his daughters. Wrack is one of the truest made horses it is possible to imagine, and there could not be a sounder one. His fee is only $150 (30 gs). Another English-bred one is imported Sea King, by Persimmon out of Sea Air (dam of Pietermaritzburg), by Isonomy out of Re-echo, by Reverberation. He stands at Hamburg Place, Lexington, Ky., fee $100 (20 gs). An interesting pedigree is that of Coy Lad, which is located at the Melbourne Farm, Lexington, Ky., fee only $50 (10 gs). He was a great winner during four seasons and is by Peep o' Day (imp.) out of Coy Maid, by Kingston out of Bonnie Gal (imp.) dam of Disguise II. by Galopin out of Bonnie Doon.

Peep o' Day, which was imported as a foal at the foot of his dam, is by Ayrshire out of Sundown, by Springfield out of Sunshine. Sundown and her colt were sent out to Mr. James R. Keene in the same ship with Bonnie Gal.

That consignment of mares to Mr. J. R. Keene some twenty-three years ago made a vast difference to the American bloodstock of to-day. It was on the same ship that the filly-foal by Amphion out of Atala, afterwards called Harpsichord, went out with her dam, and with the then maiden Bonnie Gal, which was destined to produce Disguise II., with which Harpsichord was mated, and their produce was that magnificent sprinter, Harmonicon, which is now back in the land of his birth, and he should in due time make a splendid stallion. Disguise II. is still alive and flourishing at Mr. McKinney's stud, and it is a pity that some other Amphion mares are not available for him. Amphoraria by the way, sails for America to-morrow on board the Minnehaha, but she is to be mated with Sea King, and which shall say that this is wrong, for Flash of Steel is by a Persimmon horse out of an Amphion mare, and this filly would have made a tremendous price had she come up for sale on that eventful Friday at Newmarket, when she and all the rest of Col. Hall Walker's lots were withdrawn at the eleventh hour? Two or three people, so far as I can gather, had unlimited commissions to buy her. I know I had, for one, and not liking such a job I cabled to ask for a limit. The reply was, "Your own discretion." In the circumstances, I was just as well pleased that the filly was not offered, for discretion as to bloodstock value is a quality that differs very widely in different people, some of whom might think Flash of Steel too small to make more than 500 gs, whereas I verily believe that she would have been run up to 5,000 gs.

EASTERN GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—With the various importations of thoroughbreds that have been made this fall there has been brought about what almost amounted to a complication in the registration of the imported horses. Under a rule of racing foreign horses must come with a certificate of registration in their native country, but fortunately when that rule was passed there was a saving clause whereby in lieu of the certificate a foreign foal is made eligible for registration when identified to the satisfaction of the stewards.

Rule 41, which refers to foreign horses, reads:

"A horse foaled out of the United States or Canada shall not be qualified to start for any race until the owner has filed in the registry office a certificate stating age, color, sex, distinguishing marks, if any, and pedigree as recorded in the official stud book of its native country, signed by the secretary or other public officer of a recognized racing club, or by some approved magistrate or public officer of the country in which the horse was foaled, or has otherwise satisfied the stewards of The Jockey Club as to its identity and age, and has filed with The Jockey Club, after importation, a certificate of identification from a veterinarian."

By an English rule the Lexington strain, the most famous of American blood lines, is not eligible to registration in the English Stud Book. Many of the horses that have been returned to this country are foals of American mares that were sent abroad and as most of these mares were of the Lexington strain and consequently not eligible for registration, the same bar extended to their progeny.

Thanks to the saving clause in Rule 41 it is possible to register these colts and at the last meeting of The Jockey Club permission was granted Harry Payne Whitney to make eligible the following imported yearlings.

Bay or brown filly by Tracery—Perverse.
Bay colt by Bayardo—Petticoat.
Bay colt by Spearmint—Mineola.
Bay colt by Lemberg—Leisure.
Chestnut colt by St. Frusquin or St. Amant—Miss Hamburg.
Chestnut filly by St. Victrix—Crinoline.

The barring of the Lexington blood from the English Stud Book has been frequently discussed and that bar is coming home forcibly now. Looking over the brilliant array of mares shown in these Whitney yearlings it is easy to believe that it is a rule that would very easily bar the best horses of any country. There is every blood reason, as well as every racing reason, for the mares shown in this list producing colts capable of winning in any country.

The same action will have to be taken with many of the other horses that have been brought back to America, and when the horses of the late Herman B. Duryea come over, practically every one of them will have to be made eligible by the same procedure taken by Mr. Whitney.

John E. Madden of Hamburg Place, Lexington, yesterday sold the two-year-old filly by Hessian—Jacqueminot to William Shields, who made the purchase for his employer, Paul Powers. This filly was in the Max Hirsch string at Gravesend, and is credited with some first-class trials. She will be shipped to the old Benning track of the Washington Jockey Club, where Shields is making ready for the coming season.

Puss in Boots, Foxhall P. Keene's three-year-old daughter of Peter Pan and Star Cat, sailed on the Minnehaha for England. She has been consigned to Trainer Butters, who will point her for the One Thousand Guineas and the Oaks. This smart filly's most notable performance last season was her defeat of Harry Payne Whitney's Dominant in the running of the Grand Union Hotel Stakes at Saratoga. She has grown and improved considerably since being thrown out of training, and as shrewd a judge as Mr. Keene is of opinion that she has a royal chance for the big English prizes. Butters, the English trainer who will fit her for her engagements, is a conditioner of established reputation and, barring accidents, she will go to the post fit and ready for a good performance.

For a sailing mate on the Minnehaha Puss in Boots has Harry Payne Whitney's broodmare Matinee, an eight-year-old daughter of Broomstick and Audience, and accordingly an own sister to Whisk Broom II., whose Suburban in 2:00 for the mile and a quarter, under 139 pounds, will long remain one of the most remarkable feats of the turf. Matinee was sent to England in 1910 when a two-year-old and was returned to this country in 1912.

Matinee was raced ten times in England as a three and a four-year-old, but she was not returned a winner. As a three-year-old she was third in the running of the Harewood Handicap, and her other starts were in the Exning Handicap, Snailwell Stakes, Ayr Gold Cup, King George Stakes and the July Cup.

As a four-year-old she was second to Sol Joel's Polymela in the Whatcombe Handicap and in the Challenge Stakes she finished third to Hornet's Beauty and Absurd. Her other starts as a four-year-old were in the Richmond Plate and the Champion Sprint. It was at the close of that season that she, with Whisk Broom II. and others, was brought back to this country.

It is the intention to return Matinee to this country after she has been bred.

The untimely death of Herman B. Duryea brought about some complications in the movement of his horses from France, but an effort is being made now to start them on their way to this country. Under the existing regulations in France they must be brought out of the country by March 31, if they are permitted to leave at all. Cables have been sent ordering their movement into England, where they are safe to remain until other shipping plans can be made for the rest of the journey.

There are thirty-seven in the Duryea string and while it has not been definitely announced it is thought that they will find their way into the sales ring.

Following is the stable that will be campaigned by Captain Cassatt:

Flying Fairy, br m, 6, by Aeronaut—Millie A.
Trial by Jury, ch c, 4, by Fair Play—Princess Chic.
Spearhead, br h, 5, by Aeronaut—Dartee.
Garbage, ch g, 4, by Aeronaut—Trash.
Sun God, ch c, 3, by Aeronaut—Sunrise.
Buck Board, b c, by Aeronaut—Bettie Bouncer.
Dirigible, ch c, 2, by Aeronaut—Netta.
County Court, b c, 2, by Aeronaut—Litigant.
Odds and Ends, b f, 2, by Aeronaut—Trash.
Cachet, b or br f, 2, by Aeronaut—Princess Chic.

Captain Cassatt unfortunately lost two foals of the 1915 crop. One was a chestnut son of Aeronaut and Netta, and the other a chestnut daughter of Aeronaut and Foothold.

The first 1916 thoroughbred foal for the State of New York has been reported at Gifford A. Cochran's Mount Kisco Farm. This one is a bay son of Star Shoot and Veil and he is said to be a most impressive youngster. Veil is a Castleton-bred mare and a full sister to the Futurity winner Maskette, being a daughter of Disguise and Bituica. She is the dam of Vanitie, a son of Ogden, which after winning for John E. Madden at Belmont Park two years ago was sold to Louis Winans and has been raced in England.

Veil will be bred to Mr. Cochran's own young stallion His Majesty this spring.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer, who is coming into racing on an extensive scale, has added a royally bred English broodmare to his stud and she is a most important purchase for his breeding establishment at Binghamton, N. Y. This mare is Romagne, a seven-year-old daughter of Polymelus and Malatesta. By cable Mr. Kilmer was informed that the mare had dropped a handsome filly foal by White Eagle. She will remain in England to be bred to the best stallion available and during the summer months will be brought to this country with her foal.

In addition to Romagne Mr. Kilmer also purchased three two-year-old fillies that will be brought over on the steamship Mongolian. These were obtained from J. B. Joel and are two daughters of Sunflower II., one being the daughter of School Book, a daughter of Wisdom and Satchel by Galopin—Quiver, the dam of La Fleche; while the other is a daughter of Eugenia. The other filly of the trio is a daughter of Sir Geoffrey and My Dollar, by Sundridge, out of Last Dollar, winner of the Oaks. Eugenia is by Royal Hampton—Dingle, while Dingle is a daughter of Angelica, by Galopin.

These are most important importations and are right in line with the determination of Mr. Kilmer to gather at his farm none but the very best English stock that is available.

Malatesta, the dam of Romagne, has already proven her worth as a matron. She is by Isinglass—Parisina, by St. Simon, and sent to France a few years ago foaled the colt La Farina, which was one of the best of his year. He has to his credit two victories over the mighty Sardanapale, and in the running of the Grand Prix was second to Baron Maurice Rothschild's good colt. One of the victories of la Farina was in the Prix Lubin, worth $147,000 francs. Sardanapale, beaten twice by La Farina, was winner of more than $1,000,000 francs for Baron Rothschild.

No better producing families can be found in England, and these purchases by Mr. Kilmer should speedily give his breeding establishment a truly important position in the thoroughbred breeding world.

The three fillies that have been purchased and are soon to arrive in this country will be sent to Gravesend where Frank M. Taylor is fitting the others of Mr. Kilmer's racing string for the season so soon to open.

Trainer Taylor was a visitor at the offices of The Jockey Club yesterday and he reported that his horses are all doing exceedingly well. It is intended that they should have an early start and the purchases that have been made by Mr. Kilmer indicate that he will spare no expense to come into the sport adequately. Like many other sportsmen he takes a keen interest in the breeding of his horses and the Binghamton farm, before long, will be a most important New York thoroughbred institution.

John Sanford will have twenty-eight horses to bear his silks this season. Of these fifteen are two-year-olds and the remaining thirteen horses of more mature age. A number of these are now at Charleston, S. C., in the care of Holly Hughes and they are making ready for an early start. Unfortunately last Saturday there was a death in the string, the English two-year-old colt, Lonato, dying of pneumonia. This one was a chestnut son of Solferino and a mare by Ladas—Red Wing, the dam of Redfern, which was one of the best two-year-olds in England in 1914. Lonato was a colt of impressive conformation and had proven himself a most desirable prospect in all of his trials. He cost Mr. Sanford $4,550 at an English sale.

Last fall Mr. Sanford purchased the richly bred mare Addie M. from J. W. Messervy, the Charleston sportsman, and she has been retired to the stud. She will be bred to The Curragh, the English stallion that was imported for the Hurricana Stud at a big price last summer. The other mares that will join the ranks of the matrons at Amsterdam are Eleusinia, Isirose and Winning Witch.

It is the intention of Mr. Sanford to campaign a part of his string in Kentucky, and George Smith, the Out of Reach colt that was something of a sensation last season, is being pointed for the Kentucky Derby. This horse was purchased from Edward McBride during the Laurel meeting last October and Preston Burch has said that he is going along exceedingly well in his preparation. The others, and particularly the two-year-olds, are all well advanced for this season of the year. Steve Billings is in charge of the Sanford horses that are still at the Amsterdam farm and they all show a clean bill of health.

GENE LEIGH IN NEW ROLE.

John S. Barbee, Glen Helen Stud, is in receipt of a most interesting letter dated January 24, 1916, from H. Eugene Leigh, Maisons Laffitte, France, and has very kindly consented to let THE RECORD print extracts therefrom. Mr. Leigh writes as follows:

"I will endeavor to give you the news and tell you how I have been weathering the storm. You can guess that when the war broke out it caught me horse rich and money poor. Fortunately the Government took all of my old horses at from $300 to $500 apiece. Then I fed a lot more for a year which cost $600 or $700 each and I was forced to sell them at $250 or $300 each. The result is that I have held on to eight of the best young ones which I will probably be sorry for. One of my owners has twenty-four young ones with me, which by cutting corners pay for keeping mine.

Now, I will tell you a good and bad luck story. In the retreat on Paris, there were some hundreds of cars of bread sent back here and thrown away. I picked up about three hundred tons of it. As I had about one hundred hogs on my little island, I let them accumulate and eat bread. The first of October, I had over six hundred, so along came the cholera and killed over four hundred of them, which meant a loss of $6,000, they were worth 16c a pound. I had to pay 22c a pound for live pigs last week. The enclosed cards will explain themselves. (The cards referred to by Mr. Leigh are business cards of two pork shops of which he is proprietor, one at Maisons-Laffitte and the other in Paris). The one at Maisons-Laffitte I have had going since January 1915, and the one in Paris since January 1st. The Maisons shop made $4,000 last year and is know at The Golden Pig. This shop sells supplies at reasonable prices and in the talk of France from one end of the trenches to the other. War makes funny changes. I have a partner in it. The one in Paris is mine alone. It cost me about $3,500 to fit up and $1,500 to stock. We killed between eight and nine hundred pigs for the Maisons shop last year. I am getting so expert on hogs that I can guess within two pounds of their weight nine times out of ten.

My only trouble now is capital. Am so short I have to buy twice a week. With $2,000 ready cash could pick up a bargain quite often. There is no such thing as credit here, everything is cash. It looks like this terrible war will last eighteen months or two years longer. You have no idea what it is.

Since you were here, we have a beautiful little girl. Her name is Helene and she will be three years old in May. Frances will be seven in June and Vera thirteen in March. My wife is well and wishes to be remembered to you. I am mailing by the same post a short letter, as I am afraid the censor might do away with this long-winded one."

A turf note published in THE THOROUGHBRED RECORD caught Barney Schreiber's eye at New Orleans and elicited from him the following interesting information:

"February 5, you had among your turf notes that Hattie Weldon, by Sain—Charm, had won a stake race in South Africa and was bred by Rome Respess. She was bred by B. Schreiber and sold with twenty-five others by me to go to South Africa two years ago. Charm was bred in California and was by Cheviot—Fairy Rose, by Kisber, and therefore was a half-sister to the great horse Racine. So you see Hattie Weldon is a great bred one. She was named for a young lady in the City of Mexico who bought two horses from me when I was in Mexico with thirty-six horses four years ago."

Judge Allie W. Young's Santa Susanna by Top Gallant out Miss Laudeman by Hanover, foaled a chestnut filly by Peter Quince this week at Senator Camden's Hartland Stud.

BETTER BROODMARES.

The above heading does not refer to blooded or registered stock, but to the farm mare used to produce utility horses and mules. There are near 150,000 of them in the State. A large per cent. of them are too small, and have too much of the blood of the scrub. It costs nearly as much to raise a colt or mule out of a small mare as it does out of a large mare. The colt out large mare is worth approximately twice as much as one out of the small mare. Kentucky produces annually from her broodmares close to 75,000 colts and mules. Two mares are bred for each one that produces.

There is a waste of one-half the produce by reason of infertility. There is another loss on the live foals due to size and hereditary defects transmitted. They bring at weaning time very much less than they would were they out of large, well-bred broodmares. The horse and mule breeders of the state would do well to give heed to this matter. The horse and mule stock of the state is the largest breeding interest of the state. There is more money invested in horses and mules in Kentucky than there is invested in cattle, sheep, and hogs.

Every other farm animal outside the horse is yielding to better breeding, and the horse breeder needs to seek a method whereby he may improve his broodmare stock.

The writer suggests the method of breeding known as grading up It would be utopian and futile to suggest the outright purchase of suitable broodmares. The farmer cannot afford to "scrap" what he already has, and even if he did there is no source of supply for good brood mares. He must transform his present mare by a careful system of breeding, into a good broodmare.

The Racing Commission and the State University are cooperating to start a solution. The method in view is to grade up. The Commission has placed under the direction of Animal Husbandry Department eleven thoroughbred stallions to be used on the light, non-pedigreed farm mares. The stallions are large, breedy, and free from hereditary unsoundness. These horses have been sent into counties where horse stock most needs an infusion of good blood. This Department will endeavor to keep a record of all matings, and later study as far as possible the result of the cross. All males, of course, should be gelded. The fillies should be bred back to the same breed. In this way the breeding and size can be greatly improved in two or three generations.

The sole purpose of the Animal Husbandry Department in this co-operation is to improve the broodmare of the State. The Racing Commission can have only a most unselfish motive. Personally the Commission has nothing to gain other than the satisfaction of aiding the utility-horse mare. It is an act most unselfish on their part as several thousand dollars has been spent in horses from which the Commission and the University cannot secure a cent. All the small service fee charged will go to the man who cares for the horse while he is doing service. It should be understood that no possible money returns can come to the Commission or the University.

The writer is of the opinion that it is a step in the right direction; that a general grading up process should take place in every county of the State. Some counties will went to use the registered saddle horse, others may prefer the standard bred or trotter, while some communities will prefer to use the dratt breed. The process is the same whatever breed is used. Geld all males. Breed the fillies back to the same breed as her sire. Never cross breed after grading begins. Get enough crosses of the same breed to make the breed features prominent. This can only be done by returning two, three or more times to the same breed of sire.

It is unnecessary to say that whatever breed is to be used to grade up the utility horse, the sires should be large, all round good individuals and also be registered. The essential improvement advocated is size and breed type.

STAKES TO CLOSE IN MARCH.

Harry Morrissey will do the starting at the Hot Springs Business Men's League race meeting at Oaklawn Park, beginning March 11. Starter Morrissey made this announcement this week following a telephonic conversation with General Manager Joseph E. Marlin. It has been settled also that J. B. Campbell will be presiding judge.

The mares Prudential Girl, by Kinley Mack—Halmalil, by Hanover, and Margie D., by Golden Garter—Queenfisher, by St. Blaise, property of Lawrence & Comstock, of California, arrived at Beaumont Farm this week to be mated to R. J. Mackenzie's stallion Buckhorn.

During S. J. Lawler's recent visit to Lexington, he purchased of E. R. Bradley two yearlings for the Quincy Stable, a bay colt by Cunard—Mrs. F. G. Hogan, by Sir Dixon, and a bay filly by Helmet—Eonic, by Eon. The Quincy Stable now has five yearlings at Idle Hour Farm, and all are highly thought of.

New York, Feb. 23.—The first foal of the year has arrived at Mr. James Butler's East View Farm, East View, Westchester County, N. Y. It is a bay colt, foaled February 15, by Out of Reach, dam Pierrette, by Ben Brush; 2nd dam Pink Domino, (dam of Sweep, Novelty, etc.), by Domino.

This is the first foal of Mr. Butler's breeding by Out of Reach, and is also the first out of Pierrette, she being now only four years old.

Several trainers at Gravesend were discussing the efforts of The Jockey Club to encourage long-distance races, or rather, races at one mile and over. The general opinion was that such a reform was one which should be effected. It was contended that the general public could not be favorably impressed with the fact that racing encouraged the breeding of better horses as long as animals three years old and upward were racing at distances of less than one mile, while many of the races were at six furlongs and less. This, they contend, tended to give the general public the impression that the thoroughbred of today was nothing more than a sprinter, and that racehorses had really deteriorated since the days of Lexington, Lecompte, Boston, Fashion, Wagner, Black Maria and other heroes and heroines of earlier generations.

The consensus of opinion seemed to be that while the racehorses of today were much faster than those which won fame about the middle of the nineteenth century, it was not true that stamina and staying power had been sacrificed for the sake of extreme speed. As a matter of fact, it was much cheaper to race horses a short distance than at long ones, and as long as the racing associations failed to discriminate in favor of long races when arranging their purses, it was not to be expected that long races would find favor with a majority of owners.

"If I can win a purse of $400 by winning a race at six furlongs," said George Odom, "it is not likely I would fit a horse to run twice that distance for the same money. Any good campaigner can run two six furlongs races a week, but when it comes to running a mile and a half, one race a week is enough.

"In the old days when horses ran four mile heats, they were not asked to race very often, but in these days an owner must win often to take a good place in the list of winning owners. Down in Washington I won a mile and six furlongs race with a horse which never had been rated as anything but a sprinter. It was that horse Oracular, and I entered him in the race more to fill it than with any hope of winning, for Perseverance was in it and everybody thought he could not lose; but just the same I beat him more than fifty lengths.

"Look at the horses which now hold the long distance records! They are a very common lot which have been trained to run long distances just because they were not fast enough to win at sprinting distances. If really big purses were hung up for long races, and if there were enough of them to make it worth while to train good horses for them, the public would be convinced of the value of the thoroughbreds of today very quickly.

"What I would like to see would be a grading of purses according to the distances to be run, and that under stake weights. Let the mere sprinters run for small purses, and give the big purses for races of a mile and a quarter and over. That would bring out the really good horses and show the public that the thoroughbred of today has gained greatly in stamina as well as speed.

"I do not know that I would favor this rule regarding the racing of two-year-olds before April 1, because I do not think it would be effective of anything save the spoiling of the market for cheap yearlings and the embarrassment of winter racing. If it had been made June 1, it would have had the effect of preventing trainers from working their youngsters through the slush and mud of early spring, but April 1 is a different proposition. In order to be ready to race April 1, the candidates will have to be trained when the going is very bad, and that is what will tear them to pieces."

Odom's general line of comment was sound enough, but he was in error as to the class of the holders of most of our long-distance records. Roamer holds the mile and an eighth record, Whisk Broom II. the mile and a quarter record, Ballot the mile and five-sixteenths, Irish Lad the mile and three-eighths, Goodrich the mile and a half, Fitz Herbert the mile and five-eighths, Major Daingerfield the mile and three-quarters, Everett the two miles, Ethelbert the two miles and a quarter, Mamie Algol the three miles and Sotemia the four miles, anyone of which he would have delighted to train and fine racers one and all.

Sandy McNaughton, acting as agent for Mrs. McNaughton, has taken over the engagements of the Parker Whitney two-year-olds named for the Futurity of this year. There are nine in the lot and they are all by Von Tromp. They are:

Every evidence has been offered that the racing season of 1916 will be a more prosperous one than any that have gone before since the passage of the Agnew-Hart laws, which, as a matter of fact, were shot full of holes by the courts of the land. With this assurance of prosperity, The Jockey Club has enacted several rules that all look to the betterment of the sport and laws that are sure to bring a lasting benefit to the sport.

The latest amendment, and one that has not yet been passed, but one that is sure to prevail, is an amendment to Rule 4, that fixes the distance of races.

The amendment that has been proposed by Schuyler L. Parsons and seconded by Francis L. Hitchcock, is one that will prevent the preponderance of short sprinting dashes for the older division.

The original rule provided for races of a suitable distance to afford a fair test of the horse, but there was a saving clause that gave the racing secretaries a chance to put on foolish sprinting races almost at will. This clause read: "But should it be found necessary to add an extra race, the rule shall not apply to such a race."

The amendment that has been offered strikes out this saving clause and it will probably be enacted.

A better amendment would have been that when the extra race is one substituted for the original, it shall not be of a shorter distance.

From time to time there may be extra races that are more or less of the match order and as such there should be provision for their running. Should a pair of two-year-olds wish to try out conclusions, after the regular programme has been completed, they should have the opportunity over any distance.

But this is a small matter. The fact remains that The Jockey Club is very desirous of having racing call for more than the mere running of horses around a ring and all of the amendments have that in view.

The big thing in racing is the improvement of the breed, and the rules of racing were framed with the idea of giving tests for the thoroughbred that would bring out his best qualities. Unfortunately, Rule 4, had a "kicker" that ruined the very idea of the enactment. The rule as it read was:

Rule 4. After June 1 in each year only one overnight event for a distance less than a mile for horses three years old and upward shall be given on any race day, but should it be found necessary to add an extra race, this rule shall not apply to such race."

The amendment that has been offered wipes out, "but should it be found necessary to add an extra race, this rule shall not apply to such a race."

The other changes of the rules that will go into effect are of vast benefit to the sport. The selling races have long been a very troublesome matter with the legislators of the turf. Relief is found in the amendment of Schuyler L. Parsons that provides for an equal division of the run-up money between all the starters.

After 1917, no two-year-old will be permitted to start before April 1. This amendment is a step in the right direction, but Captain Cassatt, who was the creator of

NEW YORK RACING SEASON.

Racing Dates for 1916.

Bowie, April 1 to 14—12 days.
Havre de Grace, April 15 to 29—13 days.
Pimlico, May 1 to 17—15 days.
Jamaica, May 18 to 24—6 days.
Belmont Park, May 25 to June 14—18 days,
Jamaica, June 15 to 23—8 days.
Empire City, July 12 to 29—16 days.
Belmont Park, August 28 to Sept. 9—12 days.

Racing is to begin in New York May 18 and the schedule that was approved by the stewards of The Jockey Club, provides for continuous sport in the State until September 9. This means ninety-nine days of racing, and it is exactly the same term as that of last year.

The schedule of 1915 called for 101 days, but in its arrangement the Saratoga meeting was to come to a close August 31. That date fell on Tuesday, and the Saratoga Association surrendered two days to bring the closing Saturday. This action made the schedule, in the matter of racing days, identical with this year's allotment.

The stewards have respected the wishes of Maryland in fixing the racing dates, and there will be no conflict. Maryland has become an important part of the Eastern racing circuit, and the four associations there reached an agreement on a division of the time that provides for forty days of entertainment for that State, beginning April 1, before the New York season is opened.

As spring and summer dates were issued last year the circuit, including Maryland, called for 143 racing days, as against 139 that have been framed for this season, but the fact that Pimlico gave up its last day, Saratoga two days and Bowie had to close down April 3 on account of a heavy snow fall, brings that season down to the same racing time that has just been decided upon.

This year Saratoga will surrender none of its racing time for the very good and sufficient reason that the schedule brings the season at the Spa to an end on a Saturday. That will make the racing season identical with that of last year. There does not seem to be any good reason to expect Pimlico to surrender its last day and it is not probable that Bowie will lose any racing time by reason of stress of weather.

An analysis of the dates reveals that the Westchester Association, that conducts meetings at Belmont Park, is given much the best of it, but that is easily understood when the track facilities are taken into consideration. Counting the twelve days in the fall there will be thirty days of racing at the big course and this term includes five Saturdays, Decoration Day and Labor Day.

Jamaica has two Saturdays in its fourteen days of sport, one in each of the short meetings. Empire City, in its sixteen days of sport, is awarded three Saturdays.

There are some minor changes in the Saturday line in Maryland. Bowie is the same, with its two Saturdays in its twelve days of racing, but Havre de Grace opening and closing on Saturdays gives that track three of those desirable days in a thirteen-day session, as against two last year with a fourteen-day meeting. Pimlico loses one Saturday when there are only two in its fifteen-day session.

Making a comparison with 1915 there are only three changes in the racing time, and two of them are offset by surrenders in 1915. These changes are at Havre de Grace, where thirteen days have been allotted as against fourteen, but the adding of another Saturday more than makes up for the one day curtailment. Pimlico is awarded fifteen days, as against sixteen last year, but in 1915 the sixteenth day was not used. The other change is at Saratoga, where twenty-four days are allotted, as against twenty-six last year, but in 1915 only twenty-four days were utilized.

Saratoga with its twenty-four days of racing has four Saturdays and the fifteen days at the Aqueduct track of the Queens County Jockey Club include three Saturdays and the Fourth of July.

The division of the Saturdays and holidays is of vast importance in a racing year and it has always been a bone of contention among the associations when the turf is in a prospering condition. Belmont Park will have opposition on Decoration Day as well as one of its Saturdays, when the Piping Rock Association will conduct its racing.

No reason exists for the Piping Rock Association paying the slightest attention to the Belmont Park dates. Last year though Belmont Park had a full eighteen days in the spring no consideration was shown the Piping Rock club, and the races were conducted at the big track while sportsmen of Locust Valley filled their dates. No provision was made for Piping Rock in the present schedule—probably it was not even asked after the treatment of last season—and it was natural that the most desirable days should be chosen.

Another clash with the amateurs comes at the second Jamaica meeting when there will be two days at Brookline. This is a conflict that is of no moment for the reason that the sport offered at the two courses is of a widely different nature and Brookline is so far removed from Long Island.

The change of scene for the New York opening will doubtless meet the hearty approval of racegoers. With the Metropolitan Jockey Club starting the season at Jamaica there are six days in which to obtain some sort of a line on horses before the running of the Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park May 25. Belmont Park is the logical racing ground for the big holidays and Decoration Day has become the natural property of the big Queens County course. Jamaica is not equipped to take care of the big crowds that will be out on such days, but at its second meeting, from June 15 to 23, it is natural to expect good racing weather.

Old Aqueduct, the home of the Queens County Jockey Club, is well taken care of when it is remembered that the fifteen days include three Saturdays and July 4, which falls on Tuesday this year. The Yonkers track of the Empire City Racing Association is kindly treated, even though the opening day is an anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, for there are three Saturdays in the session.

There have been many rumors that some of the other New York associations had hoped for racing time in the fall, but the consideration that has been shown Maryland in the present allotment settles any hope for such a change. The only reason for extending the fall season in New York would be the inability of Maryland to offer entertainment by reason of adverse legislation and such legislation is a very remote possibility at this time.

In addition to the allotment of the racing dates the stewards took action on a number of applications for licenses. The application of Jockey C. H. Shilling is still before the license committee and it did not come up for consideration. That of Jockey P. Ford was denied, while Trainer Arthur Carter had his application for reinstatement denied and the application of Trainer Joseph Henry Buscher was tabled.

Carter, who is a former jockey of the Guttenberg days, was banished ten or twelve years ago on a charge of "doping" the horse Beardall at a Brighton Beach meeting.

The trainers whose applications were acted upon favorably are:

E. J. Albright.	Hollie Hughes.
M. M. Allen.	D. J. Leary.
J. Byer.	J. Howard Lewis.
C. L. Carroll.	Wm. Martin.
J. Carroll.	James McLaughlin.
W. M. Carter.	Sandy McNaughton.
C. J. Casey.	W. R. Midgley.
W. C. Clancy.	John Miller.
Frank Devers.	Geo. Odom.
Paul J. Fox.	James E. Owens.
James K. Frayling	W. F. Presgrave.
Lewis Garth.	E. D. Purcell.
Wm. Garth.	James Rowe.
Thomas J. Healey.	James J. Sheridan.
J. Simon Healy.	Albert Simons.
E. W. Heffner.	F. M. Taylor.
William H. Henry.	Albert G. Weston.
S. C. Hildreth.	J. C. Williams.
Max Hirsch.	John F. Yarnall.
M. Hogan.	Martin Zahn.

The jockeys whose applications were granted are:

L. Allen.	John McTaggart.
James Butwell.	Thomas McTaggart.
Eugene Forehand.	Joseph Notter.
R. Hoffman.	Edward Taplin.

In the list of trainers who have been granted licenses it is of decided interest that H. C. Hallenbeck is given as the employer of Frank M. Taylor. Taylor trained for Mr. Hallenbeck two years ago, but last year E. W. Heffner was in charge. Heffner is again named as an employee of the Hallenbeck establishment, but the naming of Taylor would make it appear that he will come back. In the meantime Taylor has been handling the horses that Willis Sharpe Kilmer will race this season.

In the jockey list John McTaggart has W. R. Coe named as his employer. Thomas McTaggart and Joe Notter are to ride for Harry Payne Whitney and James Butwell is again under contract to Andrew Miller.

ANSWER TO CRITICISMS OF DEFINITION OF THE THOROUGHBRED.

Horse—The Thoroughbred—Superior breed of—Originated in England—Its breeding traceable to one, two, or all of three sires, named: Matchem, Herod, Eclipse.

When criticising, February 12th, the foregoing definition, which was submitted in my article appearing in The Thoroughbred Record, page 17, issue of Jan. 8th, Mr. John L. O'Connor asks: "Why did he say, 'Originated in England,' when, as a matter of fact, the origin of the Thoroughbred is still in dispute."

Mr. Thomas B. Merry, author of a book entitled, The American Thoroughbred, says:—"England is the cradle of the thoroughbred horse."

Col. S. D. Bruce, author of The American Stud Book, and an admirable work, entitled "The Thoroughbred Horse," both works, consuming near thirty years of labor, says: "England is entitled to the credit of Originating the thoroughbred horse."

Therefore, the readers of this paper, have here a case of historical accuracy, presented for their consideration and decision, to-wit:—

Versus

The Ipse dixit of John L. O'Connor } Defendant

As Counsel for plaintiff, I submit this case without argument to the intelligent readers of The Thoroughbred Record.

Mr. O'Connor further says: "Its breeding traceable To Matchem, Herod and Eclipse." To be accurate the definer might have aimed closer to the point had he substituted "Through" for "To."

I designedly used the word To as preferable to the word Through, since the latter would imperatively imply further explanation which belongs exclusively to the wide dominion devoted to extensive pedigree history. My intention was to stop at the Stud Book, deeming the information thus given sufficient to serve as a citation where lengthy historical evidence may be found.

Mr. O'Connor says: "To give an understandable answer to the question,'what is The Thoroughbred,'how can the answer be worded in a manner more precise than by saying that The Thoroughbred is the galloping (running) gaited racehorse." Fatal objection to this answer is that, the same may be said of the equine known as the Quarter Horse, for he also "is the galloping, running, gaited racehorse."

It is my opinion that, a definition of The Thoroughbred, to be accurate, must circumscribe an enclosure into which no other horse may enter; if any other can enter, then, it is evident, the definition is essentially faulty.

When Euclid said: "If one straight line meets another straight line the sum of the two adjacent angles equal two right angles." He did not then define a right angle, presuming his auditors had passed through the primary lessons in mathematics.

A few years ago, when by invitation, lecturing on domestic animals to students of an Agricultural College still in their primer lessons, in this department of science, I used the form of the aforementioned definition, modified by seven additional explanatory words, and now, presuming it might prove more acceptable to the comprehension of Mr. John L. O'Connor and smooth his pathway while pursuing his study concerning the Thoroughbred, I here submit it for his especial benefit:

Horse—The Thoroughbred—superior breed of—excels in endurance and running speed—Originated in England, its breeding now traceable to one, two, or all of three sires, named: Matchem, Herod, Eclipse.

S. L. Chenery.

P. S.—Mr. O'Connor suspects me of entertaining bigotry toward the race of the O's and Mc's. If true, it surely could have no weight in deciding questions in philology. To this charge I enter a plea not guilty and never was, and I should here remind him that, long ago the wisest fathers of the Holy Mother Church announced the construction of a purgatory wherein souls so steeped in bigotry as to cause abuse of innocent people must there pass through a long and severe refining process before permitted to enter Paradise.

The stallion owner who fails to keep his horse prominently before the public by not properly advertising him is not doing his duty to the few broodmare owners who patronize him. He is, in fact, not unlike the boy whose mother sent him to town to dispose of a bag of hickory nuts. After walking the streets all day without a bit of dinner he returned home in the evening tired and crying.

"What is the matter, Willie, and why have you not sold the nuts," inquired his mother?

"Nobody asked me what I had in my sack," replied Willie.

The stallion owner who does not advertise pursues about the same course as Willie did with the nuts and likewise complains because his horse is not patronized and loudly shouts that the business is deteriorating. If you want your stallion patronized invite the public to come and see him and present your reasons why he is deserving of patronage.—[Ex.

DEATH OF COL. L. P. TARLTON.

Col. L. P. Tarlton, proprietor of Fleetwood Stud, and a gentleman and sportsman of the old school, died at his home near Frankfort, Ky., Thursday night. His death was due to diabetes. While Col. Tarlton had not been in good health for several years, he was yet able to attend to business and was as recently as Wednesday a visitor in Lexington.

He was prominently identified with the thoroughbred interests, not only as a breeder, but as judge of racing, in which capacity he officiated at various meetings throughout the West.

MEETING OF DIRECTORS OF KENTUCKY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the directors of the Kentucky Association is called for this morning, the purpose being the election of a president to succeed Catesby Woodford, resigned.

The directorate is composed of the following men, all prominently identified with the turf: O. H. Chenault, G. D. Wilson, Matt J. Winn, T. C. McDowell, Senator J. N. Camden, Hal Price Headley, R. L. Baker, A. B. Hancock and A. B. Gallaher.

The names of O. H. Chenault, T. C. McDowell and Hal Price Headley have been mentioned for the place, but there is current a strong rumor that Sen. J. N. Camden will be the next president of the Kentucky Association.

the new rule, would have worked a more lasting benefit if he had been able to move the prohibition back to June 1, July 1, or even August 1. Horses may not be raced in the State of New York before April 15, and it is doubtful if ever again the opening will be that early in the year. Therefore the Southern courses, that are not really under the jurisdiction of The Jockey Club, are the only ones that are affected.

Other amendments that have been passed are those calling for abolishing of the three-pound allowance for geldings; the barring of three-year-olds from racing in steeplechases until August 1, and a rule that prevents the registering of a duplicate name until all record of the original bearer of the name has been lost for ten instead of five years.

As for the gelding allowance, the reason for that amendment is easily explained. Almost nine of ten horses that are gelded are operated on with the view of bettering their racing qualifications. In many cases it has the desired result, and rather than give the geldings allowances they really should be required to take up a penalty.

Another reason for the adoption of this rule is the question of the betterment of the breed. A gelding naturally has no part in such a scheme, and he is entitled to no consideration in the scale of weights.

As for the putting back of the date at which three-year-olds shall be raced through the field, this is only a return to old conditions.

Another amendment that is of vast importance is that which prevents the choosing of a duplicate name until the original bearer has been lost sight of for ten years. This is for the purpose of keeping the records clear, and too much weight cannot be put on this section of the rules. Under any rules it keeps the registrar busy denying applications for names that in his opinion are duplicates, and the ten-year amendment gives him a better opportunity to fill his important office with better satisfaction.

Grant Hugh Browne, who is coming into racing again seriously this year, has filed a partnership in which Mrs. Browne and his daughter, Dorothy, are to share. This partnership is in nine horses that have been imported by Mr. Browne. They are.

Miss Tipperary (2), Boy Browne (2), Canon Bridge (4), Stradivarius (3), Gunbearer (5), King Herod (2), Pinch (4), Little Mother II. (4), and Anthony's Lass (4).

Alfred Hennen Morris will show his silks on the turf this season with an excellent string. His partners are R. W. and R. J. Walden, but the horses are to be campaigned under the Morris silks. The string is composed of two-year-olds only and is as follows:

Bittersweet, Infer, Wild Thyme, Thistle Queen, Marseillaise, Delos, Piraeus, Lord Fitz Herbert and Nepotism.

EMPIRE CITY RACING ASSOCIATION STAKES.

Stakes to be run at the summer meeting, July 12 to 29, of the Empire City Racing Association, are announced in this issue of THE RECORD by Secretary V. E. Schaumburg, to close next Friday, March 10

This association is offering quite a tempting array of fifteen rich stakes to be handed over to some fortunate owner. There are six stakes for two-year-olds, three for three-year olds, and six for three-year olds and upward. The Weil and East View for two year olds are the headliners from the monetary standpoint. Each has a guaranteed value of $5,000. The Empire City Handicap, the most important of the offerings for the older horses, is a $2,500 added affair. All classes of horses are well provided for and a generous response is due the association.

LATONIA STAKES CLOSE MARCH 8.

General Manager John Hachmeister announces in THE RECORD this week the stakes to be run off at the coming spring meeting of the Latonia Jockey Club. The Latonia Derby this year will again have an added value of $10 000. In all nine stakes will be run off at the coming meeting, and the total added money reaches the sum of $27 500.

The Latonia Derby last year was worth $10,125 net to the winner; the Cincinnati Trophy, $5,700; Independence Handicap, $3 430, etc., and there is no reason to believe these stakes will fall off any in entries this year. The distribution in stakes and purses last year at Latonia was $234,262.

Entries to these stakes close on Wednesday, March 8, and full conditions may be seen in the announcement. Entry blanks may be had at THE RECORD office.

DOUGLAS PARK STAKES CLOSE MARCH 8.

The stake events are the same as those offered last spring. The feature event is the Kentucky Handicap for three-year-olds and up at a mile and a quarter, to which $10,000 has been added. The Kentucky Handicap was worth $11,700 net to the winner last year, and it should be worth as much or more this year. The Spring Trial Stakes was worth net to the winner last year $3,470. Full conditions of all the stakes appear in the announcement. In the twenty-one days racing at Douglas Park last year $127,823 was distributed in stakes and purses.

COBHAM STUD DISPERSAL SALE.

Mr. W. Allison's twenty-one years' lease on the famous Cobham Stud in England expires at the end of this year, and it has therefore been decided to hold a dispersal sale of all the stallions, broodmares, yearlings and foals during next July. Many other lots of the highest class will also be included in the sale. The actual date of sale will be announced in due course.

The horses at the Kentucky Association track are a grand looking lot, especially the two-year-olds, and all are in exceptionally good health.

J. O. Milam arrived home Monday from New Orleans. He bought while there Kate K., Taka, Norumbega and Silver Sedge.

LOCAL NOTES.

Optime, dam of the great Sysonby, is dead at Kingston Farm. The mare has been afflicted with rheumatism for a number of years and this week she was put to death by Dr. Hagyard to end her suffering.

Optime was a bay mare, foaled in 1896, and imported to this country by Marcus Daly in 1901. At the dispersal sale of the Estate of Marcus Daly held at Sheepshead Bay October 1, 1901, James R. Keene became the owner of Optime for $6,600. She was then in foal to Melton and the result of this mating was the celebrated racehorse Sysonby, winner of fourteen races out of fifteen starts and $184,438, being second only to the great Domino as the largest money-winning horse of America.

Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield, acting for the Wickliffe Stud, purchased this week from Edlen Wood, Wayne, Pa., the six-year old brown mare, Surecome by Dolly—Outcome (stake winner and dam of Outlaw, Inlaw, Lady Errant, Fidget and Trappoid) by Sir Dixon. Surecome was shipped from Philadelphia Tuesday and reached Lexington Thursday, being immediately taken to Kingston Farm.

Irving H. Wheatcroft is importing from his stud in England eleven mares and four foals, which are due to arrive in New York next Wednesday, March 8th, on the S. S. Lancastrian. Mr. Wheatcroft still owns something over one hundred thoroughbreds in his studs in England and Australia, and is shipping these mares to this country to reduce his stud on account of war conditions in England. These mares are a well-bred lot. The full list follows:

Competent judges pronounce the yearling colt by Trap Rock out of imp. Fairy, property of E. L. Davis Rockwood Stud, near Midway, Ky., one of the best looking youngsters in Kentucky. Fairy is a mare of exceptional field breeding, being a daughter of St. Frusquin and the stake winner Cretan Belle. She is the dam of that good Fair Play horse, For Fair, whose recent showing at New Orleans demonstrates that he is again in the form which, as a 3 year-old enabled him to win five races out of seven starts, four being consecutive victories.

Ed Hacher bought the five-year-old bay mare, Cliff Maid, by Clifford—Garmada II., by Laureate, for $125 at a sale on Oneapine Friday morning. The mare was sold for a fed bill. Cliff Maid was a winner at two and three.

Feb. 28—Bay colt by Peep O'Day—Evaline (dam of Ed Crump and Geo. C. Love) by Deceiver. Mare will be bred to Sweep.

The fact that this colt was foaled the same day that his two-year-old brother, Geo. C. Love, won his first race, is quite a coincidence and augurs well for his future.

Barry Shannon, manager of E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Stud, reports the following foals:

Mr. Camden was nominated by Arthur B. Hancock and Vice President Overton H. Chenault was nominated by Hal Price Headley.

Messrs Hancock, John G. Stoll and G. D. Wilson voted for Camden, and Messrs. Headley, T. C. McDowell and A. B. Gallatin voted for Chenault. The vote was a tie and Chenault, who was presiding promptly voted for Mr. Camden.

EASTERN GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, March 1.—An evidence of the esteem in which the late H. B. Duryea was held in France is had in the following testimonial which was published in a recent issue of the La Chronique du Turf, the official organ of the Société:

"We learn with deep regret of the death of Mr. H. B. Duryea. Knowing that his strong constitution had been fighting for several months against this illness, nevertheless we were hoping to see him again with us, making known, as is the custom of this race, that extreme joy which he felt on seeing one of his breeding pass the winning post.

"In reviewing the successes of the green and white jacket it is sufficient to say that the memory of this excellent sportsman will remain forever attached to the name of Dorbar, which was, since Gladiateur, the only winner of the Epsom Derby bred and raised on our soil. One of the last things which Mr Duryea did was to give Blarney, one of his stallions, to the country which he loved. The French are not among those who forget."

The above was printed between mourning lines.

On February 22nd, bay filly, with white hind pasterns, sired by Out of Reach, dam Mind the Pain, by Sperman.

On February 23rd, bay filly, with black points and star, also sired by Out of Reach, dam Schoolmarm, by Lexington.

There will be several others before the opening of the season, and as a matter of fact those who sit up nights figuring horses will have a very arduous task until the lists of the foreigners has been established.

Within three weeks there will be a very important addition to the list of foreign thoroughbreds brought over for racing in this country. At that time the yearlings and two-year-olds of the estate of the late H. B. Duryea will be sent this country.

STAYING QUALITY OF AMERICAN THOROUGHBRED.

[W Allison in London Sportsman]

Mr. J. E Madden has quite rightly taken up the cudgels in defense of American thoroughbreds against Mr. R J Hancock J., who had roundly condemned them in The Thoroughbred Record as hopelessly deficient in stamina since the days of Parole, Iroquois and Foxhall, for it pointed out, quite truly enough that such horses as Kilmarnock and David Garrick were undoubted stayers over English courses in comparatively recent years, while Cap and Bells won the Oaks very easily indeed.

It might also have been added that Sir Martin and Disguise II. showed no lack of stamina in this country, but I attach little or no importance to the Derby victory of Dorbar, for, though he won, he had no real pretensions to be up to the classic standard and formed one of that lamentable series of winners whose success will always puzzle people who know what Derby form should really be.

All the same, it cannot, I think, be claimed for American horses that stamina is anything but a rare quality with them. I cannot call to mind that I ever had a single stayer sent to him from America, during all the seasons he was at Newmarket, though he had many first-class sprinters. Huggins, before he, was in the same predicament, except that he had Kilmarnock, which did, no doubt, stay but was not in the first-class.

Mr. Madden, however, has the courage of his opinion, and says, "I expect to see the American thoroughbred hold his own the coming season, and when the season of 1916 is over the American thoroughbred will be more appreciated than he is today."

Fine words, but I shall be surprised if Star Hawk does not send me down with the best Americans, if all goes well with him, and the new two-year-olds brought from Mr. J. B. J. as well, if they all be up to the usual Childwick samples, which they certainly appeared to be, give the best of the native bred ones something to do before Mr. Madden's anticipation is verified. Mr. Hancock might have done well to carry his arguments further back to the days when Mr Ten Broeck was racing here and showed us such American-bred stayers as Prince and Starke. There could be no sort of doubt about their stamina.

Mr Madden, on the other hand can hardly deduce any convincing proof from the defeats of the five year-old Iroquois after he returned to the States, for the son of Leamington had seen his best day as a three year old, had never started as a four year-old and had only shown a vestige of his true form in two starts as a five-year old in England. The subject is an interesting one, however, though I suppose it can never be argued to a definite conclusion; more especially as in the old style of race riding, stamina was seldom really tested except in big handicaps like the Cesarewitch.

The Chester Cup is no real test of stamina, and the Ascot Cup and Alexandra Plate have very often been falsely run races. Santoi's cup certainly was, though Santoi would always have won it. They were very low for a Derby and Oaks, with the result that in the last mile Fortarshire made a great show and finished third to Kilmarnock's record.

Volume XI. of the American Stud Book will be sent to any address by The Thoroughbred Record Co, on receipt of price ($10).

Hoover's and the Standard Stallion Service Record can be purchased from The Thoroughbred Record Co. Prices $2 and $1, respectively.

STATISTICS TELL THE STORY.

Editor Thoroughbred Record:

In compiling the following statistics I have used Goodwin's Official Turf Guide for the year 1907. My reason for going back as far as 1907 is because at that time, and for years prior thereto, racing was prosperous in New York State, especially for the owners of stock in the racing associations. I have purposely omitted handicaps and selling races, for no one would care to race a valuable horse in a selling race, and it is the duty of the handicapper to assign different weights to the horses in a handicap so as to make them run as near even as possible. Thus a good horse in a handicap should have no advantage over an inferior one. In the interest of brevity I have given only races of a value of $5,000 or more, and what follows applies only to races of this class.

Four starters; one three-year-old and three four-year-olds Won by Nealon, a four-year-old.

Total for three-year-olds and upward, (eleven stakes and cups) $104 370.

The foregoing statistics show that in 1907 there were thirty-one stakes, aggregating the sum total of $293 0 7 50 given to two-year-olds; eleven stakes of a total value of $ 29,165 given to three-year-olds; and eleven stakes and cups (weight-for-age) amounting to $104 370 given to three year-olds and upward. Thus it will be seen that nearly 70 per cent. of the money was given to two-year-old; a little more than 10 per cent. to three-year-olds; and not quite 20 per cent. to three-year-olds and upward. $59 5 3 2 50 more money was given in 19 7 to two-year-olds than to three year-olds, four-year-olds, five year-olds, six-year olds and aged horses, in races of a value of $5 0 0 0 or more, exclusive of handicaps.

N B.—The recent rule (which is a good one) introduced by Captain Cassatt and adopted by The Jockey Club, prohibiting two-year-old racing before April 1st, has no application to these statistics, as the first of these two-year old races was run on May 20, 1907, and all the others thereafter.

The Futurity for two year-olds at six furlongs is our most valuable race. The United States is the only country in the world that has for its most valuable race one at as short a distance as six furlongs. This race has done a great deal to injure the American thoroughbred, as it is more or less a standard for breeders to aim at. This race looks like a right large one, yet it did not compare in value to some of the European races a greater distances for older horses of the same year (this year having been selected because racing was in full bloom in all the countries then), and the conditions of their races were much more liberal to the horsemen. When one analyzes this Futurity it will be seen that the Coney Island Jockey Club put $10,0 0 0 of the value of the race, while the owners and breeders put the other $14 830 to the winner, besides the $2,583 to the second horse, and the $1,416 to the third horse; $2 000 to the nominator of the winner, $1 250 to the nominator of the second horse, and $500 to the nominator of the third horse. It will be seen that the horsemen paid more than two-thirds the value of this race. When one realizes the enormous crowd that attended the races at $3.0 0 per capita on Futurity Day, it is evident that in the palmy days of racing the racing associations were taking the turkeys and letting the horsemen have the crows Lots of the other stakes were very similar; some not so bad, others even worse.

Of the eleven stakes given to three-year olds, two of them were won by horses of American blood, five by ones of pure English blood, and four by horses half American and half English. In the year 1907, one two-year old, Colin, won more money than the combined values of all the stakes given exclusively to three-year olds.

Three of the stakes and cups for three-year olds and upward were won by horses of American blood, four by horses of English blood, and the others by horses half English and half American.

Nine of the races for three-year-olds and upward were won by three-year-olds, two by four-year-olds, and there was only one starter in any of these races of a greater age than four years, and she only started once.

In none of these races except the Advance and two Specials were there more than four starters. The question then arises, what had become of the thousands of thoroughbreds foaled in the United States in 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904.

One might infer from what I have written that I mean to convey the idea that all English thoroughbreds are stayers. This is not my intention and is not the case. England produces a large quantity of sprinters and inferior horses along with some good ones. Her system of racing is such as to show up the good ones which is not the case in this country, and she usually keeps the good ones at home unless she is offered large inducements to part with them, and sells the sprinters and inferior ones to foreigners, so anyone contemplating buying horses in England had better act with both eyes open, or he will get stung. A few high-class stallions (ones that have shown their ability to take up weight and race fast over a distance of ground) along with some good mares will do more to improve the American breed of horses than whole shiploads of culls, with a few good ones among them. England unloaded a lot of riffraff stuff, with some good ones thrown in as bait, on us once before, and I am determined she shall not repeat the performance if I can do or say anything to prevent it. A good thoroughbred is the best horse on earth, but a thoroughbred cull is the most worthless creature alive He is no good to work, too expensive to keep and too valuable to kill. Take only the good ones and let England keep her culls this time. She may need them to feed to her soldiers in case of a pinch later on. Ninety per cent. of England's best horses are descended from Galopin, Bend Or, Economy or Hampton, and the most of them combine the blood of two, three or all four of these horses. Pommern, the best horse in England last year, combined the blood of all four of them, and besides was from the celebrated Agnes family So he had a right to run some. If we will stick to these bloodlines we will not go far wrong, providing we get horses of good conformation, and with racing records. I have now added this note of warning and offered these suggestions in the interest of the future American thoroughbred.

I could give further evidence of the absurdity of the American system of two-year-old racing, but what is the use? The foregoing statistics tell the story. Take the Great American Stakes for two-year-olds at five furlongs, the distance being a disgrace to the name. If this five furlong sprint is the Great American Stakes, then the winner should be "dubbed" The King of the American Thoroughbreds. How does this sound to us? How does it sound to others? Let us be true to ourselves and to each other, and no man can accuse us. Let the American Jockey Club so reform and reconstruct racing as to make it bona fide for the improvement of the breed of horses. (1) By passing a rule forever prohibiting in the future any racing association under its jurisdiction from declaring dividends in any one year amounting to more than fifteen per cent. of its capital stock. This will guarantee more money to the horsemen. (2) By passing another rule prohibiting any association under its jurisdiction from charging horsemen for stalls during its meeting. The horses are the performers that make the game and are entitled to free stalls, just as the actors in a theatre are entitled to and get free dressing rooms. (3) By passing another rule prohibiting any two-year-old from starting more than ten times during his or her two-year-old form. This will give the two-year-olds time to grow and cool out between races. (4) By passing a further rule restricting two-year-old and sprint races, and encouraging races for three-year-olds and older horses over a distance. If less money is given to two-year-olds and more money is given to the three-year-olds and older horses; if less money is given in the future to stockholders in the racing associations than was given to them in 1907, and the years prior thereto, and more money is given to stakes and purses, there is no reason why horse racing should not become the national sport of America and the breeding of thoroughbreds a permanent industry in the United States. If the proper authorities will do the right thing now, there will be no place in the future for the professional reformer, whose purpose, while pretending to reform is to destroy.

R. J HANCOCK JR

P. S.—Races with a guaranteed value are very popular with some racing associations. These races are very deceptive. The word "guarantee" looks impressive and sounds strong. If they persist in using it, let them use it a little oftener. Let them say, "We guarantee this race to be worth so much, and we further guarantee to make the conditions such, as to make the horsemen pay one-half, two-thirds, three-fourths, four-fifths, or whatever the amount may be, of the original sum guaranteed by us." If they will do this, or give races with added money, horsemen will not require the services of a mathematician to find out how much of their own money they are running for. R. J. H. JR.

PURE BLOOD.

The communications of Mr. John L O'Connor and Mr. S. L. Cheney, public ed in THE RECORD recently, caused a well known writer in an English paper to comment as follows:—

There has been a discussion going on in America as to whether the British thoroughbred had, properly speaking, a pure origin antecedent to the first volume of the Stud Book. Strictly speaking, it cannot be described as of pure origin at all, but, of course, the breed had been more or less established long before it was earmarked in the first Stud Book, the compilers of which had to depend on private books and records. It may well be, therefore, that some of the earliest importations of racing stock to America were as well bred as any that were afterwards included in our Stud Book, but as our Stud Book is the first, and by far the oldest, it has been rightly accepted all over the world as the authoritative one, and families outside its pale are forever excluded from it. It is not to be supposed, however, that our early classic winners were able to show a Bruce Lowe figure for each of 32 quarterings. Far from it. It was not until the twenty-second Derby that the winner could claim any such distinction. This was in 1815, when Phantom won. He came of No. 6 family, to which his dam, Julia, was inbred through Diomed 6 and Coade 6. Of the Bruce Lowe running and sire figures he had 16, including four Nos. (1), two Nos. (4), and one each of (2), 3, and (5). There was a strong combination of three Nos 12 in the center of his pedigree. The breeding of Phantom is worth bearing in mind, for it has had a lasting effect in modern pedigrees Not for a good many years after that, however, were Derby winners perfectly orthodox as regards figures. Thus, Emilius, which won in 1823, had the unfigured Cripple and Sampson in the family tree of his sire, Orville. I am referring only to a five removes pedigree—but after that there was blameless ancestry of Derby winners until Daniel O'Rourke in 1852, whose sire, Birdcatcher, inherited the doubly deceitful blood of Escape. All the same, what did not Birdcatcher do for the breed at large?

These considerations may well be carefully weighed when we deal with "half-bred" pedigrees, such as Shogun's, though nothing should be permitted to violate the sanctity of the Stud Book as it now exists. The lack of figures at many points in the old pedigrees is not, in fact, as bad as might be inferred from what I have written above, for, of course, most of the old-time sires, such as The Godolphin Arabian, The Darley Arabian, The Byerly Turk, Jigg, Snake, Alcock's Arabian, etc., etc., preceded the first Stud Book, and did not descend from mares included in it. In fact, they were main factors in making the pure blood such as it is, but it is noticeable that all the early Derby winners came, in the female line, from figured families, and the first two, Diomed and Young Eclipse, were No. 6 horses, and out of own sisters by Spectator (1) out of Horatia 6, her dam by Flying Childers 6 The No. 6 family was of immense value in those early days, and perhaps the most distinguished of all its members was Eleanor, which won the Derby and Oaks in 1801. Alone among all the Bruce Lowe figures this one has dropped a good deal out of its place, but signs of a revival are not wanting, and with a little better luck such horses as Forfarshire and Corcyra would have put more classic victories to the maternal credit. Corcyra in particular, could hardly have lost the Derby had he been able to start, and, strangely enough, that particular Derby was won by a horse without a figure. The No. 6 blood through Marsey Daw is coming surely to the front, and it is well that Lord Londonderry has several excellent samples of it at Wynyard in his brood mares as well as Corcyra.

Of course, as everyone knows, there was racing in England long before our first Stud Book or the first Derby—indeed, there is a regular succession of book Calendars from 1743 or it may be earlier. Even in the tenth century the racing test was considered essential to prove the value of horses, and Fitzstephen, secretary to Thomas A. Becket, gave a description of races at Smithfield, which seem to have been instituted in connection with horse-dealing transactions, prospective buyers being given a trial of the animals before deciding what to buy. When I pointed out above that Irish Escape, in Birdcatcher's pedigree, is without a Bruce Lowe figure, as also is his sire, this does not mean that they were not of Stud Book origin, but that they trace to original mares from which no classic winners have descended which have also representatives now in the female line. Irish Escape did, in fact, trace to a Cade mare (dam of Susan, afterwards called Black Susan) see Stud Book, Vol. 1, page 48; and Commodore, the sire of Irish Escape, was out of Smallhopes, by Scaramouch, see Vol. 3, page 331. It is not really clear that Smallhopes did not trace to the Moonah Barb mare, for her third dam, Ancaster Starling, is said to have been sister to Bajazet's dam, which was certainly a granddaughter of the Moonah Barb mare. She had two sisters, see Stud Book Vol 1, 115 (Leedes mare), and two of them only are accounted for as brood mares later on in the same volume, page 320 The third sister was foaled in 1732 and of her Mr. F. S Birley, whose annotated Stud Book is before me, wrote: 'This mare may be the ancestress of Smallhopes (see Vol. 3, p 331)" It is clear that she must have been if Ancaster Starling was sister to Bajazet's dam, as these state, but the name of Ancaster Starling does not appear anywhere as that of a brood mare, and it would seem that for some reason she was not registered, though her pedigree was preserved. We cannot expect absolute perfection in the early volumes of the Stud Book, but the case for Commodore's claim to be entitled to figure 21 is sufficiently made out.

MARION GOOSBY AGAIN WINNER.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—With the first three horses finishing exactly the same as in the stake race last Saturday, Marion Goosby, M. C. Moore's four-year-old Marathon—Pheenie Pickle selling scored in the New Orleans Hotel Men's Association Handicap, the feature of today's racing card at the Fair Grounds. Second to him was Skeer Face, and third was Pan Zareta. The race was worth $3 350 to the winner, $300 to the second, $2 0 to the third and $100 to the fourth horse.

Ed Crump, which ran coupled with Dick Williams as the J W. Schorr entry, finished fourth and saved starting and nomination fees for both horses. The race was run almost identically in the same manner as the Merchants' Handicap. Pan Zareta again set the pace, weakening only in the final furlong. Ed Crump showed to much better advantage than in his previous race, but he found the impost of 126 pounds a big one. Skeer Face also ran an excellent race, and with stronger handling might have made it more interesting for the winner.

A crowd record in size only to that of last Tuesday, when all attendance records were broken at the Fair Grounds, was on hand today to witness the running off of a racing card that embraced plenty of class.

In addition to the stake race there was a handicap at six furlongs with a value of $600, and in this race Bringhurst carried 129 pounds and won in easy fashion from Fair Helen. Soon after the start of this race Jockey J. Butwell attempted to resort to the ancient trick of cossting and grabbed the saddle of Bringhurst, according to Kederis' statement. Dr. Larrick, which Butwell was riding, dropped far back when the incident occurred, and Butwell alleged that Kederis tried to put him over the fence. The stewards suspended both riders for the remainder of the meeting. This marked the fourth victory of Bringhurst at this meeting.

The book for the first seven days of the Hot Springs meeting was distributed among the horsemen today by Associate Judge Jack Campbell. The purses will be $300 and there are races that give every kind of a horse a chance to earn brackets The promiscuous claiming rule will not be in vogue at Hot Springs and in order to claim a horse out of a selling race the claimant must have a horse in the race The Kentucky State Racing Commission's rules will govern the sport except where local usage prevails.

John L. Paul bought the contract which Gifford A. Cochran has on Jockey W. Lilley. Trainer William Midgley, who has had the Cochran horses here all winter, departed tonight for New York. He shipped Figginy and Daddy Longlegs East also.

After Aristocrat won the sixth race he was bid up from $400 to $705 and retained. Tribal was claimed for $1,100 by James MacManus. W Walker also put in a claim for him. Unsaunted, which was recently claimed from Dudley & Lawrence, was reclaimed by that firm today for $1,000.

Lady Carnot, a four-year-old brown filly by Radium out of Gravitation (sister to William the Third), and Romagne by Polymelus out of Malateeta by Isinglass, with a chestnut filly foal by White Magic, have just been purchased by the British Bloodstock Agency on behalf of American clients. Lady Carnot will be shipped to Virginia forthwith. Cyllene (brother to Comus, sire of Buskin) by Cyllene out of Galeottia by Galopin has also recently been purchased by the same agency.—[London Horse and Hound.

Mr. Hedley contemplates the purchase of several other good youngsters.

As showing what a difference success on the turf makes to a horse's stud value in England, it may be mentioned that while Swynford's fee is 3 0 guineas, that of his half brother, Harry of Hereford, is only nine guineas

Slipping on an icy patch near his farm at Goshen, N. Y., yesterday, Grant Hugh Browne, owner of many English and American-bred race horses, fell and broke his right arm.

Now that Rule 127 of the Rules of Racing has been changed so that all starters in a selling race will share equally in the "run-up" money, it is interesting to know that a careful reading of the rule furnishes the information that it is not compulsory for the winner to be sold immediately after the race, unless distinctly so stated in the conditions of that particular race.

Leaving the auction proviso out of the conditions of the race would leave the winner liable to be claimed for the entered selling price, plus the amount of the purse. This is as it should be, in the estimation of the majority of turfmen. The reason that very little notice of this "catch" clause was previously taken, was that owners and trainers, as a rule, are not given to the study of technical phraseology.

Rule 127 reads:

"Every horse running in a selling race, shall, if the winner be liable to be claimed for the selling price by the owner of any other horse running in the race, but if it is a condition that the winner of the race shall be sold by auction the sale shall take place immediately after the race, and the surplus over the selling price shall be equally divided between all starters in the race."—[New York Evening Sun.

-BEN TROVATO-

BEN TROVATO is a seal brown horse, 16⅛ hands high. Sired by imp. Alvescot, a son of Rasburn and he a son of St. Simon. Ben Trovato is out of Golden Rose, by Goldfinch, a son of Ormonde, she out of imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, she out of Ambuscade, by Camerino, a son of Stockwell, and she out of Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world. Ben Trovato was raced four years and was as fast as horses ever show. He won miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39 1-5, 1⅛ miles 1:52, 1:52, 1:52 1-5, 1¼ miles in 2:04 2-5, and as a two-year-old ran ⅝ in 0:58⅘ seconds. The great No. 5 family—Gaiteé More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

If you can find a greater looking horse, a better bred horse or a faster horse, don't breed to this one. Will accept 25 mares for 1915 at $50 to insure living foal.

LOCAL NOTES.

There are thirty horses in the string that Howard Oots will race this year and so far as we are aware, this constitutes a record for numbers in any one establishment at the local course. Ten of these horses have been seen under colors, while the remaining twenty are juveniles. Great interest naturally centers around the fourteen foreign-bred youngsters, eleven colts and three fillies, which Mr. Oots purchased at Newmarket last autumn. All good individuals and of splendid breeding, they have, by the way, responded marvelously well to American methods of feeding and training. Great things are expected of these foreigners and well they may be. The six home-bred two-year-olds are corking looking youngsters and will doubtless give as good account of themselves as their distinguished stablemates.

The complete list follows:

Cadenza, b f, 4, by Hastings—Friendship by Goldcrest.

Dorcris, b g, 4, by Dorante—Crisscross by Bassetlaw.

Betterton, b g, 4, by Cedarstrome—Diamond Flash by St. Julien.

In a recent letter to THE RECORD, W. Allison, "Special Commissioner" London Sportsman has the following to say about Javelin, son of Spearmint and Full Cry by Flying Fox:

"It may interest your readers to know something about Javelin which unless I am mistaken is the coming one among all young stallions in England.

"Enclosed card will show you how he was supported last season and how he is going to be in this coming season. (The card referred to shows a full subscription).

"He covered fifteen mares as a five-year-old, and Mr. Price McKinney owns one of his first foals, a capital filly out of Scrubwood by Bushey Park. The actually first-born of Javelin's foals is a filly out of Miss Starlight (sister to Hessian) by Watercress out of Colonial by Trenton. This mating combines Carbine (grandsire of Javelin) and Trenton. The filly is so good that the owner (Dobson Peacock) is sending the dam again as you will see from the subscription list.

Before leaving last Tuesday for Hot Springs, Ark., to take treatment for rheumatism, Chairman Johnson N. Camden instructed Secretary Samuel Nuckols to issue a call for a meeting of the State Racing Commisson, to be held at the Seelbach Hotel, in Louisville, Monday, March 20, at 11 a. m., for the purpose of allotting dates for the spring race meetings at Lexington, Louisville and Latonia, and for the consideration of such other matters as may come before the commission.

Chairman Camden has been ill for sometime, so much so that he was compelled to cancel three previous reservations for his trip to the springs. It is his intention to journey back to Louisville for the meeting and then return to Hot Springs. The expectation is that the season will open at Lexington, April 27, for thirteen days, and that the dates at Louisville and Latonia will be approximately the same as last year.

KING GEORGE PRESENTS ANMER TO CANADA.

Ottawa, Ont., March 7.—The stallion Anmer, under whose flying hoofs Miss Davison, a suffragette, lost her life during the running of the Epsom Derby of 1913, has been presented by His Majesty the King to Canada for the breeding of remounts.

It will be recalled that on the occasion above mentioned, Miss Davison ran out when the horses were at the top of their speed and clutched the bridle rein of the King's horse, bringing him down headlong upon herself and losing her life as a consequence. Anmer, as a result, was put out of the race. He is now six years old.

The new Canadian sire has a distinguished pedigree. His own sire, Florizel II., was a brother to Perrimmon and Diamond Jubilee, both of which won the Derby and St. Leger for the late King Edward. He was sold later to the Argentine for $150,000. Guinea Hen, the dam of Anmer, is by Gallinule, sire of Pretty Polly and other great race horses.

Nightmare, the dam of Guinea Hen, was descended from Musket, sire of the celebrated Carbine and Scottish Chief, by Lord of the Isles, son of the imperial Touchstone. Florizel II., sire of Anmer, was by St. Simon, unbeaten as a race horse, and one of the most successful sires ever known. Anmer traces directly within five crosses to all the best horses of different breeds, including those two great rivals, Voltigeur and Flying Dutchman, King Tom, Newminster, Kettledrum and Stockwell. He is not only royally bred, but comes through a line of great producers and exceptional racers.

EASTERN GOSSIP.

New York, March 8.—While it was assured two days ago that there were some of the associations that would frame selling races in which the winner would be liable to claim—that is with the auction end eliminated—that announcement referred only to the New York tracks. Now it is certain that the elimination of the auction clause will be tried out in Maryland before the New York circuit is reached.

The book for the Prince George's Park at Bowie for the first seven days of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association has been issued and it is found that Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan has framed races along the lines of the proposed change in selling race conditions.

A large percentage of the selling races that will be offered for the first seven days of the meeting have the auction clause eliminated, and it will afford some sort of a trial of the proposed change.

Other Maryland tracks will make the same changes in the selling race conditions, and it is entirely possible that the failure or success of the plan will have been thoroughly established before the New York tracks are reached.

As a matter of fact the only excuse for the auction clause is the protection of those who bet on the races, and they are not entitled to any protection and scant consideration. The less betting that is had on the races, the better for the health of the sport, and The Jockey Club should, as in the past, use every endeavor to curtail the betting end of the sport.

It has been argued, and with some reason, that the elimination of the auction end of the selling races will be unpopular and will meet with opposition from those who seek handicap horses in selling races. These same owners and trainers, for the most part, seek that advantage for betting purposes, and it would be very easy to publish the names of the various stables that would oppose such a measure. It remains to be seen just from what quarter the opposition to the change will be made. Some prominent stables have been guilty of a prostitution of the intents of the selling race, but it is safe to predict that they will not have the courage to publicly oppose this self-evident improvement in the conditions of such races. Any owner or trainer who would offer an objection would at once stamp himself as being in favor of conditions that would permit the masquerading of handicap horses among the legitimate selling platers.

While on the important question of reforms in racing that have been advanced during the cold months it is worth while to note that the Bowie program provides for a suitable number of races at distances of a mile or greater each day. This association has shown a fine courage in making such conditions for racing in April and that should forever silence the other associations that have contended that it was impossible to fill such races early in the racing year.

Bowie is to open the racing in the East, and the example is a most commendable one. A month later racing secretaries have excused the short dashes for old horses on the plea that distance races would not fill. They will fill just as soon as the associations and not the horsemen make the programs. As long as horsemen are permitted to make programs there will be a dearth of distance races.

When the selling handicaps were first suggested many horsemen predicted that they could not possibly succeed. They were framed primarily to correct selling race evils. Despite this opposition there were associations that decide to go right along with them and as a result that form of a selling race become more or less popular.

The Maryland Jockey Club was most consistent of all associations in this form of selling race and the record there last year is the best evidence of the success of the selling handicap. During the season at Pimlico there were thirty-nine handicaps and a great majority were of the selling variety. Of these the acceptances were so heavy that nine of the fields had to be split. During the season there were 384 different horses raced, there were 1,130 horses handicapped and the average was twenty-nine to a field.

There are figures to prove very conclusively that when the associations make the programs instead of the horsemen there is sure to be a full measure of success.

The elimination of the auction end of the selling races is a vastly more important change than the conversion of such races into handicaps and it should bring more lasting benefits, while at the same time it will relieve the hard worked handicapper of a deal of labor.

On the morning of March 1st, at James Butler's East View Farm, the chestnut mare Napping foaled a bay colt by Out of Reach. Napping is by Peter Pan out of Dreaming, by Ben Brush.

The big chestnut two-year-old by Colin out of Acalot, belonging to the Brownleigh Park Stable, has been named King Herod.

Bob Hilliard is to come into racing as an owner this season and he will make some purchases from John E. Madden. He has already claimed the name "Pride of Race" for one of his two-year olds. Mr. Hilliard has long been an ardent devotee of the sport and his silks are sure to be tremendously popular. It is to be hoped that the colt or filly that is to bear the name "Pride of Race" will not have any "clod" strain such as is told of in the play for which he is to be named.

Richard Miller is one of the New York trainers who is contemplating an early start in Maryland. In Miller's string are a half dozen belonging to different owners, but three of which the racegoing public well know. These latter are F. E Rose's Sand Marsh and High Tide and the Marrone Stable's Charlestonian.

Trainer Miller holds out the hope of bringing Charlestonian back to the races in the brilliant form that he showed as a three-year-old when he was bidding with better than a fair share of success against the best horses of his year. Of High Tide nothing much can be said, but it can be stated without fear of contradiction, that his stablemate, the four-year-old Sand Marsh, has proved himself one of the shiftiest sprinters that campaigned during the late meetings of 1915.

THE HOT SPRINGS MEETING.

Hot Springs, Ark, March 9.—Racing will be resumed here Saturday. A meeting on the order of the one held at New Orleans will be attempted by the business men of this city. Hot Springs has long needed some good sport on the order of racing to put new life into it, and if there is no objection on the part of the officials, a race meeting here should be a go. This meeting is not being given for profit. The business men readily realize the benefits accruing to a community which has racing and they are even willing to go down into their pockets and foot the bills if there will be a deficit. Many of the best known racing stables in the country will race at the meeting. The owners of stables already here were both surprised and delighted at the fine condition of the track, as well as the many improvements that have, under the supervision of Henry Schrader, been made to the grounds generally. For the past three weeks a force of 150 men has been busy, and when the cry, "They're off!" is heard, all interested in the revival of racing in the Arkansas Spa will realize that this meeting has been staged in as fine and perfectly completed a racing plant as is to be found anywhere in the entire South.

Fresh paint has transformed the interior and exterior of the big grand stand into an institution of impressive attractiveness. This is the largest and best equipped building of its kind below the Mason and Dixon line, and will soon compare very favorably with any racing grand stand in the United States. Glass-inclosed and steam heated throughout, built high and giving occupants an excellent view of the surrounding country, the grand stand is certain to welcome a great record-breaking throng of racing enthusiasts when the meeting opens.

RENO RACING TO OPEN IN MAY.

San Francisco, Cal., March 7.—Reno is to have a race meeting the latter part of May. George W. Wingfield, the prominent Nevada sportsman, announced Thursday that the promoters of the Reno track have decided to stage thirteen days of racing, commencing on Saturday, May 27. There will also be another two weeks' meeting later on in the fall.

So much success attended the initial meeting at Reno last July under the Nevada State Racing Commission and the pari-mutuel form of wagering, that the people have been anxious for a return of the sport. The attendance was remarkable, considering the size of the city, and the state derived some revenue to use for the construction of county roads.

If the Tijuana meeting in Lower California opens the first of April, as reports from San Diego state, it will bring about a conflict of dates. Tijuana will run for 100 days, and this will bring the end of the meeting close to July. The Reno promoters, however, are confident of attracting plenty of horses. There are a number of California turfmen who will race their strings there. George Wingfield will have a few young horses to go to the post, and Edward Cebrian, S. Christenson, John Rossiter and others will probably have their colors represented

RECOLLECTIONS OF AN OLD TURFMAN.

[By Ralph H. Toxer]

I saw my first horse race in 1869, at Memphis, Tenn., or over 46 years ago, and since that time I have witnessed thoroughbred horses struggling for supremacy on tracks from New York to San Francisco and from Los Angeles to Bellingham, Washington. Marked have been the changes in racing in those years—marked, indeed! In 1869 even two-year-olds would not run any race of less than a mile, while three and four-year olds went heats of two, three and four miles. The presiding judge, always either the President of the club or some distinguished member of the community who wanted nothing more than the honor, started the horses from the tower-like judges' stand, the signal for the start being a heavy stroke on a snare drum, which he held with his left hand and struck with his right. Starts went unnoticed that in these days of the barrier would have resulted in a riot. There would generally be 40 minutes between heats, with the horses "cooling out" in the enclosure, and during this interval the "men folks" would adjourn to a gigantic cockpit about a hundred yards to the north of the barn-like grand stand. There they would see "mains" fought between the best of the game roosters from Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama and Georgia, and my observation was that there was just as much money wagered on the feathered warriors from the Southern States as upon the horse races, if, indeed, not more. Several wagers of a thousand dollars I heard on a battle, and several battles would be brought off "between heats."

The betting on horse races was mostly between individuals, some friend of both parties to the wager holding stakes, or just a memorandum being made—one horse against another, or a "favorite" against "the field," settlement being made after the races were over that day. There was some auction pool selling in 1869, but that style had not been adopted to the extent it was a few years later. Bookmaking was unknown in the South those days.

A horse four years of age or over that could not win a race of at least two-mile heats was not accounted much of a race horse. The first horses I remember were Quartermaster, Lightning, Jr, Nellie Gray and Blind Tom. Quartermaster was by old Bonnie Scotland, then in Ohio, and Quartermaster was one of the good horses running "down South" along about 1870, as were Lightning, Jr., and Nellie Gray. The last named was a wonderfully fleet and game mare. This was but five years "after the war," and the only wonder was that there was any racing.

The big racing men then in the South were R. A. Alexander, of Spring Station, Ky., owner of Woodburn Farm; General W. G. Harding, owner of Belle Meade Farm, Nashville, Tenn.; the Sargets, of Natchez, Miss.; Thomas Puryear, of Virginia; Colonel H. McDaniel, of the same state; General Abe Buford, H. Price McGrath, Dan Swigert, J. W. Hunt Reynolds, John M. Clay, John Harper, Tom Moore and Major Barak G. Thomas, of Kentucky; Colonel O'Fallon, Colonel Hunt and R. J. Lucas, of Missouri; Colonel James Jackson, of Alabama, and Wade Hampton, of South Carolina. Of course there were others that I do not call to mind, but these were the most prominent, I believe. Nearly all these men were breeders. Some good horses came from Ohio at that period, the progeny of Bonnie Scotland and Chillicothe. Surprise, Malcolm, Regent and Ontario were all famous racers by Bonnie Scotland. Surprise is credited with winning 101 races. Malcolm was a fast and game winner, and sired the renowned Marion, dam of 10 stake winners, including the unbeaten El Rio Rey and Czar and the champion Emperor of Norfolk and Yo Tambien. Regent was a grand race horse and sired Montana Regent, Nevada and other good ones up in Montana. Ontario was a winning good race mare and at General Abe Buford's Bosque Bonita Farm in Kentucky produced the champion race horse McWhirter. This horse broke his leg at the head of the St. Louis Cote Brilliante track's home stretch in the seventies and finished as game as ever horse did. So highly was McWhirter thought of that the club erected a fine monument to him, and this is probably the only horse that ever had such an honor. General Buford was prostrated over the misfortune to his great racer, which he had fairly idolized, and had expressed a wish that McWhirter and Good Night should draw him to heaven in a golden chariot. Both these horses were by Enquirer, which General Buford owned for some years.

The great horse of the late sixties in the South was Harry of the West, by Lexington. He won more races and better races than any horse in training and in five seasons was beaten but a couple of times. In the middle sixties there had been three wonderful sons of Lexington—the unbeaten Norfolk and Asteroid and Kentucky (beaten but once in five seasons and that by Norfolk, and sold for the record price of $40,000). Lexington had been sold for $15,000 by Richard Ten Broeck to Robert Aicheson Alexander after he retired from the turf, and some persons had scoffed at Mr. Alexander for paying such an unheard-of price for Lexington, which had gone blind and been given the title of "The Milton of the Turf." Lexington's purchaser had said that if people thought he had given a foolishly large price for the best race horse of his day he would show them that he would yet get a larger sum for one of his sons. So, in 1864, when Norfolk, by Lexington—Novice by imp. Glencoe, had won the Jersey Derby and defeated Kentucky, Tipperary and the very best three-year-olds in training, Theodore Winters, a California mining man of big means, wanted to purchase the bay colt that was accounted about the best ever. Mr. Alexander was a millionaire himself, and, like Theodore Winters, a man used to having his own way. "I'll give you $15,000 for Norfolk," said the Californian, "and that's as much as any one should pay for any horse." "I won't take that for him," said the Kentucky breeder, thinking of his vow to get more than $15,000 for one of Lexington's sons. Winters started to walk away, when Jim Goff, the old trotting-horse driver from California, pulled a dollar out of his pocket and added it to the $15,000. As all Mr. Alexander wanted was to sell one of Lexington's colts for more than $15,000, the dollar sufficed, the sale went through at $15,001, and Norfolk continued his unbeaten career, winning two big matches against Lodi in 1865 and running a second three-mile heat in 5:27½, which was a world's record for three miles for over thirty years, let alone a heat of three miles! Lodi, which Norfolk defeated in these races, was owned by Governor Nathan Coombs, of Napa. Norfolk, unbeaten, sired two unbeaten racers in Czar and El Rio Rey and two champions in Emperor of Norfolk and Yo Tambien. The Norfolk-Lodi matches were in 1865, the last year of the war. At that time Norfolk's was a record price in the United States, but afterward, Kentucky, by Lexington—Magnolia, by Glencoe, brought $40,000, and met with but one defeat in five seasons on the turf—that was by Norfolk. It was all in the Lexington family. Asteroid and Norfolk never met, and both retired unbeaten. Norfolk was far and away the best sire of the three Lexingtons of great fame.

About 1870 Longfellow and Harry Bassett were great turf rivals in the East and defeated one another. It was claimed that Longfellow ran one of the miles of the two and one quarter miles in the Saratoga Cup in 1:40, deemed impossible at that time—about 1871—and with the mile record at that period being 1:42¾ or 1:43.

Alarm, by imp. Eclipse—Maud, by Stockwell, was the first horse in the United States to run a mile as good as 1:42. That was in 1872. In 1875 the first races were held over the Churchill Downs track, in Louisville, at that time considered a marval for speed-making, and somewhat faster than Saratoga or Long Branch, where Salvator, in 1890, made his peerless 1:35½ run. The turns at Churchill Downs were "thrown up" in more modern fashion than those of other courses, and fast time was made almost at the outset. It was only two years later, or in 1877, that Ten Broeck, named in honor of Lexington's former owner, ran a mile against time and set the mark at 1:39¾, cutting the mark from 1:41½ if memory serves—a record made by Kadi. That year Ten Broeck went two miles in 3:27½ against time, and reduced Fellowcraft's four-mile time, 7:19½, to 7:15¾. Lexington's time in 1856 was 7:19¾. Ten Broeck's mark for four miles was beaten 8¾ seconds—run in 7:11—by the little Brutus mare Lucretia Borgia, in 1897, at Memphis, but the best race mark at four miles is The Bachelor's 7:16½, so that Ten Broeck's 7:15¾ in 1877 was not to be sneezed at, especially as he carried 110 pounds to the California filly's 87.

The first horse to beat Ten Broeck's mile mark of 1877 (1:39¾) was the California three-year-old Racine, by Bishop—imp. Fairy Rose, by Kisber, which went the distance in 1:39½ with ease with 107 pounds, in a race at Washington Park, Chicago, June 28, 1890. Stuyvesant had run it in 1:39¾ in the East, and Maori had run it at Chicago in 1:39¾. Raveloe, by Joe Hocker, had gone the distance in 1:39¼, but not over a circular course, I believe. In the middle nineties, Libertine, by Leonatus—Falaise, had run a mile in a race in 1:38¾ at Washington Park, Chicago, which was the race record of the United States for some little time. Speaking about Washington Park, Chicago, this was a great place for record-breaking. This course was built in 1884, as was the Fair Grounds course at St. Louis, which was not nearly as "fast" as either Churchill Downs or Washington Park. The Long Branch track had been improved a lot, and the new Morris Park course at Westchester was the speed marvel of them all. The California courses were up to date, and good time was made at Bay District, Emeryville and Tanforan, and later at Ascot Park and Santa Anita, Los Angeles.

In 43 years, or since 1872, we have seen marked improvements in race courses, and seen the mile record cut from the 1:42 of Alarm to the 1:36¼ of Amalfi (in a race), and the 1:35½ of Salvator against old Father Time. We've seen the two-mile record cut from 3:30 (in a race) to 3:25½ (in a race). The mile and a half (Derby route) record of 2:34¾ of Luke Blackburn, made in 1882, we now see set at 2:30¼, a record made by Goodrich at Chicago many years ago. From about 1881 for ten years the six-furlong record was 1: 3, held by Force and Lizzie S., and made out of the Churchill Downs "chute." Since 1891 the horses that have beaten 1:13 would fill quite a book with names, showing a decided improvement in race courses all over the country. Nowadays six-furlong races in 1:12 3-5 and miles in 1:38 1 5 are of quite frequent occurrence.

The six-furlong record is 1:09 3-5, made at Juarez, Mexico by Iron Mask, carrying 115 pounds. Much more attention to time is paid these days than in the '70's, and it is a good test when the time is made by a courageous horse, which means a classful one. If you find a horse of extreme speed and unbounded courage, together with build that enables it to carry big weight easily, you have a phenomenal race horse like Roamer, which can and has taken up 132 pounds and won at six furlongs in 1:11, a mile in 1:37 2 5, and two races at a mile and an eighth in 1:49 3-5 and 1:50, with 124 and 132 pounds up. Roamer is what I call a race horse, and is a giant in height and a greyhound in conformation.

The Wingfield mare, Celesta, is another big thoroughbred that is a sure-enough racer. Over the comparatively slow Reno (Nevada) course she carried 128 pounds and ran a mile easily in 1:38 3 5, and over the very "fast" Syracuse (New York) track last season she is credited with running a mile and a sixteenth in 1:42⅘, with 108 pounds up, the first mile being run in 1:36⅘ and the last sixteenth in six seconds, or a mile at the rate of 1:36. In the last twenty years, or since Libertine ran a mile in 1:38¾, that mark has been beaten by at least a dozen horses. Fern L., a little selling plater, ran the distance at Seattle in 1908 in 1:37 2-5, and the route was gone in 1909 in 1:37 1-5 at Santa Anita, Arcadia, Cal. Amalfi's 1:36¼ is at present the mile race record of the United States. In England last season an American-bred four-year-old colt, Gum Shoe, by Yankee—Caoutchouc, ran a mile September 17, in 1:36 2 5, winning by a head only, which goes to show that tracks all over the world are being vastly improved. A turfman tells me that on the day that Roseben did seven furlongs in 1:22 with 126 pounds up, he went the mile out in 1:34 4-5, eased up the last part, so that if Roseben had been sent to break Salvator's mile record of 1:35½ against time he could have set a mark with 126 pounds on his back that would have withstood the onslaughts against the mark for many a long day.

Looking backward over the 46 or 47 years since I saw my first race I can see marked improvement in both race tracks and race horses. I have seen since 1870, or in 45 years, the six-furlong record reduced from 1:14 to 1:09 3 5, the mile mark in a race cut from 1:42¾ to 1:36¼, 4 2 5 seconds in the first named and 6½ seconds in the mile. And the giants of the turf are more frequently seen in these days than 45 years ago—horses of 16 2½ hands to 17 hands—the scale of weights is much higher than in 1870, and the distances much shorter. The tendency of the times is for longer distances, and when horses are trained in the United States to go a mile and a quarter instead of six furlongs, it can be said, with truth, that race tracks and race horses have improved marvelously much in this country since 1870, when it was not considered possible that Longfellow could have run a mile in 1:40 in his memorable Saratoga Cup race against Harry Bassett. Now, when the weather is fine and the course "fast" if a horse does not make the circuit of any of the Kentucky or New York tracks in 1:40 or better, race-goers wonder "what can be the matter in the speed department."

NEW ORLEANS' MEETING COMES TO AN END.

New Orleans, La., March 7.—What is generally considered the best winter race meeting ever held in America, came to a close this afternoon at the Fair Grounds, with the running off of a good card before a crowd that taxed the capacity of the spacious plant, and which would have done credit to many of the summer tracks in the largest cities of the East and North. When the band surrounded the judges' stand just before the running of the sixth race and played "Auld Lang Syne" regret was expressed on all sides that the meeting had reached its end.

Judge Joseph A. Murphy and his associates were congratulated all day for their splendid efforts to make the meeting what it was, and racing has a firm foothold in this city, due to their work. The people here realize that the race meeting brought many desirable visitors to New Orleans, that otherwise would not have been here.

The New Orleans Cup race, worth $1,575 to the winner, was the feature of the closing day, and it fell to Brynlimah, owned by John Lowe. The son of Bryn Mawr—Notlimah, lowered the track record for a mile and a quarter, running the distance in 2:04 3-5. The best previous mark was 2:06 1-5. With Figinny and Grumpy taking turns at setting the pace, the race was a fast one all the way, and the first mile and an eighth was negotiated in 1:50 4-5. This event was worth $300 to the second, $200 to the third, $100 to the fourth horse, and the starting fees were divided 50, 30 and 20 per cent. to the trainers of the placed horses.

All six races were at a mile or over today and good fields were the rule. The closing day brought only one run-up, even though five selling events were carded. This was in the first race, which was won by Lynn. J. A. Gibson advanced him from $400 to $700, and Owner W. Walker let him go.

No changes in the rules in vogue this season are in prospect for next year. The promiscuous claiming rule, to which there has been exception from certain quarters, will again be the order here. Judge Murphy contends that it serves its purpose well and keeps horsemen running their charges in races where they belong.

If one is claimed, the claimant runs him back for the same amount or more. The sealed bid rule has been a splendid one, but this may be abandoned by substituting another making the winner subject to being claimed as well as a beaten horse. The general claiming rule would solve the surplus run-up money question.

Instead of going to Hot Springs, as he had planned, Jockey Tommy McTaggart will go to Louisville. He received a letter from Albert Simons, who has a division of the Harry Payne Whitney horses at Churchill Downs, asking him to report at once.

Skeer Face, George Wingfield's good colt, was sold this afternoon to A. Playle, a wealthy New York sportsman, for a reported price of $10 000. R. F. Carman will take the colt East with him. He was nominated in the Kentucky Derby by Wingfield.

Twenty-five Pullman cars and sixteen horse cars will be need to transfer the followers and horses from here to Hot Springs tomorrow. The trains will arrive there Thursday morning.

M. C. Moore led the purse-winning owners, and Jockey Ted Koerner carried off the riding honors.

DO AMERICAN HORSES STAY?

My confrere, the "Special Commissioner," has forestalled me in remarking on Mr. R. J. Hancock, Jr.'s extraordinary letter to The Thoroughbred Record, in in which he asserted that since the days of Foxhall, Parole, and Iroquois the American thoroughbred had altogether deteriorated in staying power. The 'Special" disposed of that contention in Saturday's issue. It may be, as he says, that Kilmarnock II. was not in the first class, but he was very near it. In his last race, for example, in 1901, the American bred son of Sir Dixon and Miss Used started favorite for the Old Cambridgeshire at 4 to 1, but it was really not surprising that he failed to get a place, for he was attempting to concede no less than 40 lbs. to First Principal, which won the race. That his task was an impossible one was clearly shown in the following season, when Mr. Stedall's colt carried off the City and Suburban (under 7 st. 6 lbs.) by three-quarters of a length from The Solicitor (7 st.), which subsequently won the Royal Hunt Cup with 7 st. 4 lbs. on his back from Csardas, St. Maclou, and a huge field. In after days poor Mr. Stedall often told me how he informed the handicapper before Epsom that he had let First Principal in with from ten to fourteen pounds less than he should have been given. Harking back to Kilmarnock, he earlier won the Alexandra Plate at Ascot, beating Free Companion, Strong Bow, and such other good stayers as King's Messenger (twice winner of the Metropolitan), and Clarehaven, heroine of the previous year's Cesarewitch. On the previous afternoon to that exploit, moreover, he had run Santoi to a length for the Gold Cup, and had Forfarshire, King's Courier, and others behind him. Kilmarnock was, of course, trained by John Huggins, the famous American trainer, but he was not the only stayer that came into his stable from the other side, for in Jolly Tar and Jiffy II. he had good winners over a distance of ground. It takes a useful horse to win at Ascot, and Jiffy II. won the Visitors' Plate there over a mile and a half, carrying the top weight, while Jolly Tar as a four-year-old carried off the Lowther Stakes at Newmarket (a mile and three quarters), defeating Stealaway, Greenaway, and that good stayer Mazagan.

As to other American horses, in recent times David Garrick won the Chester Cup as a four-year-old under the big burden of 8 st. 10 lbs. He was trained by George Blackwell, and since then two other American-bred ones have won the Manchester November Handicap (1½ miles) in Fernient, a lightly burdened daughter of Octagon, which was trained by John Watson, and Dalmatian. The last-named was trained at Lordship by Joe Cannon, and he stayed well enough, for in the same year he won the big Manchester race, he ran fifth in a big field for the Cesarewitch. None of these was in the highest class, but Jolly Tar was none the less a good animal, for in the Jockey Club Stakes (1¾ miles) in 1900 he split the American colt, Disguise II., which was a year his junior, and that other good three-year-old, Forfarshire, with five others, including Diamond Jubilee, unplaced to them. That year's Derby winner was trying to give 12 lbs. to Disguise II., which had run third to him at Epsom, and the allowance for the length and a half there between them proved to be ample. It is true enough that Joyner, in the seven years he trained here, had not a single stayer amongst his American-bred charges, but, as shown, there were others that did stay, and they won a fair proportion of the long-distance events of importance. In that connection it should not be overlooked that the races annually run for over a mile and a half and upwards are greatly outnumbered by those over shorter courses.

A correspondent from Lelbury sends me an interesting item he has recently received from his son, who is interested in a horse-breeding farm in the Argentine. A stallion he had died last year at the age of forty-seven, which he considers is nearly a record. The horse had lost all his teeth, and had to be fed on mashes, but in spite of this he got seventeen foals the year he died. His name was Blue Peter, and he was originally purchased in Egypt, sent to India and then to England for polo, and finally reached the Argentine, where several winners were bred from his mares, after they had been covered by a thoroughbred. He was a grey, and as many of his descendants followed the same colour they had to be withdrawn from a batch of 150 horses he had collected to send to England for the use of the Army. Over 5000 men, he states, had left the country to enlist in His Majesty's forces.—[Audax in London Horse and Hound.

BRINGHURST, br g, 5, by Plaudit--Sweet Marjoram.

THE AGNES FAMILY.

The Agnes line got its start only some sixty years ago, when there were at least a score of branches of the No. 1 family already firmly established, above all the two main branches of Ellen Horne, through Paradigm and Rouge Rose. The various lines of the No. 1 were represented by Rossendale, Cambrae and Melton in the Two Thousand Guineas, and by Vaucluse (whose dam, Valve, is a half-sister to Cicero), Sentiment (a daughter of the One Thousand winner, Flair), Moorfleet (a daughter of Flair's sister, Lesbia), and Iambic, in the One Thousand Guineas. In fact, the Paraffin line was numerically stronger represented in the Guineas than any other family, but certainly not in point of quality, for three out of four members of this family were utterly outclassed. And as for Vaucluse's dam, Valve, it should be noted that all Valve's earlier foals—by Black Sand 2, Velocity 2, Santry 3, and John o' Gaunt 3—were but commoners; Dark Ronald 9 now has proved himself the right sort of male, and this, in my view, mainly because he does not sire chestnuts and thus returned to Valve this eminently valuable characteristic of that wonderful mare, Illuminata. It is surely a noteworthy point that, like Dark Ronald, Bayardo and Macdonald (in France), have inherited from Bay Ronald the incapability to sire chestnuts.

The spontaneous rise of the Agnes line was clearly determined by the powerful sire element of Birdcatcher, Voltigeur, Macaroni, Speculum, Bend Or and Hampton, which made full amends for the rather feeble support rendered in earlier generations by such inferior ancestors as Clarion, Don Juan, Pipator and Slope, whose names do not appear in the records of any valuable race. A feature in Pommern's pedigree is the inbreeding to Distant Shore, the grandam of Cyllene and the dam of St. Hilaire, sire of Merry Agnes. On the top of this comes a rather close inbreeding to Hampton, the maternal grandsire of both Polymelus and Merry Agnes. The centre combination—Quiver, St. Simon—is analogous—that which determined the great individuality of La Fleche. Thus, to analyze Pommern's pedigree, there is the almost infallible Hampton-St. Simon cross, supported by female blood which was of obvious efficiency in the make of Cyllene, La Fleche, and all the illustrious members of the Agnes family.

If some were to compile statistics based upon individual proclivities of brood mares, with complete disregard of their descent in tail female lineage, Concussion would figure amongst the most successful. Here again we have an instance which tends to prove that a mare not bred on fashionable lines, and not raced, may become a much better breeder than a successful racing mare with a gilt-edged pedigree. Concussion bred Sirenia (Kempton Park Jubilee, Duke of York Stakes), Hammerkop (Criterion Stakes, Great Yorkshire Handicap, Cesarewitch), and Early Hope's dam, Isballah, to Gallinule, and the Eclipse Stakes winner, Llangibby, to Gallinule's son, Wildfowler. These successes are, of course, chiefly due to the consistent inbreeding to Sister to Ryshworth, the grandam of Concussion and Gallinule.

Sirenia in turn became the dam of Scylla (which ran eight times without success at two and three years, and bred that good horse Junior to Symington); of the Jockey Club Stakes winner, Siberia, by St. Simon; of the One Thousand Guineas winner, Electra, by Eager; of Cellini (National Breeders' Produce Stakes), by Cyllene; of Fruitlands (Criterion Stakes), by St. Frusquin; and of Tournament, by Spearmint. In the third removes of Reverberation's pedigree appear the four "outsiders," The Baron 24, Red Deer 27, Economy 36, and Little Red Rover 37—an impossible sort of breeding according to Bruce Lywers dictum. Yet Reverberation has sired such an excellent brood mare as Concussion.

ORIGIN OF THE WORD "STALLION."

Mares and entire horses ran together on the common lands and created so much confusion that a law was passed ordering males to "be kep in bounds and tied in stalls, whence the name of stallion or stalled one was applied to the entire horse." Then came emasculation. Henry VIII. had a law passed that no stallion less than fifteen hands high and no mare less than thirteen hands should run wild in the country. One of the great objects in view was a horse adapted to cavalry purposes. Stoutly built, small horses were preferred to tall leggy ones because they better stood the wear and tear of a campaign. In times of stress the exportation of horses was prohibited. The good specimens were kept at home for reproductive purposes.

The flat racing season in Italy opened at Rome on Sunday last. There will be more racing there this year than usual, for, owing to the war, the five days' racing normally held at Naples have been transferred to the Italian capital. At the conclusion of the Roman series of meetings there will be forty-three days' racing Milan, commencing in April. The Minister of Agriculture is offering a number of special prizes at each meeting for the purpose of encouraging breeders of race horses, with a view to the improvement of the lighthorse-breeding industry.

There are four smart two-year-olds in the Garth string that have according to reports from Benning, worked fast. One of the best of these youngsters is Judge Wingfield, a brown half-brother to Greetings, being a son of Sea King and Glad Tidings. He has shown some remarkably good trials, and it is the present intention to send him to the post at Bowie.

BRINGHURST WINS THE SPECIAL MATCH RACE.

New Orleans, March 4.—Although he failed to equal the track record for six furlongs, missing it by one-fifth of a second, Bringhurst, Louis Tauber's five-year-old Plandit—Sweet Marjoram gelding, proved Pan Zareta's master in the special race arranged for them at the Fair Grounds today. At the finish Bringhurst was three-fourths of a length in advance of the mare, and it was a real horse race all the way. The Plandit gelding was in front soon after the rise of the barrier, but his lead was never by much of a margin, and in the stretch it appeared as though Pan Zareta might catch him. He stuck it out gamely, however, to the finish.

The pace set by Bringhurst was a fast one, as he stepped the first quarter in :22 4 5 and the half mile in 46 3-5. The event was titled the Carnival Special and had a monetary value of $600, of which $500 went to the winner.

With the excellent card arranged for today there was little wonder that the grandstand was jammed to overflowing and the attendance was a close second to that of a recent ladies' day, when all records for crowds at the Fair Grounds were broken. The track and weather were perfect for the sport, and fast time was the rule in all of the seven races.

The Martin Behrman Selling Handicap with $1,000 added, at two miles, fell to Polly H., which won by a length and a half from Cadenza. The first two horses were restrained for the first mile and a half, but both showed good speed in the run through the stretch the last time around. The race was worth $785 to the winner, $200 to the second, $100 to the third, and the fourth horse received the starting fees of all, which amounted to $80. In addition to this the winner received a handsome piece of plate. The time for the race, 3:30 1 5 which was within two-fifths of a second of the track record.

Hester Prynne won the Mardi Gras High-weight Handicap, a $600 affair at six furlongs, and Brynlimah accounted for the Sunnybrook Handicap, also of $600 value at a mile and a sixteenth. Included in the vast throng today were Governor Luther E. Hall, of Louisiana, and many persons prominent in the state, civic and business world from various parts of the country, who are here for the Mardi Gras celebration. The club house section was filled, society turning out in force. The Martin Behrman Handicap was named in honor of the Mayor, of New Orleans.

John W. Schorr uncovered a highly-promising two-year-old in Frank Coleman, winner of the juvenile race. He is a full brother to John Gund, a Latonia Derby winner, and is considered the best youngster in the Schorr stable.

The claiming brigade was busy again this afternoon, Tribolo was taken by L. J. Carey, his former owner, from W. Walker for $1,100. Aristocrat was claimed out of the last race by Ed Trotter from Pat Civill for $900, and Madame Herrmann was claimed by K. Patterson for $1,300. There were four claims in for the latter.

SOME OLD-TIME ENGLISH RACING.

That great horse, Eclipse, walked over for His Majesty's One Hundred Guineas at York in 1770, then being a six-year-old. Eclipse raced for two seasons, and is described as an unparalleled racer and stallion, and, being foaled during the great eclipse which took place in 1764 the horse was named from that circumstance. Eclipse was never beaten. His skeleton was preserved and in later years one of his hoofs, elegantly and expensively mounted, was presented to the Jockey Club by George the Fourth, and at one time formed the first challenge prize at Ascot. The winner of a Cup at Doncaster in 1770 named Liberty was originally bought for seven sovereigns and resold for nine. Before the race he changed hands again for ten guineas down; ten more if he won (which he did), and twenty sovereigns a year for life. A celebrated jockey in those far-off days, John Singleton, was the son of a clever father, for it is on record that the latter supported a wife and nine children on the small wages of fourpence per day. For one event 250 guineas forfeit was paid and a hogshead of claret handed over. The first St. Leger, then called a Sweepstakes of twenty-five guineas each, for three-year-olds, two miles, attracted six subscriptions, but there was nothing sensational about the race. The event, run in 1776, was originated that year on the proposition of Col. St. Leger, and at the third anniversary the race was named the St. Leger Stake, in compliment to that gentleman, who could not have foreseen the great part which the Leger has subsequently played in turf history.

A mare named Miss Nightingale was to have run at Boroughbridge in October, 1778, but died on the Sunday preceding the race. Suspicions having arisen of her being poisoned, she was opened, when there was found in her stomach about two pounds of duckshot, made up with putty into balls. The name of Tattersall crops up in the records of 1778, and about that time Ajax was a good winner. More recently, of course, another Ajax, a son of Flying Fox, won important races. Procion won the Gold Cup at Doncaster in 1778. A useful performer at the time was a horse named Magog, which was backed to win that particular event at high odds, but the night before running "some villains broke two locks and got into the stable to Magog, and by cutting his tongue nearly out, and giving him some deleterious medicine inwardly, rendered him at the time incapable of starting, in consequence of which a fresh entry was ordered by the Stewards, and all former bets declared void. Magog recovered from his injuries, and won one or two races." The York Meeting in 1789 was honored by the presence of the Prince of Wales (afterwards George the Fourth) and the Duke of York, and festivities were conducted on a gorgeous scale for several days, rank, beauty, and fashion joining in the proceedings. A singular cause of the death of a horse occurred at Chester in 1798. He was taking the lead near the winning post when he bolted over the cords among the crowd, "his head coming in violent contact with the pipe of the helmet of a soldier, who happened to be a spectator, which occasioned the horse's immediate death, while the soldier received no injury." A novel wager took place during the York Meeting of 1793. A bet was made with a young gentleman, one hundred guineas to one, that a halfpenny should be thrown up and that he called right once in seven times. The odds were lost. At Doncaster that year a colt named Oberon won two four-mile races within one hour, although only a three year-old, defeating horses of different ages. Present day trainers would not care to take such risks.

-BEN TROVATO-

BEN TROVATO is a seal brown horse, 16½ hands high. Sired by imp. Alvescot, a son of Raeburn and he a son of St. Simon. Ben Trovato is out of Golden Rose, by Goldfinch, a son of Ormonde, she out of imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, she out of Ambuscade, by Camerino, a son of Stockwell, and she out of Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world. Ben Trovato was raced four years and was as fast as horses ever show. He won miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39 1-5, 1⅛ miles 1:52, 1:52, 1:52 1-5, 1¼ miles in 2:04 2-5, and as a two-year-old ran ⅝ in 0:58⅕ seconds. The great No. 5 family—Galtee More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

If you can find a greater looking horse, a better bred horse or a faster horse, don't breed to this one. Will accept 25 mares for 1916 at $50 to insure living foal.

BREEDERS PETITION STATE RACING COMMISSION.

During the past week a petition to the Kentucky State Racing Commission has been circulated by a committee of prominent breeders with the view of presenting to that body in concrete form the wishes of the breeders and those most vitally interested in the thoroughbred and the maintenance of racing on a plane where it will be vulnerable to attack neither from within nor without. The petition is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, breeders of thoroughbred horses in the State of Kentucky, are deeply interested in the standing and success of racing in the state. We desire that more attention be paid to distance racing and that the meetings be honestly and capably conducted. We, therefore, respectfully ask that the State Racing Commission at the meeting called for March 20, at the Seelbach Hotel in Louisville, appoint, among others, the following officials: Thomas Hart Talbot, to be steward to represent the Racing Commission; Thomas J. Clay, to be presiding steward, and William H. Shelley, to be Racing Secretary."

The officials recommended in the above can scarcely fail to find favor with the Commission as all are men of the highest character and standing, whose ability and integrity the veriest tyro would not question.

THE RECORD naturally feels the keenest interest in any movement that tends to improve the status of racing. Undoubtedly had it not been for the State Racing Commission there would now be no racing in Kentucky and since its province is to safeguard the sport in every possible way, we believe the Commission will gladly accede to the requests of the breeders as presented in their petition, which as will be seen from the list of names given below, has been signed by practically every breeder of note in Kentucky:

SOME RECENT ENGLISH PURCHASES.

Several very well bred young mares have recently been purchased in England by American breeders, through the British Bloodstock Agency, London. With one exception, however, they will not be coming to this country for a few months, as they remain to foal and breed again before shipment.

The Hon. J. N. Camden has bought a very good looking young mare named Double Dark. She was bred in 1912 and is by Dark Ronald (second in the Sires List in 1915) out of Dark Agnes (dam of Bolled and Paulman, winners of over £4,000) by Cyllene out of Agnes Court, which bred Merry Agnes, the dam of the champion race horse Pommern. Double Dark, which is one of the best bred mares ever bought for the United States, is due to foal to Matchmaker (whose offspring have won £76,000 in stakes). She will be bred to the Derby winner Lemberg, which won over £41,690. He is, of course, by Cyllene out of Galicia, dam of Bayardo.

Mr. Arthur B. Hancock, of the Eversley Stud, has also been making some purchases. For his account there arrived the other day Lady Carnot, a good looking three year-old daughter of Radium (winner of Doncaster and Goodwood Cups) out of Gravitation, own sister to the first-class race horse and sire William the Third. The last named was one of the three stallions standing at a fee of 400 guineas in England in 1915.

He won the Ascot Cup (£ 3,578) and ran second in the Derby. His offspring include Willonyx, Winkipop, Roseland, King William, &c. Such a finely bred filly is a great acquisition for the Virginia stud mentioned. Two mares Mr. Hancock leaves in England for the time being. They are: Patricia IV., a nice young mare by Ard Patrick (Derby winner and champion sire in Germany several years) out of Princess Patti, a half-sister to the unbeaten Patience, which won the Austrian and German Derbys and about £23,200. She is by Royal Hampton, out of Podagra by Galopin, out of Burgundy, own sister to Gay Hermit, a wonderfully successful sire in Argentina, where he got the winners of over £185,000.

Patricia, on February 6th, bred a very good bay filly foal by Adam Bede (winner of the Cambridgeshire). She has been mated with Junior, which won the Manchester Cup, £2,500, with 114 lbs., beating The Curragh; the Bibury Cup; Ebor Handicap, 1¼ miles; Chesterfield Cup and many other races. Junior, for which an offer of £20,000 was refused, is by Symington (son of Hampton) out of Scylla, sister to Electra, winner of the 1,000 Guineas. This is the same family as Snow Marten, Llangibby, Siberia and Hammerkop, all noted performers on the English turf.

Mr. Hancock's other mare is Princess Caprice, a well made, low, wide mare on short legs, by Marco (son of Barcaldine. Her dam is Royal Marriage, half sister to Royal Flower and Royal Blue, the winners of £9,786. She is by Pietermaritzburg (a son of St. Simon) which was the world's champion sire in 1911, when he had the winners of over £41,000. The family of Princess Caprice includes such performers as Stirrup Cup (won nine races and £2,745 and dam of Star, a winner of £6,000); Sweetheart (sire of Clarehaven); Cupid; Cupbearer (sire of Lonaward); Bruce (Paris Grand Prix); Wedding Bell (New Stakes, Ascot), Kissing Cup (New Stakes).

Princess Caprice is in foal to Greenback, which ran second in the Derby and won £9,821. He is by S. Frusquin, from Evergreen, by Bend Or. His first two year-olds raced in 1916, and several are reported exceptionally promising. After foaling, Princess Caprice will be bred to Llangibby (winner of the Eclipse Stakes and £13,907). He is the sire of Lanius, which won £7,435 in England last year.

A newcomer in thoroughbred breeding circles is Mr. Willis Sharpe Kilmer, who has shown great acumen in acquiring a finely bred daughter of Polymelus. This is Romagne, a winner, which is by the English champion sire of 1914 and 1915, out of Malaise (dam of La Farina, winner of £3,660 and second to Sardanapale in the Paris Grand Prix), by Isinglass, whose daughters since 1908 have bred in England the winners of 240 races and about £120,000. The next dam, Parisina, bred six winners, including St. Pierre, which won the Belgian Derby. She is by St. Simon out of Princess Katinka, by Macaroni. This is indeed a wonderful breeding. Romagne, which is a handsome mare, has this season bred a particularly good looking bay filly foal to White Magic (son of Sundridge) and she has been bred to Bayardo, one of the greatest of English race horses and a winner of £14,534. He is standing at a fee of 300 guineas. The purchase of such a grandly bred young mare is an earnest that Mr. Kilmer intends to take a prominent position among owners and breeders in this country.

SARATOGA STAKES TO CLOSE MARCH 27.

The Saratoga Association promises to give the greatest race meeting in 1916 in the history of the track. Twenty stakes, worth over $42,500, are advertised in THE RECORD this week, to close on Monday, March 27. Four steeplechases, with $4,500 added money, will close on May 4. The Hopeful ($17,500 guaranteed), the United States Hotel Stakes ($7,500 guaranteed), the Grand Union Hotel Stakes ($7,500 guaranteed), and several other events closed last November. So with six races each day for the twenty-four racing days a nice sum of money will be hung up for fortunate owners.

The meeting will begin on Monday, July 31, and continue to Saturday, August 26 inclusive. The list of stakes which close on March 27 and the steeplechases closing on May 4 are given in the announcement in our advertising columns this week. Entry blanks may be had at this office.

THOROUGHBRED STALLIONS.

The eleven stallions owned by the Kentucky Racing Commission and controlled by Prof. J. J. Hooper of the State University, have been placed in eleven rural districts in this Commonwealth. Ivan Gardner has been placed with Dr. C. G. Baxter, Henderson, Ky; Polaine with H. D. Peters, Island City; Magazine with T. G. Morey, London; Mad River with E. E. Palmore, Edmonson; Mizar with W. R. Reynolds, Tyner; Busy with Jasper Pratt, Hindman; Milan with Horace Patterson, Lewisport; Luke with W. O. Flowers; Paducah; John W. Chester with C. A. Moss, Williamsburg; Samson with P. P. Mitchell, Edmonton; and English Lad with F. F. Turner, Wickliffe, Ky.

In height the horses average 16 hands, and in weight 1,100 pounds. It will thus be seen that they are a fine lot of useful stallions, that should sire a large crop of growthy, substantial colts. They were purchased with the idea of getting level-headed stallions of substance that would sire good work stock.

The half-breds will have a better market than most horses, because if they grow into animals that can be used under the saddle, they will have a good market as hunters or cavalry mounts. If they are out of heavier and more sluggish mares, they can be used as farm horses. It is believed that each stallion will cover approximately thirty or more mares this season.

JUAREZ RACING ENDS.

EL PASO, TEX., March 14.—The Jockey Club Juarez ended its present racing season yesterday. The management of the big plant, because of the nervous tension which prevails along the Mexican border, following the announcement by President Wilson that he would send an armed force across the boundary to run down Francisco Villa and his band of raiders, announced its intention of discontinuing the meeting. There were no races today, the card scheduled being declared off.

M. J. Winn, president of the association, held a conference with Gen. Pershing and Gen. Gavira. Both assured him of the fact that there would be no trouble here, but Winn deemed it advisable to end the meeting.

Horses quartered at the plant were brought here today, and the plant closed until next Thanksgiving day. Yesterday was the ninety-seventh day of the meeting. It was planned to run until Sunday, making 103 days of racing. The statement of Mr. Winn follows:

"Taking into consideration all the existing circumstances, the management of the Jockey Club Juarez deems it best for all concerned to discontinue the present meeting at its track. The programme announced therefore is declared off. M. J. WINN, President."

We have always regarded Vanitie, an American-bred colt by Ogden, as a smart sprinter only, but it does not necessarily follow that he cannot be trained to get a mile. His speed is undeniable, but he has a peculiarity, and at times appears to hang fire. As a matter of fact he is as gentle as a pebble, but not quick off the mark and if bustled to commence when he begins to sprawl about. On the other hand, if he is allowed to get fairly balanced he will make fine headway, and it was principally Whalley's patience in this connection that enabled him to beat such sprinters as Torbisk, Flying Orb, Cicero mar, and Patrick in the Chesterfield Course Stakes.—[Vigilant in London Sportsman.

H. G. Bedwell has sold Laura, Indifferent, The Lamb and Tam Her, to B. B. Rice, the latter being financed by a Cuban gentleman.

The attempt to hold a race meeting at Mobile, Ala., was a failure, and though it struggled along for three days, it then collapsed.

D. Raymond, of Canada, reports a chestnut colt foaled by Malamont—Sans Coeur. Malamont is a son of Flying Fox.

O. A. Bianchi is in receipt of the following interesting letter written January 21, 1916, from George Archibald, Neuenhagen bei Berlin, Germany:

"Sure was surprised to hear from you out in California. I thought you had quit being a native son and turned hardboot. Get the American papers over here and see where you knock out a winner ever now and then. Keep up the good work.

"Had a good job over here in Austria for Jack Boland and just when everything was all arranged, the Austrian Jockey Club passed a new rule that no foreign riders could get a license there any more, so that ended the affair. I used to go up there from here every year and do good, but won't be able to any more now. You can hardly blame them, for a little riders there now are soldiers in the winter and ride in summer.

"I came pretty nearly joining you in Kentucky last summer. If there was to be no racing here I was going to work for Jack Adkins. The only trouble is the weight. Over here 110 pounds is supposed to be a nice light weight and over there it is a welter-weight. Then they talk about breeding army horses, why do they figure those soldiers only weighing 110 pounds, the shoes they wear weigh nearly that much. We had a fine horse named Dolomit, by Ard Patrick, which is now in the stud, which used to, as a three-year-old, pack 145 to 150 and win over any distance. He raced until a five-year-old and won over $100,000, so you see they are not afraid of weight here.

"Fred Taral is at Frankfurt, where the stud of Dr. von Weinberg is. He winters there and in the spring comes down here. Had a letter from him the other day and he says it is pretty lonesome up here. He has a fine place and some fine horses to draw from. This year he will have nearly fifty in training.

"Owing to the lack of help all the stables who apply can get Russian prisoners to take care of horses after the first of February. We have ordered six. An awful lot of the men from racing are at war. From our stable alone fourteen have gone.

"Do you see much of Mr. MacManus? I see where he won quite a few races last year. Give him my kindest regards when you see him, also Jack Adkins."

H. K. Knapp's great race mare Sprite, by Waterboy—Fairie Queen by Faustus, foaled on March 16, a black filly by Disguise. She will be sent this year to Uncle. Sprite was winner of eighteen races and she was so recently been retired, that her victories can readily be recalled. This filly is Sprite's first foal and she is the only mare not owned by Messrs. Corrigan and McKinney, that was permitted to be bred to any of their horses in 1915, as they are strictly private. This courtesy was partly extended to Mr. Knapp because Major Daingerfield had suggested to him several years before, that he should send Sprite to Disguise as he was so wonderfully suited for her.

E. R. Bradley of the Idle Hour Stud Lexington, who follows the practice of giving his two-year-olds names beginning with the letter B, has claimed a record half dozen this time in Believe Me Boys, Bull Cow, Bit of a Devil, Bully Good Time, Broom-Sweep and Breathing Spell. As might be said, Believe Me Boys, even if I am a Bit of a Devil, a Breathing Spell is mighty acceptable after trailing the Bull Cow through a regular Broom-Sweep of a Bully Good Time. Don't shoot, I'll come down!—[San Francisco Breeder & Sportsman.

Though the Eastern horsemen were not as liberal in their nominations in the Oaks as they were in the Derby they entered all of their fillies which seemed to have a chance in the big stake. Harry Payne Whitney, as in the Derby, is the leading nominator. He has Hanse, Adroit and Regina to prepare for the race.

KENTUCKY DERBY NOMINATIONS.

LOUISVILLE KY., March 13.—England and France, as well as America, are represented in the forty-second renewal of the historic Kentucky Derby. The announcement of the list of nominations for the Kentucky classic has been made by Secretary Hamilton Applegate. There are fifty-six of the best three-year olds in America in the rich stake, and aside from drawing a large number of nominations the race is the most representative one in the history of the Derby.

Jefferson Livingston, Harry Payne Whitney, A. K Macomber and E R. Bradley are among those who have English-bred horses in the race, while Clarence H. Mackay is the only horseman to enter French-bred ones. He has Baffouilleur and Esprit Gaulois in the race.

While there is more than passing interest in the foreign-bred horses which are to be pitted against the galaxy of thoroughbreds from this country the lovers of the turf are more deeply interested in the performances of Thunderer, the unbeaten brother of Regret, the only filly to ever win a Kentucky Derby; Dominant, the biggest money-winner on the turf among two-year olds last year; Bulse, the sensational son of Disguise, unbeaten in Kentucky in 1915, and a score of other horses which helped to make juvenile turf history last year.

Harry Payne Whitney, who won the race last year with Regret, has entered seven in the race and is one of three to name a filly for the stake. This miss in a field of forty-four colts and nine geldings is Hansa, a chestnut daughter of Hamburg. He also has Thunderer, Bromo, Dominant, Sipshod, Chicle and his English-bred youngster Clipperbill in the list of nominations.

Jefferson Livingston is the other owner to name a filly to start. She is Julia L., a speedy daughter of Harrigan. Her sire was a great racer at Juarez several seasons ago and Julia L was not defeated in Mexico, but she went bad in training in Kentucky and showed but little after leaving the land of cactus and chile con carne.

There is $10,000 in added money from the treasury of the New Louisville Jockey Club in the Derby this year. The fee for each nomination is $25 At present the race is worth $11,400, and out of the field of fifty-six it is believed at least sixteen will start. If eighteen go to the post the race will be worth $15,000. The starting fee is $200.

A. K. Macomber, the latest addition to the racing colony, has two royally-bred three-year-olds in the Derby. They are by Sunstar. They are Hesperus and Star Hawk. In all Mr. Macomber has three entrants. The coming of Macomber on the turf has an especial interest to lovers of the thoroughbred. He is a son-in-law of the late L V Harkness, of trotting horse fame.

Another horseman to come to Kentucky who will be welcomed by the old-timers is Foxhall P. Keene. He has Courchill, a son of Sweep, in the list of nominations.

"Uncle" Johnny Greener, of Countless fame, has named Cosmic, a son of Countless, to start. Cosmic is the most inbred horse on the turf. This youngster created quite a stir on the turf last year.

The Kentucky delegation came in strong with nominations. T. C. McDowell, of Lexington, named Checks, his crack gelding, to go; Sheriff T C. Bradley named his sensational colt Big Smoke; J. W. Parrish named Bulse John E. Madden named Gillies; Jesse Spencer named Blackie Daw; and J S. Ward sent in the names of Franklin and Dodge The latter won more races as a two-year-old than any other in the race, ten in all. Big Smoke created quite a favorable impression as a juvenile, and many believe that he will be able to take the measure of the best of them over a route. Last year he showed wonderful bursts of speed at the close of his races.

John Sanford, of New York, believes he has a royal chance to win with George Smith, the crack he paid more than $20,000 for from the McBride stable last fall. This son of Out of Reach won nine races in all as a two-year-old.

James Butler has only one horse in the Derby this year. He is depending on Spur, a bay son of King James.

The field is an evenly balanced one, no one entrant having such a wide margin over the others. While the Whitney horses on form taken from last year have a margin over the others, the Derby is run early in the year and three-year-olds may not show up to their best form at that period of racing. The history of the Derby shows that favorites have not been very successful in winning.

In 1909 Miami, owned by Hon. Johnson N. Camden, was the choice, but he was beaten by Wintergreen; in 1910 Waldo, from the Forsythe stable, was a top-heavy favorite in the winter betting, but on the eve of the race went lame and did not start. In 1911 Governor Gray was the choice, and he was beaten by R. F. Carman's Meridian. In 1912 H. C. Hellenbeck's Worth was the choice at all times, and he won in one of the most driving finishes ever seen in the historic race.

In 1913 there was an upset that was a record breaker. Donerail, unheard of and unbought of, scored at odds of better than 90 to 1. Hawthorn was the top-heavy choice in the winter betting, and huge sums were lost on the Buschemeyer gelding. Old Rosebud made good for future players in 1914.

Last year there was a scattering play in the future book, with the Butler entry getting the heaviest play.

THE THOROUGHBRED OF COLONIAL TIMES.

Bay Richmond.

By adding the name and fame of Bay Richmond to the list of celebrated horses of the Colonies, a long neglected service is rendered to an animal, that, taken as an individual compares favorably with other conspicuous figures whose efforts were beneficially effective during the formative period of our country.

Being handicapped with "natural dullness" (to use an expression of a Kansas critic) we have little hope that this and like articles will appeal to the unimaginative, but, in our feeble way we do hope to engender interest in those who are enriched with a spark of imagination, a germ of patriotism, an atom of love for horse kind. In presenting then, material that to some is as dry as dust, we trust that the reader will develop, through the history of this horse, a closer intimacy with the historic past. In pointing out and tracing century and a-half-old hoof marks we depend upon the reader to draw upon his historical knowledge to connect the career of Bay Richmond with the events of national —even world wide importance— the struggle of the American Colonists that resulted in their independence.

In glancing backward then, we find that Bay Richmond (foaled in 1771) was imported in the fall of 1774, and, being landed on these shores, immediately joined that equine coterie then gathered at "Morrisania," the great estate of that sterling patriot Lewis Morris. Certificates of pedigree that accompanied the horse identified him as a representative of the best racing and blood strains of England as may be witnessed by the following:—

Richmond, Yorkshire, Sept. 10, 1774.

"I do certify that the bay colt which Mr. John Hutchinson purchased of Sir John Dundas, Bart., was bred by me and was got by Babram Blank out of my mare Dido that won ten fifty pound purses or upwards, and which colt was three years old at May day last.

signed Thomas Cornforth."

Askrigg, Yorkshire, Sept. 14, 1774.

"I do certify that the mare Dido, the property of Mr. Thomas Cornforth was bred by me and was own sister to my mare called Virgin and my colt Miracle, being got by Changeling (brother to Fenwicks Matchem).

"The dam of Virgin, Miracle and Dido was also the dam of Lord Bolingbroke's (afterwards Mr. Pigot's) Conundrum, and Rathbone; Mr. Cornforth's Aenigma, my mares Riddle and Miss Tunis, Mr. Foley's Pumpkin, and my filly called Maiden, all of which were got by Matchem.

Their dam was got by Squirt, sire of Mask and Spynon; their grandam by Mogul (own brother to Babram); great grandam by Bay Bolton; g. g. grandam by Pulins Chestnut Arabian, (which mare was the grandam of the Bolton Starling); g. g. g. grandam by Rockwood; g. g. g. g. grandam Basler. Witness my hand. 'John Pratt."

Added to the above convincing certificates there may also be given corroborative items published in Bailey and in Pick, which illustrate the merits of Bay Richmond's dam and his grandam. Bailey's Racing Register shows that the mare Dido started twelve times; she was winner of ten races and was twice second. In Pick's Register, p. 244 Mr. Pick concludes his appreciation of Bay Richmond's grandam the Squirt Mare with the words " It may be justly observed that from the Squirt Mare have appeared more good racers than from the produce of any other mare in the Kingdom, which will be found in the various performances."

To students of pedigree that do not limit themselves to the narrow confines of the incomplete Volume 1, of the English Stud Book, we point out the omission, from that arbitrary but far from infallible book, of the mare Dido as a stud matron. Absolute confidence must be placed in the pedigree of Bay Richmond if we rely on the word of Lewis Morris who accepted from the hands John Pratt this true pedigree In verification of the integrity of John Pratt we call to our aid.

An Elegy.

On the death of the late John Pratt, Esq., of Askrigg, in Wensleydale, who died at Newmarket, May 8, 1785.

A Character so eccentric—so Variable—so valuable,
Though small his patrimony, yet assisted by that and his own genius,
He, for upwards of thirty years,
The excellent qualities of his heart were eminently evinced by his bounty to the poor.
His sympathetic feelings for distress, and his charity for all mankind.
Various and wonderful were the means which enabled him, with unsullied reputation,
To support his course of life; in which he saw and experienced many Trials, and many vicissitudes of Fortune; and though often hard press'd,
Whipped and spurred by that Jockey, Necessity, he never swerv'd out of the course of honour.
Once, when his finances were impaired, he received a seasonable supply by the performance of a Miracle.
At different periods he exhibited (which were just emblems of his own life) A Conundrum —an Aenigma —and a Riddle; and strange to tell, even these enriched his pocket.
Without incurring censure, he trained up an Infidel, Which turned out to his advantage.
He had no singular partiality for flowers, shrubs, fruit or birds, yet for several years he maintained a Florist, and his Red-Rose more than once obtained the prize.
He had a Honeysuckle, and a Pumpkin, which brought hundreds into his purse; and also he a Nightingale, a Goldfinch, and a Chaffinch, which produced him thousands.
In the last war he was owner of a Privateer, which brought him in several valuable prizes.
Though never fam'd for gallantry, yet he had in keeping, at different periods, a Virgin, a Maiden, an Orange Girl, and a Ballet dancer, besides several Misses, to all of whom his attachment was notorious.
And (what is still more a paradox) tho' he had no issue by his lawful wife, yet the numerous progeny and quick abilities of these very females proved to him a source of supply.
With all his seeming peculiarities and foibles, he retained his Purity till a few days before his death;
When the great Camden spread the fame thereof so extensively as to attract even the notice of his Prince, who thought it no diminution of Royalty to obtain so valuable an acquisition by purchase.
And tho' he parted with his Purity at a great price yet his honor and good name remained untarnished to the end of his life
But the proof of his substance, and of a surplus not much inferior to his original patrimony, soon answered, refuted, and wip'd away the calumny.
To sum up the abstract of his character, it may truly be said of him, that his frailties were few; his virtues many; that he lived almost universally beloved; that he died almost universally lamented.

In the spring of the year 1775 Bay Richmond was first advertised as a public stallion. He stood at Morrisania (now part of N. Y. C.) and the covering fee was three guineas and a dollar to the groom. The advertisement stated that "Bay Richmond is a bay near fifteen hands high and rising four years old."

In 1776 the groom John Walburn made known to the public that "the beautiful horse Bay Richmond is to cover at Morrisania at three guineas. His pedigree was advertised at length last year and proves him to be sprung from the best blood of Great Britain. He is a colt of Babraham Blank from Mr. Cornforth's famous mare Dido which came of the turf invincible. He is now rising five years old.

In 1777, there is little cause to wonder that the whereabouts of Bay Richmond is not made known, when it is recalled that maranding bands stole everything of value in the vicinity of New York.

In 1778, we find Bay Richmond removed from New York and standing under the watchful eye of Thomas Witherill at a place in New Jersey called Long Bridge, nine miles from Princeton. And the stud fee was ten pounds the season.

The year 1779, also saw Bay Richmond sojourning in New Jersey and still in the hands of Thomas Witherill who signed an advertisement which stated:—Bay Richmond covers the season at Long Bridge Farm four miles from Kingston, N. J. at forty dollars the season and a dollar to groom. He was imported by Lewis Morris, is rising eight years old, is a beautiful bay fifteen hands high and has got some remarkably handsome colts, many of which may be seen in the possession of several gentlemen in the neighborhood of Philadelphia.

In 1780, we discover Bay Richmond removed still further westward from the turbulent territory. He stood at four pounds the season, gold or silver, at Noah Hunts in Hopewell near Maidenhead, New Jersey.

In 1781, Bay Richmond is traced to a farm near Rocky Hill, N. J. At this time the country was in a sorrowful condition, and we are reminded of the scarcity of real money by the informing notice that the service of Bay Richmond was to be had for ten bushels of wheat or value thereof.

In 1782, the owner of Bay Richmond gives material aid by pointing out the migrations of the horse, when through a public notice we are told that:—"Bay Richmond, which was sent to Major John Coryell's in Bucks Co., Pennsylvania, is now removed to the house of Joseph Holdren in Hunterdon County N. J., on the Delaware near Rush Island where he will cover the season at a half Johannes.

In 1783 it is reasonable to suppose that the beneficial influence of Bay Richmond was lost to the mares of New Jersey as well as New York, because the horse had again been removed, possibly in haste, into Pennsylvania. And this latest westward movement is recorded thus:—"The imported horse Bay Richmond will cover this season at Joseph Ogdens at Middle Ferry on Schuylkal at three guineas a mare.

To keep within the limits of Colonial history, we for the time discontinue further pursuit of the notable Bay Richmond However, we add this:—By centering attention on a lone animal, we trust that the reader's broader vision permits of an appreciation for the labors of breeders under the adverse conditions. To the breeders of today we introduce the breeders of the past as an example of perseverance. It is pointed out, how, in spite of the lean years of the Revolution, breeders were firm and steadfast in their endeavors to improve the horse. That in spite of an impoverished country and depreciated currency, with business at a standstill and the future holding no promise, they strove earnestly to preserve, and did preserve the blood from extermination. And through their efforts and sturdy adherence to the cause of pure blood, there has come down to us a legacy which should act as an incentive to others to carry on the work so ably inaugurated.

TO PAY DIVIDEND OF TWENTY PER CENT.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., March 14.—On March 24 the Business Men's Racing Association will pay 20 per cent. in dividends on all of its outstanding stock. This was decided by the directors in executive session, which lasted until early this morning. The surplus in the treasury will remain until March 30, when the stockholders will vote what to do with it. One crowd favors buying the French Opera House. The other wants to erect an auditorium.

H. P. WHITNEY'S TWO-YEAR-OLDS.

NEW YORK, March 14.—As a result of the curtailment of racing in England incidental to the war, Harry Payne Whitney's colors will be seen nowhere but in America this year. Last year Mr. Whitney, after having maintained an extensive racing establishment in England for some half-dozen years to good purpose, transferred all of his thoroughbred stock to this country. That explains why James Rowe, who has been achieving remarkable results with the Whitney horses since he became Mr. Whitney's racing manager, has in training at Brookdale Farm in New Jersey the largest string of two-year-olds Mr. Whitney has ever had. The string numbers thirty-eight and includes not only the offspring of the Brookdale sires and dams, whose produce have been gaining glory and distinction for the Whitney colors in the past few years, but represents the results of the mating of some of the choicest of the Brookdale matrons with a select list of fashionable English stallions. Mr. Whitney had planned to race the produce of these matings on the English turf, but the war upset his plans and the American turf will thereby be the gainer.

It is reasonably to be expected that this list of thirty-eight royally-bred juveniles includes the prospective two-year-old champion of the year in America. It has been the habit of James Rowe to develop the juvenile stars of each year, whenever he has had proper material to work with. With such a wealth of highly-bred youngsters it would be in nowise surprising should he duplicate some of the marvelous two-year-olds of which he had the training in the peerless stable of the late James R. Keene.

It is true that such prizes as then swelled the total of the Keene stable to unheard of proportions are not now available to reward the efforts of a successful trainer of Mr. Rowe's stamp, but many of the big races, the winning of which brought such everlasting fame to the Keene colors, are still being run and to emerge victorious in them is quite as desirable, from the standpoint of a sportsman of Mr. Whitney's type, as in the more prosperous days of the Eastern turf, even though the values have been greatly reduced by stress of circumstances.

It is certain the racing public will be keenly interested in the list of Whitney juveniles, which is herewith presented:

GREAT START AT HOT SPRINGS.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., March 11.—After a lapse of nine years beautiful Oaklawn came into its own again, when racing was resumed under auspices that promise to exceed the expectations of those who have worked hard to bring about the restoration. The pity of it all is that Messrs. Condon and Stuart, the two most prominent in erecting the costly plant and owners of it when the Anti law put a quietus on the sport in these parts, did not live to see the revival of racing.

The opening was a gala one, and was taken part in by all that is best in the town. The Business Men's League members came to the course in a body and a short address was made by Colonel Fordyce and Mayor McClendon. The half holiday that the latter proclaimed was instrumental in suspending business between the hours of 1 p. m. and 5 p. m., and gave opportunity for many of the business employees to witness the opening and attending ceremonies.

More propitious weather for the sport could not be conceived, and the big throng began wending its way to the track early. All roads led to Oaklawn about noon and every mode of conveyance here was employed, from the high-priced private motor to the rented "Rappy Hollow Standby." Good nature ruled every where, and the big audience seemed to enjoy the occasion hugely.

There were plenty of opportunities for these speculatively inclined, as seventeen layers did a rushing business. The style of wagering was not unlike that of old times except that prices were not displayed and were voiced by the numbered "information" men on request. If the price suited, the bettor tendered his amount and the "recorder," marked the transaction with a badge number on a long slip of paper on which other wagers previously taken or to follow were likewise jotted down. Later this was taken over by the cashier, who would pay promptly to all winners. It was a costly experience for the layers, as they were mulcted in good sums by the victory of five heavily-supported choices.

For a feature a handicap was provided, and this fell to Pan Zareta, which ran a mile in 1:39 and established a new track record. The best previous mark was 1:39 3-5. The crack race mare was in front all the way today and she was never in serious danger. In the two year-old race Aunt Liz, which broke the track record for four furlongs in her first and only start at the Fair Grounds recently, repeated her victory and won eased up.

Jockeys F. Cooper and H. Stearns each rode two winners, and the former also had three seconds to his credit.

The talent was confused a trifle because of the meeting of the horses from the Fair Grounds, Juarez and Havana, but they managed to land on five winners. The only exception was Carrie Orme, winner of the first race, and her chances were well thought of by the Juarez contingent.

Many prominent persons in the racing world were in evidence. Conspicuous in the throng was Senator Johnson N. Camden, Chairman of the Kentucky Racing Commission, and President of the Kentucky Association. He took a keen interest in the racing and opening incidents.

Additional arrivals this morning of horses and turf followers were numerous. Among the comers early next week will include the horses owned by C. B. Campbell and Uncle Jimmy Gray, the oldest turfman racing.

General Manager Joseph E. Martin was highly elated with the successful opening and expressed the opinion that it would be successful from every standpoint. To-day's racing was spirited and thoroughly enjoyed by the big throng.

That Judge Campbell intends to keep a close supervision over the sport was made manifest when he had two of the riders before him to explain their somewhat indifferent efforts.

BEN TROVATO is a seal brown horse, 16¼ hands high. Sired by imp. Alvescot, a son of Raeburn and he a son of St. Simon. Ben Trovato is out of Golden Rose, by Goldfinch, a son of Ormonde, she out of imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, she out of Ambuscade, by Camerino, a son of Stockwell, and she out of Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world. Ben Trovato was raced four years and was as fast as horses ever show. He won miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39 1-5, 1⅛ miles 1:52, 1:52, 1:52 1-5, 1¼ miles in 2:04 2-5, and as a two-year-old ran ⅝ in 0:58⅘ seconds. The great No. 5 family—Galtee More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

If you can find a greater looking horse, a better bred horse or a faster horse, don't breed to this one. Will accept 25 mares for 1913 at $50 to insure living foal.

HANBRIDGE.

W. G. Hirsig's recent purchase Hanbridge, is announced to make the season of 1916, at his Zenaida Farm, Nashville, Tenn., at $50, in this week's RECORD.

In addition to being a well-bred horse on both sides of the house (his sire Banastar, a superior racehorse and winner of the Brooklyn, Metropolitan, Toboggan (twice), Oceanview Handicaps, Belle Meade Stakes, etc., and his dam imported Debacle (dam of Judge Wright, etc.), by the great broodmare sire, Bend Or). Hanbridge has demonstrated himself to be a very high-class race horse and stake winner.

During his career on the turf, which extended over a period of five years, he won and was in the money eighty-four times, being returned winner thirty-seven times, twenty-nine times second and eighteen times third. In his four-old form he started thirty times, being out of the money on only two occasions, a record that speaks volumes for his stamina and racing ability. He could go both fast and far, winning at from five furlongs to a mile and a quarter.

Hanbridge won among other races the King Edward Hotel Gold Cup, 1¼ miles in 2:08 2-5, with 128 pounds up; the Mt. Vernon Handicap at one mile, in which he defeated Stanley Fay and King's Daughter. He frequently went the six furlongs in 1:11 3-5 and once in 1:11 2 5 and miles in 1:39 2-5, etc.

Hanbridge's first crop were two-year-olds in 1915, and he had out the good winner Circulate.

If breeding, individuality and racing merit count for anything, Mr. Hirsig is indeed to be congratulated on securing Hanbridge and that the horse will be liberally patronized is a foregone conclusion.

JOCKEY CLUB BUYS MARES.

NEW YORK, March 22.—An experiment which will have much to do with the future of the horse breeding industry in the United States—particularly with the production of animals of the cavalry remount type—will be undertaken shortly in the Genesee Valley, in the vicinity of Rochester, N. Y.

The Jockey Club has, through its breeding bureau, donated a number of choicely bred mares to the Genesee Breeders and Farmers' Association, it being stipulated in the deed of gift that they are to be mated with the thoroughbred stallions under control of the bureau and which are now located in the valley. As that region is famous for its fertile grass lands and pure water, no better location in the United States could have been secured for the undertaking.

It is a striking illustration of the varied activities and progressiveness of the women of today to find that the plan owes its origin to Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, of Avon, who is president of the association which will have the work in hand. It was through her initiative that The Jockey Club was induced to undertake this work, which will have so far-reaching an influence, for the outcome of the plan will be watched with a great deal of interest by other communities.

Following is a list and brief description and breeding of the mares placed to March 1, 1916:

MARRLAND RACING.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22.—The stage is set at Bowie, the newest of Maryland's race tracks, for the ushering in of the Eastern racing season of 1916. The sport will open on the 1st of April when the spring meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association begins to last through the 14th. The Bowie meeting will be followed by spring sessions at Havre de Grace and Pimlico, and then the horses will go to New York for what promises to be the best racing the great metropolitan circuit has known since 1907. But especial interest attaches to these preliminary meetings in Maryland. For it is down here that the horses that will take part in the early races of importance on the New York tracks will be tried and seasoned.

Many improvements have been made at the Bowie track over winter and the going has been in such excellent condition these three months that the horses that wintered there are well advanced toward real racing condition as are the hundreds which day by day are arriving from the winter tracks of the South. All of which insures to the people of Baltimore, Washington, Virginia and Southern Pennsylvania, who loyally support racing in these parts spring and fall every year, a fortnight of as brisk sport as it is generally their privilege to witness.

Nearly if not all of the stables of the big Eastern circuit will be represented at Bowie, and their horses will meet only the best that come up from the South. It is no longer worth the while of a man with a horse not of the best quality to start at Bowie. He had best save his beast for the half-mile tracks. So many good American horses that were driven out of the country in 1908 and 1910, are returning home and bringing back with them so many scores of first rate English and French campaigners, the man with a poor animal cannot hope for much success on a Jockey Club track.

Among the Easterners of prominence who have applied for stabling at Bowie are: August Belmont, H. C. Hallenbeck, Richard T. Wilson, Price McKinney, Jas. Butler, Thomas F. Clyde, Robert Walden, Col. Ral Parr, Jos. E. Davis, Jere Wheelwright, A. D. Parr, of Clarksburg, W. Va., Gifford A. Cochran, Schuyler L. Parsons Harry K. Knapp, Andrew Miller, John E. Madden, John Sanford, C. K. G. Billings, Frederick Johnson, Harry Payne Whitney, George F. Johnson, Lewis S. Thompson, Thomas Fortune Ryan, J. Temple Gwathmey, W. R. Coe, Archibald Barklie, Quincy Stable, Herbert L. Pratt, Grant Hugh Browne, Capt. E. B. Cassatt, H. H. Hewitt, W. S. Kilmer, Jefferson Livingston, George D. Widener, the Greentree Stable, Mrs. L. A. Livingston, H. T. Oxnard and James G. Oxnard. The stables of Mr. Whitney, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Cochran wintered in Virginia and South Carolina and their horses are nearer racing fettle than those that remained in the East.

There are at Washington upwards of 150 horses that did not go South at the beginning of the winter and most of them are on edge. The Washington winter was mild and the going of the old Benning track, where they are training, has been good right along. These Benning horses belong to the Mizpah and Quincy Stables, Michael Daly, G. Muller, Richard F. Carman, William Carter, John Kelly, Jere Murphy, W. T. Anderson, William Brooks, Henry T. Oxnard, Samuel Ross, Edward B. McLean, William Garth, Lewis Garth, Woods Stockton, William P. Burch and William L. Maupin. Part of the Carman string participated in the New Orleans meeting and returned to Washington this last week. And along with the horses he took away last fall, R. F. Carman, Sr., brought back the Hippodrome three-year-old Skeer Face, said to be the smartest horse of his age developed at New Orleans. Skeer Face came North in tip top condition and is to be one of Mr. Carman's starters in the Inaugural Handicap on the opening day of the Bowie meeting.

Some of the horses that took part in the Juarez and New Orleans meetings, have stopped off in Arkansas for the racing at Hot Springs, but a goodly contingent has already arrived at Bowie and more are coming. The Bowie arrivals so far include the stables of William A. Burttschell, Andrew Godfrey Blakeley, Jack Richards, Frank N. Bray, Archie Zimmer, Clarence Merrick, Larry J. Carey, William Walker, E. J. Sault. James Arthur, A. H. Vivell, George Brenton, Ernest Utterback, N. K. Beal, Francis J. Pons, Walter Brennan, Richard Pending, Harry Rites and A. G. Weston.

LOCAL NOTES.

Not more than two races for two-year-olds on each day's programme, and not more than two races for three-year-olds at less than a mile, and the remainder of the programme, exclusive of stake events to be at one mile or over, are some of the rules recommended by a committee of nine well-known horsemen, which met Thursday at the Phoenix Hotel.

This committee was recently appointed by the State Racing Commission to draft rules providing for the increase in length of races to be run on Kentucky tracks.

The rules are to be submitted to the Racing Commission with the recommendation that they be enforced on the Kentucky tracks during the spring meetings only, and then, if they meet with approval, they will be adopted.

Selling races are to excluded in the distance requirements, though it was further recommended that all races be run for not less than $800 added money on tracks other than at Lexington.

The committee was composed of Arthur B. Hancock, Chairman; Hal Price Headley, Secretary, and O. H. Chenault, Milton Young, Harvey Myers, Matt J. Winn, John Hachmeister, Garret D. Wilson and Allen Gallaher.

The committee's recommendations submitted to the State Racing Commission for consideration follow:

"First. That there shall not be offered more than two races on the programme of any day for two-year-olds.

"Second. That there shall not be offered on the programme of any day more than two races for three-year-olds and upward, of less than one mile.

"Third. That the remainder of the daily programme exclusive of stake events, shall be for races of one mile or over, one of which races shall be of a mile and one-eighth or over, other than selling races, with not less than $800 added money, except that this provision as to added money shall not apply to Lexington.

"Fourth. We further recommend that not less than two condition races or handicaps per week shall be offered by each racing association of not less than one mile and a quarter each, after May 15 and all races shall close with four entries.

"Fifth. Further we recommend that not to exceed three overnight selling races shall be offered by any association on any one day.

"Sixth. It is the sense of your committee that in view of the proposed increase in the length of races, the scale of weights should be increased so that no horse shall carry less than 100 pounds in handicaps and that the top weight shall not be less than seven pounds below the scale.

"We respectfully recommend that the foregoing shall apply to the spring 1916 meetings only, and that if it meets the approval of your honorable body, that this or a similar committee be authorized to re-convene after the spring meeting to further consider the subject and recommend to your honorable body.

"We respectfully suggest for your consideration that the Jockey Clubs be advised of these recommendations and its co-operation be requested in the matter of increasing the distance racing."

MURPHY AGREES WITH MADDEN.

"If the New Orleans meeting accomplished nothing else, it served to demonstrate clearly some things which I have contended for years were correct," said Judge Joseph A. Murphy in talking about the recent highly successful meeting of the Business Men's Racing Association.

"The most important was the fact that the American thoroughbred of today will take up any weight asked of him, and that ninety per cent. of them will go any distance asked. We raced to a high scale of weights and our program was made for distance races. On every Tuesday we had no race less than a mile and we averaged only two races a day for three-year-olds and upward at less than that distance.

"I could run a meeting at New Orleans successfully with no race less than a mile. The day Bringhurst carried 134 pounds and won in a canter six furlongs in 1:12, I looked him over carefully after the race. He never took a long breath. He could have galloped the mile out better than 1:39. Horses ran just as fast with high weights on them as they did the winter before under a lighter scale."

Mr. Murphy evidently thinks as does Mr. John E. Madden, who in an article recently published in this paper goes on record as follows: "I expect to see the American thoroughbred hold his own the coming season and when the year 1916 is over the American Thoroughbred will be more appreciated than he is today."

RACING DATES IN KENTUCKY.

Louisville, Ky., March 20.—The Derby will be run at Churchill Downs on Saturday, May 13. Dates were assigned for the spring meetings at the various Kentucky tracks by the State Racing Commission at its meeting at the Seelbach this afternoon. The commission increased the allotment to Douglas Park by one day, which will give the Beechmont course a closing on Monday, June 12. Manager Hachmeister plans to have several features for the windup, including in all likelihood the running of the Spring Trial Stakes for the two-year-olds at five furlongs.

Lexington drew an even dozen days, starting on Thursday, April 27, which gives the Kentucky Association two Saturdays. The Downs has three Saturdays, Douglas Park two and Latonia four Saturdays, as well as the Fourth of July. Douglas Park, of course, has the Memorial Day holiday date.

Those present at the meeting of the commission today were Messrs. Charles F. Grainger, Allie W. Young and T. Hart Talbot. Aside from allotment of dates no action was taken by the commission. Several petitions were received, one from Blue Grass breeders having reference to the appointment of certain officials and asking the commission to favor longer racing distances, and a committee was appointed to draw up a resolution favoring the latter.

Another meeting of the commission will be held here April 10, at which time it is expected that action upon the appointment of the officials will be taken. Several resolutions were offered, which under the rules of the commission go over until the next meeting.

Following are the official minutes of the meeting of the Kentucky State Racing Commission:

Present, Mr. T. H. Talbot, Judge Allie W. Young and Mr. Charles F. Grainger. Meeting called to order by vice chairman.

Motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution was offered:

"At every meeting in Kentucky given under the control of the State Racing Commission, one-half at least of the total amount guaranteed for prizes shall be apportioned to races of a mile or over, for three-year-olds and upward, and not less than one-half of this half shall be for races of a mile and an eighth or upward to June 1, when after that date it shall be for races of a mile and a quarter or upward. After June 1, the programme for each day shall be subject to the following regulations:

"There shall be at least two races of a mile or upward of the minimum aggregate distance of two miles and a half. These races must differ at least one furlong in distance, and they shall close with three entries. Neither of these races shall be open to two-year-olds, and one of them shall be neither a handicap nor a race with selling conditions.

"There shall not be more than two races to which three-year-olds or upward are admitted of less than seven furlongs, and of these two races only one may be less than six furlongs. When an extra race is one substituted for the original, it shall not be for a shorter distance."

Motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution was offered:

"Our effort to popularize longer distance racing with the owners and trainers will succeed or fail upon the one point of more added money, increasing in proportion to the distance run.

"In order to meet this situation, we think the pending motion to raise the purses from $600 to $800 should be modified, or a substitute offered, leaving the purses as they are and the difference between $600 and $800 to go to the races of a mile and upward. A certain cumulative amount being added for each additional one-sixteenth of a mile.

Motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution was offered:

"To repeal Rule No. 11, and insert the old rule. (Rule No 11, the Racing Commission shall appoint the racing officials at the tracks in Kentucky racing under its jurisdiction. This rule shall apply only to such officials as are necessary to conduct a race meeting, and shall not apply to the president, secretary, treasurer or auditor of any racing association)."

Mr. A. B. Hancock came before the commission and presented a petition in regard to longer races, and appointing of certain racing officials.

Motion duly made and seconded, the following committee was appointed and requested to draft a resolution to consider the petition to prepare longer distance races:

G. D. Wilson, John Hachmeister, M J. Winn, Harvey Meyers, A. B. Hancock, A. B. Gallaher, H. Price Headley, Milton Young, O. H. Chenault. Mr. Hancock was appointed chairman of the committee.

KENTUCKY HANDICAP ENTRIES.

Louisville, Ky., March 21.—Just an even half hundred of the best thoroughbreds on American soil are to be prepared for the rich Kentucky Handicap, which will be the usual feature of the Douglas Park race meeting this spring. General Manager John Hachmeister gave out the list of nominations Saturday and this list shows that there is going to be a real "hoss" race when the all-aged stars with their added quota of weights are asked to let the three-year-old cracks in with a big pull in the scales. As usual the event will carry $10,000 in added money.

Never has an all-aged distance race drawn a better field at Douglas Park than the Kentucky Handicap has this spring. However, it is doubtful if the wonderful record of Luke McLuke is lowered, but the fight will be all the way around if past performances and predictions have anything to do with it. All the cracks which battled in these and other parts last year are going to try conclusions at Douglas Park. The list of three year-olds in the race is an impressive one and the all-aged division is not secure from defeat, inasmuch as there are some royally bred youngsters named in the race.

Borrow, which won the race last year, will have a hard time taking the measure of those against him this year. It is barely possible that his stablemate, Regret, may be sent to the post instead of the gigantic son of Hamburg. Whether it be Borrow or Regret, there are a pair of stumbling blocks in the race in Hodge and Roamer. Hodge is one of the hardest thoroughbreds on the American turf to beat at any distance. Without a few mishaps he might have beaten Borrow last year. The track was hardly to the liking of Roamer and under his great impost he tired in the stretch run and finished outside the money. However, if the course is fast Andrew Miller's champion of four-year-olds last year may turn the trick on the representative of the Whitney stable. If these three should start in the handicap and no others, it would be worth going far to see, as there are none better than Roamer, Hodge and Borrow in the distance races.

Mr. Whitney apparently does not want to be without representation in any of the big stakes this year in Kentucky. He has six in the Kentucky Handicap, which is more than any other turfman has. Four of them are three-year-olds. They are Thunderer, Dominant, Slipshod and Bromo.

Though the Kentucky Handicap is one of the youngest of the big stakes, it has been richer than any others for the spring season and has been history making in its short career. The Kentucky Handicap since its inauguration, has never failed to draw well from all sections, and last year, though no record was made, it drew a representative field and drew a record-breaking crowd to Douglas Park. This year there is speed a-plenty and class in abundance in the big race.

Eighteen out of the fifty nominated are three-year-olds, while nineteen are four-year-olds, six are five-year-olds, four are six-year-olds, one seven-year-old, one eight-year-old and Royal Report is the only nine-year-old in the field.

Another one in the four-year-old division which may show vast improvement this year is Raincoat, winner of one of the distance races last fall. This black gelding showed plenty of late speed, but his race was at two and one-quarter miles. He is a great big coal black gelding, and with any kind of early speed, should give a good account of himself in the distance races this spring.

John W. Schorr, who won the race two years ago with his great colt Luke McLuke, is going to try to land the rich stake again this spring with Ellison, Ed Crump or Dick Williams. Ed Crump has always liked the track at Douglas Park and the Memphis brewer has hopes of getting him to the post in good shape. "Uncle" Johnny Greener is the other Tennessean after the big stake. He is going to prepare Cosmic for the handicap. This youngster will be in the lead for a part of the journey if he is asked to blaze the way, as he possesses great speed, but the only question in the minds of the wiseacres is, will he be able to go a distance. He is by Countless, one of the gamest horses at any distance, but he is so closely inbred that it is believed by many that he will be a sprinter.

Marien Goosby, a Marathon gelding, was supposed to be a sprinter, and last year ran in selling races in these parts. He was a hard horse to beat, but this winter he developed rare staying powers and beat many of the best at the Fair Grounds track in New Orleans. He improved so rapidly that his owner decided to go after big stakes with him this spring.

Emerson Cochran, which was expected to cut a wide swath in the stakes last year, is among those entered in the big stake. A long rest has done a great deal for the son of Jim Gaffney, and R. L. Baker has hopes of the colt being a great breadwinner this season.

LATONIA DERBY ENTRIES.

LATONIA, KY., March 21.—Sixty three-year-old thoroughbreds, scions of the most royal families of two continents, are named to start in the rich Latonia Derby, which will be the headliner of the long meeting at Milldale this spring and early summer. The announcement of the nominations was made last night by John Hachmeister, the genial manager of the Latonia and Douglas Park Jockey Clubs. The event drew just four more nominations than the Kentucky Derby.

The Latonia Derby is patterned after the historic English race, being a mile and a half, the true Derby distance. However, the horses which have been named in the feature of the Milldale course will have a month more racing than those which start at Churchill Downs, but they will be all the better for the seasoning, and Hachmeister is highly pleased with the prospects of the greatest race in the history of the Latonia classic.

As has been the case in every stake on the cards of the Louisville and Latonia tracks, Harry Payne Whitney leads the list of nominations. He has eight in the Latonia Derby, which merely bears out the statement that the New York millionaire is coming to Kentucky this spring with a fine stable of thoroughbreds and "blood in his eye." The golden magnets used by the Kentucky jockey clubs to entice the stars of the East to the Blue Grass State have done even more than was hoped by the managers of the plants. It is much easier to find out what good horses remained away than those which are coming to Kentucky.

Jefferson Livingston is going after the Latonia Derby again this year. He was successful last year with his English-bred horse Royal II., and he is trying to make it two in a row. He has five in the race, including Col. Vennie, which, after becoming acclimated last year, ran over a lot of good ones in the East.

John W. Schorr, who has been trying for a long while to get into his stride in Kentucky, as he has done year after year in Canada, is going after the Derby with Dick Williams and Ellison. The later was a splendid racer as a two-year-old, but later in the season seemed to train off. He had a terrific burst of speed, which he used in stretch runs, which caused the Memphis brewer to believe that he had a horse of real Derby caliber. Ellison is a richly bred horse. He is by Ossary and out of Orsina. He will be trained at Douglas Park for his engagement in the Latonia Derby.

John Sanford evidently believes he has a great performer in George Smith. He has named the Out of Reach colt in the Latonia as well as the Kentucky Derby. Mr. Sanford is one of the best sports on the American turf and he has a world of well wishers in this big race.

The Kentucky Derby will serve to eliminate all of the bloomers and those which start in June at Milldale for the big purse will all be seasoned horses and ready for the long route. The field may be smaller than in one or two of the big races early in the season, but from the outlook the event is going to be an open one and prove a better drawing card than it has in the past.

J. T. Weaver, who scored in the Latonia Derby a few seasons ago with his great mare Gowell, is going after the race again this year. He has Thornwood nominated and the son of Dick Welles—Flash of Lightning may be able to stand it over the long course. Last year Thornwood had a world of admirers, but he failed to show as much as Weaver expected him to, but the youngster ran in fair form in several events. His late speed, which availed him naught in the dashes, caused Weaver to begin working him out with an idea of making a distance horse of him.

Harry Payne Whitney thinks well of the get of Broomstick. He has three by that famous sire in the Derby. They are Hubbub, Thunderer and Bromo. He also has the son of Delhi, Dominant, entered. There is much interest among horsemen which is the better horse, Dominant and Thunderer. Though Thunderer is unbeaten it is pointed out that Dominant was asked to do much more than the full brother of Regret. But at the same time Thunderer earned brackets every time he went to the post.

Tom Hayes, the Lexington horseman, has a good one entered in Kinney. This son of Dick Welles won the Futurity last spring at Lexington. Hayes came down to Louisville in 1913 with Donerail and won the Kentucky Derby when there were only a few who had any idea he could beat such a crack as Ten Point. He may be able to repeat this trick this year, but on form he has a better animal in Kinney than he had in Donerail.

Weber & Ward will have two barrels to their gun when they go into the Latonia Derby this year. They have Franklin and Dodge entered and either one of these three-year olds is perfectly able to take care of himself in very speedy company. Dodge won enough races last year to put him close to the top. Franklin outworked Dodge last spring and it may be that this one will be chosen to be the color bearer in June at Milldale.

T. C. Bradley has Big Smoke in the race and J. W. Parrish is not overlooking any opportunities with Bulse. This pair of Kentucky horses will be given much attention by the Kentuckians when they are sent against the cracks of other sections. It is a rare thing that the Lexington horsemen have gone into the Latonia Derby with as many good horses as will represent the Blue Grass section this year.

LONGEVITY OF HORSES.

Your Ledbury friend must be disabused of the impression that forty-seven is a record for a horse's age. I find in one of my numerous scrap-books the following, which I extracted from "Horses Illustrated" of June 20th, 1908:—"Old Bill, a horse the property of the late Mr. S. Francis Petrie, of Edinburgh, was sixty years old when he was shot on the death of his master." This, so far as I know, does constitute a record in the way of equine longevity. Diomed, which won the first Derby, and died in America, attained the age of thirty-one years, which was considered remarkable; while two other Derby winners of much more recent date, St. Blaise and Melton, were respectively twenty-nine and twenty-eight years old at the time of their deaths.—[Willoughby Maycock in London Horse and Hound.

The editor of Horse and Hound makes the following comment on the above:

"I have read before of one or more cases of an entire horse attaining an age above that cited by my Ledbury correspondent, but I have never yet come across an authentic instance of a stallion over forty years of age begetting anything like seventeen foals in one season. Gallinule, which died in January, 1912, at the age of twenty-eight, and was a prolific stock-getter as a rule, had twenty-eight foals to his name, four of which were dead, in the "Stud Book Supplement" for 1910; twelve, including one set of twins, in 1911; and only four in 1912, his last actual foal being the very speedy Torloisk. Touchstone lived to the age of thirty years, and Thunderbolt was thirty-one at the time of his death on March 12th, 1888. Other thoroughbred stallions to reach the age of thirty years or more may be instanced in Janus (thirty-four), Matchem and Sampson (each thirty-two), Bay Bolton and Diomed (each thirty-one), and Competitor (Eclipse's last surviving son, which died on December 29th, 1816), Eagle and Sir Walter (each thirty years."

EDWARD CEBRIAN'S STUD.

While the organization last summer of the Golden Gate Thoroughbred Breeders' Association and the staging of its inaugural race meeting at the exposition track was the means of awakening a good deal of interest in the thoroughbred and the increase of holdings in horseflesh of this kind on the part of numerous California sportsmen, none have gone at the matter in a more enthusiastic and extensive way than has Mr. Edward Cebrian of this city, who has through numerous purchases assembled one of the most pretentious studs in the West. Some months ago Mr. Cebrian purchased of Al Joseph of this city the stallion Von Tromp and a number of high-bred mares, augmenting this band more recently by a draft from the Oakwood Stock Farm of Lawrence & Comstock, including the handsome son of Star Ruby—Ladybug, Tim Payne, the last arrivals bringing his broodmare holdings well along towards the storied "three score and ten" mark, says the San Francisco Breeder and Sportsman.

Wishing to have his breeding and training operations conducted at a point easy of access to San Francisco and having no realty of his own in this radius suitable for the establishment of a stock farm, Mr. Cebrian leased the San Jose Driving Park from the Campbell estate and assembled his horses at that well equipped plant. There, with that well known horseman, Al Ferrell, as superintendent and trainer, he hopes to breed and develop many youngsters which will carry his colors to the front on American tracks both East and West. That he has laid an excellent foundation for the fulfillment of this desire is evident when the quality of his stud is considered, as both mares and stallions spring from the best families known to the running turf. Von Tromp, whose services will be used much more extensively than those of his stable mate, Tim Payne, is of the rugged, substantial type and is one of the best bred horses in America, being a son of the mighty Ben Brush (sire among many others of the famous stake winner Broomstick, premier sire of America for the past three years), while his dam, Cinderella by Hermit, also produced Peter Pan, which carried the colors of James R. Keene to victory so frequenily some eight or ten years ago. Himself a very fast horse, Von Tromp gave an excellent account of himself for his opportunities, and while his stud advantages have been very slight he has demonstrated that he is a sire of coming fame, three youngsters by him, Illuminator, Recluse and Handy Andy having proven winning two-year-olds during the season last passed. That he will now have an excellent chance to demonstrate his true worth is readily gleaned from a cursory inspection of the class of mares to which he will have access under his new ownership, the following "samples" having been taken at random from the assembly of seventy now at San Jose:

Mr. Cebrian's advent to the ranks of California's breeders of the thoroughbred has been widely welcomed, and the progress of his operations will be watched with much interest. In addition to the stallions and mares limited to the breeding ranks he owns a few younger things of quality which will be raced in the Western meetings of the present season, but he plans to rely entirely upon his own products when once the first crop comes to racing age, and hopes—and believes—that by that time the State of California will have joined the roster of enlightened communities where a racing commission and the use of the parimutuel are everyday affairs.

WHEN DOCTORS DIFFER.

How are we to reconcile the teachings that we must look to England for horses that can stay, and that early two-year-old racing is destructive of stamina, with the entry of fifty-two in one and seventy-four in another juvenile event at Gatwick Park and Lingfield, to be run the last week of this month and the first week of next? It is not to be explained by the "needy owners" theory. Mr. Leopold de Rothschild, Lord Rosebery, Mr. James Buchanan, the great distiller; Sir Robert Jardine, head of one of the great houses of the Oriental trade; Lord Jersey and Lord Savile are among the nominators. They may have their troubles, but I don't believe these include any feed bill worries.—[Toronto Globe.

Bloom, the English broodmare imported by Grant Hugh Browne, died suddenly this week at the Brownleigh Park Farm. Homer Selby, who made many of the foreign purchases for Mr. Brown, is contemplating another shopping trip abroad.

FERTILE TWIN BROOD MARES.

I saw it stated in your issue of February 19th that all the correspondents, including myself, of course, had missed the point that "Audax" wished to emphasize, viz., whether twin sisters (except the two he named) had proved fertile. In pointing out that Torment, the grandam of Petrarch, produced the twin fillies F Sharp and B Flat, both of which bred stock, and one, I believe, a classic winner abroad, I hope I have scored a "bull's eye."—[John Huby in London Horse and Hound.

-BEN TROVATO-

BEN TROVATO is a seal brown horse, 16½ hands high. Sired by imp. Alvescot, a son of Raeburn and he a son of St. Simon. Ben Trovato is out of Golden Rose, by Goldfinch, a son of Ormonde, she out of imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, she out of Ambuscade, by Camerino, a son of Stockwell, and she out of Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world. Ben Trovato was raced four years and was as fast as horses ever show. He won miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39 1-5, 1½ miles 1:52, 1:52, 1:52 1-5, 1¾ miles in 2:04 2-5, and as a two-year-old ran ⅝ in 0:58⅗ seconds. The great No. 5 family—Galtee More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

If you can find a greater looking horse, a better bred horse or a faster horse, don't breed to this one. Will accept 25 mares for 1916 at $50 to insure living foal.

MR. CAMDEN WITHDRAWS RESIGNATION.

FRANKFORT, KY., March 30.—Governor A. O. Stanley to-night received word from former Senator Johnson N. Camden from Hot Springs, Ark., withdrawing his resignation as Chairman and a member of the State Racing Commission. The Governor was much gratified over the receipt of the message, for the naming of a successor to Senator Camden has been causing him no little worry and annoyance. Senator Camden, in his letter of resignation to the Governor, gave as his cause of his withdrawal his ill health. From persons close to both it was learned that other reasons in addition to his ill health, were party responsible for his taking that action.

The Governor was quite upset when he received the former Senator's letter of resignation, and, while accepting, quietly went to work to induce Mr. Camden to remain on the board. Judge Allie W. Young showed up suddenly at Hot Springs a few days ago, and it is generally believed he carried a personal message from the Governor requesting Mr. Camden to reconsider his action.

After thinking over the matter for a few days Mr. Camden decided to remain as a member of the Racing Commission. Mr. Camden has been at Hot Springs for about ten days, and advices received from there indicate that he was a very sick man, but has been much benefited by the treatment, and will remain there for sometime.

Col. Milton Young expressed himself as well pleased at the withdrawal by Mr. Camden of his resignation and his re-appointment to the Commission by Gov. Stanley.

The unanimous endorsement by breeders and horsemen of Col. Young as a member of the State Racing Commission, must naturally be a source of much gratification to him, as such expressions of esteem and regard can but be highly appreciated.

DERBY TO BE RUN MAY 30.

LONDON, March 28.—The Stewards of the Jockey Club have decided to run the Derby, the blue ribbon of the flat racing season and the Oaks at Newmarket on May 30 and June 1 respectively. The prospects for this season's flat racing are far brighter than might reasonably have been expected, for meetings, in addition to several at Newmarket, have been arranged at Newbury, Lingfield, Gatwick and Windsor.

James J. Grant died suddenly this week of heart disease at Emeryville, Cal. He trained a number of good horses, among them being Yo Tambien for Theo Winters, but for the last nine years he has been superintendent of the New California Jockey Club track. He broke a number of yearlings at the Kentucky Association track for the late James B. Haggin a few years ago.

SPRING YEARLING SALE.

The third annual spring sale of thoroughbred yearlings, under the management of The Kentucky Sales Company, will be held at Tattersalls, this city, on the evening of Monday, May 8, during the meeting of the Kentucky Association. It is almost needless to recount the success of these events in 1914 and 1915, suffice it to say that in the former year forty-four head realized an average of six hundred and thirty-three dollars; while last year the average registered nine hundred and ten dollars. For the event to be held in May a number of classy yearlings have been listed and others are solicited. Breeders cannot make a mistake in entering yearlings in this sale, for there will be many probable buyers in attendance at the Lexington Spring Race Meeting.

LOCAL NOTES.

Mr. Edward Moorhouse, one of the directors of The British Bloodstock Agency, England, will leave London about the first of April for a visit to the United States. The main object of his trip is a tour of Kentucky, particularly with a view to visiting some of the leading American breeding establishments. After spending a few days in New York, Mr. Moorhouse will come to Kentucky. While here he will be the guest of Mr. A. B. Hancock, Paris, Ky., and every opportunity will be afforded him to visit the many establishments which have made Kentucky famous wherever the thoroughbred horse is known.

Jean de Chevigny of France, who has been in this country sometime buying horses for the French Government, spent a few days in Lexington this week before returning home. His visit here was purely for pleasure, as he wished to see some of the famous horses quartered on the farms near Lexington, among them those at August Belmont's Nursery Stud, John E. Madden's Hamburg Place, Corrigan & McKinney's Wickliffe Stud, etc.

Judge William H. Wilson and other officials of the association, relative to the spring meeting, which is to open on April 27.

Louis Garth, son of Wm. Garth, the popular Virginia trainer, is in Kentucky for a few days. He spent Monday with A. B. Hancock at Claibourne Farm in Bourbon County. Tuesday he visited the Kentucky Association course, and was for several hours with John E. Madden at Hamburg Place. Tuesday evening he went to Louisville to see the horses in training at Churchill Downs and Douglas Park. At Benning track young Garth is training a string of jumpers for E. B. McLean, of Washington.

When told that local sporting men presented a petition to Governor Stanley for the appointment of Colonel Milton Young on the State Racing Commission, both expressed satisfaction. "Colonel Young knows more about racing than probably any other man who may be suggested to the Governor," said Manager Hachmeister, "and he made a good commissioner during two administrations."

A delegation of Fayette County breeders and owners of thoroughbred horses presented to Governor A. O. Stanley at Frankfort Wednesday afternoon, a petition signed by a number of horsemen requesting that he appoint Col. Milton Young to succeed Senator Johnson N. Camden, resigned, as a member of the State Racing Commission. The Governor spent time hearing the horsemen on the racing situation in the state; expressed a friendly interest in the welfare of the turf, and asked questions as to the qualifications of other men for appointment in the event he should not concur in their request for Colonel Young on the Commission. This developed an endorsement of Messrs. John H. Morris, of Woodford County; George J. Long, of Louisville; Catesby Woodford, of Bourbon County; Hal Price Headley, Fred Forsythe or Overton H. Chenault, of Lexington. The Governor gave no intimation to his petitioners as to whom he may select.

Col. Young is practically the unanimous choice of the breeders, owners and trainers in this section. It is pointed out that Colonel Young is one of the most capable turfmen in the state; that he made a most excellent member of the Commission and was a powerful force in the formation of the policies under which the sport of racing has thrived in Kentucky; that it was a mistake of Governor McCreary's administration that he was not continued on the Commission; that it is the spirit of the turf that its governing body be free from the contaminating influences of politics; that there is now no Republican member on the board, and that Colonel Young, while not a politician, is a member of that party.

N. MacFarlane, the well-known Canadian racing patron, is here to have a look at horses in Al Austin's stable.

The Directors of the Kentucky Association, Vice President O. H. Chenault in the chair, met Saturday afternoon to discuss the problem of more stable room. It was decided to build at once eighty additional stalls, provided a deal can be closed for a property adjacent to the course. It was made known to the directors that the property is available under certain conditions and the officers were authorized to meet those conditions.

Discussion of the racing program was deferred until a later date.

The board of directors of the Kentucky Association, at a meeting held in the offices of the association at 2:30 Thursday afternoon, closed a lease with the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company for a small tract of land adjoining the running track, located just back of the half-mile post, for the erection thereon of an eighty-stall stable.

Following the acceptance of the lease, bids were opened for the construction of the building, the contract being awarded to the Combs Lumber Company, of this city.

Work on the stable will be started at once and the building will be completed in about ten days, in time to house its quota of horses during the spring race meeting. The quarters at the track have been cramped for some time and this addition to the housing facilities will relieve the congestion in the stables and allow the superintendent of the track to fill the demand for stable room.

HON. J. N. CAMDEN RESIGNS.

Hon. Johnson N. Camden, of Versailles, who is seeking restoration to health at Hot Springs, Ark., has tendered his resignation as a member of the State Racing Commission, of which he was Chairman, and it has been accepted by Governor A. O. Stanley, who in his response to Senator Camden indicates that he will select his successor in the very near future, but no intimation is given as to whom his selection may be. Senator Camden's resignation was totally unexpected, and it will come in the nature of a great surprise to horsemen everywhere, who have considered his presence on the commission as a sterling asset to the turf interests of America.

Senator Camden's letter, which was written at Hot Springs, is as follows:

"I very reluctantly tender my resignation as a member of the Racing Commission with the request that it take effect immediately.

"I have been conscious for sometime past, owing mainly to ill health, that I have not been able to give this important work the close attention that it deserves, and as it is now clear that I will be able to devote to it even less time in the future, I consider it only fair to the valuable and extensive interest that it represents that I resign in favor of a more active member."

Govenor Stanley's letter of acceptance, follows:

"I am deeply grieved to learn of your illness and your determination to retire from the Racing Commission, and in this I express not only my personal feelings, but those of the gentlemen who have been so pleasantly associated with you.

"I shall, as per your request, name your successor for the Racing Commission at the earliest possible moment.

"With kindest personal regards and best wishes for your early and complete recovery, I remain, most cordially yours."

Governor Stanley's selection necessarily will be a breeder of thoroughbred horses. The statute creating the commission requires that "at least three" of its members be breeders. Only two of the four remaining commissioners are breeders. They are Messrs. Thomas Hart Talbot, of Bourbon County, Vice Chairman, and Judge Allie W. Young, of Rowan County. Judge Young did not become a breeder until he was selected by former Governor James B. McCreary for a place on the commission. Then it was that he bought a few mares. They now are at Senator Camden's farm in Woodford County. The other two members of the commission are Charles F. Grainger, President of the New Louisville Jockey Club, and Colonel W. B. Haldeman, editor of the Louisville Times.

Mr. Camden has been a member of the Racing Commission for about six years, and for about three years has been chairman, with an interim of about four months when he resigned to serve a short term as United States Senator. Gov. McCreary, however, declined to appoint a member of the commission in his place during this period, as did his fellow members to choose a new chairman, and both positions were restored to him upon the expiration of his term as Senator. He is the proprietor of the Hartland Stud in Woodford County, and has been for many years prominent both as a breeder of thoroughbred horses as well as on the turf.

Racing in Spain is experiencing a veritable "boom" this year. In addition to the big prizes offered at San Sebastian, there will be two races this spring at Madrid worth, respectively, $4,000 and $2,000, and Seville is coming forward with a mile and a half weight-for-age race of $1,150, to be run on April 24, open to horses of all countries. There is talk, too, of a race meeting at Barcelona, and, says Le Sport Belge, the King of Spain is planning a big race course at Aranjuez.

THE CLARK HANDICAP ENTRIES.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 28.—Metropolitan tracks will not have more pretentious meetings this year than those of Kentucky. This is assured by the list of nominations shown in the Kentucky Derby and the Kentucky Oaks, which have already been announced, and the Clark Handicap, which was given out a few days ago by Hamilton Applegate, Secretary of the New Louisville Jockey Club.

There are 63 nominations in the Clark this year, and every horse in the entire list must be given more than scant consideration for the long end of the purse. The Clark will be run off about one week after the Derby and the winner of the classic naturally will be given much consideration in the big race.

The Clark has brought together a trio of great stars in the all-aged division in Regret, Borrow and Hodge. The first two are from the stable of Harry Payne Whitney, while the latter is from the stable of W. J. Weber, the local horseman. Borrow won the Kentucky Handicap last year, while Regret won the Derby, and Hodge, aside from winning his full share of stakes and purses during the season on the Kentucky tracks, was second to Borrow in the Kentucky Handicap.

There is deep interest in the meeting of these thoroughbreds. It is probable that Harry Payne Whitney will start only one of his stars in the big race, but either Regret or Borrow will have a hard time taking the measure of Hodge, which is one of the best thoroughbreds on the American turf. Hodge has won at all distances, under all kinds of weather conditions and under both light and heavy imposts. Borrow only raced a couple of times in Kentucky last year. One time he made a poor showing, but the next time he took the measure of Hodge and a dazzling field in the Kentucky Handicap. Roamer, champion of the all-aged division, which ran unplaced behind Borrow last year, was not named in the Clark this year.

Regret will have her following in any race in which she may start. Her superb showing against the cracks of the nation in the Derby last year entitles her to deep consideration. The better points of the famous Bonnie Scotland family have cropped up in the daughter of Broomstick. She has earned the toga which for years rested without claim upon the great Yo Tambien. The filly has now passed the debutante stage, and it will not be long before her owner retires her to the nursery, but of all the four-year-olds on the American turf she holds a niche all her own, and Mr. Whitney is not going to see her beaten if it can be helped. So far her escutcheon is clean.

Kentucky looms up strong in the Clark, though Mr. Whitney has come to Kentucky with a purpose of making a clean sweep. He has eight named in the Clark, and every one of them is of stake caliber. He did not stop with Regret and Borrow, but named Thunderer, Bromo, Dominannt, Slipshod, Hubbub and Adroit as well.

Jefferson Livingston has the second largest number of nominations. He has four. Royal II., winner of the Latonia Derby last year, is his mainstay in this race, and the route is just about right for the three imported horses in the race and the most feared of the invaders. A. K. Macomber named his Sunstar colt, Hesperus, in the big race, and George Wingfield is going to send Polistena to the post. The latter is by the great English sire, Polymelus.

H. C. Hallenbeck, who has not raced in Kentucky since 1912, when Worth won the Kentucky Derby, is coming back to the Blue Grass State this spring. He has named his high-priced pair of racers The Finn and Iron Duke. The Finn showed last year that he is a grand horse, and if he runs to his three-year-old form will prove a hard horse to beat. Mr. Hallenbeck was very anxious to win a Kentucky Derby, and he bought Worth, paying $10,000 for him as a two-year-old for that purpose. The son of Knight of the Thistle did not disappoint his owner the following year, and the Pennsylvania millionaire shook the dust of local tracks from his feet and has remained away a long time, but the call of the Blue Grass State was too strong to be resisted.

Waterblossom, the idol of Kentucky lovers of the thoroughbred, will go to the post in the Clark if she trains up to expectations. Last year Regret stood between her and the three-year-old championship among the fillies. Mr. McDowell also has Manager Waite and Star Jasmine in the event. He has three stars in the race, and any one of the three ranks close to the top.

"Uncle" Lew Marion, of Yo Tambien fame, has two horses in the Clark. He has his grand old performer, Prince Hermis, and Little Nephew, a recent purchase, in the Clark. While "Uncle" Lew believes Prince Hermis is capable of beating most any of the horses in creation with any kind of a pull in the weights, he also has a liking for Little Nephew which may be able to show that his bad leg has come back into shape again. Little Nephew was one of the brightest prospects in the nation as a two-year-old, but a series of accidents put him out of the running.

The oldest horse in the race is Royal Report, one time holder of the mile and a quarter record at the Downs. The veteran son of Requital is now nine years old, but his owner, Paul Aberli, has hopes of getting the old campaigner to the post.

Dodge has won more races than any other horse in the race. He leads with ten victories. The Finn, Hodge and Waterblossom tie for second place with nine each. The list of victories of The Finn is an impressive one. He captured the Withers Stakes, Belmont Stakes, Southampton Handicap, Hamilton Derby, Huron Handicap, Manhattan Handicap, Baltimore Handicap, Ellicott City Handicap and the Dixie Handicap.

In the long history of the Clark Handicap the race has never been a more open one, and Secretary Applegate is confident of two things happening in the big race. One is that a record field will go to the post, and the other is that a new track record will be set if the track is fast.

FIFTY-FIVE ENTRIES IN FRANK FEHR STAKES.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 27.—Secretary H. C. Applegate, has made public the list of entries in the Frank Fehr Stakes, which is one of the annual fixtures at the spring meeting at Churchill Downs, it being an event with selling conditions for three-year-olds and upwards at one mile, with $1,000 added.

This stake was first run off in 1895 at the Downs and has since enjoyed an unbroken history. Its winners have been Araphoe, Rondo, Dunois, Estacs, Batten, Larkspur, Chorus Boy, Alfred Vargrave, Capt. NINETY-SIX IN SPRING TRIAL.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 28.—Manager John Hachmeister has just completed the compilation of the entries in the Spring Trial Stakes, the feature two-year-old race of the coming Douglas Park race meeting. This event has $2,500 in added money, and has always ranked in value since its inauguration as the third richest stake for two-year-olds run off annually in Kentucky. It was decided last year on June 5, and has always been run off on the closing day of the spring racing season at Douglas Park.

Manager Hachmeister will not likely pursue the same course this season, as the meeting this spring winds up at Douglas Park on Monday, so very likely he will set Saturday, June 10, as the date of the running of this rich stake this year. The previous runnings of the Spring Trial Stakes have annually been sensational. A resume of its history is given below:

In 1913 Little Nephew ran second and Imperator third, while in 1914 Brig's Sister finished second and Climber third, and last year Marse Henry ran second, with Pockichoo third.

This season the huge array of ninety-six nominations have been made in this event. The list follows:

ENGLAND'S LARGEST STUD.

The biggest private establishment in the United Kingdom (if not in the world) devoted to the rearing and breeding of the British thoroughbred, is comprised in the Melton Studs, belonging to Mr. Musker. At Thetford, Norfolk, there are about 11,530 (eleven thousand five hundred) acres of land, a large part of which is available in the form of paddocks. The auxiliary stud at Westerham, Kent, covers an area of 350 acres. There are at these Melton Studs over 300 boxes for stallions, broodmares, yearlings and foals, besides 15 large sheds, capable of holding over 100 animals. At the present moment the mares at the Melton Studs number 229. There are also 39 yearling fillies (the colts having been sold), and before many months have gone by it is expected that the population of the paddocks will be increased by the arrival of an additional large number of foals. Including the stallions, there are now over 270 thoroughbreds at the two stud farms, and by next June the total will be, in all probability, about 400.

This plain statement of facts will, no doubt, be deemed sufficient to make good the claim that the Melton Studs are easily the biggest in Great Britain and Ireland. That they have other claims to distinction will be allowed when it is understood that during the years of 1913 and 1914 the winners of nearly 300 races in various parts of the world were out of Melton Stud mares or by Melton Stud stallions. At the Hunter Show at Islington recently, four winners of King's Premiums were bred at the Melton Studs. They were Sysonby, Sea Flier, Irrawaddy and Persimmon's Pride.

In putting forward these facts and figures there is no desire to belittle the wonderful achievements of the Childwick Bury Stud. Mr. Joel is heartily to be congratulated on his phenomenal success as a breeder of thoroughbred racing stock, and he would, perhaps, be the first to acknowledge his indebtedness to the qualities of a mare bred at Westerham Hill. Reference is here made to Absurdity, by Melton out of Paradoxical. She is the dam of Absurd, Jest, Black Jester and King's Joker. Another daughter of Melton that contributed substantially to the reputation of the Childwick Bury Stud is Yours, the dam of Your Majesty and Our Lassie.—[Dublin Sport.

Hamburg Place contains 2,240 acres, and, at present, has 235 broodmares. In 1915 alone, the produce of the mares and stallions from this farm won 325 races and $291,827.

During the past seven years, the get of Hamburg Place stallions have won the almost unbelievable sum of $1,605,454.—Ed]

R. T. WILSON'S STRING MOSTLY JUVENILES.

New York, March 28.—Judging from the twenty head of horses in the stable of R. T. Wilson, the president of the Saratoga Association will start this year's campaign with a strong hand. With the exception of three are all two-year-olds, five of them are imported. Some are from the Madden farm and seven are sired by the good horse Olambala, which won so many races for Mr. Wilson during his racing career. The genial Tom Healey, who has them in charge, has done what he could do with his material at Belmont Park to fit them for track work. Manager Pelz is confident that he will have the Belmont Park training track in condition for working by the middle of this week, so there has been a letup in the cold weather the past day or two and only a sudden change for the worse will send the horses back to their shed work again.

"If we only had some decent weather I would have been able to tell more about my horses," said Mr. Healey. "As it is, there they are, just as you see them. One thing I can say, they are all healthy and some of them seem to be made of the right sort of stuff for race horses. But we can never tell until they are tried just how they are going to turn out. I have no particular choice so far among the two year-olds. There are five from the other side which are mighty well-bred, according to the records, but they don't all outlook some of the home-bred stock. They may prove the better, but that is a question yet to be answered. We shall know more about them when they clash with each other and get mixed up with the imported and home-bred material from other stables. What we want just now is some decent weather, the kind that makes both man and beast appreciate life. As soon as we can get that and I can get the horses working, some idea can be gathered of what to expect from this batch of youngsters. As for the older horses, they are ready to go on the track at the first break. Tartar will go in the handicaps and stakes, but Montresor is only a moderate selling plater, though some folks think he is a stake horse. Ormesdale will be sent after some of the three-year-old events. He was a good sort of a two-year-old and he may prove even better as a three-year-old. It will take good horses to win races this year, much better than it did last year, especially in the two and three-year-old divisions. There will be a lot of what can be termed good three-year-olds in training and there being something like a couple of hundred two-year-olds from England and France the interest in the sport will be immeasurably increased. The rivalry between owners who have imported youngsters is now great and it will be greater when the time comes for racing. I think this will be the greatest year this country has ever seen for racing, owing to the international interest in the horses. That is one thing the war has done for this country—it has enabled American owners to buy English and French horses which would never have seen this country but for the European strife."

REVISED SELLING-PLATE CONDITIONS IN U. S. A.

I notice that on February 10th last the New York Jockey Club passed an amendment to their rules of racing governing selling plates. The change which has been adopted calls for an equal division of the surplus arising from the sale of the winner between all the starters, instead of between the race fund and the owner of the second horse as heretofore. Under the old rule it was possible, and had become a regular practice, for unscrupulous owners to settle personal grievances or increase their banking accounts by bidding up the winner to a sum considerably in excess of the entered selling price of the horse. Those who supported the amendment included Captain E. B. Cassatt, Messrs. Foxhall Keene, John Sanford, H. T. Oxnard, F. K Sturgis, H. K. Knapp, P. J. Dwyer, and others. During the early part of the American invasion of the English Turf some twenty years ago, the practice of entering what were high-class handicappers in minor selling plates purely for the purposes of a gamble was tried by one or two owners, but it was found to be an expensive method, and was soon dropped. Personally I consider this a most excellent rule, and I should like to see it adopted by our Jockey Club.—[Audax in London Horse and Hound.

A LITTLE-KNOWN CIRCUMSTANCE IN RACING.

In our last issue I gave Matchem's age as thirty-two years, and on Monday I notice that my friend "Vigilant" in the "Sportsman," is kindly referring to a paragraph I had written on unusual longevity in horses, stated that Matchem was thirty-three years old, having been "foaled in 1748 and died in February, 1781." I was, however, correct in giving his age as only thirty-two, as in those far-off days the birth of a thoroughbred was counted as dating from May 1st instead of as from January 1st, as has long been the practice. Indeed, it was so long ago as April 25th, 1833, that the members of the Jockey Club resolved that from the end of that year the age of horses running at Newmarket should be considered as dating from January 1st instead of May 1st. With respect to other places they agreed that May 1st should continue to be recognized as the date of birth until the Stewards of those races outside Newmarket should order otherwise. Few of my readers are probably aware that it was due to this anomaly in the Rules of Racing that Coronation was able to win a race as a two-year-old at Warwick in 1841, and also the Derby of that year, as the Stewards of the Midland meeting had not then agreed on the alteration of the age-date of thoroughbreds. At the Warwick Spring meeting on Wednesday, March 17th, 1841, the Trial Stakes of one mile, for two and three-year-olds (ages to date from May 1st, according to the return in the "Racing Calendar" of that year), was secured by Mr. Rawlinson's bay colt Coronation by Sir Hercules out of Ruby by Rubens, two years, 7st (Chapple), from ten others, the winner being favorite at 5 to 4 against. On Wednesday, May 20th, the same season, Coronation, ridden by Conolly, won the Derby Stakes from Lord Westminster's Van Amburgh, a son of Pantaloon from Decoy, with twenty-seven opponents behind, none of which was placed by the judge. Coronation here started favorite again at 5 to 2 against, Lord Albemarle's Ralph, which had previously won the Two Thousand Guineas, being second in request at 5 to 1.—[Audax in London Horse and Hound.

Ten of the two-year-olds from the Campbell-Gray Farm in Oklahoma, were offered for sale by auction in the paddock at Hot Springs Wednesday, but only five of them were disposed of by Auctioneer John S. Wallace. All were by Mint, and the one to bring the top price was Sol Mintz, whose dam is Effie M. He was purchased by Galen Brown for $400. Four other horses, the property of various other owners were also sold. Those which were sold were: Sadie Straup, to L. D. Gentry, $150; Zadiee Mumford, to J. J. Stewart, $350; Jim Bing, to R. E. Beattie, $160; Sol Mintz, to Galen Brown, $400; Fairy Mary, to W. M. Rawson, $150; Miss Represent, to E. Lutz, $100; War Bride, to E. E. Major, $150, and Martinos, to R. E. Beattie, $80.

LOUISVILLE GOSSIP.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 28.—Though the remarkably cool spell all over Kentucky has made the air chilly and disagreeable, it has retarded but little the preparation of the many candidates for the coming Kentucky Derby in training here. The latest work of the Derby candidates in preparation for the stakes to be decided at Churchill Downs, is to the credit of Gillies, owned by J. E. Madden and T. C. Bradley's Big Smoke. The latter negotiated five furlongs in 1:08 4-5 in a gallop, while Gillies went six furlongs in 1:21. The latter was followed in his work-out by a maiden three-year-old in the Madden stable, a full-brother to Weber & Ward's crack performer Solar Star, while Big Smoke did his work without company.

While this breezing shows rather slow time, it indicates that both three-year-olds are training kindly for the rich classic, and will soon be in shape to step along a mile, which will be followed up by sufficient training to get them ready to go the latter distance at nearly a racing clip.

T. C. Bradley's partner in his breeding business is Andrew Bowman. The former, who is now Sheriff of Fayette County, has a partner in the racing of Big Smoke and his other Derby candidate Pockichoo, the skillful trainer, Will Wallace, who developed these two three-olds from their yearling form up, and will fit them to fill their Kentucky Derby and other engagements this season.

Wallace is known to the turf as a trainer in former years of such good horses as The Commoner, The Winner, Remp and The Widow Moon, to say nothing of many other good winners. He has always been one of the most skillful as well as adventurous trainers in the running horse business. When he only had a bank roll of $5,014, he put up the $5,000 to buy The Commoner. He raced that horse, however, with great success, and when the son of Hanover had to be retired, sold him at public sale for $5,025. At that he would have done even far better had he held on to The Commoner a little longer, as a few weeks after he disposed of him the new owners of the horse sold him to the late Gen. W. H. Jackson, of Belle Meade Farm, in Tennessee, for $15,000. The great horse afterward sold for $40,000.

Sheriff Bradley comes rightfully by his love for race horses. His father, Lee Bradley, was for years treasurer of the Kentucky Racing Association, and his grandfather, for whom he is named, raced a number of horses at different times, one of which was the very good mare Alice Bruce, which in after years was a most successful stud matron in Charles Reed's Fair View Stud Farm in Tennessee. Bradley's grandfather was for years a prominent business man and banker of Lexington, Ky., being associated as a banker with the late James A. Grinstead, who in his day was one of the most famous turfmen in this State.

If Big Smoke or Pockichoo be fortunate enough to win the Kentucky Derby in the colors of this turfman, the victory of either would be a most popular one among all classes of turfmen, as both Bradley and Wallace count their friends by legions.

EASTERN GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The beautiful weather of Monday, combined with greatly improved track conditions, caused exceptional activity among the trainers and horses at Gravesend. Of course, the going was rather deep, but as the temperature was altogether delightful, the thoroughbreds enjoyed their outing greatly.

Trainer Fitzsimmons had twenty of his big string out during the forenoon. George Odom had nearly or quite all of his string out in the open. Max Hirsch had five taking slow work, and Jule Garson was out with Half Rock and his other two. James McLaughlin, Jr., was out with Syosset, Celandria and Watercress II., and there were others who also took advantage of the greatly improved track and weather conditions.

The work was slow, however, with the single exception that Trainer Goldsborough breezed one of Andrew Miller's two-year-olds a quarter of a mile. That was the only breezing which has been done at Gravesend this winter and spring, notwithstanding reports to the contrary.

Yesterday morning many of the trainers kept their charges at indoor work, as they feared that the raw, chilly wind which was blowing in from the East, might cause them to take cold. Trainer Fitzsimmons and Max Hirsch were out with a dozen or more from the former's stable, and five from the latter's. Odom took but five of his string out on the track, but gave all his others shed work.

By the way, George Odom believes he has secured a real prize in the chestnut two-year-old colt Sargon, by by Uncle out of Semiramis, which was bought at the Mackay sale for $2,800. Not only has this colt grown wonderfully since coming to Gravesend, but he has rounded out beautifully, and he looks in all respects like the material out of which a real race horse might easily be developed. That he has greatly increased in weight goes without saying, but along with this seems to have come a filling, and even lengthening of his quarters, as well as a surprising exploitation of his muscular development.

Of course, this is due largely to the shed work at which his trainer has kept him during the winter, for one could not look for any material change of fundamental conformation in a two-year-old; but the fact that this work seems to have so developed his muscles as to greatly improve his general outline, would seem to indicate that he was the right kind of a colt to begin with. Besides this, his action improves seemingly with every gallop. It is full of pent-up energy and as elastic as if he had been constructed of whalebone and catgut, and withal, smooth, frictionless and always close to the ground.

Frank Regan, Sandy McNaughton and D. R. McDaniel are keeping their horses at shed work, as they are looking for more settled weather before venturing out with them. Mr. McNaughton is hurrying his horses along in order to have them as forward as possible for the Maryland circuit, but as both Frank Regan and D. R. McDaniel do not intend beginning the season before the opening of the Jamaica meeting, they are in no hurry to get out as long as the weather shall continue unfavorable.

George Odom will send four of his two-year-olds down to Maryland in charge of his elder brother, J. D. Odom, Jr. They consist of Barry, by Voorhees; a filly by Ben Trovato, out of Miss Finch; Stony Brook, by Hessian, out of Stone Nellie, and a filly by McGee out of Polly Grant. George Odom does not intend going down to Maryland, but will remain here to supervise the training of the rest of his string.

Notwithstanding the backwardness of the current season, it appears probable that there will be a good sprinkling of horses which have wintered around New York, seen under colors at the Havre de Grace meeting. Max Hirsch, although his stable is a small one, has entered liberally in the stakes down there, and he will leave for Maryland as soon as the weather shall appear favorable for shipping. Henry Waterson is another owner whose horses are now at Gravesend, who will take an active part in the racing at Havre de Grace.

Trainer Fitzsimmons is another who has a lot of entries down at the Maryland track, and as his horses appear to be at least in a reasonably forward condition, he should carry off some of the stakes.

In the Hartford Stakes, five and a half furlongs for three-year-olds and upward, Max Hirsch has Murphy, Henry Waterson has the imported colt Nyack, R. Miller has Sand Marsh, R. T. Wilson has Montresor, and Trainer Fitzsimmons has Bonnie Tess and Ting-a-Ling. In the Penn Selling Stakes at five and a half furlongs Max Hirsch has Murphy, Henry Waterson has Nyack, R. T. Wilson has Naushon and Trainer Fitzsimmons has Bonnie Tess and Ting-a-Ling.

In the Germantown Selling Stakes, for two-year-olds, Max Hirsch has Candy Land, Henry Waterson has Blue Fox and Sweeter Than Sugar. In the Wilmington Stakes, five and a half furlongs, for three-year-olds, Max Hirsch has Murphy and Henry Waterson has Nyack. In the Chester Selling Stakes, six furlongs, for three-year-olds and upward, L. J. Carey has Tribolo, Henry Waterson has Nyack, R. T. Wilson has Naushon and Fitzsimmons has Sky Pilot, Ting-a-Ling and Bonnie Tess.

In the Lassie Stakes, half a mile, for two-year-old fillies, Max Hirsch has Julialeon, Henry Waterson has Blue Fox, and Fitzsimmons has Angela K. (by Celt out of Please), and Chatterbox. In the Philadelphia Handicap, six furlongs, for three-year-olds and upward, the probable starters from this section are Murphy, Mr. Waterson's Runes, Sky Pilot, Sand Marsh and Montresor.

If there were any lingering doubts of the success of the racing season of 1916 they should be at once removed by the tremendous entry list that has come to the Saratoga stakes for the August meeting. The twenty fixtures that were closed Monday at midnight show a big increase over the entries obtained in other seasons, and never before have the nominations been as interesting.

Counting the five stakes that were closed last November, there 2,341 names in the different fixtures. Of these 547 were obtained for the stakes that were closed in November, leaving 1,794 for the twenty stakes that closed Monday. There remain the steeplechase stakes that will be closed April 4.

The response of the horsemen in stakes that have closed earlier gave a fair line on what to expect for the Saratoga fixtures, but the returns were beyond the most sanguine expectations and there are still some of the Kentucky stables to be heard from. Of these Major Thomas C. McDowell has wired that his nominations for the various stakes have been mailed and it is probable there will be several others.

Richard T. Wilson, president of the Saratoga Association, who has just returned from his estate at Palmetto Bluff, S. C., visited the offices of the association during the afternoon and he was pleasingly surprised at the tremendous entry that had been received for all of the stakes. He predicted one of the most interesting seasons of sport ever enjoyed by his association.

HALL BILL PASSES HOUSE.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., March 29.—The House today passed the Hall anti-race track gambling bill, which is a copy of the so-called Hughes law in New York, and it now goes to the Senate, where the friends of the tracks are counted on as being much stronger than they are in the House. The vote was 54 to 40.

On the second reading the vote had been 60 to 40, but some of the friends of the bill were out of the chamber when it was called today.

Mr. Hall said that he had heard that a few of the members who voted with him on the second reading of the bill were disposed to change their votes. He said that any such members must take the responsibility for making the change.

Mr. White spoke in favor of the race tracks, and said that the bill was for the purpose of putting the parimutuels out of business for the benefit of the bookmakers.

THE CLASSIC SUBSTITUTES.

The English Racing Calendar contains particulars of substitutes for the Derby, the Coronation Cup at Epsom and the Oaks, to be run at Newmarket First Extra Meeting on May 30 and the two following days. The substituted races are as follows:—

First day—The New Derby Stakes, a sweepstakes of 100 sovs. each, with 1,000 sovs. added, for three-year-olds, entire colts and fillies; Suffolk Stakes Course, 1½ miles.

Second day—The June Stakes of 30 sovs. each, with 500 sovs. added; for three-year-olds and upwards; Suffolk Stakes Course, 1½ miles.

Third day—The New Oaks Stakes, a sweepstakes of 50 sovs. each, with 500 sovs. added, for three-year-old fillies; Suffolk Stakes Course, 1½ miles.

In the debate in the Maryland Legislature on a bill to appoint a State Racing Commission one member said that the State already had a gambling commission in the person of the Insurance Commissioner, who licensed the Maryland Casualty Company, to do a business comparable with that of a bookmaker. The company laid the odds on all sorts of contingencies, always making its own odds, too, after the manner of a surething player. Lloyd's was simply another institution which did as a corporation what it was proposed to prohibit in the case of individuals.

The Metropolitan Turf Association, the strongest organization of bookmakers ever in existence in America, has decided on dissolution. A resolution passed at a meeting last week, declares that, while the organization was formed at a time when the laying of odds was lawful in the State of New York, such is not now the case in regard to the former manner, and it is therefore considered desirable to dissolve the association. The Mets, once represented millions of dollars in its membership and had over $200,000 in its treasury.

BOWIE MEETING STARTS TODAY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 29.—Judge Wright, a six-year-old son of Superman and Debacle, and half-brother of that accomplished sprinter of a few seasons back, Hanbridge, is the star of the string of ten horses Walter Brennan has brought to Bowie track for the spring meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, which will begin on Saturday and continue through the first fortnight of April. This light-footed sprinter has been laid up with a bad leg off and on for the past four or five seasons, but he is training sound this year and young Brennan believes not only that he will stand through the year, but that he will hold his own with the cleverest sprinters in the East. He belongs in the very best short distance company when he is at himself, for he manages weight as cleverly as any sprinter since Roseben, and steps away from the post in twenty-two and a half or twenty-three. Brennan is not sure that he will be able to have Judge Wright at the barrier on Saturday in condition to show his best in the Inaugural Handicap, the seven furlong sprint for horses of the three and up division, that will be the feature of the Bowie opening, but the veteran sprinter will be seen under colors in the first week of the meeting. And Brennan believes that Judge Wright will like the well cushioned track at Bowie.

Brennan is one of the most youthful of Eastern trainers. He hails from Nashville, and six seasons back when he was a lad, he was riding for Captain Frederick Presgrave and Thomas Clyde. But he grew too heavy for riding a couple of years ago and began an apprenticeship at training. The Pons string is the first considerable establishment he has had and he will campaign the former Jacksonville magnate's horses on the metropolitan circuit. Mr. Pons came into racing when the sport was popular at Jacksonville and the fascination of it bit deep. He is now one of the most considerable breeders of thoroughbreds in Tennessee, his Blue Grass Farm ten miles outside of Nashville, being the home of the stallions Tony Bonero and Great Heavens and upwards of twenty mares. Mr. Pons bred the filly Lilly Heavens, which won three or four races in the East last season for John Whalen. Great Heavens is a son of Star Shoot. Tony Bonero, a son of Sain, was racing through the East a few seasons back under the silks of Charles Russell Fleischmann of New York. Mr. Pons thinks highly of Tony. His first two-year-olds came to the races last season and there were three or four winners among them. The best mares at his Blue Grass Farm are being bred to Tony Bonero this season.

The smartest youngster in Brennan's string is Meddling Miss, a chestnut daughter of Tony Bonero and Busy Miss. She won three times at New Orleans and is ready for the colors at Bowie. She is a filly of ample size, closely coupled and quick on her feet. And she trains like a well-balanced gelding, without worry or fretting. Bon Otis, another daughter of Tony Bonero in the Pons string is out of Cane Chaser. She won once at New Orleans and was four times third. Brennan does not believe she is as clever a mare as Meddling Miss, but he is confident she will win in smart company at the Southern Maryland track. There is one other two year-old in the string, Gray Dolly, a big bay filly by Garry Herrmann and Dolly Bultman, which Brennan has not hurried. Like most of the youngsters Garry Herrmann sends to the races Gray Dolly is big and growthy. She requires time for proper development and she will get it. Mr. Pons bought her because of her splendid pedigree. He intends to use her at Blue Grass Farm after she shall have outlived her serviceability as a racing proposition.

Beside Judge Wright, there is one other horse of mature years in the stable, Miss Waters, a brown daughter of Lord Esterling, and the winner of two races at New Orleans. Miss Waters is a clever sort of mare over a distance of ground and Brennan predicts that she will be right there in selling plater company. Brennan has no jockey yet, but he is looking about for a likely lad to keep close to his stable and develop.

MEETING OF JOCKEY CLUB STEWARDS.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Stewards of any race meeting naturally only have control and jurisdiction for the meeting at which they serve, yet at Havana the stewards suspended Jockey Parrington until April 6, although the meeting came to a close March 19. That was a remarkable ruling, but it becomes historical now, for the stewards of The Jockey Club yesterday sustained the ruling and Parrington stands suspended until the date named by Christopher FitzGerald and his associates of the Oriental Park meeting.

The natural procedure in such a case would be to suspend a rider and then refer the case to the stewards of The Jockey Club for such further punishment as they should deem merited. But just how the stewards of a meeting could fix a sentence that goes beyond their jurisdiction is hard to understand. It is doubly puzzling when it is remembered that the Cuba-American Jockey Club is racing under its own rules and is in no sense a child of The Jockey Club, being outside of its jurisdiction.

The meeting of the stewards at which this most remarkable ruling was made was held yesterday at the offices of August Belmont, chairman of The Jockey Club. There were present, besides Mr. Belmont, F. K. Sturgis, Andrew Miller and Capt. Edward B. Cassatt.

The application of Jockey Harry Wood for reinstatement was referred to the license committee and he was granted a rehearing. Wood was suspended at Belmont Park last season for a bad-looking ride on Buckhorn.

The application of Jockey Glass was denied and like action was taken on the application of Jockey Morys. This is the rider who, with Phil Musgrave, was suspended indefinitely by the Juarez stewards for his handling of the horse Egmont. The application of Jockey Thomas Harrington was tabled.

Carroll H. Shilling's application for reinstatement at a previous meeting was referred to the license committee and it is still before that body.

H. H. Selby, who made several purchases of foreign horses for Grant Hugh Browne, had his application for a license to train denied, and F. J. Kearns was turned down, while the trainer applications of F. McDermott and Frank Cottrell were tabled.

The following appointments were made of stewards to represent The Jockey Club: Capt. Edward B. Cassatt for Jamaica, H. K. Knapp for Belmont Park, Schuyler L. Parsons for Aqueduct, Andrew Miller, Empire City; Thomas Hitchcock, United Hunts, and C. K. G. Billings, Piping Rock.

Official sanction was given to the United Hunts Association and to Piping Rock for the dates chosen for their spring meetings.

[J. F. P. in London Sporting Life].

Foxhall may or may not be entitled to inclusion in the list of great horses; that is a matter of individual opinion. But that he was an animal of more than average excellence admits of no argument. Foxhall was bred 1878 at Woodburn Stud, Kentucky, by Mr. A. J. Alexander, and was a bay by King Alfonso out of Jamaica.

The colt made his acquaintance with the Turf in the autumn of the year 1880, when, in the colors of Mr. J. R. Keene, he took part in the Bedford Stakes at the Newmarket Second October Meeting. He had few friends on this occasion, being allowed to start at 8 to 1 against in a field of four, odds of 3 to 1 being laid on a filly belonging to Lord Rosebery, known as Myra. Foxhall, however, defeated the favorite by a head; but twenty-four hours or so later a colt named Savoyard, also owned by Lord Rosebery, got the better of the American in the Ashley Sweepstakes. His final appearance as a juvenile was made in the Bretby Nursery at the Houghton Meeting, in which, carrying 8st 12lb, he won by a head from the favorite Heyday, to which he was conceding exactly two stone.

It will thus be seen that though Foxhall won two of his three races in his two year-old days, there was nothing particularly striking about his form. In his second season, however, a different tale had to be told. Altogether as a three-year-old he took part in half a dozen events, four of which he won. His first effort was made in the City and Suburban, in which, carrying 6st 8lb, he ran second to the Derby winner of the previous year, Bend Or (9st), having such celebrities as Peter, Petronel, Prestonpans, Buchanan, and Poulet behind him.

The American-bred colt was not again seen out until Ascot week, when he took part in the race for the Gold Cup. Among other competitors were Robert the Devil, which had won the St. Leger and Cesarewitch in the previous season, and Petronel, which had credited the Duke of Beaufort with the Two Thousand. Substantial odds were laid on "Robert," though the three-year-old was not without friends. The younger colt, however, played an inconspicuous part, the race being easily won by the favorite.

Foxhall was then put by until the autumn, being one of four starters for the Grand Duke Michael Stakes at the First October Meeting. Ishmael started favorite for this event, but Mr. Keene's colt proved a comfortable winner. A more important victory was that of a fortnight later, when he literally ran away with the Cesarewitch. In this he was set to carry 7st 12lb, and that he was expected to carry it successfully was made evident when he headed the quotations at 9 to 2 against, though the five-year-old Chippendale, which had won the long-distance handicap two years earlier, and Retreat were well backed at 5 to 1. As indicated above, it was a runaway affair, the official verdict in favor of Foxhall being twelve lengths, Chippendale being second and Fiddler third. Among those unplaced were Petronel, Reveller, and Voluptuary, which in later years won a Grand National, and finally figured on the stage as one of the "characters" in that successful drama "The Prodigal Daughter."

As a result of his Cesarewitch victory, Foxhall had to put up a 14lb penalty for the Cambridgeshire, bringing his weight to 9st, a big burden for a three-year-old. Yet so impressive was his performance at the Second October function that he was one of the leading fancies. The actual favorite was the Derby winner of the preceding year, Bend Or, carrying 9st 8lb, and the mount of Fred Archer, while the lightly-weighted Incendiary and Lucy Glitters were also both preferred to the Cesarewitch hero, which wound up on the 10 to 1 mark.

Altogether it was a high-class field, as, apart from those named there were Tristan, then a three-year-old, handicapped at 7st 9lb; Peter, which had 10st in the saddle, Petronel (9st), Philammon (8st 10lb), Prestonpans (8st 10lb), Poulet (8st 4lb), and Corrie Roy (6st 5lb, including 5lb overweight), and it was a splendid achievement on the part of the son of King Alfonso to complete a notable double, though it was only by a head that he accounted for Lucy Glitters, while Tristan was but a neck further in the rear.

This was considered sufficient for the season, and Foxhall retired into winter quarters with his blushing honors thick upon him. He had, as a matter of fact, almost terminated his career on the track, his subsequent appearances totalling but two. The former of these was made in the Ascot Gold Cup, in which, as recounted above, he had failed earlier. On the occasion of his second essay the opposition stopped short at Petronel, then a four-year-old, and the three-year-old Faugh-a-Ballagh, both of which carried the blue and white hooped livery of the Duke of Beaufort. Petronel was the fancied one of the pair, and started second favorite at 15 to 8 against, odds of 7 to 4 being laid on Mr. Keene's representative. The race almost resulted in a surprise, as it was only by a neck that Faugh-a-Ballagh, quoted at 100 to 3 against, succumbed to Foxhall, with Petronel well beaten for second place.

Twenty-four hours later the Cup winner was again saddled for the three-mile Alexandra Plate, for which Petronel was also included among the contestants. It was taken for granted that Foxhall would add this event to his list of victories, and his supporters laid odds of to 4 on him; but two races on consecutive days on the hard ground discovered his weak spot and he was well trounced by Fiddler, which passed the winning-post half a dozen lengths ahead of the hero of the Newmarket "double." Later, Foxhall embarked upon his stud career at Leybourne Grange, but was subsequently purchased by Lord Rosebery and transferred to Mentmore.

Foxhall achieved relatively little success in his new sphere, though he sired a more than useful filly in Corstorphine. This daughter of Chopette, after running third to Amphion and Martagon in the rich Lancashire Plate on the occasion of her debut, won the Dewhurst Plate from Siphonia and Reverend, with Mimi among the unplaced. In the Oaks the following year the last-named took her revenge. Another useful animal for which Foxhall was responsible was High Havens, which won two or three races for Mr. Leopold de Rothschild.

Wiley Jones, Attorney General of Arizona, has found that the pari-mutuel machine is not a gambling device. It was in the appeal of Charles S. W. McCall, convicted in the Maricopa County Court of Arizona, that this contention was made. No argument urging enforcement of the Arizona anti-gambling law against pari-mutuel betting was presented by the State when the case came up in the State Supreme Court. Wiley Jones, Attorney General, said he believed the pari-mutuel machine technically was not a gambling device.

-BEN TROVATO-

BEN TROVATO is a seal brown horse, 16¼ hands high. Sired by imp Alvescot, a son of Raeburn and he a son of St. Simon. Ben Trovato is out of Golden Rose, by Goldfinch, a son of Ormonde, she out of imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, she out of Ambuscade, by Camerino, a son of Stockwell, and she out of Crossfire, by Vedette, the sire of Galopin, thus possessing the five great sire crosses of the world. Ben Trovato was raced four years and was as fast as horses ever show. He won miles in 1:37 3-5, 1:38 2-5, 1:39 1-5, 1⅛ miles 1:52, 1:52¼, 1:52 1-5, 1¼ miles in 2:04 2-5, and as a two-year-old ran ⅝ in 0:58⅕ seconds. The great No. 5 family—Galtee More, Ard Patrick, Hermit, Gladiateur, Doncaster, Gunfire, etc. As a running line it is invaluable, and from its pliability mates well with most strains preferring sire blood.

If you can find a greater looking horse, a better bred horse or a faster horse, don't breed to this one. Will accept 25 mares for 1916 at $50 to insure living foal.
